Mr. Goodell, of Antrim, spoke of the gratification with which he had listened to the address, and expressed his hearty concurrence in the views of the speaker, especially in what he had said in reference to concentration. He believed that the farmer should devote himself to some branch of agriculture as a specialty, making that his leading object to which all others should be subsidiary. No man was capable of doing all things well, and hence the farmer should select some one crop, especially adapted to his soil or situation, and devote himself mainly to that. He did not think the remark that was so often made, that the farmer should be independent and raise all he required for home consumption, was sound doctrine. We could not compete with the West in raising cereals, but we could raise milk and butter such as the world had not seen elsewhere.

In answer to an inquiry, Mr. Gould stated that the white stripes sometimes seen in butter were undoubtedly owing to the quality of the milk, not to the making of the butter, because when it was made in the most perfect manner, that same streaky appearance would manifest itself. Butter was always better where the pasture contained a mixture of grasses, and it should be kept entirely free from weeds. The best grasses for a pasture were the Kentucky blue grass, red top, and timothy.

Mr. Hill, of Windham, spoke of the extreme cleanliness of the milk establishment at Elgin, Illinois, to which Mr. Willard had referred and said he wished somebody would contrive a similar plan for cleansing the milk cans that went to Boston from his vicinity. They were often gone two or three days, and when they came back they smelt worse than a swill-pail, and it was next to impossible to cleanse them.

Mr. Willard said that at Elgin the cans were cleansed with hot steam, and that was the secret of the fine milk. Nothing but boiled hot water would kill the ferments connected with milk.

Mr. Brown, of Massachusetts, said the wonder had been with him, as the lecturer proceeded, how it happened that so many farmers had lived through a lifetime of experience and yet did not know how, and in a speech of some length, illustrated with many pertinent anecdotes and striking facts, he urged upon his hearers the importance and absolute necessity of learning how to do it. If they would only do that, he said, they might all live in elegant houses, and enjoy every comfort and luxury.

Mr. Humphrey, of Concord, stated some facts in regard to the preparation of fowls for the market, in confirmation of the doctrine laid down by Gov. Brown, that the only way to make farming pay, was to do whatever was done in the best possible way.

Mr. Bliss, of Vermont, thought there was some danger in the reiteration of the statement so often made, that some sections possessed such unquestioned superiority in the production of a particular article that they were beyond competition. He had found great difficulty, in organizing the Dairymen's Association in his State, from that very reason. People say they were doing well enough, and were disposed to "let well enough alone."

The discussion was continued by Mr. Hayes of Portsmouth, Child of Temple, Clough of Canterburry, Reed of Weare, Hills of Plaistow and others.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of any contemplated improvement, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, JAN. 21, 1870.

THE CUBAN SUGAR CROP.—It appears from returns, that, spite of the insurrection which has for some eighteen months disturbed the usual quiet of the "ever faithful isle," the amount of sugar in stock at Havana, Dec. 31, 1869, was quite as large as at the end of the year 1868. Here are the figures for receipts and clearances of sugar in Havana: in 1868, 1,436,000 boxes; in 1869, 1,348,000 boxes; stock on hand at the end of December, 1869, '54,208 boxes, against 23,000 in 1868 and 17,000 in 1867. The decrease in shipment of boxes from Havana and Matanzas in 1869 is compensated by a larger export than usual of hogsheads. These figures indicate that the panic in the sugar market, which occurred soon after the insurrection became formidable by the establishment of a provisional government by the insurgents, was without adequate cause; and if, as is confidently asserted in Havana, there will be no falling off in the sugar production for the present year, we may hope to get our sweetening in future at a less exorbitant price.

EASTERN LUXURIES IN CALIFORNIA. While Eastern citizens have been enjoying California fruit, it will be seen by the following extract from a private letter from a resident of San Francisco, that some of our Eastern luxuries find their way to the Pacific Shore:

"The Union Pacific Railroad is now bringing into this market many luxuries from the East, of which resident Californians have long been denied, and the avidity with which such rarities have been purchased shows how eager the people are to taste of things from home. Fresh oysters have found customers at the restaurants at a bit (12 1-2 cents) a piece, although the price is now somewhat reduced. Chestnuts, cranberries, and even poultry, are brought. One would suppose that in this growing country enough of the latter could be supplied, but it is not so. Of some kinds, turkeys, geese, ducks, and all kinds of game, there is sufficient quantity, but chickens are always scarce and high. Yesterday some 'New England chickens' (as per label), which I saw in the market, were attracting much attention."

☞ Captain George Pollard lately died at Nantucket at an advanced age. Nearly half a century ago he was in command of the ill-fated ship Essex, which was destroyed by a whale in the Pacific Ocean. The crew escaped in boats, and were not picked up till ninety-five days afterwards, when a Nantucket vessel came to their relief, and carried them home to that port, where Captain Pollard has ever since resided.

THE SEELY COURT MARTIAL.—The Secretary of the Navy has not yet approved or disapproved of the findings and sentence of the naval general court martial which tried Lieutenant Commander H. B. Seely. It is understood that there are serious legal difficulties in the way of final action in this case. Among the points raised by the accused's counsel, which the court overruled, were several on which the judicial mind of the country is with the accused rather than with the court; and as the Secretary is himself a good lawyer, he may, it is thought, set aside the whole proceedings. One of the rumors from Washington is, that the court found the accused "guilty of neglect of duty, without participation in the infliction of illegal punishments." If this is so, it is difficult to see how any legal sentence could be imposed at all. It reminds one of the country jury's sapient verdict—"Not guilty, but he had better not do so again."—Traveller.

A SUM IN INTEREST.—A., residing in Boston, holds a note against B. of Newburyport for $750, payable in six months with Interest. A. writes to B. that if he will pay the note, he will allow him at the rate of 1 per cent. per month, or 12 per cent. per year as interest. How much money must B. send to A. to cancel the same?

A TALE OF TWO CITIES.—In Manchester there has existed for several years, a Sociable. The company meet once a week at a member's previously selected by lot, go early, enjoy themselves, receive no refreshments, and retire at 11 o'clock.

At Portsmouth, they go late and retire about two in the morning, dress to the nines, have a supper, which six ladies get up and pay for, and are very particular that no one is invited "who does not belong to our set."—Concord Monitor.

—What to expect at a boys' school—boysterous conduct.

CONGRESS.—On Wednesday, the Senate adopted by a vote of 45 to 16 the amendment proposed by Mr. Edmunds to the House bill for the admission of Virginia. It requires State officers to take the oath contained in the 14th amendment to the national Constitution. Senators Cragin and Patterson voted for the amendment.

The bill must now go back to the House, and as Butler is back again, Mr. Bingham and his supporters will hardly obtain the admission of the State without conditions.

The House passed a resolution declaring the true intent and limitations of the income tax law, to collect the tax for 1870; and the pension appropriation bill.

Mr. Dickey of Pennsylvania replied to Mr. Dawes's charges of extravagance against the administration. The estimates submitted were merely to execute the laws of Congress. The increase of $49,000,000, of which the gentleman spoke yesterday, included $11,000,000 for pensions. Was the other end of the avenue responsible for that? Was the Treasury Department responsible for $6,000,000 increase in its estimates caused by the expense of public buildings ordered by Congress—post offices in New York and Boston, and other buildings all over the country? It was not for the administrative officers to nullify the laws of Congress by refusing to execute them. Congress had authorized extravagances, and should take the responsibility for them. Then there was a general deficiency of $4,000,000. The gentleman from Massachusetts should not have drawn the comparison he did between these estimates and the last estimates of Andrew Johnson's administration, because the latter were to apply to its successor, and because the estimates for the last year of Andrew Johnson's administration were $372,000,000, and its actual expenditures were $325,000,000. These appropriations were usually and generally created under laws passed by Congress, and not at the solicitation of the other end of the avenue. They should strike at the laws, and not charge their own sins upon their servants.

Jim Smith, of Nashua, got drunk on Sunday, undertook to show his agility by some ground and lofty tumbling, and wound up by rolling into the canal. The ice broke and he went under, but coming up at the next air-hole, a young man named Stone pulled him out by the hair of his head. Mr. Smith showed his gratitude by challenging his deliverer to fight, but was finally persuaded to go home and dry himself.

Some one has shown the editor of the Nashua Telegraph an ancient deed by which seven acres of land in Rye were conveyed from Francis Paige to Amos Rand. It is dated July 1728, and is said to be the oldest legal document in the State in which every line is clearly legible.

Sunday afternoon was enlivened in Nashua by a street fight, which was witnessed by an interested crowd of about a hundred men, women and children. No arrests.

We see it announced—we know not by what authority—that James A. Weston, of Manchester and H. R. Roberts, of Rollinsford, are named with reference to the caudidacy, of the Labor party for Governor. It is supposed the plan is laid in the interest of the Democracy, and that in the event one of these gentlemen is nominated, Gen. Bedel will withdraw, and sell out the rank and file to the new organization. That will do for a conjecture, but it will be best to await the action of the workingmen before results are estimated.

The court at Manchester has sentenced several convicted criminals to the County House of Correction, for periods varying from two months to six. This kind of sentences is somewhat new, and takes the place of county jail sentences. The advantage is, that at the county farm the criminals can work for the benefit of the county, and at the same time discharge their penal obligation. It may not be regarded a great compliment to visit Wilton under such a sentence, but it is better than going to jail.

The Mountain Girl, a horse owned by E. B. Putney, of the Newport House, at Newport, was sold by him Tuesday, Jan. 11th, to Harry Bradley, of Boston, for the sum of $2.750, and put aboard the cars at Bradford, Jan. 14th. She was one of the best horses which stood in New Hampshire.

Up to 1843, New Hampshire had been a part of the Eastern Diocese, under the jurisdiction of R. Rev. Alexander V. Griswold. On the decease of that venerable prelate in 1853, this State became a Diocese by itself, and at a special convention held in St. Paul's Church, Concord, Oct. 4th, the late Rev. Dr. Chase was unanimously chosen Bishop of the Diocese. In April, 1844, he moved to Claremont, having been chosen Rector of Trinity Church. Here he has lived ever since, though since 1869 he has not had any parochial charge, as he found the work of the Diocese enough for him to attend to in his declining years, and in his feeble state. On the 20th of October, 1844, he was consecrated Bishop in Christ Church, Philadelphia.

Holloway's Pills.—TORPIDITY OF THE LIVER. There must be a proper and regular supply of bile to temper the blood and duly evacuate the bowels, or the body cannot be healthy. Of all evacuants and antibilious medicines in existence HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the most effective and unfailing. Yet so gentle is their action that it does not in the slightest degree ambitate the system. On the contrary, by relieving it of obstructions and impurities, the Pills tend to restore its elasticity and vigor. Sold by all Druggists.

Health's Best Defence.

"The week eatheth herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusion.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the sanitary essences of tonic, aperient and antibilious roots, barks and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this effective mode of concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before had a perfectly pure alcholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest specifics of the vegetable kingdom. Never, yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climes, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood depurent; as a nervine; as a cure for bilious affections; as a painless anodyne; and as the BEST DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

in Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A Vegetable Gelatine has been discovered more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destroed in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious cathartic and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or drought or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

CITY COUNCIL, Jan. 20.—On Thursday evening, in the full Board of Aldermen, the Board of Engineers asked that the City furnish a pair of horses to haul steamer Dearborn, and Ald. Pender of the Com. on Fire Dept. advocated the measure, while Ald. Cotton opposed. After much discussion, referred to Joint Com. on Streets with Mayor added, to report.

Petition of J. G. Hadley and others, for a new Reservoir (to cost not over $400) near the southern end of Anthony Street, was referred to Joint Com. on Finance.

The various Bank watchmen were appointed Special Police without pay.

The Common Council sent word that Mr. Geo. N. Jones declined the office of City Messenger, and that they were ready to go into Convention to elect a Messenger.

Also that they had concurred in the Aldermen's resolution to refer a portion of the Mayor's address respecting City Farm to Joint Com. on City Lands and Buildings.

Common Cuncil,—Mr. Senter absent. A letter was received from Mr. Geo. N. Jones, declining the office of City Messenger; and the Board of Mayor and Aldermen were notified that the Council were ready to meet them in Convention, to elect a Messenger.

Voted to concur with the Aldermen in referring so much of the Mayor's Address as related to the City Farm, to Joint Com. on City Lands and Buildings.

Went into Convention, and on resuming, no other business coming before them, adjourned for one week.

In Convention, on motion of Ald. Nowell, a City Messenger was balloted for. Number of votes cast, 17; necessary to a choice, 9; C. W. Rand had 6, Willis L. Hidden had 11,—and Mr. Hidden was declared elected.

Wm. Bodge was added to the number of Surveyors of Lumber.

W. B. Randall, one of the lately appointed Assistant Engineers, having failed to qualify, Ald. Pender moved that the Convention proceed to elect an Asst. Engineer. Ald Cotton objected, as Mr. R. had not yet declined the position, and the time within which he could accept had not expired. Ald. Pender pressed his motion,—Ald. Cotton called for the yeas and nays: result, yeas 13, nays 2;—and a ballot was taken. Votes cast, 14; Reuben Rand had 1, Edwin H. Leslie had 13, and Mr. Leslie was declared elected. The Convention then rose.

In the Aldermen again, Ald. Miller called up the petition of A. T. Walker and other residents on Brewster Street, for the removal of the street-sprinkling Tank from the street—and after much discussion, the matter was referred to Com. on Streets to report.

Petition of J. W. Stavers for the appointment of Wm. Plaisted as Police at the Temple, was referred to Com. on Police for report.

The Ordinance to add Middle St. from Cass to Lafayette Road, Union St., South St. to Lafayette Road, Lincoln Avenue, and other parts of streets, to the care of the Street Commissioner, was reported back without amendment, and passed.

Ald. Pender, from special Com. to whom was referred the Fleet St. question, reported in favor of adopting Solicitor Goodall's opinion, and recommended that the widening of said St. be discontinued in concurrence. After a long discussion, the whole matter was referred back to the same Com. to report further. Ald. Pender declining to serve further, Ald. Miller was ordered to the Com., with Ald. Nowell and Marvin. Fleet Street seems to be a harder road to travel than ever that to Jordan was.

Chas. Martin jr. was appointed Engineer, and Geo. N. Jones Fireman of S. F. Engine Dearborn No. 1.

Ald. Nowell moved that a Committee be appointed to consider what action if any the City should take respecting the funeral cortege of George Peabody in passing thro' the city. After discussion, as the train will stop but briefly, Ald. Miller moved that the Mayor be authorized to cause the bells to be tolled if he deems desirable.

Adjourned.

☞ While we are entirely ready to render unto Cesar all his due, we were not among George Peabody's worshippers when alive, and we do not care to aid any show over his burial. So long as the birth and death days of Washington, Franklin and Lincoln, are so little observed and scarcely known by the American people, we think the great banker's humble and unobtrusive tastes might as well be copied for this once more. Plenty of men there be, who better answer life's great ends, than George Peabody.

☞ It is no joke, but a fact, that Mr. John Albee, of Newcastle, who gave us the prose but by no means prosy Pastorale at Lyceum the other evening, —when he was looking about for a settlement in the world, several years ago, preferred a farm rather than a church, for which latter he was educated, we believe. He lives on the old Jaffrey farm in Newcastle, a famous old house with cavernous chimney; and knows what it is to till the soil with his own hands too,—for we have been told that he bought the place on credit, and has paid for it from his crops, though perhaps his ready pen helped him.

His is the true ideal of life, and we know no man who has better lived up to it. As no less an orator than Rev. A. J. Patterson remarked at the close of Mr. Albee's lecture—many of his sayings were proverbs. We understand he has been solicited to deliver his Farm lecture elsewhere. No wonder a man so benign and philosophical, should select a home in the quaint and historic old town of Newcastle, by the sounding sea.

☞ Mr. Thomas Clapham of this city, completed his 87th year last Saturday. He is brisk and smart, and on meeting Mr. John Bennett (who is 82) in our office a day or two since, rather considered himself the younger man, as he seems. Both have lived industrious, busy lives; but Mr. Bennett has done desk work enough to kill ten common men. Mr. Francis Dupray, who we believe is near 90, is about the briskest old gentleman in the city, and may well pass for a score less.

THEATRE. — Bidwell's good stock company advertise one performance of the "Marble Heart" for this evening. This play has had a good run in Boston and elsewhere, and this occasion is its first representation in Portsmouth.

☞ As a matter of reference hereafter, it is well that we make a note that on the 20th day of January, flowers ("five faced underwoods,") were in full bloom in the open air, in the grounds of Civil Engineer Chandler's quarters at Seavey's Island. The grass is green, and growing.

☞ A new Directory for the Post Office is about to be canvassed for, on a new and novel plan. Success attend it. No money in advance. We have secured a space.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—Notice is hereby given that the Spar Buoys heretofore placed to mark Kitt's Rock and Stielman Rock, entrance to Portsmouth Harbor, N. H. have been removed, and a 2d class iron can Buoy has been set on the former, and a 2d class iron nun-Buoy on the latter danger. By order of the Light-House Board. J. B. HULL, L. H. Inspector, 1st District.

☞ Sunday last was one of the most magnificent winter days ever seen—the atmosphere being remarkably clear, so that the mountain ranges of the State never were seen to better advantage from our city.

☞ The Portsmouth Pier Company's wharves and stores on State and Water Streets have been sold to Messrs. Samuel Adams & Co. and C. E. Walker & Co. for $12,450—which is considered a fair trade for both parties. The Company was incorporated in 1795, and their fourteen stores then excelled anything of the kind in New England. But business has left them since then, and the property is much dilapidated.

☞ Two additional trips will be made by the steamer Emerald, between here and the Navy Yard, on and after to-day, viz.: the boat will leave this side at 10:30 A. M., returning from the Yard at 10:45, and leaving here as usual at 11 o'clock.

— Paterfamilias, winding up his watch, playfully said to Dorabella, æt. seven; "Let me wind up your nose." "No," said Dorabella, "I don't want it to run."

MARRIAGES.

In this city, Jan. 20th, by Rev. H. L. Kelsey, Mr. MICAJAH O. HALL of Chelsea, Mass., and Miss LOTTIE M. JENKINS of Portsmouth.

DEATHS.

In this city, Jan. 20th, Mrs. CATHARINE M. DUROIN, aged 68 years.

☞ Funeral Saturday afternoon at half-past 2 o'clock, from No. 83 Water Street.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.

THE NEW PATENT

NEVER FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

W I N D O W F A S T.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steele springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation, and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

TELLING FORTUNES.

MARK TWAIN TELLS HIS EXPERIENCES IN THAT LINE.

I had heard so much about the celebrated fortune-teller, Madame ——, (I decline to advertise for her in this paragraph,) that I went to see her yesterday. She has a dark complexion naturally, and this effect is heightened by artificial aids which cost her nothing. She wears curls, very black ones, and I had an impression that she gave their native attractiveness a lift with rancid butter. She wears a reddish check handkerchief, cast loosely around her neck, and it is plain that her other one is slow getting back from the wash. I presume she takes snuff. At any rate something resembling it had lodged among the hairs sprouting from a picturesque mole on her upper lip. I know she likes garlic; I knew that as she sighed. She looked at me searchingly for nearly a minute, with her black eyes, and then said:

"It's enough. Come."

She started down a very dark and dismal corridor, I stepped close after her. Presently she stopped and said that as the way was crooked and so dark, perhaps she had better get a light. But it seemed ungallant to allow a woman to put herself to so much trouble for me, and so I said:

"It is not worth while, madam. If you will heave another sigh, I think I can follow it."

So we got along all right. Arrived at her official and mysterious den, she asked me to tell her the date of my birth, the exact hour of that occurrence, and the color of my grandfather's hair. I answered as accurate as I could. Then she said:

"Young man, summon your fortitude; do not tremble. I am about to reveal the past."

"Information concerning the future would be, in a general way, more"—

"Silence! You have had much trouble, some joy, some good fortune, some bad. Your great grandfather was hanged."

"That is a I—"

"Silence! Hanged sir. But it was not his fault. He could not help it."

"I am glad you do me justice."

"Ah—grieve, rather, that the jury did. He was hanged, His star crosses yours in the fourth division, fifth sphere, Consequently, you will be hanged also."

"In view of this cheerful"—

"I must have silence. Yours was not, in the beginning a criminal nature, but circumstances changed it. At the age of nine you stole sugar. At the age of fifteen you stole money. At twenty you stole horses. At twenty-five you committed arson. At thirty, hardened in crime, you became an editor. Since then your descent has been rapid. You are now a public lecturer. Worse things are in store for you. You will be sent to congress. Next to the penitentiary. Finally, happiness will come—all will be well—you will be hanged."

I was now in tears. It seemed hard enough to go to congress. But to be hanged—this was too sad, too dreadful. The woman seemed surprised at my grief. I told her the thoughts that were in my mind. Then she comforted me—this blessed woman reconciled me, made me contented, even happy.

"Why man," she said "hold up your head — you have nothing to grieve about. Listen. You will live in New Hampshire. In your sharp need and distress the Brown family will succor you—such of them as Pike the assassin left alive. They will be benefactors to you. When you shall have grown fat upon their bounty, and are grateful and happy, you will desire to make some modest return for these things, and so you will go to the house some night and brain the whole family with an axe. You will borrow funds from the deceased, and disburse them in riotous living among the rowdies and courtezans of Boston- Then you will be arrested, tried, condemned to be hanged, thrown in prison. Now is your happy day. You will be converted—you will be converted just as soon as every effort to compass pardon, commutation or reprieve has failed—and then! Why, then, every morning and every afternoon, the best and purest young ladies of the village will assemble in your cell and sing hymns. This will show that assassination is respectable. Then you will write a touching letter, in which you will forgive all those recent Browns. This will excite the public admiration. No public can stand such magnanimity. Next they will take you to the scaffold, with great eclat, at the head of an imposing procession composed of clergymen, officials, citizens generally, and young ladies walking pensively two and two, and bearing bouquets and immortelles. You will mount the scaffold, and while the great concourse stand uncovered in your presence, you will read your sappy little speech which the minister has written for you. And, then, in the midst of a grand and impressive silence, they will swing you into per——, paradise, my son. You will be a hero! Not a rough there but will envy you. Not a rough there but will resolve to emulate you.

And next, a great procession will follow you to the tomb—will weep over your remains—the young ladies will sing again the hymns made dear by sweet associations connected with the jail, and as a last tribute of affection, respect, and appreciation of your many sterling qualities, they will walk two and two around your bier, and strew wreaths of flowers on it. And lo, you are canonized! Think of it, son—ingrate, assassin, robber of the dead, drunken brawler among thieves and harlots in the slums of Boston one month, and the pet of the pure and innocent daughters of the land the next! A bloody and hateful devil—a bewept, bewailed and sainted martyr—all in a month! Fool! so noble a fortune, and yet you sit here grieving!"

"No, madame," I said, "you do me wrong—you do, indeed. I am perfectly satisfied. I did not know before that my great grandfather was hanged, but it is of no consequence. He has probably ceased to be bothered about it by this time — and I have not commenced yet. I confess, madame, that I do something in the way of editing and lecturing, but the other crimes you mention have escaped my memory. Yet I must have committed them—you would not deceive an orphan. But let the past be as it was, and let the future be as it may—these are nothing. I have always felt that I should be hanged some day, and somehow the thought has annoyed me considerably; but if you can only assure me that I shall be hanged in New Hampshire —."

"Not the shadow of a doubt."

"Bless you, my noble benefactress—excuse this embrace — you have removed a great load from my breast. To be hanged in New Hampshire is happiness — it leaves an honorable name behind a man, and introduces him at once into the best New Hampshire society in the other world."

THE OLD STORY.

When visions of her face come o'er me,
Of her sweet face so far away,
I say what lovers said before me,
What lovers will forever say:
That flowers bloom sweeter for her being,
That birds sing sweeter for her seeing,
That grass is greener, skies more blue,
That all things take a richer hue.
Lovers have said these things before;
Lovers will say them evermore,
"O sweet young love, that to all ages
Bears ever one eternal form!
With lasting youth your oldest pages
Glow ever, ever fresh and warm."
O dear old story ever young!
Artists have painted, poets sung;
Sure, naught in life is half so sweet;
Death cannot make you incomplete,
Lovers have said these things before.
Lovers will say them evermore.

FELON ON THE FINGER.—Many persons are liable to extreme suffering from felons on the finger. These afflictions are not only very painful, but not unfrequently occasion permanent cripples of the member affected. The following simple prescription is recommended:

Take common rock salt, such as is used for salting down pork or beef, dry it in an oven, then pound it fine and mix with spirits of turpentine in equal parts. Put it on a rag and wrap around the part affected, and as it gets dry put on more, and in twenty-four hours you are cured and the felon will be dead.

It will do no harm to try it—Journal of Agriculture.

—On Sunday night, at Washington, the Congressional Temperance Society held its annual meeting at the Metropolitan church. Senator Patterson of New Hampshire was one of the speakers. The church was crowded, and hundreds were unable to obtain admission.

— The great means of destroying most kinds of weeds is to keep the stems and weeds from appearing, by frequent mowing or cuttings. Cutting them before the seeds have ripened, is of course absolutely essential, but not always sufficient.

COUGHS, INFLUENZA,

SORE THROAT, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, LIVER COMPLAINT, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, BLEEDING OF LUNGS, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS and CHEST, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of

WISTAR'S BALSAM
OF WILD CHERRY.

This well known preparation does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most medicines, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Consumption can be Cured

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

The Chronicle.

A GOOD LIVING FROM A POOR FARM. That a man may make himself independent by farming in New Hampshire, even upon a very poor farm, there is no lack of evidence. Cases may be found in every town where men who bring into exercise judgement and discretion in the prosecution of their business, make a competency for themselves and families. They are not the men who perform the most physical labor, but those who do it the most intelligently—men in whom the physical and mental faculties harmonize, the one directing the other. We have in our mind a case of this kind, which we cite, not as showing great results, but rather how a good living and something more may be obtained on a poor place.

Near Newmarket Junction is a farm containing about one hundred acres of land—for the most part very rocky. It produces about twelve tons of hay, and apples enough to make twenty-five barrels of cider—fifteen of which is sold in the spring for forty cents per gallon, and the remainder made into vinegar which sells for fifty cents per gallon. The hay is consumed on the place, making manure enough to plant one and a half acres to corn and potatoes, which is always planted on broke-up ground, thereby not having to contend with weeds. The second year the ground is sown to oats and grass seed.

The owner of this farm usually raises two hundred turkeys, which during the summer, having the range of the fields and pasture, procure most of their own living. In the fall they are shut up and fattened about a month, when they are dressed, and worthy of any man's table; and such is the reputation of his fowls that dealers engage them a year beforehand. Last year they netted him $480. It cost him for corn to fatten them, $75.

About the first of June, he has usually a lot of chickens come out, and through the summer they for the most part, subsist on worms, &c. Late in the fall, the pullets are ready to lay, and continue to lay through the winter. He has a cellar dug on a side hill, and the southerly side is covered with grass, consequently they have plenty of gravel and sunshine.—In the spring they are fattened and sold, bringing a good price.

This man is an independent farmer. He rides in a good carriage and drives a fine horse, and has the time to ride in the pleasantest time of year. He began without capital, but by the aid of brains rather than hard work, he has placed himself and family in easy circumstances. Besides owning his farm, he draws interest on government bonds. His children are being educated at the best of schools, while he and his whole family are reaping the reward of properly directed efforts to obtain a living upon a poor New Hampshire farm.—Exchange.

At the Democratic Convention held at Epping, David M. Clough, of Canterbury, was nominated for Councillor for District No. 1.

Joseph L. Stevens was nominated on Monday for Postmaster at Manchester in place of B. P. Cilley.

At the Law Term of the Supreme Judicial Court at Haverill, on the 13th, resolutions on the death of Hon. Wm. P. Weeks, were passed, after remarks by Messrs. Charles and Edward Rand, Daniel Blaisdell, N. B. Felton, Wm. H. Duncan, Harry Hibbard, and Judges Nesmith and Foster.

A despatch from Littleton says—two men named Nason, were arrested at the Mount Washington Railroad Depot, charged with stealing a horse and sleigh from Biddeford Me., some months ago.

—Dr. G——, of Sycamore, Ill., riding in the country one day, saw a sign upon a gate post reading thus: "This farm for sale." Stopping his horse, he hailed a little old woman, who stood on tip-toe hanging out clothes. "I say, madam, when is this farm going to sail?" "Just as soon, sir," replied the old lady, placing her thumb on her nose, "as anybody comes along who can raise the wind!" The doctor drove thoughtfully on:

—"I suppose, said a quack, while feeling the pulse of a patient who had reluctantly submitted to solicit his advice, "I suppose you think me a bit of a humbug?" "Sir," gravely replied the sick man, "I was not aware until now that you could so readily discover a man's thoughts by feeling his pulse."

—The young man who sang "I'm lonely since my mother died," isn't so lonely now. His father has married again, and his stepmother makes it lively enough for him.

—What is the difference between editorial and matrimonial experience? In the former the devil crys for "copy." In the latter the "copy" cries like the ——.

—Six hundred and twenty-six persons in Wisconsin draw pensions from the United States. The amount paid them is $575,649.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected app ications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, JAN. 22, 1870.

OUR PLATFORM.—The Portland Press warmly commends the platform adopted by the New Hampshire Republican Convention, and touching the temperance and labor planks it remarks:

"By the passage of these resolutions New Hampshire Republicans have committed themselves to both the temperance and the labor reforms, and will gain strength therefrom. The Republican party everywhere is naturally the ally of all progressive and humanitarian movements, and now that the questions that were the occasion for its formation are being solved and are becoming obsolete, it is curious to notice how it instinctively comes forward as the champion of other causes that are equally deserving of support."

THE INCOME TAX.—The following is the resolution passed by the national House of Representatives on Wednesday:

Resolved, That whereas doubts have arisen and conflicting decisions been made in the different departments of the government in regard to the construction of the laws relating to the tax on incomes, it is hereby declared to be the true intent and meaning of the act relating to that subject, that all persons are liable to the payment of their proper income tax accruing and to accrue for and during and up to the end of the year 1870, and that the assessment and collection of any such tax in the year 1870 and remaining unpaid on the first day of January, 1871, may, under the existing provisions of the law, be made in the last mentioned year.

The Miss. legislature elected Gov. Alcorn, United States Senator for the long term, beginning March, 1871, and Gen. Ames for the short term. W. H. Revel (colored), a native and educated in Ohio, and at present a State Senator from Natchez, was also elected for the term expiring March, 1871, to which Mr. Shaksey was elected, but not admitted. The Legislature adopted a resolution to remove political disabilities from all Mississippi, to be presented by Mr. Revel, together with his credentials as United States Senator.

CONGRESSIONAL TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The Congressional Temperance Society held a meeting Sunday night, at the Metropolitan Methodist church. Senator Wilson, the President of the Society, read the following recommendation of the Society:

"Believing that the habitual use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage causes poverty, suffering and crime; that there is safety alone in total abstinence, and that the personal pledge and co-operative effort tend to secure and maintain such abstinence, the Congressional Temperance Society suggest and recommend to the ministers and to the churches, to all temperance organizations, and the humane, philanthropic and patriotic throughout the land, to hold simultaneous meetings in their several townships and city wards on the 22d of February next, the birthday of Washington, and unite in the organization of Union Temperance Societies, based on the simple pledge of total abstinence from all that intoxicates, and to adopt practical measures to have such pledge presented to every man, woman and child over ten years of age.

There are millions of members of christian churches, millions of children in the Sabbath and public schools, and millions of others who, it is believed, might be persuaded to pledge their faith, truth and honor wholly to abstain from the use of intoxicating drinks; and this Society believes if a concerted, vigorous and persistent effort were made, that one-fourth, if not one-third of the nation would, within a few months, be thus pledged and enrolled."

Senators Pomeroy of Kansas, Willey of West Virginia, Patterson of New Hampshire, and Buckingham of Connecticut, and Representatives Whittemore of South Carolina, and Ferry of Michigan, together with Vice President Colfax, respectively addressed the meeting.

A LABOR REFORM MEETING was held in Concord on Wednesday evening, and its proceedings, including a speech, are reported in the Patriot. After some debate, showing a difference in opinion as to the measure, it was voted, that the President of the meeting appoint three delegates from each ward in Concord, to attend a Convention in that city on the 25th, to nominate candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner.

INCEST.—Samuel Hopping of Lawrence, aged 19, who was married two months ago, has plead guilty to a charge of incest with his sister Salina, aged 16, who charges her child upon him. The Eagle says "the parties have been highly respectable, being regular and devoted attendants of the church, and participants in the communion rite."

☞ The Biddeford Democrat says Mr. Charles Bragdon of York, who served many years on Uncle Sam's war vessels, and served also in the last war, is an invalid, unable to support himself or family, and his wife, entirely blind, and children, have been carried to the poor house in the town of York.

The tracks of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads, a San Francisco despatch says, have been free from snow blockade, with a single exception, all winter. Trains are running on time, and connections are made promptly.

The Chinese quarters in the town of San Jose have been burned rendering houseless about a thousand Chinese.

The London Times, in a four-column review of Mrs. Stowe's latest book, concedes only that it is possible Lady Byron may have been mystified by her husband, and so led to believe him guilty of incest.

The Kansas legislature has adopted a resolution recommending the removal of the National Capital to the Fort Leavenworth military reservation.

☞ An accident at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, led the city fathers to require recently that (for the safety of the performers on the trapeze) a netting should be spread to break the fall of any person performing carelessly. The wisdom of this course was apparent on Thursday evening last. One of the Rizarelli brothers had made several ærial flights on swings to the rear of the stage from the dress circle successfully, and was then blindfolded and enveloped in a sack with openings for his arms. On the first attempt he swung off swiftly with a half somersault and as he approached the centre of the house (thirty feet above the audience), failed to reach the trapeze swung towards him from the stage and fell heavily on the the netting just over the heads of the orchestra, who scrambled from under nimbly. As he fell on his head and neck it was feared that he was badly injured, but on being released from the sack it was very evident that nothing serious had resulted, except that he was apparently in a great rage at the failure. Pulling his hair frantically he dashed back to his position, was blindfolded and enveloped in the sack again and successfully performed the dangerous feat, much to the delight and relief of the audience.

New Publications Received.

The Atlantic Monthly, for February, is a good number of a magazine which has obtained an established reputation for its literary merits, the diversity of its topics, and the ability of its contributors. Contents, "Joseph and His Friend," by Bayard Taylor; "Father Meriel's Bell," by J. K. Hosmer; poetry better than it has offered of late; "Life in the Brick Moon," by E. E. Hale; "The Pressure upon Congress," by Mr. Parton; Sidney Andrews introduces the Chinese; Senator Wilson does justice to the great career and the grand, unselfish nature of Edwin M. Stanton, indirectly revealing the truth about some matters connected with the war that have been much misunderstood; "Quaff: His Capers, Contradictions, and Pure Cussedness," singularly vigorous and quaint, keen and original, is full of warning as a temperance discourse, all the more admonitory for the stern and fearful manner in which it discusses with its terrific theme; Mrs. Thaxter is "Among the Isles of Shoals" again, this time in the winter and the storm seasons; with vivid descriptions of the changes in the heavens, on the sea and the rocks, wrought by the elements in their fiercest moods. Her pictures show the careful study of the observant poetic eye that sees not only the ever-shifting grandeur and beauty, but the sentiment that is in them. Her palette has all the colors of the rainbow, and her pencil uses every tint with artistic skill. Relating the history, she also makes visible the glory and loveliness of these piles of granite anchored off in the sea.

Oliver Optic's Magazine, Our Boys & Girls, for January, is a rich monthly part; well stored with stories and illustrative cuts. Boston: Lee & Shepard.

CONGRESS.—The Senate debated the Virginia bill on Thursday, but adjourned without taking a vote.

The House debated the League Island bill, and Scofield of Pennsylvania insinuated that Mr. Dawes' late speech was made because the Pennsylvania delegation didn't vote for Dawes for Speaker when the House was organized.

☞ A friend informs us that Portsmouth has a Sociable attended by a large number of young people, which is held at any house large enough to hold them, where there is neither card playing, nor dancing, nor drinking, nor refreshments, and where the company enjoy themselves rationally and go home at ten o'clock. At the last meeting on Thursday evening one hundred were present.

Holloway's Pills.—TORPIDITY OF THE LIVER. There must be a proper and regular supply of bile to temper the blood and duly evacuate the bowels, or the body cannot be healthy. Of all evacuants and antibilious medicines in existence HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the most effective and unfailing. Yet so gentle is their action that it does not in the slightest degree enfeeble the system. On the contrary, by relieving it of obstructions and impurities, the Pills tend to restore its elasticity and vigor. Sold by all Druggists.

Health's Best Defence.

"The weak catheth herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the sanitary essences of tonic, aperient and antibilious roots, barks and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this effective mode of concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before had a perfectly pure alcoholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest specifics of the vegetable kingdom. Never, yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climes, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood depurent; as a nervine; as a cure for bilious affections; as a harmless anodyne; and as the BEST DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WCOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I place it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been labouring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary water, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

☞ Friday gave us milder weather than many a May Day.

THE THEATRE.—Bidwell's Company play "The Flowers of the Forest" this evening at the Temple with a laughable afterpiece. This is positively the last performance of the Company here at present.

☞ Our old and new neighbor, the Journal, issued for the first time this week from its new office and new press, is much improved in appearance, and looks well. If Br. Brewster would discard job type and cuts from his columns, all his pages might look as well as the second.

☞ We are requested by an officer of the Portsmouth Pier Co. to say that the statement appearing in Friday's Chronicle, respecting the sale of the property of the above Company, was erroneous; and that although many stockholders contemplate selling at an early day, no sale as yet has taken place.—For ourselves we will say that our informant of the sale was one of the reported purchasers; and the current report now is, that the sale will doubtless be made as stated.

And we certainly hope somebody will get hold of this fine property, who will develope business thereby, as either of the desired purchasers would do—for any party who buys real estate, whether old stables, railways or what not, merely to let them rot and tumble down, is of no benefit to any community.

☞ In South Boston, at the annual Social Reunion of the E Street Church and Society, the pastor, Rev. Edward A. Rand, was the recipient of a complete set of Chambers' Encyclopædia. The presentation was a perfect surprise. His wife was also kindly remembered. The Traveller says this church is rapidly filling up under Rev. Mr. Rand's ministrations, and all the people are united and prosperous. The little offerings were but a slight token of their love and admiration for their beloved pastor and family. It is only a little over three years since he was settled over them, and he has proved himself well adapted for this charge, which was at first very small, but is now a large and active church.

Rev. Mr. Rand is a native of Portsmouth, and filled the pulpit of the North Church here a few weeks since, to the full acceptance of the congregation, and the gratification of his old friends. His brother, Rev. Wm. A. Rand, is also doing good service at South Scabrook.

THE MASQUERADE advertised by Mr. W. I. Trafton to come off at Congress Hall on Thursday evening, did come off as per advertisement, and was the occasion of a high old time. The outsiders were filled with admiration and wonder by the appearance of a most outre (which is French, or something, and means outrageous,) procession of twenty of the masqueraders, who formed somewhere on Bow Street, and marched around to the hall to the music! of their own band, under the command of Col. Mark O. Bosphorus. Their band was the famous Gideon's, and consisted of bass and kettle drums, tin whistle, fife, and boiler-cover cymbals. The pieces performed were said to be original—perhaps composed by the band-master himself; that their execution was original does not admit of question. They made music of the very largest size, though possibly an educated ear could have detected faults in some of the higher notes, especially those of the big drum and cymbals. Their entrance into the hall produced a marked sensation—of gratitude, in the bosoms of the outsiders, that their dulcet tones could be no longer heard.

A very large number of persons in fancy costume attended, — over sixty couples, we were told; the floor was crowded throughout the evening. Many of the dresses were as ridiculous as can well be imagined, and dancing was kept up till the small hours. Every available position for looking on was filled with spectators, who seemed to enjoy the sport as well as the others. The only decoration in the hall was the huge Order of Dances, which was comical in its way, being headed by a "Shoo fly" individual, and adorned with a train of cars; it was a little derisive of a club of which the manager was formerly a member.

Mr. Trafton having gone into the Express business, this is to be the last occasion of his catering for the dancers, for the present at least; and it was a big success for him—he wound up in a blaze of glory.

The next masquerade will be that of the C. B. B. Club, Feb. 22d.

☞ Mr. Stephen Scammon had a case in Court at Exeter, against lawyer Wood, for $300, which Wood collected for, and kept from him, to pay for previous law services. But Scammon says the money was his wife's, who is rich. Hatch defends for Wood. The lawyers have long found a good customer in Scammon, who seems to enjoy litigation as much as the pettifoggers and barrators who have encouraged him and fatted on his substance.

Wednesday was occupied in the trial of the case Maria R. Scammon (wife of Stephen Scammon of Stratham) vs. Alvah Wood, to recover from Wood the sum of $782.53. Of this amount the sum of $482.53 is due on two notes which are acknowledged by Wood. The balance of $300.00 was retained by Wood from collections made for Mr. Scammon, and applied to his account for professional services, Scammon claims that the money belonged to his wife, and can not be held for his debts; and she institutes this suit to recover the amount.

Mr. Scammon testified that the money belonged to his wife, but his reputation for truth and veracity was successfully impeached and the plaintiff gave up the case, and allowed Mr. Wood his claim.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY.—Uncle Toby acknowledges the receipt of a broad slice of Cake,—not exactly Wedding Cake, either of the first or of the Golden Wedding season,—but Birth Day Cake from the hospitable Sanborn mansion in Hampton, on the occasion of the 50th Anniversary Birth Day of the youngest of three maiden sisters, who all speak of their ages not only with freedom but with thankfulness. Not finding it convenient to be of the party on the 19th, we are glad to learn that the guests numbered one hundred; the presents were acceptable, and the ocasion every way pleasant.

☞ In 1731, the people of Star Island, now Gosport, Isles of Shoals, gave a call to Mr. John Tooke, (or Tucke) to settle there as their minister, —offered him One Hundred and Ten Pounds in money, as an annual salary. In 1738, fifteen pounds were added; and in 1750 (when there was not much money) it was voted to pay him in fish.

☞ A number of Uncle Toby's neighbors assembled on the evening of the 18th, in a family mansion opposite his, depositing some useful or ornamental article of household convenience or ornament, for the benefit of a young couple who are soon to embark together on the voyage of life, forming a new family. It was a pleasant occasion to all.

☞ The largest cod fish we ever heard of, was one dressed on a Maine island, which when dried weighed 112 lbs.

☞ Mr. Wm. C. Packer of Greenland butchered a pig 21 months old, this week, which weighed 620 pounds.

☞ We are glad to see our business men are securing space in the new Directory for the Post Office.

Bishop Chase of New Hampshire had attended church on sixty consecutive Christmas days.

☞ Mr. Spinney's hog, 18 months old, weighed 710 lbs.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion] of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.

CHRONICLES OF OLD TIMES.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The Portsmouth Privateers of 1812.

NUMBER THREE.

Our readers may remember that No. 2, near the close, gave some figures, showing that while our ship owners had lost 182,000 dollars by British captures, the net proceeds of all prizes brought in here between June 1812 and Feb. 1813, were only about $120,000. The amount of loss, however, to the British owners by our captures, was probably $300,000 or more, so that the balance of distress was probably in our favor,—and while the war was disastrous to our navigation, it was more so to theirs.

The privateer sloop Science, which sailed from this port, with the Thomas, in Aug. 1812, was captured by the British shortly after sailing, and carried to Halifax. We see no account of her taking any prizes. The Science was promptly fitted out as a British privateer, called the Dart, came back on this coast, and was very mischievous in capturing and burning our coasting and fishing vessels. On Sunday, Aug. 8, 1813, she was again captured by the U. S. gunboat stationed here, commanded by Lieut. Newell, and brought into this port.

We have already mentioned the fact that privateers sometimes had two names; one in the Custom-House, and the other in the street.—Sometimes this makes the record in the newspapers a little uncertain.

For example, the Gazette of Sept. 1, 1812, has this item: Sailed on Thursday last, privateer sloop Bunker Hill, Tullock, on a cruise. In the marine lists of other papers, we find, "Arrived Sept 29, privateer First Consul, Tullock, from a cruise." This was probably the real name of the Bunker Hill.

On the 3d of November, 1812, arrived in this port, British brig James & Charlotte, from Liverpool for St. Johns, with crates, dry goods and coal, a prize to the privateer ship America, of Salem.

In the Gazette of Sept. 1, 1812, we read: — Arrived yesterday morning, new privateer schooner Fox, from Portland, pierced for 16 guns, owned in this town. She will sail in a few days, on a cruise.—And on the 10th of September, sailed privateer schooner Fox, Capt. [Elihu D.] Brown.

The Fox was deemed one of the lucky privateers, as she took many prizes, lived through the war, and was sold at Havana after its close, as was also the Thomas.

On the 23d of December, 1812, a libel was filed in the U. S. District Court, before Judge Sherburne, by Elihu D. Brown, (by Wm. Claggett, his Attorney,) against the British barque Fisher, of 6 guns, as a prize to the Fox.—And on the 6th of February, 1813, a similar libel was filed against the American brig Rio, a prize also to the Fox, retaken after being captured.

The Fox arrived in this port March 16, 1813; Capt. Brown reported that she had fought an English Letter of Marque ship of 22 guns, for 6 hours.—During the action Hugh Clarkson, one of our most promising young men, was killed, being cut in two by a shot from the ship; and five men were wounded. Clarkson's death cast a shadow over the close of the cruise, and over the youth at home.

On the 30th of April, 1813, the Fox sailed again, this time commanded by Capt. Samuel C. Handy:—[and on the same day, privateer Alfred of Salem put in here in distress, having recently lost her masts, and thrown most of her guns overboard, in a heavy gale.]

This cruise of the Fox was one of the most active, and most mischievous to British commerce. We close this number with Capt. Handy's own account of it, copied from his journal. The reader will perceive by the latitudes and longitudes, that this cruise extended over a very large portion of the North Atlantic Ocean.—This account was published in the War Journal of August 6, 1813. The Fox arrived here August 4, 1813, with some valuable goods on board, taken out of prizes.

The extracts from Capt. Handy's Journal are as follows:

May 11, off Seguin, captured the British brig Mars, Gemil, with cargo of rum, hides &c., which she conveyed in.

May 16, saw a square rigged vessel standing to the westward — gave her chase, and at 9 P. M., fired to bring her to, without effect; discovering her to be a ship, and not knowing her force, kept a little distance astern until daylight and then fired another gun, to bring her to — the ship shewed a small striped flag, without stars or union; crowded all sail and commenced firing her astern chasers, some of the shot striking very near the Fox, altho' she displayed American colors forward and and abaft.

At 6. A. M., ranged alongside and commenced firing the large guns—she neither ceased firing or hauled down her small striped colors; which conduct, to the officers of the Fox, was most unaccountable. Gaining on her very fast, the Fox ceased firing, wishing to hail her, but notwithstanding the cessation, she continued firing until within hail—upon hailing was informed the ship was a prize to the Alexander of Salem, [the Invincible Napoleon]. On enquiring the cause of their firing on the Fox, the prize-master said he did not believe they were Americans. Seeing two large frigates to leeward, did not think it prudent to board her, but after seeing her close in with Cape Ann harbor, made the best of their way to the windward, on their cruize.

May 17, lat. 43, lon. 67, 54, was chased by a large British frigate, and escaped by starting her water, &c. June 8, lat. 47, 32, lon. 21, 47, captured the Br. sch. Harriot, Winnerhold, with oil, seal skins, &c., from St. Johns for London; put a prize crew on board and ordered her for the first port in the United States.

June 12, lat. 52, 0, lon. 11, 40, captured and burnt, after taking out some articles, Br. brig Nelly & Peggy, Gallaway, from Cork for Newfoundland, with coal — gave the crew the brig's long boat, with sufficient provisions and water, and sent them on shore, at their own request. Same day, recaptured American ship Hope, late capt. Townsend, from Batavia, last from Rio de Janiro, in possession of Lt. Charles W. Smith, captured by H. M. S. Racoon, 5th January last, laden with camphor, salt-petre, staves, &c.,—tonk out of her 18 prisoners and left 3 on board —ordered her for France.

June 15, lat. 53, 57, lon. 10, 30, captured the Br. sloop Peggy, from Grenock for Limerick — ransomed her— Same day captured Br. sch. Brothers & Sisters, Stewart, from Liverpool for Westport, with lumber—burnt her.—Same day boarded Br. brig Louisa, and after putting on board 26 prisoners, ransomed her.—June 16, lat. 53, 54, lon, 10, 49, captured the sloop Fox, packet, McIntyre, from Liverpool for Limerick, with an assorted cargo—ordered her for Norway.—June 17, lat. 53, 58, lon. 10, 30, captured Br. sloop William & Ann, Eadie, from New Castle for Galloway, with glass and coal, and ordered her for France.—Same day captured a fishing boat, and released her after putting on board 6 prisoners.

June 18, sent all the remaining prisoners with their baggage, on shore, after taking their certificates not to act against the U. S. till exchanged.—June 19, lat 54, 33, captured the Br. sloop James & Elizabeth, Wyllie, from Kincardown for Limerick, with coals, and ransomed her.—July 5, lat. 48, 47, lon. 34, 17, saw a large sch. standing towards her with ten ports on a side, under English colors; not wishing to risk an engagement with a vessel evidently superior in force, kept before the wind; she set all sail in chase, firing her bow guns and gained on the Fox very fast. On the 6th, at 2 P. M. the sch. commenced action within gun shot at half-past 2, shot away the foretopsail yard and ring-tail boom of the Fox, wounded one man very severely (Oliver Barns.) Mr. Smith, the carpenter's mate, was also slightly wounded by a grape shot, many of which struck the vessel in every direction, injurng her sails considerably — but little other damage was sustained—at 6 o'clock after hulling the Englishman several times and carrying some of his small spars away he wore round and after firing his broadside, consisting of 9 guns, stood off. The Fox then made sail in chase, but finding it impossible to come up with her, her sails being new, relinquished the pursuit at 10, P. M.—July 8, lat. 48, 3, lon. 36, 24, was chased by a frigate, but escaped in a fog. Oliver Barns died in consequence of the wound received in the action on the 6th.

July 17, lat. 45, 47, lon. 50, 14, captured the Br. brig Chance, Rogerson, from Liverpool for Newfoundland—ordered her for Norway.—July 18, captured Br. brig Mary Cooper, from Cork for Pictou, and burnt her.—July 19, lat. 46, 2, lon. 51, 17, had an action with a large gun brig—shot away one of her lower studding sails and struck her hull several times. At 6 A. M. it fortunately came up foggy, when the Fox altered her course and lost sight of the brig. The damage sustained by the Fox, considering the force of the enemy, was very trifling—no person was hurt in the contest.

The Fox brought in 22 British prisoners.

Every family at this season should use

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE,

celebrated in Spain and Portugal for its beneficial qualities, highly esteemed by eminent physicians, used in European and American Hospitals and by the first families in Europe and America.

Excellent for weak and debilitated persons, the aged and infirm, improving the appetite and benefitting the ladies and children.

AS A DIURETIC

it imparts a healthy action to the Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, very beneficial in Dropsy, Gout and Rheumatic affections. Also, is pure juice of the Oporto Grape, recommended by Physicians as possessing medical properties superior to California or Imported Wines.

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE

SPEER'S STANDARD WINE BITTERS

The Best and Most Reliable Tonic and Bitters in the market, which is always the CHEAPEST.

☞ None genuine unless the signature of "ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J.," is over the cork of each bottle.

For sale by Druggists and Town Agents, who also sell Speer's Standard Wine Bitters.

At Shelburne, on the 7th, while the team of George Abbott, consisting of four oxen, was attempting to cross the railroad track, the engine of an advancing train went smash into the midst of concern, killing one pole ox and severely injuring the other. "Look out for the engine when the bell rings."

The Charlestown Town Farm has but two paupers, one sick and both old. It is not considered a paying institution, under the circumstances, and the town will probably sell it.

Samuel Chandler, Esq., father of Senator Chandler of Michigan, who died at his residence in Bedford, on the evening of the 11th inst., was ninety-five years, seven months and fourteen days old. He was a native of Bedford, and has always lived there, commanding the respect of the entire population.

Joshua Wright of Bradford, who broke a thigh on the 8th, by a fall upon the floor while looking out of a window, died Tuesday morning. Mr. W. leaves a wife and three sons, Eben, an engineer on the North Weare Road, and George and Henry, engineers on the Claremont. Mr. W. was aged about sixty years and was a highly respected citizen of Bradford.

Rye Beach is enlarging its accommodations for summer visitors. The Shoals will also double their room for entertainment and lodging. It is thought that a hotel will be erected on Star Island.

J. Henry Folsom, well known in the concert field, died at Exeter on the 12th, aged sixty.

Wayland Sargent was killed at Plaistow, on the afternoon of the 19th. He was loading wood, and it is supposed his horse started, throwing him down, and the wheels passing over his head killed him instantly.

Thomas Armstrong of Keene was terribly burned about the face and hands on the 17th in kindling a coal fire with kerosene oil.

On the 19th, in Manchester, Isaac C. Noyes lost two fingers on a circular saw. On the 18th, James Mitchell, aged 82 years, sprained an ancle.

Of the 191 Congregational churches in New Hampshire, 36 are vacant. Of the 200 ministers, 47 are without charge.

Rev. A. Tobey, D. D., who has been pastor of the Congregational church in Durham thirty-six years, has asked a dismission.

On the 8th, in Whitefield, a man named Albert Quimby, who stole a trunk last August at Groveton, while the trunk was in charge of the Grand Trunk Railroad, was committed to Lancaster jail to await the action of the Grand Jury in February next. The trunk and its contents were valued at $400, and as the Railroad had to pay the loser, it is determined to take it out of the thief's hide.

Rev. D. S. Hawley has been expelled from the ministry and membership of the Baptist Church in Swanzey, for unchristian treatment of his wife, falsehood and moral weakness.

NEW ENGLAND.—The strength of New England is more in the sons whom she has sent forth from her borders than in those who remain. It is the Representatives and Senators in Congress who have retained the influences of their New England ancestry and education, while rising to the highest honors in the States west and south of the Hudson. It is in the journalists of New England birth and training, who, in every important place in the Union, are moulding the public opinion of the country. It is in the New England clergymen, who are found in every large town and city of the West, and who retain their devotion to the ideas which grew up with their growth. It is the shrewd, active, enterprising and generally successful Yankees, who are living and powerful influences in almost every school district in the country.

— Paterfamilias, winding up his watch, playfully said to Dorabella, aetat seven; "Let me wind up your nose." "No," said Dorabella, "I don't want it to run."

— Miss Edith Abell, formerly a member of the Richings Opera Troupe, has been tendered an engagement in the Parepa-Rosa Company.

— A person once said: "Getting in love was like getting drunk; the more a fellow did it the more he wanted to."

— The mother of Madame Parepa-Rosa died of dropsy. She was fifty-five years of age.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Reissues, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected appeals, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his particular line to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

STATE SOVEREIGNITY. — Wendell Philips truly says that of all the cant that has been canted in this canting Nation, while the cant of Liberty has been most false, the cant of State sovereignty has been the most ridiculous. Ever since 1789 it has existed only in name. Hamilton laughed at it when he wanted to collect a tax. Jefferson trampled on it when he wished to crush a rival or buy a province. The slave power ignored it whenever it hunted negroes.

Scrapings.

Orville Gardner is insane.

Queen Victoria has the neuralgia.

A whiskey cask fell on a man's head from the second story of a Cincinnati store, and was the death of him.

The great strike of workmen in the iron mines and manufactories at La Creuzot, France, is exciting the alarm of the government, and a large force of troops has been sent to that neighborhood. It is suspected that the strike, if not instigated, has been aggravated, by the republican agitators.

At a church fair in Kansas City, a set of bedroom furniture was voted to a young lady, with the understanding that, if she was not married in a year, the furniture should return to the church. She is now on the war-path, armed with a bedstead.

Two Deputy State Constables made a raid at Newburyport, on Saturday, seizing about $1000 worth of liquors from Harrower, Cusic and Dineen, which were conveyed to the Poor House. The hotels were all visited, and it is understood evidence of sales were procured against all of them.

The findings of the Naval Court Martial in the case of R. D. Bogart, Paymaster's Clerk, are printed. He was tried and found guilty of stealing money of the United States, of fraud and of desertion, but the Secretary of the Navy was obliged to remit his sentence of three years' imprisonment, because his resignation had been accepted by the Department six months before legal proceedings had been commenced.

The fat-men's convention at Lewiston, Me., was largely attended. Some of them were wheeled in wheelbarrows about the city—and all had a jolly time. A. G. Haven of Chelsea, Mass., 19 years old, took the first prize, weighing 354 lbs. There were 400 delegates.

Rochefort has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 3000 francs.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, on Friday, Mr. Patterson of N. H. introduced a bill to abolish the Freedmen's Bureau and provided for a Bureau of Education.

Mr. Pomeroy of Kansas proposed a 16th Amendment to the Constitution, providing for woman suffrage. Referred to the committee on judiciary and ordered to be printed.

The Virginia bill was taken up and Mr. Trumbull made a bitter attack on Mr. Sumner to which the latter replied. Both were called to order by Speaker Colfax.

Several amendments were made to the bill, which finally passed by a vote of 47 to 10—the Democrats voting nay.

In the House, Mr. Ela of New Hampshire addressed the committee in favor of a reduction of tariff duties on all materials that enter into manufacturing. The nation to-day was taxing itself to an extent which stagnated commerce, and caused shipping to decline as well by the increased cost of building as by the inability on account of labor and taxed materials to produce merchandise that it needed in the exchanges of commerce. Whenever this country could resume the export of manufactures nothing more would be heard about the decline of American shipping. He held it a mistake to suppose that New England got the main benefits from tariffs. No section of the country received less from the tariff than New England, and no one would suffer much less from its abolition. He showed the injurious operation of the tariff upon the great boot and shoe trade of New England; that the duties on hides and bark, sumac, oil and other articles, added 10 per cent. to the cost; and so as to the enhanced cost of iron, of which New England consumed more than any other section; and so as to coal, salt and lumber. He believed the policy of the people was to remove taxes whenever possible, to economize at every point, to increase exports and home productions, and to give labor employment at good prices. To effect this, internal taxation should be abandoned as soon as possible, except as to spirits, tobacco, and accumulated capital, and tariff duties should be abandoned on all articles entering into manufactures for export, and kept at the highest revenue point upon luxuries.

SENSIBLE ACTION.—The Boston Common Council have refused to appoint a committee to extend the hospitalities of that city to Prince Arthur of England. This action is a commendable one. We see no reason why a young man who happens to have a Queen for a mother, and plenty of pin money, (none of which he earns,) should be toasted and fed and taken particular notice of in this democratic country. Arthur may be a good boy, but we are not his subjects.

Why the snobs should wish to toady to the scion of royalty is explainable, perhaps, but the masses despise such displays of weakness. Let the young prince visit the United States if he chooses; let him take his own way across the country and see the sights; let him see that he is not superior to any boy of equal abilities; and he will return to England less conceited and with more practical knowledge, (not to mention a better digestion,) than would be the case if he is to publicly bore and be bored.

PARAGUAY.—Lopez is fortified at a post called Panadera in the mountains, and well supplied with provisions. Deserters from the Paraguayan army represent that the war is not over, but has entered on a new and remarkable phase. Lopez had concluded an alliance with the Caiguay Indians, who had offered to furnish him with 15,000 fighting men and provisions for seven years. He had an army of 4000 men and boys with thirty field pieces.

A NEW PARTY has been organized in New York city, under the name of "The New Democracy." The founders base the party on the fundamental principle of requiring the reference to the people of all laws passed by their legislative representatives, as is done in several of the Swiss cantons; and besides advocating woman suffrage, favor the running of all the railroads and telegraphs by the government.

New Hampshire Items.

It is almost incredible to the people of this day, that in 1843 people lived in Concord who had such faith, that on a day in April people went to the old cemetery, for the purpose of joining in upward flight with the rising dead.

The $15,000 required to secure the construction of the Concord & Claremont Railroad to Claremont has been pledged in Claremont, and it is expected that the work will proceed soon.

Mr. George L. Vose of Paris, Me., is preparing a map of the White Mountain district. This requires a good deal of labor. The line between New Hampshire and Maine is a very crooked one.

Sixteen horses with carts and all necessary trappings, passed over the Montreal Railroad, a day or two since, to work on the White Mountain Extension. They belonged to Mr. Kiernan of Chelsea, Mass., who had just finished a good job on the Suncook Valley Road, and now transfers his forces to the extension. About fifty men went up with the teams.

COMPLIMENT TO GOVERNOR SMYTH. The following correspondence explains itself and needs no commentary;

NEWPORT, N. H., Jan. 6.

HON. FREDERICK SMYTH.

Dear Governor:—At the last regular meeting of Post No. 10, Grand Army of the Republic, it was unanimously voted that, for your eminent and patriotic services in behalf of the Union and soldiers during and since the rebellion, this Post take the name (with your consent) of "Governor Smyth" Post No. 10, G. A. R. Please accept. Yours fraternally. CHAS. A PUFFER, Post Adj't.

MANCHESTER, Jan. 10.

CHAS. A. PUFFER, Adjutant,

My Dear Sir:—I have received your kink note of the 6th inst., connecting my name in flattering terms with your honored Post of the G. A. R. of Newport, subject to my consent. While I may very well doubt if any act of mine merits so marked an honor, I cannot refuse this token of your remembrance.

After an approving conscience, nothing is more dear to me as a reward for duty done, than the favorable regards of my fellow citizens, and especially of that noble class who have saved to us our country and our liberties.

I can never forget those memorial days when your blood-stained banners, fresh from the fields of victory, were received at the capitol of the State, and it was my fortunate lot to convey to you the thanks and well-earned praises of the Commonwealth. From that time I have felt that no service of mine could be too great in behalf of the disabled veteran, and have done, and am doing, such work as I can, in public and private capacity, without pecuniary considerations, as a small item in the great debt that we owe our country's defenders.

Please accept for yourself and comrades my kindest regards, and believe me. Cordially yours,

FREDERICK SMYTH.

—General Butler thinks that eventually the colored population will go for repudiation; they have sense enough to see, he argues, that it is not to their interest to help pay an enormous national debt which they had no hand in creating.—N. Y Herald.

THE FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT of Maine has quite a number of citizens who are willing to represent it in Congress next year, as may be seen by the remarks of the well posted Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Journal. He says:—

The question as to who will be nominated at the coming Republican Congressional Convention to be holden in the First District (York and Cumberland counties) of Maine, is being canvassed to a considerable extent, and as the district is contiguous to the 1st District in New Hampshire, the movements of the political parties become somewhat familiar, but with no other interest than the general good of each.

Hon. John Lynch, of Portland, the present Representative from that district, was elected in 1864 to the Thirty-ninth Congress and was re-elected to the Fortieth and Forty-first Congresses. It has been the usual party custom to select the Representative, alternately from each county, viz: one from Cumberland two terms and one from York two terms, (or four years.) This usage was at the last convention set aside in Mr. Lynch's case, as, during the first session of the last year of his second term, the subject of the impeachment of President Johnson was debated and decided, and Mr. Lynch was for impeachment and so recorded his vote.

On returning to his constituents With what they called clean hands, his numerous friends claimed for him a re-election, on account of the stand he took on that question—arguing that if he was not returned to Congress, those who did not know the usages of the District in alternating from the two counties might regard it as a non-concurrence in his views on impeachment, and he was re-elected.

Mr. Lynch is mentioned for another term; that is, to be his own successor, and if Cumberland county (his residence), whose delegates in the Convention outnumber York, should desire to have a member another term, such choice would probably fall upon Mr. Lynch, as he is a representative man of the District, and whose line of action in Congress has shown him to be an able defender of his party principles and interests.

He has many friends, not only in his own county, but in York, who would be pleased to see him returned to Washington, but it is stated that in the event that the right of locality prevails, that the nomination will be from York county, and in that locality, there are mentioned Gen. Mark F. Wentworth of Kittery, who was a very prominent candidate at the last time Mr. Lynch was nominated; Hon. James M. Stone of Kennebunk, and Hon. Rufus P. Tapley of Saco. The friends in the district of Gen. Wentworth will earnestly urge his nomination, not that he is more able or talented than any other aspirant, but that he is their equal. They also claim that York county has not had a representation in Congress since 1862.

Dr. Wentworth went to the war as Lt. Colonel of the 27th Maine Regiment, and was promoted to the command of the same, after which he was appointed Colonel of the 32d Maine regiment, and was brevetted Brig. General for distinguished services on the field. He has always taken a great interest in the subject of labor, and is the true friend of the laborer and soldier; and he has been probably the best abused Republican by the Democrats in York county.

Hon. Rufus P. Tapley of Saco joined the Union army as Colonel of the 27th Maine, and after a few months, resigned. Mr. Tapley has been one of the most able and leading lawyers at the bar of York county, has represented his town in the Legislature, and is at present Judge of the Supreme Court.

Hon. James M. Stone was Major of the 27th Maine, and came home Lieut. Colonel. He has been a member of the Legislature of Maine several terms, and was elected Speaker thereof at the time his namesake occupied a similar position in Massachusetts.

Among the Democrats mentioned for the office are Hon. Ira T. Drew of Alfred, Hon. Henry K. Bradbury of Hollis and Hon. Charles A. Shaw of Biddeford. All of them are prominent men in their party.

—Most of the shadows that cross our path through life are caused by our standing in our own light.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A STARTLING TRUTH!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs: when by the timely use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives could have been preserved to a green old age.

ATTENTION.—We beg to call the attention of Medical Practitioners and invalids to Speer's "Standard Wine Bitters," as a mildly stimulating diuretic, sudorific and tonic aid to debilitated persons from whatever cause. Their base is Speer's pure wine, without the semblance of medication, except by herbs and roots. The most delicate ladies use them with decided advantage. They are remarkably pleasant to the taste.

On the death of one of England's most eminent Physicians, all his effects were sold by auction, and among other things was a sealed packet marked "advice to Physicians," which brought a great price.—The purchaser on opening the packet read as follows; "Keep the head cool, the bowels open, and the feet warm." If phisic is necessary, use Parson's Purgative Pills; they are the most scientifically prepared pill that has appeared in the last hundred years.

Sciatica is a pain beginning at the hip, and follows the course of the sciatic nerve and is generally a purely neuralgic or nervous pain. To cure it use Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil on the painful parts, and also in the hole low of the foot. If the blood be in a low state a preparation of iron must be given at the same time—but the Magic Oil alone generally cures.

We received a very pleasant letter of thanks from our friend Kendall, since his return home for a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment which we gave him, and which he says has entirely cured him of the troublesome and dangerous cough he had when here.

Health's Best Defence.

"The weak catheth herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the sanitary essences of tonic, aperient and antibilious roots, barks and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this effective mode of concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before had a perfectly pure alcholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest specifics of the vegetable kingdom. Never, yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climes, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood depurent; as an invigorant; as a cure for bilious affections; as a harmless anodyne; and as the BEST DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Numps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used Allen's Lung Balsam extensively in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever used."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ The subject of Mr. Stephen W. Clark's Lecture before the Mercantile Lyceum, to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, we learn will be Physical Science, in which he proposes to discuss in a familiar way, some of the most common natural phenomena, and to speak of the material world as related to man. Commence at quarter to 8 o'clock.

☞ A fish-house at Rye Harbor, owned by Edward Doane and Warren Caswell, was burned Thursday night. Two or three boats were destroyed.

THE PORTLAND FIRE.—Gen. Sutton, who represents the Committee of citizens of Peabody in Portland, was the first to send aid to the sufferers in the latter city after the great fire of 1866. On the morning of the 5th of July, a man told him in Boston what had happened in Portland, and the General asked him when the next train would start; and being told, he managed to have the train delayed while he loaded a car with provisions for the sufferers. N. Y. Tribune.

If we recollect aright, Hon. John H. Bailey, then Mayor of Portsmouth, made the first contribution of money for the sufferers. Drawing his check for $1000, he took the first morning train down; the sum, except his own subscription, being afterwards made up by our citizens, who appreciated his promptness in this as other matters.

An order was read on Monday at muster positively forbidding the men carrying off the Yard wood or any other material in their pails, without an order from the Executive Officer.

Major George Marston, formerly of this city, and recently of Washington, has received the appointment of Chief Accountant at this Yard.

S. J. COURT, EXETER.—The civil docket embraced 294 cases. On calling the docket, 87 were marked for trial by jury, and 75 by the Court.

Concerning the Scammon case vs. Wood, the News Letter's report is not just like that we copied from the Journal. The News Letter says judgment was rendered for plaintiff by agreement, for amount of notes, $100 money had and received, and $25 costs.

☞ Col. George S. Merrill of the Lawrence (Mass.) American, and also the efficient Postmaster, of that city has been presented with a valuable chronometer watch, with heavy gold chain attached, as an evidence of the appreciation in which his fellow-citizens hold his services as Postmaster, especially his activity and public spirit in securing a handsome and convenient Post-office building and additional mail facilities. The leading representative men of Lawrence, including various shades of political opinion, joined in this testimonial—John K. Tarbox, a prominent Democrat, making the presentation speech, and very cordially complimenting Col. Merrill on his faithful and energetic management of the Postoffice in Lawrence, and expressing entire confidence in his worth and integrity as a public official. To which we will add, that the Democratic party of Lawrence don't pension a copperhead press solely to blackguard and villify Republicans.

☞ The Penobscot Conference, recently in session at Bangor, considered the influence of religious conventions as related to personal responsibility; emotional appeals as productive of permanent results; and the need of shorter and simpler creeds. Prof. Herrick of the Seminary presented a monosyllabic creed as illustrative of comprehensiveness and simplicity.

☞ Miss Phelps, authoress of "Gates Ajar," has written a new novel entitled "Hedged In." It deals with the delicate question of saving fallen women who are desirous of returning to a pure life, and for whom the prejudices of the community leave very few chances.

CURE FOR CANCER.—Dr. Samuel Baker of this city says that the juice of the common wood sorrel boiled down or evaporated to a salve or paste, if applied to a rose cancer, will in a few days loosen it so that it can be completely removed.

The Pope's infallibility has been put to the test. He prayed for and promised a prince to the Queen of Naples. It was a girl.

H. B. M.'s Steamer Monarch arrived at Portland, Saturday evening, bringing the remains of the late George Peabody.

— On the Sunday evening which closed the Week of Prayer, the two Methodist, the Baptist, and Congregational churches of Newport, R. I. celebrated the Lord's Supper together. For three years these churches have united their services during that week, concluding by a union communion service.

—"Our work," said a pastor, a day or two since, speaking in favor of pastoral visitation, "is like that of the tailor; we must measure our people, if we want to fit them."

Correspondence Chronicle and Gazette.

NORTH HAMPTON, Jan. 21.

The members of the "Ladies Social Union," connected with the Congregational Society in this town, have decided to hold a Levee on the evening of the 15th of February, at the new and commodious Vestry under their Church, built the past summer at a cost of about $2500. Music, singing and other exercises will be introduced to make the occasion pleasant. Judging from the past, all may rest assured, that whenever the ladies of this Society undertake anything of this kind, it will be a first-class success.

A singing school numbering over sixty scholars is in successful operation here, taught by a Mr. Scott of Salem, who is a fine teacher. He also teaches a singing school and a district school in Stratham. The principal singers of these schools, under the guidance of Mr. Scott, are rehearsing the Cantata of Esther, preparatory to giving a concert at each of the above places. Several fine singers from Boston will aid them on those occasions. J. W. B.

☞ At the fourth annual reunion and dinner of the 24th Mass. Regiment, at Boston on Thursday, Dr. John W. Parsons of this city was chosen President for the ensuing year.

DEATH OF A VETERAN PORTSMOUTH PRINTER.—The Mobile Register records the death in that city on the 13th inst. of Mr. Daniel Drown Wyatt, at the age of 61. Mr. Wyatt was the brother of Mr. Ebenezer Wyatt of this city. The Register says: "In the death of this gentleman the printers of Mobile have been bereaved of one whom they recognized as the Father of the craft.

Mr. Wyatt was born in Portsmouth, N. H., on the 24th September, 1808, and after the plain and thorough course of instruction then furnished by the schools of his native region, devoted himself to the art preservative of arts, by entering upon his apprenticeship in the office of the New Hampshire Gazette. From his native place he proceeded in due time, and in printer fashion, to Boston, New York and Philadelphia, working chiefly in book-offices, and perfecting himself in every branch of his art.

In the winter of 1836 Mr. Wyatt removed to Mobile, which became thenceforth his home, and in 1838, became foreman of the REGISTER, and during the next year took the same position on the ADVERTISER, which he retained until the union of the two papers in 1861, and afterwards under all changes of proprietorship and management, until failing health caused him to retire from labor some months since.

Mr. Wyatt was, from first to last, an unwavering Democrat—one of the only two, he has said, who came from the old Gazette office. Some singular conjunction of circumstances threw him, for most of his life, into immediate connection with Whigs, but, through many a hot campaign, the editor of the Advertiser, Mr. Langdon, found his Democratic foreman as energetic in his department as the veriest Whig partisan could have been. But, indeed, he who has passed away was one who scrupulously fulfilled every duty of a modest, upright and laborious life. The part that Providence assigned him to act in his earthly pilgrimage, he acted well, truly and faithfully. Such is the honorable testimony his surviving contemporaries can most conscienciously bear to the worth of Daniel D. Wyatt.

"An honest man—the noblest work of God."

OBITUARY.

From the Churchman, Jan. 15, 1870.

At Kenwood, Hyde Park, Cook Co., Illinois, Jan. 5th, of scarlet fever, Annie Edmonds Waldron, daughter of Ann D. and Annie E. Waldron aged 3 years and 6 months.

Seldom are we called upon to record the death of so promising a child She was not only the joy of the household in which she moved; but of the whole surrounding neighborhood. There was something so lovely in her disposition, so beautifully attractive in her manners, and so guileless in her expression, that she endeared herself to all.

Sad indeed, is the bereavement that has fallen upon the afflicted parents; and now, when the things of earth seem so dark and cheerless, may they have grace and strength to look up with faith and resignation to Him who has taken this little lamb to his bosom, and who has declared that "of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Gone to her childish purity
Out from the golden day;
Fading away in the light so sweet,
Where the silver stars and the sunbeams meet.
Paving a way for her waxen feet
Over the silent way.

Over the bosom tenderly,
The pearl white hands are press'd;
The lashes lie on the cheeks so thin,
Where the softest blush of the rose hath been,
Shutting the blue of her eyes within
The pure white cleft.

Over the sweet brow lovingly
Twineth her sunny hair;
She was so frail that Love sent down
From his heavenly gems, that soft, bright crown,
To shade her brow with its waves so brown,
Light as the dimpling air.

Gone to sleep with the tender smile
From her silent lips,
By the farewell kiss of her dewy breath,
Cold in the clasp of the angel Death,
Like the last leaf of a fading wreath
Whose bloom the white frost nips.

Rosebud! under your shady leaf
Hid from the sunny day
Do you miss the glance of the eye so bright,
Whose blue was heaven in your timid sight?
It's beaming now in the world of light,
Over the starry way.

Hearts where the darling's head hath lain,
Held by love's shining ray,
Do you know that the touch of her gentle hand
Doth highten the harp in the unknown land?
O, she waits for us with the angel band
Over the starry way.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary setts reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.
Ja10lm 60 Congress Street.

TO HARDWARE DEALERS, CONTRACTORS, BUILDERS AND CARPENTERS.

THE NEW PATENT
NEVER FAILING, SELF-LOCKING
WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

[From Old and New, for February.]

TWO YARDS OF EARTH.

Two yards of earth, and a marble bust
Reared aloft from the common dust,
And a hero's sabre covered with rust;
And the sunset's splendor streaming around,
And a thousand glories under the ground.

Two yards of earth and the potter's field,
With the merciful angels above to shield
A murderer's grave, a convict bed
Into the future to meet the dead;
And the rank wild grasses scattered around,
And crimes and curses under the ground.

Two yards of earth, and heaven's air
Fanning the lilies white and fair;
And modest violets gathered around,
And spotless virtue under the ground.

Two yards of earth and a woman's name,
Whose life was woe and whose death was shame
And the cold rain beating a naked mound,
And a thousand miseries under the ground.

Two yards of earth! O who shall say
Whether of these is the better clay!
God give us grace in our hapless round
That leads to this kingdom under the ground!

New Publications.

Our Young Folks, for February. We Girls, by Mrs. Whitney, will reconcile many readers to the disappearance of "Bad Boy;" "Our Menagerie" finds a competent showman in T. W. Higginson, whose first cage is filled with beavers; "Snow" is a poem that fits a charming frontispiece picture; "Mr. Clarence," with J. T. Trowbridge for the invisible guide, is seeing things at the Capital; and in several other respects, including the pictorial adornments, the number will satisfy numerous groups, around the evening lamps, that their coveted monthly is still its fascinating self.

The Herald of Health is an original magazine, advocating a higher type of manhood every way. The general articles and the editorial department of the number for January are concerned with the practical topics appropriate to a journal of physical culture, with occasional excursions outside of the main design of the serial, which is well conducted. The general agents are the American News Company.

The Riverside Magazine for February has for its frontispiece a full page picture by Bensell, entitled "Telling Stories by Firelight," and nearly a dozen articles by Stone, Cranch, Darley, Bensell, Stephens, etc. The literary contents of the number are very good, several of the best contributors of the magazine appearing in it, including Hans Christian Andersen, Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Davis, etc. Hurd & Houghton, Publishers.

Merry's Museum is an old favorite with thousands of readers, and it opens the year handsomer than ever in its typography. The "Museum" is published by Horace B. Fuller, 14 Bromfield St, Boston. Terms, $150 a year.

The Manufacturer & Builder for January. This number has articles, with cuts, on File Making, and Calico Printing.

Harper's Monthly for February has an illustrated Chapter on that monster, Frederick the Great; Beast, Bird and Fish; and a very interesting Review of The Andes and the Amazon.

The Radical for February has a brief review of Gates Ajar; Christianity and Free Religion; a Sermon of Death, &c. Ten articles in all.

The Galaxy for February is out. Charles Reade has three exciting chapters, Justin McCarthy describes his visit to Brigham Young, Rose Terry has a story, Dr. J. C. Draper writes of "Ventilation and Warming," and Mr. Trollope begins one of his "Editor's Tales," which is too long to be comprised in one number.

THE TEETH OF A HORSE AS AN INDICATION OF AGE.—At five years of age a horse has forty teeth—twenty-four molar or jaw teeth, twelve incisors, four front teeth, between the molars and incisors; but usually wanting in the mare.

At birth only two nippers or middle incisors appear.

At a year old, the incisors are all visible on the first or milk set.

Before three years, the permanent nippers have come through.

At four years old, the permanent dividers next to the nippers are cut.

At five, the mouth is perfect, the second set of teeth having been completed.

At six, the hollow under the upper, called the mark, has disappeared from the nippers, and diminished in the dividers.

At seven, the mark has disappeared from the dividers, and the next teeth or corners are level, though showing the mark.

At eight, the mark has gone from the corners, and the horse is said to be aged. After this time—indeed good authorities say that after five years—the age of the horse can only be conjectured. But the teeth gradually change their form, the incisors becoming round, oval and triangular.

—A little girl, delighted at the singing of the bobolink, naively and beautifully asked, "What makes he sing so sweet, mother?—do he eat flowers?"

HOW TO KILL LICE ON CATTLE.—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman dissolved about a pint of strong soft soap, in a pail of warm water, and saturated the whole of a lousy cow's body with it; after about thirty minutes repeated the operation, and in thirty minutes longer took a pail of clean warm water and quickly and thoroughly washed out all the soapy water and dead lice in large quantities, put her in a warm stable, and covered her with a blanket. The next day, after being thoroughly dried, she looked and seemed to feel like a new animal; more than doubled her quantity of milk within twenty-four hours, and immediately commenced gaining in flesh and general thriftiness.

MARKET GARDENERS who use the most effective manures without regard to cost, are small purchases of guano and bichemical fertilizers. They depend on compost made of vegetable refuse, thus creating a condition of soil similar to that of fresh cleared and heavily timbered land.—Exchange.

—The sensible way to attack Canada Thistles—the most persistent of all pestilent weeds—is to cut them down with the hoe, plow, or other implement, and to follow this up every time a leaf or stem appears above the surface of the ground. They will hardly survive more than two seasons of this treatment.

MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION LECTURE.—Last Tuesday evening, Mercantile Hall was filled with a highly respectable and appreciative audience to listen to a lecture on Farming, which was delivered by John Albee, Esq., of Newcastle.

At the commencement, the lecturer said the question he was often asked about farming was, "does it pay?" That it was to be answered that most of those engaged in it made a living, and a few, as in every business, something more. Farmers did not get control of railroads or become bank directors and it is not probable that anybody who is very ambitious will join this class. If we wish to know anything about farming we should ask the farmers; but it is rather remarkable that until within a few years the Agriculturists of the country had thought it necessary at their annual Fairs to ask the great Governor, or great Senator, to tell them about it, and how much he thought of farming and life in the country, (for other peoples.) Even now in New Hampshire the State Board of Agriculture is officered by politicians.

The lecturer said he did not wish to exalt the business of farming but to come as near reality as possible. Like every other sort of business it makes all the difference what kind of a man is engaged in it. He said he should be obliged to describe all the farmers he had ever known, with few exceptions, as men condemned to hard labor for life, with few ideas, a little education, and no culture and intelligence, men modelled upon the low prudence of Poor Richard's maxims. They work hard, eat hearty, sleep well, pay their debts and—die. They spend but little upon their farms. Out of doors there is no enterprize or experiment in the work. Nothing which would naturally interest a boy is going on. Young America does not like to follow his father's pursuits, and, in general, Young America's father is glad not to have him. They say they cannot afford new-fangled ideas. They prefer to accumulate money in the old ways, and lose their children. Hardly any of the modern improvements come from the born and bred farmer. They are very slow to adopt them.

But there is a brighter picture than this. The model farmer. The man who employs not alone his hands but uses observation and thought. He has a genuine enthusiasm for his business which is contagious. His sons and daughters are infected with it, and if they do not adopt, they do not at any rate despise it.

Farmers know well what Spring, Summer and Autumn are for, but a great many have never found out for what nature intended Winter. There is work for Spring, Summer and Fall, but the Winter garden of the farmer is himself. He must read, he must study, he must travel. In good farming there ought to be included what belongs to the cultivation of the intellect as well as the land.

The lecturer said that having considered all the ways of life, he determined some years ago to devote himself to a country life. All the objections he could then muster had now vanished in active experience. He was so well satisfied with it that he wished all young men seeking a place and work in life would seek the country. A very few years of economy seasoned with good judgment at the start, with the right crops and the exercise of his brain as well as shoulders would place a man in quite an independent position. There is hardly a young man in business in any of our large cities, even those upon salaries, but what might have with prudence enough in a few years to begin a better, more useful, happier and healthier life in the country than any he could reach in the city with all the wealth he desires. A simple life, with simple tastes, a long day's work and a sound sleep, a good appetite, a peaceful house, are things to be preferred to fame.

He paid a beautiful and elegant tribute to woman in his ideal of a true farmer's wife. Next to ruling an empire or presiding over a republic, he knew of no station in this world so glorious as the founder of a home and family.

The care of animals and the planting of trees is noble work. The latter grow from year to year and outlast the planter but they keep his memory green. Ploughing, planting and harvesting fill the heart with joy. They are interests which are universal. If the farmer is prosperous the whole world is prosperous. When he spoke of farmers the lecturer said he did not mean to include that class who own farms in the country where they live part of the year for appearances; but the man whose business is farming, who means to live by it, who means to make it profitable.

Farming is honorable, it is amusing, and with judicious management it is profitable.

At the close Mr. Albee was warmly applauded. The lecture, which was an hour long, was delivered in a clear, pleasing and natural manner, evincing a mind well trained, and a heart akin to nature.

For the eighth entertainment of this course, Stephen W. Clark, Esq., assistant teacher of the Boys' High School, will give some of the most interesting, instructive and amusing facts in relation to the sciences. The lecture will commence at 1-4 to 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening. TELZAH.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.

CATAWBA, PORT, GRAPE and P. J. Sherry.

The above Wines are made by Mr. Speer, whose reputation as a wine grower stands pre-eminent. They are used in hospitals and highly known by the Medical Profession as the most reliable and valuable wines to be had.

Every family at this season should use

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE,

celebrated in Spain and Portugal for its beneficial qualities, highly esteemed by eminent physicians, used in European and American Hospitals and by the first families in Europe and America.

Excellent for weak and debilitated persons, the aged and infirm, improving the appetite and benefitting the ladies and children.

AS A DIURETIC

it imparts a healthy action to the Kidneys, and Urinary Organs; very beneficial in Dropsy, Gout and Rheumatic affections. Also, is pure juice of the Oporto Grape, recommended by Physicians as possessing medicinal properties superior to California or Imported Wines.

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE

SPEER'S STANDARD WINE BITTERS

The Best and Most Reliable Tonic and Bitters in the market, which is always the CHEAPEST.

☞ None genuine unless the signature of "ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J.," is over the cork of each bottle.

For sale by Druggists and Town Agents, who also sell Speer's Standard Wine Bitters.

FROST FLOWERS.

While we are sleeping, stealthily creeping,
They come, as the green comes in early spring;
Here there's a vine or root, here shows a tender
Faintest of posies, of ghostly roses, [shoot;
Within this garden are blossoming.

What busy sprite, at the dead of the night,
Scatters the seeds of these magical weeds?
Frond of lily and flower of gilly,
Breathing out only an odor chilly,
Ferns that keep in their sculptured sleep
A memory of June's warm, spicy noons,
Of her starlit hollows and building swallows,
Of her waxing and waning moons?

But now that summer's smile has fled,
And all of her pomp and bloom lies dead,
Is it the souls of her flowers, again,
That reappear on my window pane,
Blooming at night in a splendor of white,
To fade away in the strong sunlight?

The Keene Sentinel says that Thomas Armstrong, a boy employed at the Cheshire House, was badly burned on the morning of the 17th, while kindling a fire under the steam heating apparatus. He poured some petroleum over the coals, when the inflammable liquid flashed up like gunpowder, severely scorching his face and hands.

As Mr. Charles Lamprey, of Laconia, was descending a steep hill in Gilford with a load of wood, the "yokes" unhitched, letting the load directly upon the horses, which started down hill at full speed. Mr. Nathaniel Ellsworth, of Belmont, was driving in the opposite direction, and encountering Lamprey's team at a turn in the road, a general smash-up was the result. Ellsworth's horse and one of Lamprey's were so badly injured that they had to be killed. Mr. Ellsworth had his nose broken, and was severely cut and bruised. So says the Democrat.

A married couple from Laconia, who had been visiting Boston, started for home last week, the gentleman seating his wife in a car in the Lowell station, and then stepping out to look after his luggage. Before his return, a woman who sat near his wife asked her to hold a child a few moments, while she went out. The Laconia dame good-naturedly complied, the cars started, the husband returned, but no one came for the baby. Investigation showed the young traveller to be supplied with a bottle of milk, tied up in a towel, and a bit of paper stating that the child was born on a certain day, about ten weeks ago. The Laconia Democrat saye that the husband and wife, never having had any "responsibilities" cast upon them in the ordinary way, propose to keep the one received in this unexpected manner.

The 12th inst., at the homestead of David Burnap, of Plainfield, children and grandchildren came to celebrate with golden gifts the fiftieth anniversary of wedded life of the aged couple. One son left a home in Minnesota, and one daughter a home in Michigan, to be present.

On Saturday last, Mr. J. P. Farnum ran off an embankment 20 feet high, with a horse and sled, near East Lebanon. The horse went one side of a tree and the sled the other, breaking the thills, but the tugs held both from going into the river. There have been several narrow escapes at the same place, first and last.

A DROWNING MAN'S PRESENCE OF MIND.—One of the men who was wrecked recently in the ill-fated schooner Mary, at Small Point, Me., gave evidence of a presence of mind rarely equalled. A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal says, having been an excellent swimmer it is supposed he swam nearly one half a mile from his two companions, where his body was found. In one of his pockets was found his watch and chain, kept in by the pocket having been stuffed full of oakum above, while in the bottom of the other pocket, similarly filled, was discovered half of a paper collar, on which was plainly penciled, "Jeremiah Quimby, Boothbay." This was rolled up in a covering of birch bark, which was securely tied with a piece of twine. As was intended, this served to identify his body, and through him the other two. The vessel was only slightly injured, and had they remained by her, she would have preserved their lives, though she had dragged her anchors and was apparently about to dash to pieces.

—"What do you mean by a cat and dog life?" said a husband to his angry wife. "Look at Carlo and Kitty asleep on the rug; I wish men lived half as peacefully with their wives." "Stop," said the lady; "tie them together and see how they will agree."

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Reports, Models, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

NAVAL RANK.—In the bill introduced into Congress, fixing the rank of staff officers, we are very sorry to see one class entirely omitted and not otherwise provided for. On the Yards there are two heads of the two mechanical departments; the Civil Engineers, who represent the Bureau of Yards and Docks, and the Constructors, who represent the Bureau of Construction. The Civil Engineers have charge of the construction and repairs of all buildings, docks, wharves, and all the permanent works on the Yards; there are but six or eight of them in all;—they are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate as Civil Engineers in the Navy. They are in the Navy, and what we want is, that they rank with the Naval Constructors, which will place them in positions of responsibility and importance with Constructors. What we think should be done is to amend like this,—so that the Civil Engineers in the Navy who have been or shall be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, shall be ranked with Naval Constructors, dating from the original appointment. N. N. R.

☞ The Portlanders are becoming quite excited over the contemplated arrival of the Monarch, convoyed by U. S. S. Plymouth. The Maine legislature has been at loggerheads with the Portland city government, and the whole affair has been farcically fussy. Finally on Saturday evening two large vessels hove in sight and it was at once telegraphed that the Monarch had arrived. The vessels lay at anchor in the harbor and preparations were made for paying respect to the memory of the late Geo. Peabody, when it was ascertained that the vessels at anchor were U. S. iron clads, the Miantonomoh and the Agamenticus, the latter having been partially British-ized by Ex-Secretary Borie, by being dubbed the Terror. The Monarch may be expected at any time between this date and the middle of February.

A barn belonging to George Brackett of No. Hampton was burned Saturday night, with all its contents, including hay, farming tools, wagons, horse-cart, two horses and a cow. Loss $800; insured for $400. The fire was probably the work of an incendiary.

THE NATIONAL CHARITY SCHOOL.—There is at Annapolis, Maryland, a costly school for educating boys for officers in the navy, the expense of which is borne by the country at large. This much everybody knows; but who established the school, how it is conducted, what it does, and how much it costs, may not be so well known.

Having some curiosity on the subject, myself, I communicated (through a friend) with a gentleman who holds an important position in one of the Departments at Washington, asking him for a copy of the Act of Congress establishing the Naval Academy. In return I received a letter from which I extract the following:

"Your request is somewhat puzzling. The Academy never was established by law. I find that about the year 1845, Mr. Bancroft, then Secretary of the Navy, started the school on his own responsibility, and it was afterwards and has been since continued by annual appropriations. There was no other direct act."

I was astounded. Here was a parallel case to the vexed "staff-rank" question, the first thing. "Staff rank never was established by specific Act of Congress," say the line officers; "it was only a departmental order that did the business,—consequently staff rank is illegal." Ditto the Naval Academy, then,—which "never was established by law' at all, but by a Secretary of the Navy merely, "on his own responsibility."

The Academy then is illegal; and the vast sum of money annually spent upon it is not only wasted, but is stolen from the public to begin with. The Attorney General decided that the Navy Department had no power to confer staff rank without a special act of Congress, and that rank thus conferred was no rank at all; then where does the Department get power to establish a school for educating a lot of boys, power to confer line rank upon such boys the moment they commence to study,—to give them good salaries for allowing themselves to be educated, and to make the people of the country contribute the enormous sums reqnired to carry on the Charity School?

True, Congress has at various times appropriated moneys to support the school, and has thus "recognized" it. Well, it is just the same with staff rank in the navy; for the staff officers held their rank for years under Secretary Welles' order, were gazetted in the official Navy Registers as having advanced in rank, and were "recognized" in their possession of it by Congress, by having moneys appropriated to pay them their increased salaries — for the increased salaries were paid, and it is not probable that the line officers made up the difference out of their own pockets.

So I conclude that the National Charity School is an illegal institution, from the outset. If my reasoning on this point is defective, and my conclusions lame, I at least am blameless; for I have faithfully followed in the wake of that infallible body, the naval "line," in arguing the matter. I have merely applied to the school the arguments they offer against staff rank—and they apply just as well in one case as the other, for aught I can see to the contrary.

But, granting the legality of the Charity School, (and I do not question the right of the Nation—as well as of States—to support eleemosynary institutions,) what is its purpose, and what influence does it exert upon the navy and the common people of the country? I will answer these questions to the best of my ability; if I answer incorrectly, persons better informed can set me right, or "blow me up" if they like—my opinion is going to be expressed, anyway.

I have before me the annual "Register of the U. S. Naval Academy" for 1868–69, from which it appears that the ostensible purpose of the institution is to educate officers for our navy; and that its real object is to keep out of the sacred ranks of the naval line all who do not belong to the "superior classes." In a future article some extracts from the "regulations governing the admission of candidates into the Naval Academy" will be given, and comments thereon, in support of this assertion.

TAKING IT COOLLY.—A few days since a respectable and well-known resident of Kittery had occasion to arise early in the morning and in passing through his dining room discovered to his great astonishment a "six-foot-er" safely ensconced on the floor, having made his bed of the "Monday's wash" which had been hung on a clothes-horse in the room to air after ironing. He had come in during the night by raising the window, and from the appearance of the clean clothes that were, and the floor, he evidently had been taking something which the stomach was not pleased with.

It is useless to say that he was assisted in his egress by a "despatch" from the toe of a boot in the nether part of his "trowsers."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A STARTLING TRUTH!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs: when by the timely use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives could have been preserved to a green old age.

ATTENTION.—We beg to call the attention of Medical Practitioners and invalids to Speer's "Standard Wine Bitters," as a mildly stimulating diuretic and tonic aid to debilitated persons from whatever cause. Their base is Speer's pure wine, without the semblance of medication, except by herbs and roots. The most delicate ladies use them with decided advantage. They are remarkably pleasant to the taste.

On the death of one of England's most eminent Physicans, all his effects were sold by auction, and among other things was a sealed packet marked "advice to Physicians," which brought a great price.—The purchaser on opening the packet read as follows; "Keep the head cool, the bowels open, and the feet warm." If phisic is necessary, use Parson's Purgative Pills; they are the most scientifically prepared pill that has appeared in the last hundred years.

Sciatica is a pain beginning at the hip, and follows the course of the sciatic nerve and is generally a purely neuralgic or nervous pain. To cure it use Rennet's Pain-Killing Magic Oil on the painful parts, and also in the hole low of the foot. If the blood be in a low state a preperation of iron must be given at the same time—but the Magic Oil alone generally cures.

We received a very pleasant letter of thanks from our friend Rennet's since his return home for a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment which we gave him, and which he says has entirely cured him of the troublesome and dangerous cough he had when here.

Health's Best Defence.

"The weak eatheth herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the sanitary essences of tonic, aperient and antibilious roots, barks and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this effective mode of concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before had a perfectly pure alcholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest specifics of the vegetable kingdom. Never, yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climes, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood depurent; as a nervine; as a cure for bilious affections; as a harmless anodyne; and as the BEST DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no hu mbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions or bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhaea, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throat, Corns, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says; "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction to every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unmixed success. Any expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY
In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and Alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered as aperients. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

New Advertisements To-Day.

Costumes—Curtis & Woodbury.
Proposals—Paymaster Putnam.
Lost—A Boy's Overcoat.

☞ Eight men were employed in the Boiler Maker's Dep't. at the Navy Yard on Monday.

☞ The Lecture, this evening, before the Mercantile Library Association, will be given at their Hall, by Mr. Stephen W. Clark, of the High School. Subject, Physical Science. To commence at quarter to 8. The public are invited.

A GRAND MASQUERADE BALL comes off at Congress Hall on Thursday evening of this week, and the long expected costumes for the occasion have arrived from Boston, in charge of Curtis & Woodbury, and may be seen at the Kearsarge House. See advertisement.

☞ Prof. J. C. Cram, who has been instructing a large juvenile class in singing during the winter, at Kittery, is to bring out the Operetta of "Laila" at M. E church in that place, this (Tuesday) evening,—with forty performers. A gentleman who has attended one of the rehearsals prophesies a fine entertainment.

☞ We learn that Mate John Swanson, U. S. N., lately attached to the Benicia, while on the way from the ship, to the city of New York, in a steam launch, (during the time the vessel was lying in N. Y. lower harbor) was knocked down and beaten by the sailors in the launch, until he was insensible. The launch ran ashore and the men deserted, and shoved the launch to sea. When she was picked up, the steam was at 60 pounds and very little water in the boiler. Mr. Swanson has returned to this city.

NAVAL.—Comdr. W. W. Low is detached from Receiving Ship Vandalia and ordered to the command of the Mohican at Mare Island Navy Yard, California.

The following officers have been ordered to report to Admiral Farragut, to accompany him as members of his staff to Portland, in connection with the ceremonies proposed in honor of the late George Peabody; Rear-Admiral H. K. Thatcher; Captains J. J. Almy and D. M. Fairfax; Commander D. B. Harmony; Lieutenant-Commander Frederick Pearson; Ensign William B. H. Frailey.

REMOVAL OF THE CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD.—This subject is again being agitated by the powers at Washington, and the wise and far-sighted citizens of Charlestown are favoring it. The Navy Yard has always been a smotherer to the business of our neighboring city. Occupying two-thirds of the water frontage, the shipping interest never has nor never will amount to any thing as long as the Yard is tolerated there. The only advantages reaped is the small patronage afforded a few grocers, hotels, milkmen, and rum shops. Ship stores, iron, lead, paints, hemp, &c., could be as quickly and cheaply sent to Portsmouth, N. H., as carted over the overburdened bridges from Boston, and the latter city would retain what little trade (with the small profits) that it now does. Uncle Sam could sell its wharves and lands for enough to pay for removal. If prosperity ever comes to the shipping interests, by getting rid of the Navy Yard, Charlestown would leap into a thrifty city, instead of being as it now is, a one horse home for Boston traders.—Boston Saturday Eve. Exp.

☞ During many days of the present mild Winter, there has been a moisture in the air almost unknown to us heretofore in cold weather. This produces great chilliness, and at night frost collects on fences, bridges and roofs, closely resembling a light snow. On one occasion especially, several weeks ago, the trees were entirely coated with this hoar deposit, and in the sunlight of the clear and bright morning, it was a novel and beautiful spectacle—the coating, as of snow or frost, extending to every twig, and adhering to the under as well as upper sides, like the coating of sleet-ice sometimes, except that it was of an entirely dead surface, devoid of sparkle or glistening qualities. Looking through the woods at Sagamore Creek, that morning, with the tardy sun rising behind the grove, was like gazing into some fairy's grotto, filled with mimic stalactites and stalagmites; but the sun's rays soon dispelled the illusion, though not our memory of the lovely scene.

On Saturday evening last, an hour or two before sunset, we saw in the west what we think we never beheld before—a section of rainbow, without any previous rain. It was formed by the declining sun tinting and gilding the perpendicular edge of a heavy and dense vapor cloud, and was as singular as it was beautiful. The threatened snow storm, both for that night and Sunday night, failed to appear; and the mildness of both Sunday and Monday was such as to keep up the illusion that we are to have no Winter.

FISK AND GOULD TESTIFYETH.—These festive youths appeared before the Congressional Investigating Committee at Washington on Saturday, to testify as to what they knew about the gold conspiracy of last September. A dispatch to the Boston Advertiser says that Gould was before Mr. Garfield's committee four hours, and Fisk entertained it for two hours in a manner unparalleled. Gould does not say much about his testimony, but in less than three hours after he left the capitol Fisk had told his story to a room full of reporters.

The two men are opposites of each other, almost as unlike as two men can possibly be. Gould is quiet in manner and reticent in speech, while Fisk is nosy and pushing and garrulous to the last degree. Gould gave his evidence with caution and precision. Fisk was profane and oratorical and dramatic and "high-falutin." Gould deliberated on every answer he made and went no further than necessity required. Fisk poured out a torrent of words and was no more to be checked than Niagara in its flow. Gould gave no extraneous information, but Fisk continually "slopped over." There was business in the room while Gould sat in the witness chair. The two hours of Fisk were broad farce or roaring comedy from end to end. His story is racy to read, but the flavor of his action and gesticulation is wanting! He was very anxious to be present during the examination of Gould, but the committee, of course, did not allow this. "I never have been separated from Gould before," he exclaimed, in high tragic manner, to the committee. When Gould reads the story told by his adjutant, there is chance for an explosion.

These two worthies had a theory, or thought they had, and it was that the crops coming from the West (over their line, of course) ought to go abroad, but would not do so if gold was low. They profess to believe that they acted as public benefactors in throwing up the price. They tried every possible way to get the President to commit himself to, or at least to act on, their theory. They report scraps of chance conversation with him, and tell what means they used to reach him through friends and relatives. Fisk speaks of Corbin as "an old thief," and photographs his character in a sentence: "When he reaches his hand to the shelf he cleans off everything there is on it." Corbin made them believe, or at least they say he made them believe, that he spoke for the President, but Gould, in reply to a direct question, now answers that he does not know a thing in any way whatever connecting the President or any member of his family with the conspiracy. Fisk's style can be seen in one of his answers: when asked what had become of a certain twenty-five thousand dollars placed to Mrs. Grant's credit, he replied: "It's gone where the woodbine twineth." He was Bombastes Furioso from beginning to end, and kept the committee in a fever of suppressed laughter. They began on Gould with a large number of carefully prepared questions. With Fisk they could do nothing but allow him to go on in his way and manuer till he got through. Gould gave them some information out of which they hope to make points against other members of the ring. Fisk could not speak of poor Speyers as a Dutch Jew or a German Jew, but staggered the committee by calling him "that Saxonian Roman of the coming band." Gould made no pretence, and attracted no attention. Fisk was gorgeous with striped pantaloons, brown velvet coat, a square yard of shirt-bosom, half a rod of gold chain, a diamond as large as a walnut, and a necktie of the latest and loudest swell pattern. Both of them went back to New York.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead or being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.
(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL, respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary setts reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.

By the foregoing statement it appears that our receipts have been larger than last year by the sum of $223,026 79, or about 19 per cent.; and this percentage of increase has not been limited to th s single year, but has been maintained on the average for a long period. Six years ago we congratulated our stockholders on the continued increase of income up to tha' period, which had then become "much larger in fact than in any other year in the history of the road." It then amounted to $812,556-63. This year it will be seen it is twice as much. In other words our business has increased one hundred per cent. in six years; and it is three times as great as it was in 1861. These comparisons hold good substantially after making the necessary deductions for the estimated income of the Rockport and Lawrence branches, included now in our income, but not included six years ago.

It has been our constant endeavor to keep our road and equipment up to the highest standard, so as to keep pace with our increasing business.

During the year we have built in our own shops three first class locomotive engines, (by this we mean, not merely putting together the several parts of an engine purchased of the manufacturers, but the actual construction throughout,) from our own drawing and patterns, and we have rebuilt two engines and made general and large repairs upon twenty-four others, putting on nine sets of steel tyres, and made such repairs upon the reminder as have been needed. Our motive power was never in so good condition as now.

In our car shops we have built five first class passenger cars, four baggage and fifty-eight freight cars, besides a very large amount of work in rebuilding and repairing many others. In addition to the foregoing, we have now in process of construction twelve first class passenger cars, eight in our own shops, and four elsewhere: enough altogether to furnish an ordinary railroad, but made necessary by the pressure of travel, especially in the summer month-.

We have a very large number of men employed, both in our machine shops on new engines and our car shops on new cars; larger proportionally than most railroads. The increase of business has created a constant demand for new rolling-stock, and we think we get more thorough workmanship at moderate cost in this way than we should be likely to obtain by purchase.

We have laid down during the year 2000 tons of rails, including 140 tons of steel, besides welded rails; also, 48,000 sleepers. We have now on hand and paid for, some 300 tons of new rails, ready for use in the spring, besides about 1100 tons of old rails, a part of which will do to weld. In addition to ordinary track work, a special gravel train has been employed throughout the season, at a cost for labor alone to man and run, of $33,189. 39, to which is to be added the cost and use of the train itself; and this expenditure has been almost wholly for new work, building new side tracks, filling bridges, grading depot lands, and other improvements.

We have completed the filling with solid embankment of three bridges on the Saugus Branch, spoken of in our last report, and have also excavated a new channel for the river, made necessary by filling two of the bridges through which the old channel formed an ox-bow.

We have completed the new passenger house at Chelsea, which gives great satisfaction. At Caryville we have established a new depot for the accommodation of that growing neighborhood, and at Chelsea Beach we have also made preparations for a station for summer travel. A new freight house has been built at Lynn, and also an extension shed or awning for protection of passengers on the platform; and the water fixtures at the easterly end of the depot have been removed more easterly, so as to take the train more out of Exchange street in taking water for the engines.

Additional lands for station and other purposes have been purchased at Swampscott, Marblehead, Salem, Manchester, Hamilton, Newburyport, Salisbury, Amesbury, Hampton Falls, Portsmouth, and perhaps at some other places, at a cost of $30,227. 71. New freight houses have been built at Peabody and at Hampton Falls. An addition has been made to passenger house at Rockport. At East Boston we have entirely rebuilt the smaller wharf and built a new coal shed of large capacity upon it, at a cost of $25,495 22.

The subject of obtaining enlarged terminal facilities in the city of Boston has been forced upon our consideration, with an urgency constantly increasing with the rapid development of our business. Our passenger house, constructed only six or seven years ago, and since enlarged to utmost limit our space allows, occupying indeed every square inch of ground we can make available, is already too small; and should our travel increase in the next half a dozen years, as in the last, will be quite insufficient. For freight we have indeed ample accommodations at East Boston; but the ferry intervenes, and shuts us off practically from a very large share of that business which naturally would seek our line.

We have no freight grounds in the city proper as is known; and it has become of vital importance to the continued prosperity of that department of our business that a suitable area should be obtained if it can be had at a reasonable proportionate cost. Several plans for providing for this want have received our attention—one of extending our location to Haymarket square, and occupying the space between Canal and Friend streets; another of a line from Chelsea through Charlestown, coming into the city easterly of the Fitchburg and the Boston & Maine Railroads, and thereby avoiding the dangerous crossings of both of those roads, and saving a mile and a half in distance. Both of these projects had occupied the attention of our predecessors in the earlier history of the road, and each at different times has received to a certain extent legislative sanction.

The legislature at its last session passed an act, a copy of which is hereto appended, entitled "An act to authorize the Boston & Lowell Railroad Corporation and the Eastern Railroad Company to increase their terminal facilities in the city of Boston, and for other purposes." Under this act we can do nothing, indeed, except with the concurrence of the B. & L. Railroad Co.; but we can do nothing without their concurrence, we can obtain (not indeed what will ultimately be necessary in the expansion of business, but for the present) a sufficient amount of territory for the convenient enlargement of our passenger accommodations—then that becomes imperative, and also for the accommodation of a portion of our freight within the city proper. The additional capital necessary to carry out the plan on our part contemplated by the act and complete the requisite structures will probably be not less than $1,000,000.

From the best consideration we have been able to give the subject in all its bearings, we have come to the conclusion that it is not best to let the opportunity, such as it is, escape us, and that it is expedient, and we accordingly recommend, that you give the directors authority to enter into such arrangements and contracts with the B. & L. Railroad Co., and take such other measures and do such acts, as they may deem necessary or expedient, to secure additional terminal facilities in the city of Boston.

In making this recommendation, we do not forget to notice the 8th and 9th section of said act, sections which were interpolated into it at a late period, and which impose upon us very heavy and unreasonable burdens in the reconstruction of our draw-bridges. It is only about sixteen years since the draws in our Boston bridge were constructed, and they were constructed in exact conformity with the requirements at that time of the legislature itself, and under the direction of a commissioner appointed by its authority. Now we are required, by these sections, to reconstruct them on a different and much larger and more expensive scale, at a cost to us probably of not less than $50,000; and this without any equivalent or compensation whatever.

The long pending claim of the P., S. & P. Railroad Co., for the payment of its rent in coin under the contract of April 1st, 1847, has been compromised by an agreement of the B. & M. Railroad and our corporation to pay $90,000 each, in currency, in full of all arrearages up to June last, and all payments thereafter wards in coin. Accordingly we furnished $22,500 in coin, for the payment of the June dividend, and we have provided a like sum for that of December. These sums, and others that we may be called upon to advance under that contract, we look upon in the nature of a temporary loan to be reimbursed to us out of the earnings of that corporation.

In 1868 the legislature of the State of Maine authorized an addition of $500,000 to the capital stock of the P., S. & P. Railroad Co., and the stockholders of that corporation have accepted the act and authorized the stock to be issued whenever the consent of the Eastern & Boston & Maine railroads should be obtained. The latter corporation have given their consent, and we recommend our stockholders to concur.

A controversy has long existed between us and the B. & M. Railroad, in relation to the division of earnings from freight to and from the P., S. & P. Railroad, under the contract of April 1st, 1847, much the larger part, fully two-thirds of the freight, passing over the B. & M. road, by reason of their location in the city proper. To terminate that controversy a reference was agreed upon, and an award has been made. Although this award by no means gives us as much as we think it ought, and although it calls for the opening and re-adjusting of accounts and settlements of fifteen and twenty years' standing, a part of which accounts were long ago lost by the accident of fire, and which settlements nobody so far as we know had ever complained of, or desired to have opened; yet, it does, nevertheless, give to us for the future a valuable share of the profits of that business beyond what has been conceded.

The citizens of Wolfeborough have obtained a charter for a railroad to connect that thriving town and the Lake Winnipiseogee with our Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway Railroad, and have also voted to contribute five per cent. of the valuation of the town, amounting to some $35,000, as an outright gift in aid of the construction of the road. Such a connection bringing new business over the whole length of our line of road from Boston to Union, ninety-two miles, would unquestionably be of great benefit to us, and we recommend that authority be given to the directors to adopt such measures to encourage and cause its construction as they may find expedient.

During the year we have, under authority of stockholders heretofore given, issued bonds to the amount of $788,000, and stock to the amount of $149,500, the proceeds of which have been applied to the reduction of the floating debt and $75,000 of bond debt, and for new work and improvements—besides $5000 of stock issued in place of $5000 of convertible bonds that have been cancelled.

FALL RIVER LINE

FOR New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and all principal points West, South and South-west.

VIA TAUNTON RAILROAD RIVER AND NEWPORT.

Cabin, $5.00; Deck, $4.00.

Baggage checked through and transferred in New York free of charge.

New York trains leave the Old Colony and Newport Railway Depot, corner of South and Kneeland Streets, daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows: at 4.30 P. M., arriving in Fall River 40 min. in advance of the regular Steamboat Train, which leaves Boston at 5.30 P. M., connecting at Fall River with the new and magnificent steamers PROVIDENCE, Capt. B. M. Simmons, and BRISTOL, Capt. W. H. Lewis. These steamers are the fastest and most reliable boats on the Sound, built expressly for speed, safety and comfort. This Line connects with all the Southern Boats and Railroad Lines from New York going West and South, and convenient to the California Steamers.

"To Shippers of Freight," this Line, with its new and extensive depot accommodations in Boston, and large pier in New York, (exclusively for the business of the Line,) is supplied with facilities for freight and passenger business which cannot be surpassed. Freight always taken at low rates, and forwarded with despatch.

New York Express Freight Train leaves Boston at 1.30 P. M.; goods arrive in New York next morning about 9 A. M. Freight leaving New York reaches Boston on the following day, at 9.45 A. M.

For tickets, berths and staterooms, apply at the Company's office at No. 3 Old State House, corner of Washington and State Streets, and at old Colony and Newport Railroad Depot, corner of South and Kneeland Streets, Boston.

Steamers leave New York daily, (Sundays excepted,) from Pier 30 North River, foot of Chambers Street, at 4 P. M.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.

CATAWBA, PORT, GRAPE and P. J. Sherry.

The above Wines are made by Mr. Speer, whose reputation as a wine grower stands pre-eminent. They are well established, and long known by the Medical Profession as the most reliable and valuable wines to be had.

Every family at this season should use

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE,

celebrated in Spain and Portugal for its beneficial qualities, highly esteemed by eminent physicians, used in European and American Hospitals and by the first families in Europe and America.

Excellent for weak and debilitated persons, the aged and infirm, improving the appetite and benefitting the ladies and children.

AS A DIURETIC it imparts a healthy action to the Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, very beneficial in Dropsy, Gout and Rheumatic affections. Also,

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE is pure juice of the Oporto Grape, recommended by Physicians as possessing medical properties superior to California or Imported Wines.

The Chronicle.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.

The weather here is very mild, and thus far it has seemed to me to be just no winter at all. Occasionally the snow flakes fall thick and fast, but only for a short time, and soon dissolving. About once in a fortnight or so, there is a fall of rain, enough to keep the streets in a miry condition; the soil being composed largely of clay is very retentive of moisture, and I am continually reminded of the roads in your section at the time of the coming out of the frost in the spring of the year. Horses and mules have the worst of it, and to see the poor brutes tugging through the mud with heavy loads, and not unfrequently belabored by their merciless drivers with cudgel-like whips, is exceedingly painful to persons possessed of ordinary sensibility. The street crossings are covered more or less with mud, rendering pedestrianism risky and uncertain. No measures are taken, so far as I know, to keep these crossings in cleanly condition, but you are left to pick your way along as best you can.

Doubtless you are posted with regard to the initiatory which has been taken by certain men of wealth, character and influence in getting up a Worlds' Fair in Washington, to come off in 1871, or as soon thereafter as may be. Yesterday a committee—(T. L. Tullock, a well-known son of old Portsmouth, almost everywhere known for his liberality, ability and industry, being a member of said committee,) had an interview in the Capitol with several Senators, with a view to seeure the passage of a bill granting a charter for holding said exhibition, which, it is believed reached favorably for the undertaking.

The bill for the admission of Virginia, which lately passed the House, is being debated in the Senate, every day. The Republican papers hereabout, it would seem, are in favor of her immediate admission. Senator Sumner opposes the bill at all times, "without equivocation or mental reservation," and for so doing is savagely assailed by the rebel element in Congress. I judge from reading the debates on the subject, that he justifies his action on the ground that he firmly believes the late election in that State was a great fraud—that the people were cheated, &c. If what he says about it be true, he should be, and it is presumed he will be, upheld by a majority of the Republican party throughout the country—the action of the House in the premises "to the contrary notwithstanding." Let the "Old Dominion" first perform "works meet for repentance" before receiving her with open arms into the Union she once sought to destroy. God knows there is need of a show to that effect on her part.

Mr. H. S. Vanderbilt, formerly a clerk in the Navy Agency at Portsmouth, an adopted son of that beloved and venerable town, is now at the head of the appointment Bureau in the Treasury Dept., and somehow manages—though his temper must be severely tried at times, owing to the peculiar character of the many duties devolving upon him—to retain the engaging manners and gentlemanly deportment which always distinguished him.

"Old Portsmouth" may well be proud of her worthy sons who are largely scattered all through this broad land, and she yet retains, to my certain knowledge, not a few more of the same sort.

—In New Sharon, Maine, Saturday last, John Fletcher, a constable, with a posse, attempted the arrest of Ezekiel Tolman for debt, when an affray occured between the posse and a number of persons aiding Tolman in resisting. Several were wounded on both sides in the affray. John S. Tolman, brother of Ezekiel, attacked Fletcher with a fire shovel, when Fletcher fired a pistol, the ball taking effect in Tolman's groin, and he died in twenty minutes.

LOCKJAW.—A writer in the Scientific American speaks of the death of John A. Roebling by lockjaw, and says that a small quantity of turpentine warmed and poured on to any such wound as his, will relieve all tendencies to lockjaw at once. He says that nothing better can be applied to a cut or bruise than old turpentine—that it will give relief almost instantly.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility, of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 26, 1870.

A LABOR REFORM PARTY.—The Concord Patriot, in an article headed Labor Reform, has the following remarks:

The true remedy, and the right way to obtain it, are different from what the Labor Movement seems to contemplate. No eight hour law or any special legislation for the benefit of labor will accomplish what is necessary for its relief. Nor will any antagonism or conflict with capital as such, do any good. The difficulties under which labor now suffers, are the same as those under which the capital invested in enterprises in this State suffers in common with labor. Party policy and regard for party success continue, and military rule in the Southern States, which prevents that peace and order which commercial enterprise and success require. A fluctuating and uncertain currency embarrasses and ruins business. Heavy taxes are made still heavier in order to pay gold to holders of Government securities, while the laborer is compelled to receive his wages in a much less valuable currency. And capital invested in Government bonds is entirely exempt from taxation, while labor is oppressed with more than it can bear.

These are the sources of the embarrassments and losses under which not only labor, but also capital and business in this State now suffer. But the burden falls most heavily on labor, because it is the least able to bear it. And there can be no real and permanent relief until a change is made at these sources.

So far as the Labor Movement honestly aims at these results, it has our hearty sympathy and good wishes. They are the same which the Democratic party labors for.

In still plainer English, the Patriot desires that the labor movement should more so as to restore the democratic party to that power in the State and Nation which it lost by bowing down to Slavocracy, Secession, Rebellion and Copperheadism. Taxes are burdens: Yes, indeed, and they are made needful by the cost of the terrible war which was waged against us by rebels and copperheads. The same war made Bonds indispensible — and a vast amount of these bonds are held to-day by laborers directly,—and many more by the Savings Banks where the prudent laborer puts up his savings against a rainy day.

The lazy grumblers and the crafty demagogues make a considerable noise —but the present currency is the safest and best we ever had,—and the industrious and diligent are generally prosperous.

PEABODIAN.—Capt. John J. Almy and Lt. Com. Pearson, U. S. N., from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, passed thro' this city on Monday, en route for Portland, to report to Admiral Farragut for duty at the Peabody obsequies.

Portland had a sensation on Monday. The British flag was seen displayed on the Observatory, and every one thought the Peabody remains had arrived; but it turned out to be the yacht of Mr. Cunard, from New York, that caused the commotion.

SOUTH SEABROOK.—At a Festival at the South Seabrook Church, Jan. 20th, $80 was netted for the Pastor. Appropriate and very acceptable music was furnished by the Mechanic Brass Band of Hampton Falls. The Newburyport Herald says good order was maintained under the supervision of Officers Entwistle and Barsantee of the Portsmouth Police force, and Dept. Sheriff John N. Brown. We are glad to see that good order is to be enforced there, for the sake of citizens and strangers.

$16 towards the meeting house has been received from the mission school connected with the 2nd Congregational Church at Exeter. We learn that a Brass Band of 12 pieces, has been formed in South Seabrook.

☞ Two cars from a freight train on the P. S. & P. R. R., ran off the track near the Kittery shore on Monday night, and hung suspended between the railroad and post bridge. The cattle and merchandise were taken out thro' the end of the cars and landed safely. The cars were then thrown overboard and landed upside down in the Piscataqua river.

☞ The Empire Minstrels of this city, a company whose members are well known about town, are to make their debut here on Friday evening at the Temple, having given concerts elsewhere with success. May they achieve the success they deserve.

☞ Mr. George L. Treadwell, Treasurer of the Public Library Fund, acknowledges the receipt from Boston of a subscription of $50 from Mr. John H. Miller, the first installment of $10 for the year being advanced.

☞ The Operetta of "Leila" will be performed this evening at the M. E. Church, Kittery, under the direction of J. C. Cram.

☞ The U. S. Steam Tug Portfire is to go to Portland, to take part in the funeral obsequies of Geo. Peabody.

Searchings.

Hon. R. S. Heflin, member of Congress from Alabama, was lately found in his room at Washington almost suffocated by gas. When brought to, he "tried to pinch the light out, but found that somebody had stolen the wick.'

The Richmond Whig, apropos of M. Ollivier, who is a teetotaller, says:—"Great as may be the virtue of sobriety, there is always something suspicious in the habit of cold-water drinking. It is often an indication of an ill-balanced constitution, and argues self-distrust on the part of the individual who practises it."

Capt. Alfred Beal of Steamer Eastern Queen, was struck by the walking beam of the engine in Boston harbor, on Tuesday, and instantly killed. He belonged in Gardiner, Me., and was 60 years of age.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, on Monday, Mr. Wilson of Massachusetts introduced a joint resolution granting Mrs. Abraham Lincoln a yearly pension of $2500 during her life, from the date of the assassination of the President. Referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Sherman explained and advocated his bill for a redistribution of the currency and for free banking, and other senators discussed financial policies.

In the House, Mr. Dawes, from the committee on appropriations, reported the executive, judicial and legislative appropriation bill cut down more than two and a half million dollars from the estimates.

The Virginia bill was debated and finally passed by a strict party vote—136 yeas; 57 nays. Before its passage Messrs. Bingham, Butler and Farnsworth fired hot shot at each other. Bingham was bitter on Butler and said "Vulgarity is not wit", after which he relieved himself as follows:—

"A wit is a feather, and a fool is a rod;
An honest man's the noblest work of God.'"— and sat down exhausted.

NAVAL RANK. — A Washington dispatch to the Traveller of Tuesday says that the House Naval Committee had a long session on the subject of the rank of line and staff officers. Secretary Robeson sent to the committee a bill which in many respects similar to one introduced by Mr. Stevens of New Hampshire. It provides for the appointment of a Board of Surveyors by the Secretary of the Navy, to examine and report whether a re-organization of the service is necessary. It gives staff officers assimilated rank, but provides for considerable reduction in the numbers of each grade. The bill is likely to meet the approval of the committee.

Mr. C. P. Ellis, of Claremont, planted last spring three lbs. Early Rose potatoes and harvested therefrom two hundred lbs. He raised 100 bushels ears of corn per acre and 325 bushels potatoes ditto. We call this good farming.

Manchester, as well as the State of New Hampshire, has a Woman Suffrage Association—of which city association a Miss Hunt is President.

Bishop Chase was buried at Claremont on Tuesday. Bishop Neely of Maine will have charge of this Diocese for a few months, until the next Episcopal Convention.

☞ All jokes on Dawes are now ruled out of order by unanimous consent—because his front name isn't John.

☞ The 10.30, A. M., trip of the steamer Emerald to the Navy Yard has been discontinued.

NAVAL.—U. S. S. Benicia sailed from Brooklyn Navy Yard for Portland on Tuesday.

☞ Harper's Monthly for February, is received by E. A. Batchelder.

New Hampshire Items.

We learn from the Rochester Courier that Fred P. Ela, son of Hon. J. H. Ela, of Rochester, passed a successful examination for a Lieutenancy in the Marine Corps, at a recent examination of candidates at Annapolis. Of twelve who were examined, but two passed muster.

The Assessors of Concord found 328 Dogs and 339 Hogs last year. Value (of the Hogs) $5415.

One of a valuable span of grey horses belonging to the city of Concord, and used on the steam fire engine Gov. Hill, died last week after a fortnight's sickness. This we believe is the second horse that city has lost within a couple of years.

O. J. Chase, son of E. P. Chase of Deerfield, met with a painful accident recently in sliding off a mow of hay. The boy struck upon a pitchfork which stood up, was pierced through the arm and hung suspended.

A Mr. Watson, an employee of M. H. Wentworth, at Gonic, had three fingers cut off by a circular saw, one day last week. This makes the sixth person that has had fingers cut off within two years, by the same saw.

Sam Parker died in Upper Bartlett, on the 16th, at the age of forty years. Parker spent nearly all his time in the woods, hunting and collecting spruce gum. The mountains, woods and brooks were as familiar to him as the streets of a city become to a metropolitan. He caught cold in sleeping out one night and was taken down with lung fever. As several persons chanced to be with him at the time, he got to a house, but died soon after. As a hunter he excelled, and as a man he is highly spoken of.

At the G. A. R. Fair at Newmarket, the contest for the silver ice pitcher between the Methodists and Congregationalists resulted in favor of the Methodists by a small majority. The receipts for the whole fair were about $500; expenses $100. The pitcher, worth $16, was won by Elder Call, he receiving 347 votes to 318 for Elder White.

Daniel Perkins of Newmarket recently died at the age of 92 years. He was a descendant of William Perkins, who was the oldest man that ever lived in New Hampshire, and probably in all New England,—dying at the advanced age of 116 years.

Mr. David Brackett, a Newmarket man, was probably the largest man that ever lived in New Hampshire. His weight was upwards 600 pounds.

A petition is published relative to the division of the town of Durham,—a part to be annexed to Newmarket.

Two men named Nason were arrested at the Mt. Washington Railroad depot on Monday night, charged with stealing a horse and sleigh from Biddeford, Me., some months ago.

Charles Quimby, who lives in Concord, left his pants by his bed on retiring. On awaking the next morning he found the pants near the window and $15 gone from his pockets.

☞ Mr. Henry C. Barnabee is making a successful professional tour thro' Maine. Good luck and crowded houses to ye!

Holloway's Pills.—TORPIDITY OF THE LIVER. There must be a proper and regular supply of bile to temper the blood and duly evacuate the bowels, or the body cannot be healthy. Of all evacuants and antibilious medicines in existence HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the most effective and unfailing. Yet so gentle is their action that it does not in the slightest degree enfeeble the system. On the contrary, by relieving it of obstructions and impurities, the Pills tend to restore its elasticity and vigor. Sold by all Druggists.

Health's Best Defence.

"The weak call their herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is man recommended to swallow calomel, or blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

It was reserved for a later age to unite the sanitary essences of tonic, aperient and antibilious roots, barks and plants, with an active stimulant, and thus secure their rapid diffusion through the debilitated or disordered system. The crowning triumph of this effective mode of concentrating and applying the virtues of medicinal vegetables was achieved in the production of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Never before had a perfectly pure alcholic stimulant been combined with the expressed juices of the finest specifics of the vegetable kingdom. Never, yet, though eighteen years have elapsed since its introduction, has this great restorative been equalled. It is taken at all seasons, in all climes, as the most potent safeguard against epidemics, as a protection against all unhealthy exhalations that produce debility or beget disease; as a remedy for intermittent and other malarious fevers; as an appetizer; as a sovereign cure for dyspepsia; as a general tonic and invigorant; as a gentle, painless aperient; as a blood depurent; as a nervine; as a cure for bilious affections; as a harmless anodyne; and as the BEST DEFENCE OF HEALTH under unfavorable circumstances, such as sedentary pursuits, undue bodily or mental exertion, hardship, privation and exposure.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

Two scientific publications are in the field against the hair dyes of which lead is the basis, The "New York Medical Gazette" and "The Journal of Chemistry" bitterly denounce them. Yet the hair may be safely dyed. Have you seen

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy; and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some saying it was valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever had known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as harmless as the Sugar as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among proprietary preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

PORTSMOUTH AHEAD.—Editors Chronicle:—In your issue (Monday) you copy an extract from the N. Y. Tribune, giving Gen. Wm. Sutton of Peabody, the credit of being the first who furnished aid to the citizens of Portland after their great fire. You also state that "if you recollect aright," such was not the case.

The writer of this was an officer of the City Government of Portsmouth at that time, and conveyed the news of the raging of the fire to Mayor Bailey, who at once tendered and had a steam fire Engine sent to the depot, ready for the use of Portland when they should telegraph therefor, and also wished the writer to obtain as much ready catables as could be obtained, before the first train left—which instructions were obeyed, and a car loaded with bread, meat, &c.

Mr. Bailey and myself left on the early train, and taking a carriage at the depot in Portland, proceeded directly to the residence of Mayor Stevens, where in behalf of the citizens of Portsmouth, Mr. Bailey presented to Mr. Stevens for the sufferers, the sum of $1000, and informed him of the contents of the car of meat, &c.—A committee of the city government of Newburyport immediately after had a conference with Mayor Stevens, and it was announced that Portsmouth was the first and Newburyport second to offer their sympathy and substantial aid to the sufferers.

Gen. Sutton is well known to me as a very liberal and benevolent man, and no doubt was very prompt on the occasion referred to;—but being more remote from Portland than we are, the evidence of his kindness could not reach Portland so quick as did that from PORTSMOUTH.

THE COLD FRIDAY OF 1810.—Some of the papers are reminding their readers of that day, of intense cold, preceded by very mild weather. In fact, the middle of January, 1810, like the same period in 1870, was unseasonably warm; and the 18th day, Thursday, was extremely warm and sunny. Walking, early in the afternoon, on the Road from Christian Shore to Gravelly Ridge, —to avoid the mud we walked on the grass, which was green by the roadside, and also wet and slippery, so that one of a small party slipped down and muddied an outer garment. By the time we reached our destination, however, the wind, which had been southerly, hauled to the N. W. and began to be chilly; and the mud began to freeze. Colder and colder it grew as the sun went down, and harder and harder the wind blew from almost North, through the night, and through the day on the 19th. The cold continued intense thro' Saturday; and the following Sunday, though not so severe, was yet a very cold day, and would have been recorded, only that it was outdone by Friday and Saturday.—There was much suffering in consequence, both to men, and to beast and birds, wild and tame. U. T.

☞ An ugly bull slut belonging to Mr. James Jameson, was shot and killed by Marshal Johnson on Tuesday, with a couple of balls from his revolver. The vicious brute bit a little son of Mr. John Buckley, eight years old, very badly, Monday—having thrown the little fellow down on the sidewalk, and was chewing his leg so that blood ran out on the pavement, when a Mr. Coleman, we hear, a painter, picked up a stone in the street, and succeeded in rescuing the child. The sooner the Marshal receives order to enforce the Dog License law, the better; and the tax on female dogs ought to be $10 instead of $2. A good dog is worth paying tax and license for—but a large majority of the curs in the city are worth more under ground than above it.

☞ A slight fire in the carriage factory of Mr. Charles W. Smith, on Fleet Street, while he was at dinner on Tuesday, was extinguished by the prompt and skillful exertions of Messrs. Samuel S. and Horace S. Frye, who coming from their store near, stove in the door with an axe, and by dipping the water and slosh from the street in buckets, and dashing it on the fire, put it out. The flames burnt through the plastering and boarding as it was, and but for this speedy remedy, the building must have gone. The fire began in the chips on the floor near a work bench. The fire broke out again an hour or two later, and it was reported, this time in some cotton waste on the floor. It was speedily extinguished.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—Two young men, by the names of Lewis Nelson and Bertram Trafton, fell in the South Mill Pond, on Monday, and were nearly downed. Trafton broke in, and Nelson in endeavoring to rescue him, fell in also, and both struggled for some time, when finally they were rescued, with little loss, but a good wetting.

A GOOD ONE.—A Dover correspondent of the Boston Herald says:—

"The new railroad between this city and Portsmouth, which would open up a new channel of traffic, and prevent the monopolies of existing corporations, does not receive much attention now, but it is confidently rumored that two capitalists of Portsmouth planted the acorns last fall to raise railroad ties for the new line."

THE NEW BARQUE NEPTUNE, now lying at Railroad Wharf at the North End, built for E. Atkins & Co. of Boston, is one of the finest specimens of work on the Piscataqua river, and well sustains the reputation of her builders, Messrs. Tobey & Littlefield. She is intended for the Cuba trade, is of about 500 tons capacity, and has first-class appointments; her gentlemanly commander, Capt. P. M. Beal, is successful in superintending the outfit of a vessel. The Neptune has two elegant cabins, with plenty of room, and good ventilation. The joiner work has been done by Mr. Thomas Martin; the after cabin is veneered by Mr. Alfred T. Joy; and the painting has been done by Mr. Edward D. Coffin.

☞ One of the deserters from the steam launch of the U. S. S. Benicia has been arrested. Mate John Swanson, who had charge of the launch, informs us that the men refused to obey orders and cut the wheel rope. He was knocked down by one of the men who clambered aboard a passing vessel. With two landsmen left, Mr. Swanson succeeeded in drawing the fires, the steam gauge registering 73 pounds, there being but little water in the boiler.

☞ In the Police Court, Monday, Henry Palmer, drunk on Sunday, was fined $3, and $6.76 costs, which he paid.

☞ No sleighing yet. The snow of Monday night turned to slosh and mud on Tuesday.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office. No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the 'Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation, and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

TELL ME!

How to put the question,
Teach me, humming-bird—
You who win all sweetness
And never say a word!

How shall I come near her?
Teach me, wind of May—
You who toy with apple-blooms
Nor brush the down away!

Shall I sing or say it?
Or do eyes tell best?
Nay, it is already
A secret half confessed.

How to win the answer—
For I am sure she knows—
Tell me, dew and sunshine,
How you ope a rose!

Harper's Magazine for February.

☞ The following love song was written by an inmate of the Lunatic Asylum at Utica, New York:

Gally the tiger cat tuned his guitar,
Serenading the magpie with feathers and tar;
Sweetly he sneezed at her, sourly he sighed,
'Lady-bird, lady-bird, will be my bride?"
She for the elephant sadly had pined,
Ate but an ox, and then vowed she hadn't dined:
Carried up a photograph close to her heart,
Wrapped up in lobsters, bank-notes and plum
At midnight the rivals met in the whale, [tart.
And fought by the light of the grasshopper's tail;
The elephant stood on his trunk to take breath,
And the tiger cat coolly hugged him to death.
Then with a cabbage-stalk boldly he wrote,
"Come, love, and tread on the tail of my coat;
See thy own crocodile a whistling for thee."
He groaned—gave a gurgle—a cold corpse was he.

New Publications Received.

The Mormon Tribune is a new paper from Salt Lake City,—and professes to be the Organ of the Liberal Cause in Utah; devoted to Mental Liberty, Social Development, and Spiritual Progress.

Annual Report of the Treasurer of the United States.—From the Treasurer.

The American Journal of the Medical Sciences, for January.—This is a noble Quarterly of near 300 pages, ably edited by Isaac Hays, M. D. assisted by I. Minis Hays, M. D. and published by Henry C. Lea, Philadelphia. $5 a year.

Arthur's Home Magazine for February.—The continued series of Articles on "The Marvels of the Insect World" will interest every reader, and none who read the opening of Miss Townsend's new story, "Jacqueline," will need to be invited to a perusal of more chapters. The excellent stories, and many entertaining, instructive, and useful articles in the "Home," give it an interest and value peculiar to itself. Published by T. S. Arthur & Sons, Philadelphia, $2.00 a year. Sold by News Dealers, 20 cents a number.

The Children's Home, and Once a Month, — for February, are just received from the same publishers.—All the three works are of excellent tendency.

The Phrenological Journal.—Get the February number, which contains biographical and critical sketches of Geo. Washington, Confucius the Chinese sage, "Father" Hyacinthe, Edwin M. Stanton, — and ever so many good things besides. New York: published by Samuel Wells.

Blackwood's Magazine for February closes with an article on Lord Byron and his Calumniators—especially Mrs. Stowe.

The Missionary Herald for February, has a good engraving of Fort Snelling, with an interesting account of a Dacotah Indian Church.

New Hampshire Items.

The pastoral relation between Rev. Mr. Tomlinson and the Congregational Church in Chester, was regularly dissolved. Mr. T. goes to Simsbury, Conn. Five churches in that immediate vicinity are now destitute of pastors. Derry, 1st and 2nd, Hampstead, Raymond, and Chester.

Gen. John Bedel, of Bath, is in the field as usual with his annual proclamation of a panacea for all the ills that flesh is heir to, a grand remedy for the evils of taxation, the injustice of justice, the unconstitutionality of Congress, the peccadilloes of office-holders, and the general corruption of mankind. His nostrum for all the diseases of the body politic is Democratic Ascendency, with the signature of J. Bedel on the wrapper.

The American Sponge Co. manufactory in Lebanon, is doing a thriving business, the works being run at their utmost capacity all the time. During the first year of their operations a considerable portion of the manufactured goods had some imperfections and had to be worked over, the whole enterprise being an experiment. The difficulties, however, have been overcome.

In West Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Boswell celebrated their golden wedding. Mr. B. is aged seventy-nine and Mrs. B. seventy-three. About two hundred persons were present, including five brothers and two sisters of the married couple, all aged over seventy. Dancing finished the evening. Dinner party took place in the early part of the day.

Dr. Merrow, who was an Assistant Surgeon in the New Hampshire Second Regiment, and afterwards Surgeon and Division Medical Director, died recently at West Newfield, Me. He graduated from the Medical school at Dartmouth in 1859.

Gov. Stearns and wife left Concord Monday morning, for Washington, to be absent about ten days. He has been invited by President Grant to be his guest while in Washington. Gov. Stearns is in better health than he was a month ago, and it is to be hoped that he will return from his trip still further improved in health.

The Concord Railroad Corporation erected the past year at Concord one of the largest and most convenient paint shops to be found in the country; indeed we have never seen or heard of so good a one. The cost of the building was about $10,000.

The house of James Eaton, of Canaan, was entered recently, during the absence of the family, but was not robbed of much, except cider. The intruder was seen and chased, and settled matters by paying a dollar to each of the half-dozen persons who pursued him.

H. C. L. Dorsey, of Pawtucket, R. I., has sent Warden Mayo a check for $60, to be expended in a turkey dinner for the inmates of the State Prison. The feast will take place on the 31st inst.

Sledding is miserable in Enfield, yet good hard wood is selling for $5 a cord.

One of the most ingenious machines is a Horse Clipping Machine owned by Smith & Sanborn, and operated by them in one of the buildings on the Concord Fair Grounds. It works with great precision, cutting the hair evenly and rapidly. It only requires about three hours to shear a horse, and the work is done better than it possibly can be by hand. We understand the same kind of machine is used to shear sheep, with like success. They are manufactured at Nashua.

TENNESSEE RELAPSING INTO BARBARISM.—The Conservative Legislature of Tennessee has enacted a law ordaining that all laboring men failing to make contracts in or before January, shall be sold for a year's service to the highest bidder!

Should this bill receive the Governor's sanction or pass over his veto, and thus become a law of the State, there would be but one course for the National Government to pursue. That would be to treat the Tennessee State Government as a rebellious organization and to substitute martial law.

For many years we have looked with a bleeding heart upon the cruelties perpetrated upon the laboring men of the South. We saw many of them conscripted, hunted down, and dragged off in chains to fight against their Government—to fight for slavery and for the lords of the land who were exempted from the war. We saw others toiling in hopeless servitude until the dawning of Freedom's day. Since the war we have seen the rights of the laboring classes established, to a great extent, throughout the South by a radical reconstruction.

Now it seems that the laborer is to be remanded to partial slavery by a counter revolution designed to defeat the great ends of the Congressional plan of restoration. We have always charged that the so-called Conservative movements in the South were inspired by an implacable hatred to the rights of man. Now we have the proof. A sage Legislature deliberately enacts that the laboring man (black or white) must hire himself on the first of the year or be sold into temporary slavery!

"Out, damned spot!" If this enormity is ever consummated, we hope that Tennessee will be hurled into the abyss of military rule. Talk about "civil law" when the laboring man is thus insulted and outraged!

Give us chains, bastiles, and dungeons—give us pestilence, famine and war, before such accursed and Heaven-defying laws as this one contemplated in Tennessee.—Jefferson (Texas) Radical.

THE WRONG WOMAN.—Two gentlemen of New Orleans, engaged in the prosecution of the great railroad line through Texas, unable to visit their families as frequently as they could desire, and being very dear friends, have occasionally had their wives visit them together at such places as would be most convenient for the ladies to come to. Recently the gentlemen advised their better halves that they would be at Brashear city on a certain night, and would be very glad if they would join them there. The good ladies, as in duty bound, set out accordingly, and arrived at their destination about 12 o'clock at night. Their husbands had already retired, and, occupying adjoining rooms, left instructions for their wives to be shown to their respective apartments. But as usual with waiters, a mistake was made. Each man got his neighbor's wife. The contretemps was first discovered by Mr. G——, who, kissing his companion fondly, and lavishing caresses upon her, said:

"Oh, my dear, you have no idea how glad I am to see you."

"And I you, too, dear Willie."

"Dear Willie! What the deuce do you mean?" responded the astonished Benedict, the green-eyed monster awakening in him jealously.

"Why, ain't that your name?" replied the loving lady, with a passionate kiss.

"No; you always call me George."

"No, indeed; Mrs. G—— calls her husband that."

This was a poser. The husband quietly got up and struck a light, scrutinized his companion critically, and then lifting up his voice, cried out:

"Willie, I reckon you had better send that woman in here, and you take this one!"

It is needless to say it was done.

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE

CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR

LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and as a universal cure or Laxative, it operates at the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome paper bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the finest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 or ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Merschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by responsible jobbers almost everywhere.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.

CATAWBA, PORT, GRAPE and P. J. Sherry.

The above Wines are made by Mr. Speer, whose reputation as a wine grower stands pre-eminent. They are well established, and long known by the Medical Profession as the most reliable and valuable wines to be had.

Every family at this season should use

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE,

celebrated in Spain and Portugal for its beneficial qualities, highly esteemed by eminent physicians, used in European and American Hospitals and by the first families in Europe and America.

Excellent for weak and debilitated persons, the aged and infirm, improving the appetite and benefitting the ladies and children.

AS A DIURETIC

it imparts a healthy action to the Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, very beneficial in Dropsy, Gout and Rheumatic affections. 4eo.

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE

is pure juice of the Oporto Grape, recommended by Physicians as possessing medical properties superior to Clarets or Imported Wines.

ALICE.

Selected For the Chronicle and Gazette.

Give her to Jesus. 'Tis thy lovely one,
Thy cherished child, thy beautiful, thy own,
He asks of thee.
"Suffer the little one to me to come,
Forbid her not." And then he called her home,
How tenderly.

Give her to Jesus. 'Tis a gift most rare
He asks of thee; a child so loved, so fair,
Though eyes grow dim,
And though the sunbeam from thy hearth has flown,
The bud of promise plucked, the nestling gone,
Give her to Him.

Give her to Jesus, with a holy prayer
The sweet lips close, smooth back the glossy hair,
Deck her in flowers,
Then lay your darling on the Saviour's breast,
His arms enfold her, She will wake from rest,
In Eden's bowers.

Give her to Jesus, Let not faith grow dim,
Nor fear to trust thy precious one with Him
Who loved her best.
Sheltered from every storm, redeemed from woe,
When through green pastures lile's still waters flow,
She has found rest.

Give her to Jesus, He will guard thy gem,
Safe as a bright star, in his diadem,
Till thou shalt come.
And then thy angel child shall spring once more
To meet and clasp thee, singing as of yore,
Of rest and home.

January 26, 1870.

KITTERY, having been settled in 1623, and incorporated in 1647, is probably the oldest town in Maine. It was divided and Berwick incorporated in 1713. In 1810, Eliot was set off from the town and incorporated. Birth-place of Sir William Pepperell. Valuation in 1860—Polls, 582; Estates, $363,327.

The following is a copy of the inscription on the stone standing over the grave of Rev. John Newmarch, who was the earliest settled minister in York County, and lies buried in Kittery.

"Rev. John Newmarch, the first pastor of the first Congregational Church in Kittery, died Jan. 15, 1754, aged 81 years. He graduated at Harvard 1690, commenced his ministry in Kittery as early as April 1795; was ordained pastor of the church, Nov. 4, 1714, and continued his pastorate until 1751."

THE PEABODY OBSEQUIES.—The Portland Sunday Advertiser says:

"When the great calamity of 1866 fell upon Portland, and hundreds were made penniless, and thousands homeless, not a cent of contribution to their necessities came from the overflowing coffers of Mr. Peabody, to impart life to the dead ashes of this city. Now, our first impression is, that the whole pageantry that has been got up by the public authorities of Maine, and of Portland in particular, in honor of Mr. George Peabody, through his mortal remains, are mere speculative popcock, and all the people know it is so."

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald of Danbury are a somewhat remarkable couple. They are 74 years of age, and have lived forty-five years upon the farm which they now carry on. During this long period both have labored diligently with their hands. Mrs. A. has made from wool and flax from 40 to 60 yards of cloth a year, from 70 to 100 cheeses and about 500 pounds of butter. For eighteen years they have had neither servant girl nor doctor. Mr. Archibald has always done, and still continues to do a full man's work daily, upon his farm, and during the last season he accompanied with scythe and hoe the men to whom he paid from $2 to $3 per day.

TO CURE EAR-ACHE.—This disorder may be almost immediately relieved, unless proceeding from tumors in the head, by the following treatment: Wash out the ear with soap-suds and a syringe, holding the ear down so the water will run out. When the inner surface of the ear is dry, drop into it three drops of a mixture composed of two parts sweet oil and one of chloroform; then tie up the head in a warm flannel.

—S. P. McKenney, of Biddeford, lost ten valuable Southdown sheep, Friday night. They were kept in an enclosure, in his garden, and during the night were attacked by a dog, with such havoc, that eight were killed, and the remaining two were so mangled that Mr. McKenney was compelled to kill them. As the number comprised his whole flock, it was quite a serious loss.

—Market Square, in Salisbury Mills, has been decorated by a substantial granite fountain, from the center of which rises an iron pillar, and upon this is placed a very handsome lantern, in octagon form. The whole cost of the work was about $500, raised by subscription among the citizens.

—William Hill, of No. Berwick, the well known wool manufacturer, has recently built a new barn appertaining to his residence, 50x100 ft., which cost near $10,000, and is probably the best barn in the county.

—They have a Woman's Suffrage Association at Manchester, with a Miss Hunt for President.

THURSDAY, JAN. 27, 1870.

AN ENCOUNTER WITH PIRATES.—On the 22d of January the North German barque Apenrade arrived at New York from Whampoa, China, after a voyage of 106 days. The crew tell a thrilling tale of an encounter with pirates in the Canton river. In December, 1868, the Apenrade left Hamburg for Singapore, Siam, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Formosa and Tam-Sui. When laden with 570 tons of tea she sailed for New York, on the 21st of September last. On the 24th the vessel arrived within sight of Macao, and, as there were head winds and calms alternating, anchor was dropped in the outer roads off the latter port. The pilot was discharged close to Patol Island, and sail was subsequently made.

At twilight the river swarmed with Chinese junks bound in from the sea. As this was no unfrequent occurrence, the circumstance was not noticed. Suddenly there was a dead calm, and the vessel commenced drifting toward the shore. All sails were set, but to no effect, and as the captain was about again to anchor, a large junk ran across the Apenrade's stern. Suddenly she tacked and approached within two lengths of the vessel, and bringing her broadside to the Apenrade she opened fire. Six guns poured in grape and canister, which tore away the bulwarks and boats, smashing the upper works and scattering the splinters in every direction. Instantly the pirate was laid alongside the barque, whose crew were ready to receive the thieves, half a hundred of whom sprang from their concealment, and with revolvers in hand boarded the barque. The captain was shot in the breast, but after slightly recovering he was persuaded to ascend to the mizzentop. The crew being overpowered fled to the main and fore chains, where they were discovered and guarded by the pirates. One seaman was killed, and the mate received a terrible wound on the top of his head.

After making enquiries for money and opium, the savages rushed into the cabin and stripped it of charts, quadrants, glasses, barometers, and $28. Then they broke open the cargo, and with wonderful coolness commenced to pass half-chests of tea into their junk. While this was going on they caused the anchor to be dropped, and about 30 fathoms of chain paid out. When about 100 half-chests had been transferred to the junk a cry was raised that a steamer was in sight, which subsequently was ascertained to be a Canton river trader. The pirates then left, after stealing all the boats, and Capt. Davidson, feeling that time was all important, slipped the cable, and the wind fortunately freshening, made for Macao, where he arrived that night. The lower part of the sails and rigging were cut and riddled in a hundred places by the pirate's guns, so that they were useless. The decks were charred by burning stink-pots. All the arms used by the pirates were of the most improved manufacture.

On the arrival of the Apenrade at Macao, the Portuguese authorities despatched the gunboat Camoes in search of the piratical junk, but she returned without finding her. While the Apenrade was en route to America, the China agents of the vessel learned that the pirate was afterwards taken by a Chinese gunboat, commanded by an American named Edwards. It seems that the junk was overhauled in the afternoon, and she was at once ordered to lie to. This not being done, a fight took place, and the pirates fought desperately, but were finally compelled to surrender. Many of them took to the water and attempted to swim to the shore, which was not far distant. It was found that some 18 or 20 of the pirates had been killed; the bodies of seven or eight were found on the junk's deck.

From information received at Macao, whither the prize was towed en route to Canton, there is reason to believe that the junk combined coolly-catching with her other avocations. When encountered by the Chonto, she was bound, according to the prisoners' statement, for the coast of Hainan, the well-known cruising ground of both pirates and kidnappers. Some of the weapons used by the pirates are still with Captain Davidson, one of them being the short sword, of steel, 20 inches long in blade and 1 1-4 inches wide. It is a terrible weapon.—N. Y. Tribune.

CONGRESS.—The Senate on Tuesday was occupied chiefly in a discuision of Senator Sherman's funding bill. Mr. Sumner moved to substitute his own bill. Mr. Morton made a speech against the bill, and criticised the working of the national banking law.

On Wednesday, Gen. Butler replied to Mr. Dawes' speech and introduced a table of figures showing that, deducting the balance on hand from the past year, and reckoning the savings made in the estimates this year, the actual amount called for was fifty-nine millions, eight hundred and ninety-nine thousand dollars less than Mr. Dawes had stated, or nearly eleven millions less than the appropriations of last year, and nearly thirty-one millions less than the estimates by President Johnson, instead of twenty millions greater as ascerted.

There was a serious riot at Jersey City, on Tuesday, caused by an attack on the Erie Railway Company's workmen by those discharged for striking.

Mr. Jonas Blood of Hollis, aged 96 years, fell down stairs on Friday last, receiving fatal injuries.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ A gentleman of this city insists that he heard the report of the Monarch's salute at Portland, on her arrival, Tuesday evening.

☞ On Wednesday, Chas. W. Smith was brought before the Police Court, charged with setting fire to his premises on Fleet Street the previous day, and held in $2,000 to answer to the charge.

☞ The suggestion to turn the Athenaeum into a Public Library is worth thinking of, if it can be done. It has also been talked about, to transfer the Mercantile Library to the same worthy and desirable purpose, when the proper time comes. Portsmouth ought to have a Public Library within a year.

THE PEABODY FUNERAL TRAIN.—A dispatch from Boston, Wednesday, announced that this train consisting of a baggage car, two passenger cars and the mourning car intended to convey the remains of George Peabody from Portland back to Peabody Mass., would arrive here at eight minutes before four o'clock, P. M., drawn by the engine George Peabody. The train arrived here promptly on time, in charge of conductor Elbridge G. Towle. The engine and mourning car were appropriately festooned outside with black and white crape, and the cars were guarded by policemen. We noticed, during their short stop, among the distinguished personages aboard the train, Aldermen Gibson and Talbot, and Councilmen Flanders, Woods, Hoar and S. R. Niles, of Boston; Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, Ex-Gov. Clifford, James M. Beebe, S. S. Dana, Henry L. Williams, Director E. R. R., and others. Superintendent Prescott had the general supervision of the train.

From Portsmouth to Pouland the train was drawn by the engine Piscataqua, of the P. S. & P. R. R., in charge of Conductor Joseph Williams.

is expected to return with the remains of Mr. Peabody on Friday.

We learn by a dispatch from the attentive operator of the Western Union line that the train reached Portland at 6 o'clock. The remains of Mr. Peabody will not be removed from the Monarch until Saturday. It is understood that the remains of the deceased philanthropist will leave Portland City Hall at 12 M. on Tuesday, and the train will leave for Peabody, Mass., via Portsmouth, shortly after. The time of arrival in Portsmouth will be announced in due season.

Crowsticks.

The Congressional Committee of ways and means have voted (4 to 3) to place coal on the free list.

The seats of some of the Virginia congressmen are contested, and one of them has not a clean record of loyalty.

The British iron clad steamer Monarch, bearing the remains of Mr. Geo. Peabody, and her convoy the U. S. Steamer Plymouth, arrived at Portland Tuesday evening. Mr. Peabydy's remains will be landed to-day, Thursday. The Monarch made seven knots under sail during the voyage.

Kossuth is so poor, that he has to live principally on bread and coffee.

A SHARPER'S TRICK.—A neat swindle was perpetrated a few days ago and a law suit is likely to grow out of it. A man went to Lorillard's tobacco establishment and bought fifty dollars' worth of tobacco and cigars, ostensibly for a firm in Yonkers. He said he wanted to make a remittance of fifty dollars to somebody, and as he delivered a hundred-dollar bill, he asked that this fifty dollars might be given him in the form of a check. So they gave it, and the polite gentleman departed. A day or two later, he went to the office of Turner Brothers and wanted to buy seven thousand dollars in gold. They stated what it would cost, and he departed, returning in a short time with Lorillard's check for ten thousand and some odd dollars, the exact amount which the gold would cost. The check was sent to the bank for certification, and was endorsed as all right. The stranger took his gold and departed, and no man knoweth at this day the place of his sojourn.

Nothing came of the matter until a couple of days later, when Mr. Lorillard was notified that his account had been overdrawn. An investigation showed that the check for fifty dollars had been altered, and as it was payable to bearer there is no means of tracing it. There is no reason to believe that the polite individual has gone to Yonkers,—on the contrary he has probably given it the widest possible berth. There is likely to be a law suit between the bank and Messrs. Turner & Co. The latter firm contehns that when the bank certified to the check it assumed the responsibility, while the bank contends that it only certified to the genuineness of the signature and not that the figures on the check were correct. Of course each party will attempt to shirk the responsibility, and it is quite possible that they will spend ten thousand dollars in settling the dispute. The polite stranger is probably reading the daily papers in some obscure retreat and wondering where he will play his little game next.—Cor. Boston Sunday Times.

☞ The New York Tribune has settled its law suit with the redoubtable James Fisk, Jr. It was settled in this way. Fisk's lawyer called one day upon Mr. Greeley and proposed to withdraw the suit for damages which Mr. Fisk began against the Tribune last year, when that paper published an account of Prince Erie's supposed escapade with the funds of the Erie Railway. The proposition was that Fisk would pay all the expenses of the suit thus far. Mr. Greeley thought that was fair enough and referred the lawyer to the gentleman who acts as counsel for the Tribune. The whole thing has been settled, and there is a rumor that Fisk will very soon withdraw his suits against the New York Times and the Springfield Republican. He is evidently getting weary of the law business and desires to get out of it. It is not true that he is about to enter a monastery. The quiet career of a monk is not at all suited to his tastes.

☞ A horrible murder was recently committed in the little Prussian town of Schrimm. A country girl, living not far from that place, had received her inheritance of 300 thalers from the authorities there. On her return home she spent the night in a village; having no acquaintance there, she took refuge at the house of the village justice, to whom, in virtue of his position, she gave her whole confidence, and informed him of the object of her journey. He was ready to take her in, and advised her to go to bed with his wife. When all lay in a deep sleep, the covetous host got up, went into the garden and dug a hole there. He then took a sharp knife, went up to the bed where the two were asleep, and with a steady hand cut the throat of the person lying furthest from the wall, took up his victim and buried her in the garden. When he came back he found the bed empty. He had murdered his own wife instead of the stranger. The wife lay close to the wall during the evening, but had afterwards moved to the outer side of the bed. The girl had got out of bed after the murder, and hastened away with her money.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.—The annual meeting of the Department in New Hampshire of the G. A. R. was held at Memorial Hall, Manchester, Monday evening. Delegates were present from all parts of the State. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year; James E. Larkin, Grand Commander; P. H. Bixbee, Senior Grand Commander; Charles E. Long, Junior Grand Commander; William T. Chase, Grand Chaplian; William H. Trickey, Solon Carpenter, T. W. Challis, F. P. Flynn, E. A. Leslie, Council of Administration.

D. J. Vaughan, J. A. Sanborn, Delegates to the National Convention.

The Posts throughout the State were reported to be in a flourishing condition.

☞ St. John's Church, Lawrence, has recently been removed from Morton street, to the south side of Bradford street, east of Broadway, a distance of about one-fourth of a mile, where it is much more centrally located. The contract for moving the building was let out for $1,050 but the additions and improvements the society is making will reach five thousand dollars in this change. A new organ is also about being put into the church.

☞ There is talk of a new Labor Reform Campaign paper in Concord. We go in first, last and always for the working man and woman, and these only; but laborers themselves need as much reforming as their opportunities do enlarging.

☞ Alexis St. Martin, whose side was shot away, in 1822, in such a manner that the operation of the digestive organs was fully exposed to the eye, is still alive and well in Cavendish, Vt. Almost all our knowledge in regard to digestion is the result of this man's extraordinary wound.

☞ A lady agent of the Boston publisher, (Mrs. Harding,) is now canvassing Portsmouth for the sale of the Life of George Peabody, by Phebe A. Hanaford. Price $1.50 or $2, according to binding. G. P. Russell publisher, Boston.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

A STARTLING TRUTH!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs: when by the timely use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives could have been preserved to a green old age.

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It neutralizes the poison of an angry sore as surely as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is not hypothetic; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Disease.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness and the characteristics of the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with augmented force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent succession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of the bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores three dozen bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used Dr. Lucas' Lung Balsam extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "Allen's Lung Balsam not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I feel no hesitancy in recommending it to my friends and patrons as an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever met with."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and Alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the Irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.—Messrs. Editors:—As one of our public-spirited citizens has offered a sum towards commencing a Free Library in Portsmouth, it has occurred to me that if some of our other citizens who have the means already at hand, would take a quarter part of the interest in the town which this adopted citizen has, we could soon have what so many desire. The Portsmouth Athenæum contains about 10,000 volumes; it is owned by 100 Proprietors, in shares each costing them $100, on which they have to pay an assessment of $7 per year. Now I propose for these proprietors to vote the whole thing as a donation to the City in trust, for the nucleus of a Free Library. If this had been done twenty years ago, we should now have a free library of 50,000 volumes.

I am aware this may be awfully distasteful to some few of the fogies connected with the institution; but when you look over the list of the present proprietors, you will see a majority of liberal, whole-hearted men, whom I have no doubt will be glad to give their interest and influence to the transfer. They would lose nothing by it, but gain greatly, as they would still have the same right to take out books as now,—and from a much greater library, and without assessment. I control one share, and will give this and the amount of another if necessary. The South Parish, St. John's Church, Universalist and North Churches, each own shares for the benefit of their pastors. Nobody can doubt what would be the action of the members of those societies as to the disposition of their shares.

Some few there may be, perhaps, who would oppose it bitterly,—they wish to be exclusive. I proposed this plan a year or more ago, to one of them; he replied, "A free library! it would be the d——dest curse you could entail on the town; every working man and woman would be running after books." People of this stamp would oppose it to the bitter end.

Look on the past history of this institution. How many men of large wealth have been connected with it. Yet how small a space in their minds it occupied when they were making their wills. What small and few sums have been given. Had the library been free, the amounts would undoubtedly have been quadrupled. This is an age of Free Libraries. Do not let us in Portsmouth be behind. If any of the Proprietors object or cannot afford to donate their shares, others can be found to take them, pay for them, and give them to the city. The present proprietors names I give beneath; and in looking over the list it is easy to see the names of many who would go into the arrangement with their whole hearts.

A SON OF PORTSMOUTH.

☞ We regret exceedingly to chronicle the arrest of the young man mentioned in the Police Court report. He is a fine mechanic, industrious man and good citizen, except when he puts an enemy into his mouth to steal away his brains.

☞ Brig Abby Thaxter, Capt. Parker, from Boston for Portland, put into this port 4th inst.; and while getting under way on the morning of the 26th, struck on Craft's Rocks, where she lies in easy position, and will be got off without damage when the wind changes.

☞ On the morning of the 23d, Mrs. Hilliard of Newcastle had lettuce and other salads growing in her garden almost large enough for the table.

MERCANTILE LYCEUM.—The Lecture by Mr. Stephen W. Clark, of the High School, on Tuesday evening, was a pleasant hour's talk on Physical Science; and was well received by the audience, much lessened by the storm. Mr. Clark was evidently so determined to keep his lecture within limits, that he rather seemed to omit illustrative incidental phenomena, so plentiful to his theme, — of which, however, he did present various examples. In speaking of climatic and other influences, he offered the following sensible remarks, which we commend to the perusal of all young men especially:

And here pardon me for introducing a thought not immediately connected with my subject. I have known a young man to leave his New Hampshire home, spend years of toil under a more sunny sky, and return richer only in the belief that for him the road to wealth wound among his native hills. Here, in later days, he earned a competency, a home and an honorable standing in community.

I am weak enough to believe that for the upright and earnest, there is no better place to succeed than here, where their fathers have succeeded before them. Comparative stranger though I be, I have wondered why young men of this city are so willing to serve other masters in distant cities, when the higher privilege of breathing new life into business interests at home, and of being themselves the masters, might be theirs.

I have frequently heard it said that a few rich men hold all the wealth, and are not ready to assist or give any encouragement to those who are striving to make the old place as busy and thriving as it formerly has been. I have no sympathy with such complaining spirits. My only capital in life is a few years of schooling, and the means of obtaining it were in part furnished me by just such men as are here inveighed against, and their only security was my name and good intentions.

When young men cease striving to live without work, and show a purpose to succeed by the only legitimate means; when they begin to choose a business of their own, instead of clerkships abroad;—when, in a word, they tear down their air-castles, and begin to build on solid ground,—I believe that encouragement and aid will be forthcoming, and probably not till then. The fault is not in our New Hampshire home, but in ourselves.

The next lecture will be given on Tuesday evening, by Mr. Frank W. Hackett of Boston.

MR. LAMPREY'S COMPLIMENTARY BALL.—The Ball given as a compliment to Mr. Samuel Lamprey, on Tuesday evening, at the conclusion of his term of teaching a select class in the graceful accomplishment of dancing, was, we think, the pleasantest entertainment we have looked in upon for a very long time. There was an air of decorum, quiet, and easy elegance ruling the occasion, which indicated that the instruction and discipline by this accomplished teacher have not been applied without desirable results. This accomplishment, in its legitimate intent, is, to improve manners and make young men, gentlemen, and young ladies, ladies, in deportment.

We noticed many attractive toilettes, but of these a passing notice will suffice; the general and controlling features of the occasion were its most impressive points. The amusements which pertain to the social world are to be enjoyed with the keenest relish in youth, and that tuition which brings things into proper line is the right kind. We are glad to learn that the success of this class renders it probable that another course of lessons will be given by Mr. Lamprey.—Haverhill (Mass.) Publisher.

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING
WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation, and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

WILD SPORTS IN THE EAST,—CONCLUDED. — We followed Lord Zephyr and the gun into the hut, where a sight met our eyes that would have melted a heart of adamant. Along the space at the farthest side of the building was a puddle of water about eighteen inches deep. In one end of this My Lord was pensively seated; and he gazed at us reproachfully as we fished the gun out of the mud at the other end of the pool. "Did I kill the wild beast?" he asked, as Wye Tasche examined the deadly weapon with a critical eye. "Not that I know of," replied Wye; "but you smashed the tube of the gun out flat." "How easily," said His Lordship, "the work of man's hands is knocked out of joint. There's my watch, which kept first-rate time when I first bought it, has never gone so well since I drove a few tacks with the edge of it, to fasten pictures of St. Januarius, Dexter, and J. C. Heenan, up on the wall in my bedroom; and now that old gun has gone back on us. But come; let us go and see how much of that squirrel is left."

He arose from the mud-puddle like Venus from the sea, and we went out to search for the squirrel; but the whole of him had left. "I knew it," said My Lord; "I blew that squirrel into smithereens—you can't even find the place where he was. Well, there is but one more thing for us to do;' let us pay the last sad office of respect to the ancient occupant of this hovel—we will apply the friction match to his funeral pyre, that the memory of the tragedy, once enacted here may pass away forever. Then will we hie us to our peaceable homes."

We went to the windward side of the huge heap of charcoal, and set it on fire in several places; then we sat down and meditatively smoked cigars — always done by hunters, after performing virtuous actions. The breeze soon fanned the fire through the entire mass, and we felt the sweet satisfaction which ever attends the consummation of a pious duty stealing o'er us, when a terrific war-whoop burst upon our ears.

"The savages," exclaimed we all; and springing to our feet we confronted the charging foe. We had supposed that all Indians were red, but such is not the case; these were very black. They brandished enormous scalping-knives, fashioned not unlike the shovels of civilized man; and they wore a terribly ferocious aspect, and clothing which had once doubtless belonged to the ancient pioneer who built the hut. Their language was strange and uncouth, and their war-cries would have appalled the stoutest hearts. "Bu'st 'em in the snoot," "pitch 'em in the fire," "smash 'em with the shovels," "a whole pit o' chuck-kole spiled," "take the pay out o' their hides,"—such were the cries that greeted us as we boldly faced the infuriated enemy.

"Stand your ground, my brothers; stand your ground, and we'll show them how brave men die," roared Lord Zephyr, in a voice like extra quality thunder; but the next instant a half-brick collided with the pit of his stomach, and he sat down in the fire to rest himself.

Wye Tasche had at first resolved to do terrible things—to kill, burn and destroy many of the primitive race,—but his better nature triumphed over this first deadly determination, — his heart inclined to mercy. "My friends," said he, "is it right, after having invaded the hunting grounds of this simple, harmless people, and killed all their game, that we should now destroy them? No, never; my friends, let us advance upon Kittery,"—which we did.

This movement was effected rapidly and in good order, I taking the post of danger in the van, Wye coming next with the gun, and My Lord last. But as the shouts of the aborigines died away in the distance, Lord Zephyr went ahead, disclosing the disastrous ravages the fire had made with his clothing, when he sat down on the burning charcoal. No words were spoken till we arrived at a large and flourishing frontier settlement, when Lord Zephyr addressed a damsel whom we met, as follows: "My love, what is the name of this city?"

"Kittery," responded the maiden; "but you fellows may as well leave it, for this isn't washing-day; and even if it was, we don't leave our clothes out over night." "Maides," said Wye Tasche, solemnly, "you err regarding our occupations; we are gentlemen." "Indeed!" was the reply; "then I give you credit for being the most perfectly disguised personages I ever saw. But what do you want here, anyway?" "Game," said Wye Tasche; "game is what we are after. Are there any wild animals around here?" "Nothing of that kind, sir, except the striped pig,—plenty of him, if he will answer your purpose," replied the maiden. "Comrades," said Lord Zephyr, "at some future day we will go for the striped pig; but not now. The allurements of home invite us across the bridge—let us on;" and proudly we resumed our triumphal return march, reaching home without encountering further perils. PAKEHA.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, Jan. 25th.

The changes of weather of late reminds one of April or May. * * *

It would seem from the number of new Family Hotels recently opened, and of others in process of construction, as well as the signs of Rooms to let conspicuous in most every window of houses at the South and West End,—that everbody who could, meant to give up housekeeping and board. On Tremont St., between Boylston and the Railroad Bridge, (which has recently been widened, raised, and graded,) there are four family hotels,—Hotel Pelham, Van Rensealer, Creighton and Seaver Houses, above Dover St., on the same (Tremont) street is the "Clarendon;" and opposite Union Park, there is being erected a fine marble structure to be called the "St. Cloud."

On Washington Street, just above Dover, Mr. C. A. Richards has nearly completed quite an imposing building, which is intended for a hotel, and farther up is the Commonwealth, which is one of the finest looking buildings in Boston. It is built of marble, and occupies the whole square between Worcester and Springfield Sts., and really presents a more imposing appearance than any other hotel in Boston. There has also recently been opened the Hotel Hamilton, on the Back Bay lands; and besides the above mentioned, there are many others scattered over the city; but notwithstanding there are so many houses and rooms to let, the price does not come down—parties asking all the way from $5 to $25 per week for single rooms furnished, and in a majority of cases, it requires the outlay of $8 or $10 per week to get a decent room in a respectable locality—and if you have conveniences it takes a couple more.

Major Jones, (the State Constable) report don't seem to agree with Chief Kurtz, City Marshal of Boston. The former says he don't know of an open bar in the city or State, and the latter says there are over 2000 places in the city alone where liquor is sold. For the State Constable to say that he does not know of an open bar or of a hotel where liquor can be obtained, except by a guest of the house in his room, shows a very remarkable state of either ignorance or innocence on his part, for it is notorious that there are bars in the city, nearly if not quite as open as they were under the license law; and as far as the hotels are concerned, they all sell, and at some of them at least, there is not the slightest difference in any respect from the manner of selling before the Prohibitory Law went into effect.

It is safe to say that more people were looking towards Heaven on Sunday afternoon, the 23d inst., in this city, than ever before; and the cause was the Planet Venus, which of late has shown herself every clear day, much to the wonderment of a good many, and no doubt, to the consternation of a few, who think that to see a star in the daytime is an omen of something terrible to happen. Some say that Venus shows herself in this manner about once in ten years, but it was either in '63 or '64 that she was seen as now, in the daytime. Everybody who has been of Boston, has also heard of its Music Hall and the big organ, and in fact it is a creditable institution and it would be difficult to do without it. But, at the same time it is just as liable for folks who go there to get disappointed, as it would be if they went to some other place of amusement. The last time I went was during the Fair for the Carney Hospital. I went about half-past eight to see a friend safe out; there was then no admittance for anyone, the hall being full, so I stood by the gate, guarded by the vigilant and very urbane as well as most accommodating Mr. Peck, waiting for somebody to come out so that I could get a chance to go in.

I did not wait long before I got the chance, and Mr. Peck didn't ask me for my ticket either. He left very suddenly and so did a good many others. There was a rush down those stairs, and a cry of fire, and with women being brought out fainting and the crowd rushing towards the doors, it was evident that there was a panic,—and if the hall really was on fire, God help the three or five thousand people in there. It was an anxious movement to me and perhaps I was too scared to run; so I didn't until a man came rushing down the stairs shouting that there was no danger, then I rushed up stairs instead of out the hall, and nobody undertook to stop me. It only remains to state that after some little difficulty I found those I was after, and it was not long before we got out of that jam. Some folks seem to enjoy being in crowds,—I don't. * * Yours, R.

CHOP-STICKS.—A Texan paper, growing enthusiastic over the prospect of a flood of Chinese emigrants for their plantations, exclaims:

"We are coming father Koopmanschap,
One hundred million strong;
We will bear each man a rice bag,
And each will beat a gong;
We will drive the Sambos flying,
Before our moon-eyed hosts,
And whip the poor white trash, sir,
From out these golden coasts;
Then we'll take this mighty nation
And sell it for a song;
For we're coming Father Koopmanschap
One hundred million strong.

—Mark Twain, in his book, wherein he gives an account of an excursion taken in 1865, in the steamer Quaker City, to Palestine and the Holy Land, speaking of Damascus, says he paid a visit to the street called 'straight,' and found it as crooked as a corkscrew. He regards this as the only joke in the New Testament, and this was uttered by St. Paul, in which he emphasized the word 'called.'

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing the least injury of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt and certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 or ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. If it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States and Canadas for 100 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

DEERFIELD FARMERS' CLUB. Discussion on Manures.—J. W. James dwelt at considerable length on the fact that much of the land in New Hampshire is deteriorating—many once productive fields being now almost valueless. Various reasons, such as climatic changes, &c., had been advanced to account for this state of things; but to his mind it was easily accounted for on the ground that much had been taken from the soil and little returned, and exhaustion had followed us as a natural consequence.

It is like a repeated draft on a bank deposit—nothing is added to the original sum—the exhausting process goes on until one day the check is returned with the significant endorsement, "No funds."

People complain of worn out pastures, without stopping to consider that year after year an almost constant drain has been going on. Every pound of beef, mutton, butter, cheese, and wool represent a certain amount of material taken from the soil; now if nature were not the most patient and provident of mothers, she would have protested long ago against the outrage. In order to maintain the fertility of the soil, that which is drawn from it in one form, must be restored in the same or another form. Hence the importance to the farmer of the subject under discussion.

Our farmers, many of them, lose much from want of proper care in protecting their manures. It lays out in heaps under the stable windows, washed by every rain, dried by every wind, and exposed, it may be, to the droppings from the eaves. Its most valuable parts are thus often lost; and it would not be a rash statement to say that manure thus treated lost from one-half to two-thirds its value as a fertilizer.

Would always keep manure under cover. But here it is necessary to guard against loss also, manure under cover being apt to heat or burn, which greatly lessens its value. Guards against this by composting with muck and working over. The materials used for composting are of great value also in absorbing the liquid and gaseous portions that would otherwise escape. Had found the superphosphates often of little value, though occasionally they produced marked effect. Plaster on certain soils, especially on a gravelly loam, is of value—the best of the commercial fertilizer for clover.

Jas. Bean considered this an important question. A farmer's success is just in proportion to his success in developing the fertilizing resources of his farm. The great majority of farmers must make their manure; they cannot buy it. Thought that there was hardly a limit to an energetic farmer's resources in this direction. Could make sixty loads from three hogs in a year, by keeping them well supplied with materials to work over. A large quantity might also be made from what is often a total waste.

Under the sink spout there is often an unsightly slough, or a growth of tangled weeds; but this very spot may be made of more value than a small gold mine, by a little labor in supplying and drawing away muck, sods, leaves, &c. Horse manure can be saved from heating by being worked over by cattle or hogs. Has found superphosphates of little or no value to him. Bone dust and ashes have proved valuable, and have produced a marked effect for years. In applying manures, has found that on dry land two loads plowed in are equal to three spread on the surface.

J.W. James, in answer to a question, stated that he raised one-third more corn when he plowed manure under in the fall.

John Dearborn, considered the liquid manure of much value, and was careful to absorb it with muck. Had practiced plowing in manure, adding a little in the hill for corn. On potatoes used no manure, except ashes; applied them both in the hill and around the stalk at hoing time.

J. A. Hill thinks one load of manure in the fall equal to two in the spring, even if spread on the snow. Has spread twenty-five loads of top dressing this fall.

S. B. Merrill dwelt on the importance of the question. Looked on the manure heap as the farmer's bank. Had found top dressing in the fall best for grass. Liquid manure he considered of great value, whether applied in a liquid state or absorbed by other substances. He thought many of the diseases in crops the result of the feeble state of the crops through want of nourishment. Considered clover essential to a farmer, and without manure clover is out of the question.—The People.

— A correspondent of the Country Gentleman says that hand friction—always rubbing down—will certainly keep wind galls from increasing, and if well applied for half an hour at a time, twice a day, will remove a new one, or materially check one of long standing.

— A correspondent of the Western Stock Journal says if the hoofs and fetlocks of a horse are well cleaned and then rubbed with soft soap, previous to taking him out in in snowy weather, it will prevent balls of snow collecting on the feet.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States' Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents and inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

CONGRESS.—In the House, on Wednesday, a resolution was adopted directing the committee on mines to investigate the causes of the Avondale mine disaster, and to report whether Congress has power to legislate so as to prevent such occurrences in future.

The League Island bill was taken up. Mr. Washburn of Wisconsin advocated the abolishing of navy yards, and giving of the work to private parties. He also made a speech in defence of the Secretary of the Navy, against Mr. Dawes' insinuations as to the economical notions of that individual.

Speeches were also made by Mr. Calkin of N. Y. in defence of the navy yard system and in favor of League Island; by Mr. Randall of Penn., in support of the bill; and by Mr. Dawes of Mass., in enforcement of the views heretofore submitted by him. Mr. D. declared that in his opinion the three New England navy yards might be consolidated in one at New London, that would swallow up the Charlestown and Portsmouth yards, and perhaps also that at Brooklyn.

The bill was tabled by a vote of 94 to 67.

Mr. Butler made an exhaustive speech in defence of the administration, to which Mr. Dawes replied briefly.

☞ The Boston Post thinks a Democratic victory in New Hampshire, in March, would "electrify the Union with delight." It certainly wouldn't electrify those who saved the Union from the bayonets of the Post's friends.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

KITTERY, ME., Jan. 27.

The Operetta of "Laila" brought out a large and appreciative audience on Wednesday evening, the new church being completely filled. Miss Nellie Pettigrew took the part of Laila, and Miss Kate Presby that of the Fairy Queen, — and took them splendidly. Miss Pettigrew has a beautiful voice, and sustained her part to a charm. A trio by Miss Eva Pettigrew, Miss Ada Phillips and another young lady, was really brilliant.

The Fairies, Misses Lizzie Mathews, Mary E. Paul, Augusta E. Spinney, Ada A. Paul, Ada Phillips, Eva Pettigrew, Ella T. Lewis and Susie B. Paul, looked and sang beautifully; as did the Mountain Children in the choruses. All were so well pleased with it that it will be repeated in a few weeks. It was a rich treat. K. M.

The Rockingham Quarterly Meeting, at Dover, was one of interest, and in the business meeting a few desired to endorse the third political party organization based on the temperance issue; but a large majority of the delegates evidently doubted the propriety of doing so, and no definite action on the subject was taken.

The mob of men and women who destroyed the liquor saloon of Samuel McIntyre, at Alton, last year, have been ordered to pay some $1000 in fines and costs.

—The Mobile Register makes a few mistakes in its sketch of its recently deceased veteran foreman, Daniel D. Wyatt. Mr. W. served his apprenticeship in the office of the Gazette, at Portsmouth N. H., not the Patriot. At that time the Gazette was a Democratic organ, and continued to be such up to the breaking out of the rebellion; so that Mr. Wyatt's Democracy was not imbibed in spite of its teachings, but was perhaps the fruit of them. It is now, however, like almost everything else in that religion, Republican; and at the ripe age of 113, having been founded in October, 1756, is more vigorous and healthy, and enjoys a better prospect for longevity, than at any other period of its existence.—Selma Press, Ala.

SINGULAR RESULT OF AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.—George Wood, of West Boylston, Mass., attempted to poison himself on the 21st inst. He will probably survive, but will never recover his speech. The poison taken was in the form of a powder and ate off the chords of his tongue. On Thursday, Wood accompanied by a young lady, attended an excurion party to Nashua, where he became intoxicated. The young lady took offence, and this is said to have induced him to attempt to kill himself.

Good Health, for February, confirms the opinion heretofore expressed of the worth of that periodical as a popular journal of sanitary and connected matters that will be a sensible adviser in the household that seek its counsels. It is not all "Doctor's stuff" by any means; but wisely seeks to promote the right sort of personal habits and style of living favorable to soundness of body, clearness of brain and length of years. It is published at 21 Franklin St., Boston, and can be had of the N. E. News Co.

☞ The House military committee have agreed to report a bill as follows; that the Indian bureau be transferred to the War Department, that brevet rank in military service shall be abolished, that the Major-Generals shall be reduced to three, and Brigadier-Generals to five in number, that all unemployed officers, some three hundred in number, shall be discharged honorably. The reduction in general officers is to be made by a muster out of such as the President shall select for discharge.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

SPORTSMEN

Can find the best goods for their wear, as well as all the finer qualities of Boots and Shoes, at the well-known store of T. E. MOSELEY & CO., 233 Washington street, Boston, (opposite Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s.)

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It penetrates the poison of an angry sore as easily as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is not hypothesis; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Disease.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillising operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is removed, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

Two scientific publications are in the field against the hair dyes of which lead is the basis, The "New York Medical Gazette" and "The Journal of Chemistry" bitterly denounce them. Yet the hair may be safely dyed. Have you seen PROF. CHILTON'S TESTIMONY.

Founded on a careful analysis, and certifying that is not only a first-class article for changing the color of the hair, but

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

ABSOLUTELY SAFE.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATION, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. ja13dawlm

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I know my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Bit Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, Corns, &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I feel bound to use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

MALT EXTRACT—

Is already recommended by our leading physicians, as a tonic and a nutrient (ESPECIALLY ADAPTED TO LADIES) with the most satisfactory results. This beverage is extensively used where all spirituous liquors and ales are discarded, as it differs from all other malt preparation, being ALMOST FREE FROM ALCOHOL, and therefore neither intoxicating nor irritating: as it contains MORE NUTRIMENT THAN PORTER, ALE, OR THE STRONGEST BEER. ja3

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this precious remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feeble sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.—Orders have been received from the Navy Department to suspend all work in the Steam Engineering Department on and after the 1st of February. There is to be no reorganization when work is resumed, those now employed again taking their present positions.

A similar order was received in the Constructor's Department. About 600 men will be discharged, in all.

CITY COUNCIL, Jan. 27.—In the Aldermen, Thursday Evening, (full Board except Ald. Cotton,) the Com. on Police reported on the petition of J. W. Stavers, for appointment of special policemen at the Temple, instead of the regular Officers,—that he have leave to withdraw.

Ald. Pender called up the petition for bridges and road across Hale's Point and North Millpond, at Dover St. to Mystic St. Ref. to Com. on Sts.

There was quite a discussion on the lighting of street lamps, but the Com. on that matter stating that the present regulations were sufficient, the City Marshal was instructed to supervise the matter.

The City Marshal was directed to give public notice that he will enforce the new Dog Licensing Ordinance after 30 days notice.

The Com. on School Houses were empowered to cut the blackboards in Hanover St. School with plastic slate.

Ald. Pendexter introduced a resolution suggesting a re-organization of the Fire Dept. Referred to Joint Com. on Fire Dept. The idea is to substitute another steamer for two or three of the hand tubs.

The joint resolution of the Com. Council, that the Council adjourn to the call of the Mayor, was concurred in.

Common Council.—A message was received from the Aldermen asking the concurrence of the Council in an Ordinance extending the jurisdiction of the Street Commissioner over certain streets named. The rules were suspended to enable the Committee on Bills on 2d Reading to report at once. The report being favorable, the Ordinance was concurred in.

No other business coming before the Council,—so much of the joint rules having been suspended as would enable them so to do, they adjourned to the call of the Mayor.

THESPIANS, Saturday evening.

☞ We are bound to enjoy such weather as we have had of late, whether or no it be best for trees. Thursday, Jan. 29th was the loveliest day of all.

☞ The youngest soldier who offered up his life in the late War, was probably Albion J. Jenness, of the 13th N. H. Regt., son of Mr. Lowell Jenness of this city. A Memorial oil Portrait, life size, has just been ordered by Mr. Schwabe, (who is spending a few days in this city,) to be placed by the side of others in the Schwabe Galleries of Fallen Heroes in Boston, which are open free to all. Besides the interesting character of these portraits, they are fine works of art; and we are pleased to learn that lately several other portraits have been ordered for the Galleries, of Portsmouth's sons deceased.

☞ The fine new barque Neptune, Capt. Beals, sailed from this port for Cuba, Thursday afternoon.

☞ Capt. W. W. Low of the Receiving Ship Vandalia was serenaded on Wednesday evening, at his residence on Austin Street, by the Post Band, lately organized at this station. This was the first time the new band had been heard here, but we hope it won't be the last, by any means. The members are splendid musicians and their regular practice has almost made them perfect in that line. Those who heard them, Wednesday evening, would like to hear them "some more."

THE EMPIRE MINSTRELS, a new local organization, appear to-night at the Temple, for the first time in this city. They have given concerts in a number of the neighboring towns, and have been well received, — several papers having given them very complimentary criticisms.

☞ The ferry boat Emerald was taken off the route between this city and the Navy Yard on Wednesday, on account of an accident. If she is not repaired before Tuesday, the discontinuance may be permanent, for want of workmen to make the necessary repairs.

☞ See the advertisement of the Union Institution for Savings, in Boston.

OLD PRINTERS.—A writer in the Boston Transcript, in giving the list of job printers in that office many years ago, speaks thus of a representative from this city:

Edward L. Pike—a Portsmouth boy. In his boyhood days considered one of the best job printers in the city. Soon after coming to Boston he purchased a new suit. Getting into a squabble, another boy threw a sponge of dirty water upon him. His heart was broken. "Darn it," sobbed he, "if it had been my old clothes I wouldn't care, but these are my new parntyloons." He shed tears, but young Watson and other companions roared loud and long.

RYE CENTRE, Jan. 27.

A Social Levee for the improvement of the interior of the Congregational Church in Rye, will be held in Lougee's splendid new Hall in the Sea View House, on the evening of Feb. 9.

Mr. Lougee has kindly tendered the use of his Hall to the Lady Managers for this occasion, and they intend to make it one of the best social gatherings of the Season. The public are invited to take a part in the festivities of the evening. The usual variety of refreshments and many useful articles will be offered for sale.

If the weather or travelling should prove bad, it will take place the first fair evening after the tenth.

☞ The Navy Yard must be a delightful place to work—so steady and reliable. Many good judges think Portsmouth would be a larger and smarter place without the Yard.

☞ The new advertisement and new Sewing Machines of E. A. Joy & Co., are worthy attention.

Correspondence Chronicle and Gazette.

DEERFIELD, Jan. 26.

The Deerfield Farmers' Club began in earnest this winter, and discussed the subjects of Fruit Culture, Manures, and other topics.

At present, a revival of religion prevails, and people throng the churches almost every evening in the week, to call upon God in prayer, and enquire what they shall do to be saved. Without any special efforts, great numbers are being awakened.

W. Carleton, No. 30 Beech St., Boston, has given lamps to light the Congregational church, and the people, encouraged by his liberality, have made an effort and paid all the debts against the church.

Nothwithstanding the open winter, our town has thus far been quite healthy. Deaths in Deerfield in 1869, 26, nearly two-fifths of them in March and April. In a population of 2100 the mortality is 1 1-4 per cent. Average age, 65 years 9 months.

According to your report (Jan. 8,) of deaths in Rye, the mortality was 2 1-5 per cent of the population. Average age (ommitting one infant) 48 years 8 months.

Morning Chronicle.

THE HAMILTON ROBBERY AND THE ROBBERS.

From the Salem Gazette.

On Tuesday, January 11th, the people of the usually quiet town of Hamilton, Mass., were startled by the report that a daring robbery had been committed in the west part of the town; that a large amount of money had been taken, and that the perpetrators of the act were unknown.

The scene of this operation was at an old farm house about a mile and a half northwest of the church, and the residence of Mr. Abel Baker, a man 80 years of age or more, and who kept, as has generally been supposed, a large amount of money in his house. The inmates of the house, at the time of the robbery, consisted of Mr. Baker, his sister Lucy, a maiden lady, nearly as old as himself, and Mrs. Smith, a lady who had been living with the family for sometime.

On Monday evening, a colored man called at the house, and inquired if Mr. B. was at home, and also wished to know if Mr. Thomas Manning was living there. On being informed that Mr. Manning was not there he left. About eight o'clock, Mrs. Smith discovered some one lurking about the premises, and informed Miss Baker of the fact, who on drawing aside the curtain, discovered some one near the window. She extinguished the light. The door was immediately burst open, two men entered, and seizing the old lady, ordered her to inform them where the money was. She made no reply, but escaped from the robbers, and fled, with Mrs. Smith, to the upper part of the house.

The robbers than proceeded to the bed-room of Mr. B., who had retired, and seizing the old man, before he was able to rise, demanded his keys and money. He refused to give them the keys, or tell them where the money was, whereupon they cut the bed cord, letting him fall through, and nearly smothered him in the clothes, and bruising him about the head and neck. They succeeded in obtaining the keys, also a small trunk containing a large amount in specie and bank bills, and being satisfied with the amount obtained, they decamped.

Suspicion soon rested on two well known colored persons, Abe Williams, and Frank Manuel—who were seen during the thick snow storm of that evening, proceeding in the direction of Mr. Baker's house. The storm abated sooner, perhaps, than was agreeable to the rascals. The tracks about the house corresponded with those made by the travellers. After the robbery, it seems, they built a fire in the woods, and divided they money, and destroyed some valuable papers found in the trunk. They then proceeded to Essex, and next left for Salem, astonishing the citizens by a resumption of "specie" payment altogether unexpected.

The services of Capt. Geo. W. Boynton were secured, and Williams was traced to New Hampshire and arrested, having upwards of six hundred dollars of the money with him, at the time of his arrest. He was brought to Ipswich, and made a full confession.

"Abe" is a bright, lively, roguish darkey, and, when a boy, lived with Capt. Humphrey Lakeman, of Ipswich. He married a daughter of Elias Haskell, of Hamilton, and for a number of years past has lived, at times, in Essex, Wenham, Ipswich, and Hamilton. He has been engaged in several operations which were not calculated to cause the public to place a very high estimate on his character for honesty.

The circumstances of the arrest of the two rascals are somewhat interesting. Officer Boynton obtained a general idea of the direction one of them at least had taken, and by telegraphing ahead, and keeping in communication with conductors, found Williams and took him as he was getting upon the train at Northfield. The officer sat in the saloon at one end of the car, and, by an understanding with the conductor, the negro was permitted to enter at the same end. As he was passing the door of the saloon, Mr. Boynton seized him and jerked him in, closing the door, which another person was employed to keep secure.

The negro was inclined to resent this treatment and showed signs of resistance, but the assurance that his brains would be blown out as the result of any demonstration in that direction, led him to yield with as good a grace as possible and even submit to the indignity of a thorough search of his person, which was effected by stripping him of every particle of his clothing.

This process resulted in revealing a belt round his body in the form of a life preserver, so stitched as to furnish different apartments for the dollars which he had stolen—the paper money of different kinds being held in three wallets. His pants contained only thirty or forty cents in change.

This belt was made of ticking that was stolen from Mr. Cogswell's store in Ipswich when it was robbed a few weeks before. Mr. Boynton also found upon him a watch, chain, etc., that were stolen from Mr. Appleton, who was robbed at Ipswich, in October last. And there is reason to believe that all the recent robberies in this vicinity—Ipswich, Manchester, etc.,—were perpetrated by these parties. Williams is described by Mr. Boynton as a finished rascal, and, on the whole, a pretty keen one. There is also evidence that he was, for some offense, convicted by court martial in the army, and sentenced to be shot, but received a pardon at the hands of Mr. Lincoln.

In confessing his last crime, he narrated some of the circumstances attending it, saying that, on first visiting the house at half-past six o'clock, they feared trouble from a dog about the premises, and took measures to avoid that by enticing him into the barn and securing him. When he forced the door open, he says its chief fastening was a chopping block and a chair placed against it. The old lady was standing in the entry with a candle in her hand, which he extinguished by a waft of his hat. He dragged the chest containing the valuables from the old man's chamber into another room, and, while overhauling it, discovered the old lady pointing an old fashioned firearm at him, which, upon a nearer inspection, proved to be a dark lantern. He seized her and took it from her just in time, as he says, to save his own life; and he also says it was discharged at him as he was leaving the premises. He further stated that it was Manuel's desire to murder the old man in the first place.

In reference to Manuel, Mr. Boynton ascertained that his wife had a brother who lived in Lynn. He traced him to a dance-house in Boston where he had been put into a room dead drunk, and thus escaped him. The officer afterwards traced him and his wife to Lynn, and found in a chest all his part of the money but $10—Williams having taken the lion's share of the plunder. All the money that was stolen was thus secured with the exception of about $50.

Manuel's arrest was finally effected in Salem by Assistant Marshal Dalrymple, under the following circumstances: On Friday afternoon, 14th, a person came into the police office and notified him that Manuel had just gone into South Salem, up Lafayette street. He immediately proceeded thither, and, accosting the driver of Mr. Bicknell's wagon, it was turned about, and its services brought into requisition in overtaking the rascal, who was overhauled a little this side of the Derby farm.

Mr. Dalrymple did not know him, and he stoutly denied the charge against him, saying he did not know where Hamilton was, and stating further, on being questioned, that he came from "Ova Scotia," thus showing an ignorance of even the name of the province he professed to hail from. He was brought to the station, where one and another who professed to know him were called in, and, when brought to face, operated were really uncertain about the identity. It was not until Saturday that a colored man was brought in who said he could identify him under circumstances which even the prisoner himself could not resist. When brought together and familiarly accosted as "Frank, don't you know me," or "you know me," he at first hung his head, but finally burst out with, "By God, I do know you—by God, I am de Frank Manuel—I'm sorry I lie to you, gentlemen."

Manuel was bound over on Friday morning last at the Salem Police Court, in the sum of $4000, to appear at the January term of the Superior Court.

HANDSOME CORN.—A statement is made in the Boston Journal of Chemistry, to the effect that its editor raised last season, at Haverhill, Mass., upon a little less than an acre and a half, three hundred and twelve bushels of ears of corn. It is of the eight rowed variety, ears long, kernels large and cob small—making it a good kind to raise. It is on account of the remarkable yield, the principal cause attributed to the success of the crop, and the low estimate of the cost, that attracted our attention, and to which we desire to call the attention of our readers. We quote from the Journal of Chemistry:

"We attribute the success of the crop to fall plowing, manure which held the liquid excrement of the animals, thorough spring pulverization of the soil, applying the manure to the surface, and to the use of the bone and ash mixture in the hills. We believe the influence of this fertilizer was very essential in the production of the crop. The cost of the corn per bushel, including in the estimate one-half the cost of the fertilizers, is forty-five cents. This does not take into account the fodder, which, in our view, has a high value."

POINTED.—The Courier, of Newark, N. J., says: "Among the most outrageous personal denunciations of Mrs. Stowe for her connection with the Byron business, are those of that preeminent religious sheet, the New York Observer. This taken in connection with the fact that Rev. Dr. Prime, in his younger days, made an offer of his hand and heart to Miss Harriet Beecher, which were refused by that lady, is decidedly amusing, and pretty effectually plucks the sting from the Rev.'s criticism. Sic lux.

—The price of wheat in Iowa is lower than at any time since the breaking out of the war. The average price, taking the State together, is about fifty cents per bushel.

—For all kinds of bunches on horses caused by bruises or injuries of any sort, a correspondent recommends the rubbing such with the tincture of arnica, diluting it with water.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.

CATAWBA, PORT, GRAPE and P. J. Sherry.

The above Wines are made by Mr. Speer, whose reputation as a wine grower stands pre-eminent. They are well established, and long known by the Medical Profession as the most reliable and valuable wines to be had.

Every family at this season should use

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE,

celebrated in Spain and Portugal for its beneficial qualities, highly esteemed by eminent physicians, used in European and American Hospitals and by the first families in Europe and America.

Excellent for weak and debilitated persons, the aged and infirm, improving the appetite and benefitting the ladies and children.

A MILD DIURETIC

It imparts a healthy action to the Kidneys, and Urinary Organs, very beneficial in Dropsy, Gout and Rheumatic affections. Also,

P. J. SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE

is pure juice of the Oporto Grape, recommended by Physicians as possessing medical properties superior to California or Imported Wines.

SPEER'S STANDARD WINE BITTERS

The Best and Most Reliable Tonic and Bitters in the market, which is always the CHEAPEST.

The Chronicle.

—Seeing the face of Longfellow on the first page of "Every Saturday," sets one to thinking whether a man can really ever be handsome until the years have ripened and mellowed him. Those luxuriant white locks, the beard of snow, the clear, responsive eyes, the happy expression of the mouth, all attest the presence of a man who has come to know life through and through by passing on to its farthest verge and limit. Longfellow suggests Bryant. The heads of two such men put the crude thought of young man beauty out of codceit. We look at them, almost wishing to be old, if age brings such attractive tokens. — Boston Sunday Times.

FRUIT.—Fruit on a hill will not grow so large as in a valley, but it will elaborate its juices and its quality more. It will also last longer—it will be sounder. It will be less affected by insects and by diseases generally. It also requires more cultivation, care of the soil, etc. On the whole, give us an orchard on an elevated site. On a low clay bound place, it is of the utmost importance that the soil be thoroughly drained.

WINTERING BEES.—We would urge better winter protection for the honey bee. If a cellar is used it should be made as dark as possible, as the bees will fly to the least inlet of light. It should also be dry and well ventilated. The box hives should be inverted and a piece of carpet or woolen cloth thrown over them. The temperature should be a few degrees above freezing, If too warm it will cause them to be restless. With this care the bees will consume much less honey than if left exposed during the winter.

HOW TO KEEP A GOOD TEAM AND MAKE IT PAY.—Mr. J. C. Shaw, steward at the Concord Asylum for the Insane, about one year ago purchased a pair of oxen from his brother, Mr. C. C. Shaw, of Loudon, for $250. He has worked them steadily all the time, except the last four weeks, and has now sold them to Mr. A. M. Bond for beef. These cattle have been slaughtered, and weighed two thousand three hundred and eighty-seven pounds. They brought $310.51. They were mealed steadily, and worked in the same way, and the beef is of the finest quality. At the time of their purchase at the Asylum, they were in ordinary working flesh. This proves that cattle fed well and carefully managed will do a large amount of work, and yet fatten at the time and make good beef.—Statesman.

LIME AROUND APPLE TREES.—A writer in the Rural World states that: he has known some farmers make it a regular practice for a succession of years to throw caustic lime around their apple trees in the spring and summer, half a bushel to each of the trees in the orchard, and found that it produced immediate beneficial effects. Not the health of the tree only, but the quality of the fruit also, was greatly improved. This application will be especially beneficial in soils where there is a redundency of vegetable matter. We would advise our farmers to make a trial of this experiment.

MANAGEMENT OF PIGS.—Six weeks old, in my opinion, is the best age. I have experimented in taking them when one week old, two weeks and three weeks, and also at six weeks; and at other times have let the sow run with the pigs until she weaned them herself.

It is important to keep them out of mud if you want them to do well. Make a tight pen with a plank floor, two feet from the ground.

The best feed for young pigs I have found to be corn bread crumbled up in some milk, or even dishwater, and give it to them a little warm. I have taken pigs and feed to them this kind of feed, and they have gained over a pound a day.

—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker pronounces fried pork fat as good as anything he ever tried for sore teats on cows.

—Artemus Ward considered it a hard thing not to have a wife—no gentle heart to get up in the morning and make the fire.

TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him, to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

SATURDAY, JAN. 29, 1870.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.

The windows of our fashionable shoe stores, which were formerly devoted to one sombré hue, now vie in brilliancy of coloring with any of the windows of our florists. Red, blue, green, white, buff and bronze, in a variety of shades, with enough of the once all-prevailing black to better set off the prismatic tints of fashion's later decrees; we have dainty boots and delicate slippers that are seemingly far more suitable for the wondrous creatures who wear them, than the old line of one-colored goods for all occasions.

J. C. Hoadley & Co., manufacturers of portable engines, of Lawrence, have recently enlarged their works by the addition of buildings and tools, nearly doubling their capacity of production, and enabling them to build an engine a day. This firm have been persistent and judicious advertisers for years, and have built up themselves an immense trade. From the West and the Pacific Coast their orders have been of a magnitude to surprise Eastern dealers. From a firm in San Francisco they received not many months since, a single order for seventy-five steam engines.

I have by private letter, late news from New Zealand, or I fancy it should be late news that has been three months and four days in transitu. The withdrawal of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co's line from Panama to New Zealand has increased the time between the United States and N. Z. fully one-half. My correspondent, who occupies an official position says:

"Since last writing you, very little has transpired worthy of note. The Maori war has nearly closed; latterly the black wretches have been "getting fits." If we could only get up a war among themselves, I think we need never fear any more Maori wars.

They are fast dying out; in 1848, only twenty years ago, the Maories in the North Island alone exceeded 100,000,—now they are under 40,000. From this I take it that the native difficulty is only a question of time; probably the next ten years will seal the doom of Maoridom. Some of the principal chiefs latterly captured have been sentenced to be hung, drawn and quartered, and about 90 others have got imprisonment for life.

"I was pleased to hear that your jubilee passed off so well. We are very deficient in musical entertainments in New Zealand. The only time we have anything of the kind is when a 'splicing match' takes place. On such an occasion the juveniles treat us free of expense (in a cash point of view) to an entertainment at which empty kerosene tins are the predominant instruments. They (the tins, not the boys) are beaten most unmercifully with small sticks, about the length and size of your arm. The music is delightful; try it for yourself when 'Pakeha' commits matrimony. If you don't prefer cat-courtship under your bedroom window at mid-night, to that, I'll give in."

The English opera has proved a great success in Boston; Parepa's troupe has gained steadily in the appreciation of our musical people. Though failing in a measure in the dramatic representations, their musical abilities have far eclipsed the expectations of the most sanguine, and crowded houses have been the result. M.

POSTAGE LAW.—In the U. S. House of Representatives, on Thursday, Jan. 27, a bill was passed, 174 to 14, repealing all acts or parts of acts, which allow any matter whatever, to pass through the U. S. Mails, free of postage.—It is quite likely that the Senate will consider this matters a little, before they pass it.

Correspondence Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, Jan. 20.

The "York Pig" was 306, not 396 days old when slaughtered; making the gain from age of 4 weeks, 1 5-9 lbs per day.

In the case of Mr. Bennett's pig, which you think is "rather beating our York pig," I fail to see it, for if he gained 1 13-20 lbs. per day for 231 days, that would give 336 lbs more than his entire weight as stated (330), not allowing for his weight when taken.

Allow his weight at 9 lbs. when he commenced gaining, that will give a gain of 1 6-13 lbs. per day for 231 days, and that is not equal to 1 5-9.

So by these figures I shall contend that the "York pig" aint beat yet?

Yours again, SQUIB.

THE LABOR REFORM CONVENTION at Concord, on Friday, was a mixed up affair. The managers ran the machine in the interests of the Democratic party, but so transparently that they failed of their object. They refused admission to the regular delegation from Manchester, composed of mechanics, and admitted a bogus delegation of lawyers, &c.

The delegations on appearing with their credentials were required to sign the following pledge before being admitted:—

We, the undersigned, pledge our honor as men and citizens, that we take seats in this convention for the purpose of nominating candidates for the support of an independent political party, to be known as the Labor Reform Party of New Hampshire. In doing this we disconnect ourselves from all political parties with which we have heretofore acted, and pledge ourselves to support on the second Tuesday of March the candidates nominated by this convention.

This, many refused to do and finally the Manchester delegation retired to the Phenix to organize a convention whose action should be open and above board. They were followed by the Portsmouth and other delegations to the number of 100. Mr. Stevens of Manchester stated to the delegates the position in which they were placed. He was followed by Mr. Chas. W. Gardner of Portsmouth, who made a stirring speech endorsing the action of the Manchester delegates and announced that the Portsmouth delegation unanimously concurred.

The Convention was then organized by the choice of Chas. W. Gardner of Portsmouth, as President, and S. Wilson of Manchester, as Secretary.

The credentials of the delegates were placed on file, and various committees appointed. A series of resolutions, forming a permanent organization called the Labor League of New Hampshire, favoring labor reform and declaring it inexpedient to nominate candidates for State officers, passed unanimously.

After listening to speeches from many delegates the following members of the State Central Committee were chosen, after which the Convention adjourned.

Manchester, Daniel S. Holt, Robert F. Moore; Concord, Lysander H. Carroll; Portsmouth, Chas. W. Gardner, Geo. W. Marston; Conway, Levi Quint; Dover, Frederick A. Orne; Amherst, F. W. Holbrook; Lebanon, Jos. W. Cleveland; Farmington, Samuel A. Seavey; Nashua, Tyler T. Shattuck; Newport, Benj. F. Sawyer; Keene, Solon S. Wilkinson.

The rump (copperhead) convention nominated Samuel Flint of Lynn for Governor; Jas. A. Weston of Manchester had 54 votes. Roberts of Rollinsford was nominated for Railroad road Commissioner. Flint is a fit representative of the clique which nominated him. He is a strong advocate of the payment of the government bonds in currency and taxation of the bonds.

New Hampshire Items.

L. C. Legg of Dover has purchased the celebrated trotting horse Martin Luther of G. F. Nutter, New Durham, for $2,000.

The Enquirer has been shown the plans drawn by Edward Blaisdell of Dover, of the new dwelling house about to be erected by Col. Andrew H. Young on one of his choice lots in the Ricker field. It will be 40 feet square, built on a corner lot with elegant fronts on two streets, with French roof, and the whole cost when completed will probably be not far from $10,000.

J. B. Young, Esq. and wife celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding Wednesday evening, Jan. 19th, at Barrington.

Dr. John Bell of Dover has been called to the chair of Surgery and Obstetrics in Dartmouth Medical College.

Charles Coburn, recently Agent of the Belknap Mills, and G. S. Neal of Lake Village have purchased the machinery in the "Appleton Mill" on the Laconia side of Lake Village, and taken a lease of the Mills. They will commence operating them at once.

The suspension of the Belknap Mills is suspended. The corporation has paid its debts at the rate of one hundred cents on a dollar. Those few who sold their claims at 50 per cent. discount, now see where they missed it. It is a matter of rejoicing at Laconia that the mills are again running. R. M. Bailey of Boston is now the principal owner, and J. W. Guernsey Agent.

New Publications Received.

CHRONICLES OF OLD TIMES.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The Portsmouth Privateers of 1812.

NUMBER FOUR.

The privateer schooner Thomas sailed from this port, Jan. 4, 1813, on a cruise.

A libel was filed in the U. S. District Court of N. H., Feb. 27, 1813, by Capt. Samuel Evans, of the U. S. frigate Chesapeake, against the British ship Volunteer, Capt. Ashby,—and against 50 tubs of Butter belonging to the British government!

We don't remember anything about the butter; but we do remember the Volunteer very well, as a handsome vessel, and large for that day, between four and five hundred tons, as she lay at the head of Portsmouth Pier, on the northerly side. She had a fine bell, many guns, perhaps 20, was well found every way, and painted in better taste than most ships of that period.

The prize ship Ralph Nickerson arrived in this port from Salem, April 5, 1813, loaded with ship timber, which was bought by the U. S. Government, and worked up into the Washington 74.

A privateer, reported to be the British privateer Liverpool Packet, went into York Harbor, Me., one night in April, 1813, and called herself a Salem privateer. Some of her crew spent the night on shore.

The privateer Thomas, Capt. Shaw, sailed again on a cruise, April 29, 1813; and on the 27th of May we read this item, under the head of Successful Privateering:

"The privateer schr. Thomas, Shaw, of this port, has arrived at Wiscasset, with the British ship Dromio, from Liverpool for Halifax, with a cargo invoiced at 70,000 pounds sterling. The Thomas has also captured and sent into Boothbay, the British brig Phebe, cargo worth 4000 pounds sterling."

Here is another item from the same paper:

"The privateer schr. Governor Plumer, of this port, was captured on Thursday morning, within a few leagues from this harbor, by the Sir J. Sherbroke, and ordered for Halifax. The Governor Plummer had previously captured a ship and two brigs: one of the latter was burnt; the other was from Waterford, bound to Halifax, with a cargo of provisions, and arrived here last evening."

This prize was the brig David. We remember that an ardent Republican, interested in the Gov. P., as he came in to dinner one day, made this remark:—"We have lost our Governor Plumer on the sea and on the land." The latter allusion was to the State Election, when John Taylor Gilman succeeded Mr. Plumer as Governor. The vessel we think was new, and built for a privateer.

We close this chapter with the Cruise and Capture of the Gov. P., copied from the War Journal of June 4, 1813.

LOSS OF THE PRIVATEER GOVERNOR PLUMER.—The privateer sch. Governor Plumer, Mudge, of this port, was captured on Jeffries, on Thursday, 27th ult., by the British privateer brig Sir John Sherbroke, and ordered for Halifax. The second officer, Freeman and nine of the crew were paroled, put on board a fishing boat and arrived in town on Friday morning. Capt. Mudge and the remainder of the crew were probably sent to Halifax.

The Gov. Plumer has taken the following prizes:—April 21, recaptured a sch. from Norfolk, laden with corn, which had been captured by the frigate Orpheus, and ordered her in:—May 14, captured British brig Helen, from Pool for Newfoundland, in ballast, and burnt her:—May 18, brig David, from Waterford, (Ireland,) for Newfoundland, with a valuable cargo, and ordered her in:—May 19, ship Duck, from do. for do. with a valuable cargo, and ordered her in.

Off Newfoundland, the G. P. was attacked by 6 barges, containing about 30 men each, sent out for the purpose of capturing her; when within pistol shot, the G. P. opened a severe fire upon them, and they made for the shore, with the loss of one boat. Next day, a Packet, of 12 guns and well manned, was sent out for the same purpose, and an engagement took place, which lasted about an hour and a half, when the packet sheered off with considerable loss. The G. P. had but 30 of her crew on board at the time of the engagement, and 52 prisoners. A few of her crew were slightly wounded.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,
AT 236 WASHINGTON STREET,
Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. Ja27d3w

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It neutralizes the poison of an angry sore as surely as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is not hypothesis; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Disease.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—use cuts scarcely meaning each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throat, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koscinsko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal page of its curative components has been published by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feeler are are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoia.

It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

WORK IN NAVY YARDS.—In Congress, on Thursday, The House, at 3.30 o'clock, went into committee of the whole on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

Mr. Myers of Pennsylvania called the attention of the chairman of the committee on appropriations [Mr Dawes] to the fact that the appropriations for construction and steam engineering were exhausted. In consequence an order had been sent out, a few days ago, to several navy yards, to suspend all work in these bureaus after February 18th. He said that 5000 men would thus be thrown out of employment, and asked how soon an appropriation would be made.

Mr. Dawes of Massachusotts replied that he was not informed of the fact officially, and when he should be the committee would no doubt take action.

KITTERY.—The free bridge question is becoming of great importance to the citizens of this and the adjoining towns of Eliot and York. It is said the citizens of Kittery will institute measures at an early day with a view of making the bridge at this place a free one—a result which would tend to increase the business of the place as well as greatly enhance its taxable property. This question is also attracting the attention of many of the business men of Portsmouth, who fully appreciate its importance to the business interests of that place.—Biddeford Democrat.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

NEWCASTLE, Jan. 28.

Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett delivered a fine, able Lecture before the citizens of this place, Thursday evening. It was well calculated to stimulate, guide and warn the ambitious young man or woman in the right path to success in life. He dwelt upon what constitutes true success in life, and the right way to obtain it. This or a similar lecture ought to be delivered in every town in the State. This is the first of a course to be given by gentlemen from your city and this vicinity,—the next being by Geo. W. Haven, Esq. x.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

PORTSMOUTH FIER CO.—It has recently been reported that Messrs. Samuel Adams & Co. and C. E. Walker & Co. have purchased the wharves and buildings of the Portsmouth Fier Co. for the sum of $12,450. We learn that they have not actually purchased the whole property, but have secured by purchase a controlling interest in the Capital Stock of the Company, which is now composed of 84 shares of a par value of $200.00. These gentlemen are now the holders of 44 shares, and are ready to purchase all that can be sold, at the same rate, which was $150 per share for the real estate and franchise of the corporation, and two dollars extra per share for the personal property on hand. There are a few shares belonging to the American Peace Society which can not be transferred, and we understand that no person is authorized to receive the dividends standing to its credit. The Fier Co. was incorporated in 1795 with a very liberal perpetual charter, under which various kinds of enterprises can be carried on; and it was under its privileges, that the Company were for some years engaged in the whaling business. This Company suffered severely by the fire of 1813, which destroyed all their fine large brick stores on Water street and other buildings. The four story brick block on Water street was rebuilt after that fire, and was considered the best in New England for its intended purpose.

Mr. Daniel D. Wyatt, the "veteran printer" whose death was noticed in the last Journal, was not a graduate of the Gazette office, but served his time in the Journal office as we are informed by one who was his fellow apprentice in 1824 and 25, when the Journal was printed by Charles Turell.

PERSONAL.—We learn that John J. Pickering Esq., Cashier of the Rockingham National Bank and J. Horace Jenness will leave this city on Monday next for an extended tour in Europe.

—Kate Field has one of those faces that suggests rather than defines beauty. She is fair and roundly developed, has a tiny hand and foot, a profusion of brown hair, and a mellow, charming voice.

—Spriggins says he once prevented a severe case of hydrophobia, by simply getting on a high fence, and waiting until the dog left.

—The first record of sugar planting which we know of is when Adam and Eve are spoken of as having raised Cain.

☞ The remains of Mr. Peabody were embalmed by Dr. Pavy, a distinguished English physician. He injected all the arteries first with a solution of arsenic and corrosive sublimate; and then, after a lapse of twenty-four hours, with a saturated solution of tannic acid. By these means the softer tissues are actually converted into leather, and decomposition is effectually arrested. Into the cavitities of the chest and abdomen there was also introduced a paste of arsenic, camphor and spirit; and the coffin was lined with a layer of animal charcoal.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.—At the conclusion of the trial of Scammon vs Wood, last week, Case No. 74 Stearns vs Bennett and others, was taken up and occupied the attention of the court all the past week. It will be given to the Jury this afternoon. This case involves the title to land in Deerfield. The Pliff. claims by mortgage from John D. Blake, and the Defts. by set off upon execution against Blake, alleging the mortgage to be fraudulent. A case involving the same point against one of the defts. has already been decided in favor of the same pliff.

NEWSPAPER LIBEL SUITS.

The proprietor of this paper has been selected by certain ambitious parties and speculative lawyers, as the special object for libels suits, upon alleged causes and pretexts of the most flimsy character. If such suits can be maintained, it would be impossible to conduct an independent and useful journal. While conducting a newspaper without malice against any one, and holding ourselves bound to exercise diligence and discretion, so as to avoid doing injury to any one, we cannot consent to the abridgement of our rights and powers as faithful journalists, to comment on the acts of public officers and others who may be proper subjects for remark and censure. Nor can we refuse to other citizens the use of our columns for that purpose.

If in doing so any wrong is done to any one, we always hold ourselves ready to repair it. But if parties cognizant of the absence of any malice or intention to injure them, choose to reject the proffer of such reparation as is proper in us and ought to be satisfactory to them, and resort to suits for damages, we shall be prepared to meet them in such suits and to resist all such claims and defend the rights of the press to the very last stiver of our means.

One of these suits, which has been prosecuted with unusal vigor and zeal for three days, came to a conclusion this morning in the Sixth District Court, by a verdict in our favor. As the case involved interesting points relative to the law of libel and the rights of newspapers, we shall consider it our duty to give at least an abridged report of the same for the benefit of the public, and especially for the edification of the enterprising lawyers who have embarked in the libel business in this city.

Justic Perret, of Jefferson, instituted in March last, a suit in the Sixth District Court, for a defamatory and malicious libel, putting his damages at $10,000. The libel consisted of an advertisement signed by five individuals, charging that certain policemen had violently arrested the subscribers, drawing revolvers on them, and extorted from them five dollars, adding "what made the case more horrible, they were accompanied by Justice Perret." The card was signed by the parties who complained of the alleged outrage, and their avowed place of residence was given.

They were advised by the managing editor and the supervisor of advertisements not to make the publication, as it was not well written. They, however, protested that they were responsible citizens, and complained that there should be any hesitation in giving them the same rights as other persons to make known their grievances through a newspaper. Their residences were given and the advertisement was published as a personal in small type.

Judge Perret instituted a suit for libel against these parties, and the Sheriff could never find them to make service of the petition and citation. Then he instituted suit against the proprietor of the N. O. Times for $10,000 damages, charging that the advertisement was a malicious and defamatory publication.

It was proved that Justice Perret was a gentleman of good reputation, as a man and a magistrate, and that the parties subscribing the card in question were behaving in a disorderly manner, and were arrested by the police and fined by the Justice five dollars, and then discharged. It was also proved that the managers of the N. O. Times were prudent, experienced and intelligent gentlemen, and that in accepting and publishing the advertisement they acted in the usual course of their duties and business, and without any malicious intent.

These were the main facts of the case, and upon them the plaintiff's counsel, admitting in the record that no actual damage was done the plaintiff, and no malice proved, argued at great length, and with a large array of authorities that malice was implied and exemplary damages ought to be inflicted.

On the other hand it was argued for the defendant that no malice could be implied of the conductor of a newspaper publishing an advertisement, which might be defamatory, in the course of his business, without a knowledge of the parties; that the doctrine of vindictive damages did not apply to a case of this character; that when no intention to injure existed, and the principal employed competent and discreet agents, no recovery could be had but for the damages actually suffered.

It was also shown that the rights of newspapers and the law of libel had undergone such changes in the last 25 years, that no presumptions of malice could be allowed against the conductors of public journals,—that evidence must be given to show gross carelessness, and actual ill-will against the parties complaining. The case was finally given to the Jury in the following elaborate and able charge by Judge Cooley —a charge which well deserves the public attention as one of the fullest and ablest expositions of the law of libel, as it relates to newspapers, which has ever been rendered in this country.

The plaintiff claims damages for injuries sustained by him from a certain publication in the newspaper of which the defendant is proprietor, and which publication he alleges to be libelous.

You have heard the evidence, and have before you the publication which was the cause of the present suit, and it will be your first duty to examine that evidence, and ascertain, first whether the article was, as alleged by plaintiff, published by the defendant, and, secondly, whether the averments of the article or publication were true or false, and, thirdly, whether, the article is an editorial, an anonymous communication, or an advertisement.

A libel is a wrong occasioned by printing, writing or publishing any remarks which reflect injuriously upon an individual. It must be calculated to have the effect to injure or blacken the reputation, or expose the individual to whom it refers to public hatred, contempt or ridicule, or charge facts which under the laws constitute a crime or offence. To amount to a libel the language must be defamatory and false; and if it be shown to you that the language was both defamatory and false, then the law implies malice.

Under our constitution, the liberty of the press is guaranteed by an express prohibition to the Legislature to pass any law which shall restrain that liberty; but it also provides that an abuse of that liberty shall be punished. In a free government like ours, it is essential that the press should be free and unshackled. When its efforts are properly directed, the amount of good it can accomplish is incalculable. The founders of our government had this truth in view when they adopted as the organic law of the land a constitution which specially prohibits any restraint being enforced upon the liberty of the press; and in passing upon the conduct of the defendant as calculated to defame and injure the plaintiff, you must never lose sight of the great principle which this great prohibition consecrates, viz: that a free press is indispensable in a free government. And this is the reason, gentleman, that American decisions, and indeed the latest decisions in England, have so much modified the rigor of the laws which affix a liability upon newspapers for libelous publications.

Malice, either express or implied, is absolutely necessary to be shown in order that plaintiff should recover. Malice, in its common acceptation, means ill-will, but in its legal sense it is a wrongful act, intentionally or voluntarily done, without legal justification or excuse. The act must be wrongful; it must have been intentionally and voluntarily performed; and there must have existed no legal justification or excuse for its commission. But this malice, whether express or implied, may be refuted: and it devolves upon the defendant to produce such proof. It is competent for him, as going to show the want of malice, to prove that the article was published without his knowledge; that it came to his paper through the ordinary channels of public news; and that the parties from whom it was received were men about whose credibility there existed at the time no reasonable suspicion.

These remarks apply to the liability of proprietors of newspapers for publishing libelous articles, either as editorials or anonymous communications; but I take it sound reason and justice require that the rule of responsibility should be different when the publication complained of is not an editorial or an anonymous communication, but on the contrary, contains the name and residence of the writer. In this last case the same degree of liability cannot with propriety be exacted from the proprietor of a newspaper. If the same responsibility were enforced in both cases, it would, in my judgment, amount to a complete stoppage of all such publishing enterprises; and I believe it to be the true spirit of our institutions rather to encourage than to prevent their existence.

I consider the rule to be that malice will be presumed in relation to publications which are proven to be defamatory and false, whether these publications are either editorials or anonymous communications; but there exists no such legal presumption of malice when the publication is one in the nature of an advertisement, the verity of which is vouched for by the signature and residence of the party asking its publication. In such a case, none of the reasons which vindicate the rules presuming malice in the other exists, and it would be senseless to apply rules, when the reasons for their existence have ceased.

Therefore, you will first decide as to the proper character of the publication complained of, whether it is an editorial or an anonymous communication, or an advertisement. If you find that the publication is either an editorial or an anonymous communication, you will then consider whether the averments therein have been proved to be defamatory and false. If you are satisfied that it is an editorial or an anonymous communication, and that its averments are defamatory and false, then you can infer that it was maliciously published, and you will give a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for such damage as in your opinion will compensate the wrong committed, and serve as a punishment to the defendant for his offence.

If, on the contrary, you conclude that the publication was merely an advertisement, then you cannot infer malice on the part of the defendant, simply from the fact that the advertisement is both defamatory and false. In the case of an advertisement signed by parties who give their residence, it is the plff's duty to prove malice, and unless he does so he cannot recover any damages. The distinction between an editorial and an advertisement constitutes the reason for the difference of liability in the two cases. In the first, the charge if defamatory and false, comes from the proprietor himself; he vouches upon his own responsibility for the truth of the publication, and should be held strictly accountable if the publication turn out to be false and defamatory.

But in the case of an advertisement bearing the signature and residence of the party who wishes its publication, the proprietor cannot be said to vouch for the truth of the averments or charges in the publication. Nobody in the community would believe the charges true, because they knew the proprietor of the paper to be a responsible man; in such a case, the public would look to the character of the author of the publication, to believe or disbelieve the charge.

If the parties signing the advertisement are shown to be men who were known to the proprietor of the paper, and known by him to be men entitled to no credit; or if the circumstances existing at the time were such that an ordinarily prudent man ought to have been on his guard, and ought to have made inquiries, then the proprietor could not claim the benefit of being presumed without malice. But if the circumstances under which the advertisement was inserted were the usual ones in such cases—and there was nothing in existence at the time to excite the suspicion of a prudent man—then the publication is free from the presumption of malice, however defamatory and false it may have been; and no damages can be awarded by you unless the plaintiff has shown malice on the part of defendant by evidence outside of the publication itself.

The Jury, after a short retirement, returned a verdict for defendant.

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR

LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtasks or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and those still more peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this pill, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; it is extensively introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

COUNTY ITEMS.—The Baptist Church in Salem, N. H. has recently erected a house of worship.

Deerfield has a Farmers' Club, of which E. P. Chase is President. One evening of late the Fruit culture was discussed. Another, the subject was Manures.

The only member of the Massachusetts Legislature this year, who was a native of Rockingham County, is Chas. L. Woodbury, a lawyer in Boston. He was a native of Portsmouth, and a son of the late Geo. Levi Woodbury.

Rev. P. S. Burbank, who has been pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church in Danville 6 years, designs to leave there in the Spring.

Rev. T. S. Robie of Salmon Falls has supplied the Congregational church at Raymond several Sabbaths, and it is expected he will take charge there.

Raymond High School closed its Winter term Jan. 27. The number of pupils was 58. Deaths in Raymond in 1869,—26.

The Chester Academy, in charge of Miss Coolidge, had 75 pupils the late term.

Rev. N. Day of Newton, has been pastor of the Christian Society in that town 14 years. His friends assembled in large numbers recently, and gave him a liberal donation. Rev. A. Brown, pastor of the Baptist church in that town, has resigned.

On the 19th, of Jan., Wayland Sargent of Plaistow was killed by the upsetting of a load of wood on wheels.
COR.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

DEPARTED this life, Jan. 20th, Mr. DANIEL KELSEY of Nottingham, aged 64 years and 7 months. It is seldom that we are called to chronicle the death of a citizen more worthy than Mr. K. He was one of the noble few in this vicinity, who volunteered their services in the prime of life, to battle in behalf of human freedom and temperance, at a time when it cost something to show one's colors in the sight of the enemy. In fact, he was a friend to every reform that would benefit his fellow man. He has lived to see the destruction of the Moloch of human chattelhood in his native land. He has also long and anxiously desired, and labored as far as he could, for the destruction of the next great evil, viz., intemperance.

He was a man of strict probity and reliability, and of unblemished character. He was courteous and respectful, and his house was ever open to strangers, and his table free to all. Ministers and private christians of all religious denominations received a welcome greeting at his mansion. He was an ardent friend of education and religion, and placed his children under the beneficial influences of the same. He will be missed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who esteemed him as a kind and faithful husband, an affectionate father, a good citizen, an obliging neighbor, and an honest man. He leaves a devoted wife with nine interesting children, one only brother and two sisters, and numerous other relatives and friends, to mourn their loss. May a propitious providence bless this mournful event to their present and future spiritual good. B. VAN DAME.
NOTTINGHAM, N. H., Jan. 25th.

SOUTH BERWICK is the seat of the oldest Academy in the State of Maine. Its charter bears the bold signature of that stern old patriot, John Hancock, as Governor, who signed his name first to the Declaration of American Independence in large and plain characters, so that George III. might not be mistaken.

South Berwick is an old town, but she is not in her dotage. This town was orinally a part of Kittery, settled in 1628, and called "the Parish of Unity." It was incorporated Feb. 12th, 1764. Among the first settlers was Humphrey Chadbourne, who purchased a tract of land from the Indians; upon a part of which Berwick Academy is now located. Valuation, 1850, polls 501; Estates $676,377.

—Scandalous rumors are in circulation in regard to the conduct of Prince Louis of Hesse, the consort of Princess Alice of England. He is said to have seduced nearly all the the maids of his wife; and the latter, it is reported, will return to her royal mother in England.

—What grows the less tired, and the more is worked? A wagon wheel.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other Foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching Patents. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice-rejected app ications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

MONDAY, JAN. 31, 1870.

LABOR REFORM, LABOR REFORMERS AND THEIR MANNER OF REFORMATION. That the laboring men may by counseling together, inaugurate plans that will prove beneficial to them as a class, is self-evident; that they may be led to commit grave errors, is as true; and that they may become the tools of designing politicians, is proved by the action of the convention which nominated S. Flint of Lyme for Governor, last week.

Here was a convention called by a self appointed committee, and friends of labor were invited to send delegates. About 250 delegates went to Concord to attend the convention with regular certified credentials. The managers admitted bogus delegations composed of lawyers and democratic politicians, and made up delegations from towns that had not chosen delegates. Some of these delegates were obliged to sign a pledge to vote for the nominees of the convention and some were not. Persons not elected delegates were admitted to the floor without credentials, and a whole delegation of 34 mechanics and laboring men from Manchester were finally refused admission.

This course disgusted the delegates from many towns, who went to Concord to take part in the proceedings. They were required to sign the pledge, and refused. A separate convention was then organized by 100 regularly chosen delegates, and that convention was composed of a majority of the regularly elected delegates to the Labor Reform Convention!

The managers of the Flint Convention knew that with these 100 delegates in their convention, they had no chance of nominating a labor candidate at this time. And that is why they went so systematically to work to prevent their admission.

One of the most prominent leaders in the farce went home in a subdued frame of mind, after being acquainted with the action of the rejected delegation. In conversation he admitted that a great mistake had been made. Scores of the delegates who had swallowed the pledge which bound them to support the nominee, repented too late, and indignantly denounced the trickery of the managers.

The eagerness of the "Reformers" to carry out their cut-and-dried programme only hastened the reaction in favor of those who composed the Convention which voted to make no nominations.

By their fruits shall ye know them. John R. Palmer, of Dover, was the editor of the Democratic Standard of Concord, which was abolished by the soldiers of the 1st N. H. Regiment in 1861. Flint, the candidate for Governor, favors the payment of bonds in greenbacks; while Roberts, the candidate for Railroad Commissioner, is a bitter copperhead. Their doings have undone them, and if they poll 500 votes, 475 of them will be democrats. But we predict that the leaders who duped the unsuspecting delegates of that convention will not waste their votes on the nominees; firstly, because they probably signed no pledge to support them; secondly, because most of them would not hesitate to violate their pledge if they did sign.

Robert P. Kemp, consul at Athens, reports the total destruction, by an earthquake on the morning of December 29, of the town of Santa Maura, on one of the Ionian plains of that name. On the date of advices, January 1, ten dead and fifty wounded men had been taken from the ruins. Not a house was left standing. The survivors slept in the open air under tents.

Seven men were frozen to death between Pembina and Fort Abercrombie on Sunday.

A great battle with Indians has been fought and won by the United States troops in Montana. Nearly two hundred Indians were killed and an immense amount of their property destroyed.

The vacant seats in the Georgia legislature have been filled by voting into them candidates who received the number of votes nearest the number received by those originally declared elected.

Corbin has testified before the Congressional committee, on Friday, that neither President or Mrs. Grant were involved in the gold conspiracy, as neither knew of it previous to its publicity. Corbin seems to have pulled the wool successfully over the eyes of Fisk and Gould.

The Republicans have a majority in both branches of the Georgia legislature.

Bear chief and 20 followers were Indians. They have gone to the happy hunting grounds, women, children and all. Col. Baker's U. S. force sent them there.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, Friday, John H. Johnson, senator from Virginia, was qualified and took a seat.

Mr. Sherman of Ohio offered a resolution, which was agreed to, directing the committee on appropriations to inquire into the expediency of transferring to the surplus fund all the balances of appropriations remaining unexpended on the 1st of July next, except permanent and indefinite appropriations, which may be transferred without injury to the public service.

In the House, James C. Gibson of Va. appeared and was qualified.

A bill abolishing the office of Congressional Printer and providing for a Superintendent of Printing was passed.

Mr. Churchill of New York, from the committee on elections, made a report in the case of the claimants to seats from Georgia, under the election of April 20th, 1868, declaring them not entitled to their seats. The claimants were admitted to their seats at the last Congress, and claim to be entitled, under the June election, to seats in the present Congress. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts asked and obtained the floor, for the purpose, as he said, of saying a few words in addition in the defence of the republican party and the republican administration. It would stand the assaults made by the gentleman from Indiana, [Mr. Voorhees,] in his beautiful periods, but it could not stand an assault in the house of its friends. He declared that his colleague [Mr. Dawes] yesterday had controverted no word, figure, calculation or estimate which he [Butler] had submitted to the country the day before, with one exception, and that was as to the error of $400,000 or $500,000 over and above the error of $7,000,000 in the estimate for the Post Office Department. He explained how the error in the post office estimate was made by adding the estimated revenue of the department over its estimated expenditures. What had prevented his colleague from stating in his first speech the particulars of the interview which he had with the President? He would pass over what his colleague had said about the President's warming him (Mr. Butler) into life. He thought he had been liberal and lively for some time past. [Laughter.] He was not torpid by any means. If he was he wondered what his colleague would think of him when warmed up. [Laughter.] He thanked God that he never had been warmed into life by any man or by any society that could boost him higher than he could get himself. He had never had any trouble on that score. He kept no newspaper or newspaper reporter in his pay to trumpet his praise. He was not easily warmed into life, and he was still more hard to kill. [Laughter.] Commenting on Mr. Dawes' allusion yesterday to the 5000 supernumerary army officers, he reminded the House that he (Butler) had reported to the last Congress a bill to stop that abuse, and got it through the committee of the whole, and that in the vote in the House the bill had been defeated, the vote of his colleague (Dawes) leading the van in opposition. In conclusion he asked his colleague whether, when he sent to the country a statement that the estimates of the year were $331,000,000, he did not know that the Secretary of the Treasury, the official organ of the administration on the subject of estimates, had reported to the House that only $291,000,000 was needed. If he knew that fact why had he not stated it, in justice to a friendly administration, before attacking every member of it from the President down; and did he not know he was comparing estimates with the post-office and revenue expenses added in, with the appropriations from which the revenue had been deducted? If he knew these facts, why did he not make the correction, and if he did not know them, why did he speak at all?

Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts, obtaining the floor, said he had sought to state that it was not in the power of his colleague by anything that he could further utter on the subject to involve him in further debate on it. What he (Dawes) had said on the subject had gone to the country. What his colleague had said on it had gone to the country. He did not desire to add to, or to qualify, anything he had said. He was content with the judgment of the country, and was prepared and ready to move on the work.

Mr. Ketchum of New York presented a petition of Admirals Farragut and Porter and seventy-four other naval officers for a division of the "retired" and "reserved" lists into two classes.

Rev. William A. Cram of Hampton Falls, who recently graduated at the Cambridge Divinity School, has settled as pastor of the Unitarian Church of Augusta, Maine.

The Rochester Courier says Capt. P. C. Ham of New Durham, in May last bought a hog of the "male persuasion" weighing 175 pounds gross. After being gelded he was fed on corn meal for eight months and one day, when he was slaughtered and produced 625 pounds of pork, being an average gain of over two pounds of pork per day. His swineship was a huge craft, measuring eight feet from stern to stern.

The case of Geo. Ham. of Exeter, who plead guilty to a complaint for smartly whipping one Stephen R. Smith, was tried before Justice Woodman, and terminated in the payment of a fine of three dollars and costs—amounting to eight dollars. Stephen R. Smith was then arraigned for ill treatment of Jacob Smith, a harmless citizen; this case could not be well disposed of, as one of the witnesses, as well as the defendant, was thought to be slightly inebriated, —causing a postponement of the trial one week.

One of the oldest citizens of Derry, Mr. Richard Melvin, died Jan. 16th, aged 84. Mr. Melvin was a man of public spirit, one of the chief supporters of the Congregational society, and took care in his Will that the Society should still have aid from his estate, by leaving it one thousand dollars.

Mr. David Sleeper of Sandown is totally blind. He is forty-five years of age; and at twenty he lost the sight of one eye, and ten years later that of the other. He enjoys good health and labors most of the time. He chops wood and makes it into coal; and can do almost any kind of work. He can mow as much grass as the average of hands that receive two dollars a day for their labor. His method is to have a boy accompany him as a guide, and to guard him against stones, holes, ditches, etc. He cuts his grass well and grinds his own scythe, and he can load hay much better than most farmers.

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It neutralizes the poison of an angry sore as surely as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is no hypothesis; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Diseased.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force, as is always the case when unmodulated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of the bile secreted in excess brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever had known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,
AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that the medical profession have yet produced. It combines two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

☞ The second of Winter's legitimate three months closes Monday, but it would not be strange if we get more real cold weather in the next two than we had in the last three months.

Saturday gave us another little snow-storm—winding up, as is the fashion, this season, with rain and slosh late in the afternoon,—but during the night about a foot of snow fell, which gave us sleighing on Sunday.

The trees and bushes were loaded down by the damp snow more than we ever knew before—many of them with a burden greater than they could bear, —and numerous trunks and branches were broken off—obstructing sidewalks, streets and roads in all directions, and prostrating telegraph wires, &c. All the lines from this city were down.

☞ The Entertainment for this evening only, at the Temple, is said to be half-a-dozen Troupes combined, and to be tip-top of the kind. We are requested to recommend it, but have no personal knowledge of the parties, other than through Mr. Tighe, the gentlemanly and reliable agent. See their advertisement and beautiful bills.

☞ The Empire Minstrels had a very good house on Friday evening, on the occasion of their first appearance here; and we are informed that their entertainment exceeded the expectations of many patrons, and was quite up to the average of such exhibitions by professional troupes.

☞ It has always been a mystery to us, why men owning or living on good farms, should desire positions on the Navy Yard. A farmer's life is the happiest in the world, as well as the most profitable, even pecuniarily considered.

☞ The Portsmouth Navy Yard has within a few years been moved to Kittery; but the Exeter News Letter is the first, to our knowledge, to locate Seavey's Island at the Shoals.

☞ We hear that a movement is on foot by which the Navy Yard workmen may remain at work, and get their pay after Congress shall have passed the necessary appropriation.

NOT OF THE EMERALD ISLE.—The author of "A Bad Boy" (more loved than any goody boy), Thomas Bailey Aldrich, writes to the Springfield Republican, to correct a blunder of a correspondent of that paper—who thus referred to him:

"He was short and slight in form; hair curly and abundant; fair face and beardless: expression slightly Hibernian, and his speech characterized by just enough of his native accent or brogue to give it grace and beauty."

To this Mr. Aldrich says:

It is well known that all the natives of the foreign town in which I was born —Portsmouth, N. H. speak with a rich Irish brogue; but they are very sensitive on that point, and do not like to have it mentioned. I share this morbid sensitiveness with my stricken townsmen, and though I forgive "R. H. H." for having the bad taste to rake up and publish the boyish poem (I did write the verses, and suppose I ought to suffer for it), I do not forgive him for robbing me of my nationality. It is in vain, then, that I sacrificed my great-grandfather on the altar of his country in the revolutionary war; it is in vain my grandfather (Capt. Nutter) did his best to get killed in 1812, and was restrained only by main force from enlisting in the 2d New Hampshire Regiment during the rebellion,—it is in vain, I repeat, that I am a three-ply ingrain Yankee by descent, if a gossip-monger with ears like Bottom's, after he was translated, may start up and tell me that I am an Irishman!

I make no terms with "R. H. H." He cannot now, even if he were inclined, undo the mischief. Of all the journals that have copied his statement probably not one in ten would reprint a retraction. Thus many a well-disposed person will go down to his grave with the impression that my real name is possibly Malooney, and that I am not, as I am, yours very faithfully,

THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

☞ We like to see suitable respect paid to the memory of the deceased; but we expect there will be a great deal of ceremony this week, of which it may be said the occasion would be "more honored in the breach than the observance." George Peabody did some good with his money, but he waited until he could not keep it much longer ere he let it go. He was a successful money-getter, and came rather near deserving the name of miser; and his example is not half so worthy of emulation, or his memory so dear, as that of hosts of other citizens, who are benevolent and public-spirited all through life. Nevertheless, it is well enough for England and the United States to honor his memory; but much of the pomp and ceremony on the occasion is worse than idle.

It is reported that Secretary Robeson disapproves of the sentence of Lt. Com. Seely and will restore him to duty.

☞ The Tug-boat Port Fire made the trip from this port to Portland on Tuesday in seven hours.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

EXETER, Jan. 29.

James Donovan, a lad of five years, was drowned in Exeter river on Thursday, the 27th. Fell through the ice while at play upon it.

Oscar Martin, known also as Eugene Mathews, an operative in the mill at Exeter, was found in the river on the morning of Friday, the 28th, by men engaged searching for the body of the Donovan boy, drowned the day before. Martin had been missing about two weeks, and was intoxicated when last seen. It is understood that he had a family near Providence, R. I. W. H. H.

☞ Mr. J. W. Prescott, of Exeter, gathered May-Flowers in full blossom, Jan. 25th.

☞ It isn't healthy at all to be a ruler of Hayti. The operation is a grab game under the old motto, "who gets, has." Dessalines was assassinated, Christophe suicided to escape an ignominious death, Boger was exiled, Riviere fled and was forever banished, Pierrott retired disgusted, Guerrier was chosen only to die speedily, and Riche followed his example. Soulouque was driven into exile by Geffrard, Geffrard saved his life by following Soulouque. Sylvan Salnave got away "this-a-way."

He was found guilty of high treason, devastation, pillage with arms and assassination, the defence being the similar conduct of Jeff Davis. 15 minutes afterward he was pinioned and taken from the court, attended by two clergymen, to the place of execution. He was then led to a post, planted for the occasion, and a solemn silence ensued. The firing party was then drawn up, and Gen. B. Canal said to Salnave: "You are going to be arraigned as a traitor; Viva la Constitution."

The words, which were the signal for the deadly volley, were taken up by the people, and amid shout of "Viva la Constitution" Sylvan Salnave ceased to exist. His body was then put into a cart and buried among the felons.

Virginia is once more under civil rule.

PERUVIAN SYRUP.—This vauuable medicine has been silently making its way into public favor by the numerous remarkable cures it has performed. Its singular efficacy is owing to the protoxide of iron which in this preparation remains unchanged, and is the only form in which this vital element of healthy blood can be supplied.

THE NEW PATENT

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe one heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation, and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

Liberal terms to Agents.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

A THRILLING TALE. — A charming story in one of our "Monthly Magazines of Literature and Art" has been the occasion of so much pure, unalloyed bliss to me, that I feel moved by the spirit to make a few extracts from it, that the public happiness and virtue may be increased and the public taste elevated thereby. First, comes a description of hero No. 1 of the story:

Young Faulkner danced over the threshold, in elegant costume, and stood with indescribable cordial grace, his extended kid-gloved hands thrown open in playful greeting; the next second he had crumpled off his gloves with an air of sleight-of-hand, and was moving, amid a tumult of welcomes, from person to person, with laughing fascination and gay, tender charm. Of middle height; slender, sinewy and elegant; a figure that naturally fell into beautiful and alluring attitudes; with light-brown curling locks, half shading his low, dense, passionate forehead; dark glances, witching and melancholy; ruddy cheeks; high nose; a manly moustache, coquettishly upturned at the ends; a beautiful laughing mouth; a bold but dimpled chin. Well might women love him!

What a pretty man! and how bewitching his "dense forehead." Hope he'll not come this way, to turn all feminine heads and break all feminine hearts.

He was tall and stalwart, with uncovered head; a brow not large, but full, and seamed with kindly wrinkles; a complexion of rosy clearness; heavy-lidded, firm blue eyes, which had a steadfast and draining regard; a short, thick, gray beard almost white, and thinly-flowing dark-gray hair.

He isn't quite so dangerous as the other fellow, unless the "draining regard" of his eye does damage. I'm not a bit afraid of such an old Boreas.—Here is a second old Boreas watches the man who is beloved of women, as he attempts the seduction of his friend's wife,—and how the husband liked it:

He was looking, with heavy-lidded, draining gaze, into the other room; Faulkner and Emily were there, vivid in the fire-sheen, murmuring to each other, in enchanted attitudes. Behind, in shadow, at a window, with reverted head and chewing lip, pale, silent, vengeful, was John.

That's harrowing enough for anybody—but what a fool John must have been to "revert" his head, instead of watching 'em.—Here is the way another old Boreas took leave of his guests:

The grand old Pennsylvania giant strode away with flamboyant gayety, and a step that shook the floor.

That was Boreas No. 2.—Boreas No. 1 has paid the unfaithful wife a compliment, with the following result:

Emily, dimly startled, thrilled and pleased, stood faintly flushing, her eyes cast down, her hand on her bosom, breathlessly considering.

This is touching; but it is nothing to compare with the following interview between old Boreas No. 1 and the lovely Faulkner, in which the latter is reproached for his charming villainy. This is the way old Boreas blew him up:

"Welcome, sweet boy," he said, as Faulkner advanced gaily. "Welcome, thou in whom mixes the perfumed nature of woman with so much of manliness! I greet you, born lover of women!"

"Lover of you," said Faulkner, blushing coyly, with down-dropped lashes, and drooping into a posture of leopard-grace.

If anybody can find anything nicer than this delicious dialogue between two men, in modern family literature, I should like to see it. Its effect upon my nerves (or stomach) was such, that I at once skipped a dozen pages, and read the following account of a row between the two terrific old gentlemen. This is the way Boreas No. 1 bore down upon the enemy:

He advanced with solemn and stately tread, composed and calm, but dilated to his fullest manly majesty, and, from brow to foot, he seemed all clothed with an august and strong illumination.

Rather thin clothing, that, — but he was a terrible old buck, no doubt.—This is the way Boreas No. 2 cleared for action, to receive him:

Weakened by the recoil of his fury, and bracing himself with violence to meet the one he felt to be his true antagonist; looming in virile brawn, with massive, corrugated lion-face, locked jaws, and eyes like orbs of ferocious azure glow; hard, savage, aroused, redoubtable as an embattled tower, the old man confronted him.

Here the story fell short of my anticipations; for just when I expected (and hoped) that they were going to kill each other, and all the rest of the characters in the story, they sheered off without firing a shot. Instead of fighting, they hugged each other; and had such a manly blubbering-match, — which worked on the bystanders as follows:

One weak voice among them broke into a cheer, the signal for another from beyond; there was a whir swelling into a roar of commotion; and at once, with handkerchiefs wildly waving, figures swaying, women leaping, orbic mouths and faces flaming, out burst the long-pent hurricane in frantic cheers.

They must have had a pretty good time, according to that account.—The beautiful tale winds up in this manner:

Without, was the form of love undying, moveless in icy darkness against the peaceful and tender light of God.

I don't know what that last paragraph means, but it is a passage of great beauty. The whole story, taking up thirty-six pages of a popular "Family Magazine," is splendid,—except the characters, which are unnatural and disgusting, the men being unmanly, and the women of no account,—and the treatment of the subject, which is as bilfalutin as it is namby-pamby, from one end to the other. How such sickening trash can find its way into a magazine whose aim is to "instruct and elevate," is a mystery; for such a mass of twaddle, false sentiment and vulgarity as this story is made up of, can only "elevate" downward the tastes and morals of any human creature whose mind is sufficiently feeble to enjoy reading such stuff. My first impression was, that it was a burlesque; my last, that its author is not wholly lost to a sense of shame, as no name is given. PAKEHA.

A NAVAL DIGNITARY. — George W. Blunt, a ship's instrument maker in N. York city, in virtue of his trade assumes a comical air of infallibility on all nautical and naval matters. Of course the question of staff rank in the navy, having an odor of the ocean about it, commended itself to Mr. Blunt as being peculiarly within his sphere. So he got up a petition to Congress, begging it not to grant the staff officers the rank they claim. Some of them respectfully called his attention to certain mis-statements in his petition, whereupon Blunt writes very bluntly to the U. S. Surgeon that transmitted the reply to him, charging that gentleman and the other staff officers with being "insubordinate" to him. The Tribune prints the correspondence, with an introductory caption expressing wonder what degree of "subordination" Mr. Blunt conceives due to him from the staff officers of the navy.

—About two o'clock on a December night, in Illinois, when the thermometer stood in the neighborhood of zero, a party of wags hailed a farm-house in a very boisterous manner. The farmer sprang out of his bed, drew on a few articles of clothing, and ran out to see what was wanted, when the following interesting dialogue occurred: "Have you any hay, Mr. ——?" "Plenty of it, sir." Have you plenty of corn?" "Yes." "Any oats?" "Yes." "Any eggs?" "Yes." "Any butter?" "Yes." "Plenty of meats and breadstuffs?" "Yes." "Well we are glad to hear it, for they are useful things in a family." The party then drove off, leaving the farmer to his reflections.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

OLDER DEED.—Last week we copied from the Nashua Telegraph a brief notice of a deed conveying a piece of real estate in Rye which was dated 1728, and was thought to be one of the oldest legal documents extant. Mr. J. H. Jenness of this city has a deed of much earlier date, 1668. By this deed "Henry Sherburn of Portsm: in Piscattaqua River yeoman for a valuable consideration In hand pd, sold to the said Tobias Lear of ye Same place mariner"

"a parcel of land from a maked post in ye fence on ye Northwest side down to ye waterside & so up to ye head of a Cove against Thos Odione & thence on a strait line to a little field yt was first fenced in by Jno Sherburn & so Strikeing on ye Northwest of ye highway to a great Rock allowing two rod for a highway: & a pcell of fresh marsh lying up in the woods Containing by Estimation four acres be it more or less wch pcell of fresh marsh Adjoyneth to Some Marsh ye sd Elizabeth Lear now possesseth as also a parcell of salt Marsh lying near ye house wherein Tobias Laugdon late livpd Containing by Estimation five acres be it more or less as it is now fenced in"

In looking up the record of these names we find that this Tobias Lear was brother-in-law to Sherburne, having in 1667 married his sister Elizabeth, widow of Tobias Langdon, near whose residence the "parcell of salt marsh" of five acres was situated. Lear was the ancestor of Gen. Washington's Private Secretary Tobias Lear. The "valuable consideration in hand pd" is not mentioned in the deed.

CORRECTION.— Rev. James Pike who was inadvertantly mentioned in the last Journal as a Freewill Baptist, is, as our readers well know, a Presiding Elder of the Methodist denomination, like the Rev. Mr. Barrows, the Temperance candidate for Governor, but unlike him opposed to separate political action on the temperance question. Rev. R. S. Stubs another leading member of the denomination has written an eloquent letter in opposition to the movement.

PISCATAQUA ASSOCIATION.—The Piscataqua Association held its regular quarterly meeting in this city on Tuesday last. At this meeting the question "What form of invitation should be used in inviting to the Lord's Supper," was discussed, and a majority of the members present favored inviting all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity, not limiting the invitation to members of churches. In the evening Rev. Alvan Tobey, D D. of Durham, preached a valuable and interesting sermon from the words "And Enoch walked with God, and he was not; for God took him." Some weeks ago Dr. Tobey sent his resignation to his people, but they have wisely refused to accept it. Although he has been settled in Durham thirty-six years, he is still vigorous, active and young, and possessed of a rich and varied experience and culture.

We are indebted to Hon. J. H. Ela, for copies of the "Globe" containing in full his very able speech on the subject of a reduction of taxation.

The most delicate invalid can take it attended by no inconvenience; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never over taxes or excites the nervous system. It cures all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and a certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also put up orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

THE TOAST FOR LABOR.

Here's to the man with horny hands,
Who tage at the breathing bellows;
Where anvils ring in every land,
He's loved by all good fellows.

And here's to him who goes afield,
And through the globe is plowing;
Or with stout arm the axe doth wield,
While ancient oaks are bowing.

Here's to the delver in the mine,
The sailor on the ocean,
With those of every craft and line,
Who work with true devotion.

Our love's for her who toils in gloom,
Where cranks and wheels are clanking;
Bereft is she of nature's bloom,
Yet God in patience thanking.

A curse on him who sneers at toil,
And shuns his share of labor,
The knave that robs his native soil,
While leaning on his neighbor.

Here may this truth be brought on earth,
Grow more and more in favor;
There is no wealth but owes its worth
To handicraft and labor.

Then pledge the founders of our wealth—
The builders of our nation;
We know their worth, and now their health
We drink with acclamation.

'CARRY ME BACK TO OLD VIRGINNY.' Brother Campbell of the Manchester Union once published a paper in Virginia, and his lamentations over the present status are truly heart-rending. How he ever could have left the "sacred soil," says the Free Press, passes our comprehension, and he ought to go back immediately. Here is his remedy for Virginia's present troubles:

'We hope Virginia will find a way to save her self-respect, if indeed, it is not already lost. Suppose all the Democratic members of the Legislature resign? When a new election is ordered, let men be elected to resign again—and so on indefinitely. What does Virginia want of a government? Why should she desire to come into such a Union as this? Remembering what she was—what she did to establish the Union—what an empire she gave for the common weal—what illustrious names she gave to our national history—we would rather see her blotted from the map of the world, than humiliated at the feet of such dirty sneaks as Grant and his Congress.

☞ A Maine editor estimates that a foot of snow would be worth $30,000,000 to New England. Millions of feet of logs, he says, are lying in the forests of Maine and New Hampshire waiting the fall of enough snow to enable them to be hauled to market. The oxen and teams recently employed in the work are eating their heads off in the stables; teamsters are idle, and the owners of the lumber are troubled to get money enough to meet the actual expenses of living.

An old deed in possession of Gen. Gilman Marston, of Exeter, bears date A. D., 1645. It is of a parcel of land in Hampton. The writing is legible, and the paper is in a good state of preservation. Gen. Marston also has all the deeds and wills relating to the aforesaid tract of land, which was owned by his ancestors in 1645 or earlier.

Mr. Wayland C. Sargent, of Plaistow, was instantly killed while teaming wood on a side hill. The load tipped over and the hub of one of the wheels crushed his skull. He was alone at the time. The age of the young man was 20.

Ambitious souls desiring the honor of the Presidency of Hayti had best emigrate thitherward. Hayti is seldom troubled with ex-presidents.

A Belfast woman lately sold a litter of kittens to a rag-man, who bought them for paper-rags at three cents a pound.

☞ A Bath, Me., muse mews as follows;

"O wunst I loved annuther gal her name it was murrier, but Betsy deer my love for u is forty times more hier."

MAN, in America, is by training and education democratic; and not only so in principle but in feeling; but woman, trained in its social world, is still aristocratic. Democracy and the republic are a mere sound to her; she believes, however vaguely, in the doctrine of caste, and would do her utmost to establish it in her midst. If our government were delivered wholly into the hands of the women of fashion and society, we should have a monarchy and a hereditary order of nobility established within a twelve-month.—Exchange.

—The Lewiston Journal tells a story that in a case recently on trial in that State a witness incidentally stated that there were three posts in his hog yard. Being asked what they were there for, he replied with some hesitation that his three children were buried there.

TUESDAY, FEB. 1, 1870.

From the Manchester Mirror.

THE TRUE WORKINGMEN'S CONVENTION.—Freedom from Dictation.—Lawyers, Fuglers, Cliquers, Ruled Out.—It has been already announced that certain delegates from Manchester, Portsmouth, and other sections of the State, who did not believe in submitting their consciences to the manipulation of a self-constituted authority of the Labor Reform organization, were shut out from participation in the action of the convention. These men, a hundred in all, did not believe in the theory of a workingmen's party run by such men as John H. Goodale, J. M. Rolston, and other men of the same character, who have never done a day's manual labor since their boyhood. Therefore they refused to subscribe to the "iron-clad" test which Rolston and Goodale, by their own admission, prepared—and, we may say, prepared on purpose to fit easy consciences. The result of this refusal to submit to the rule of dictators was to exclude them from the convention.

In this connection we propose to give a history of the facts which led to a separate and enthusiastic convention.

Certain intimations were thrown out in advance—indeed, it was tauntingly said—that the delegation from this city made up of merchants, lawyers, clerks, students and a few mechanics, would be admitted to the convention while the real mechanics, the true representatives of the industrial interests would be rejected. In order to be fore-armed for any emergency, several of the delegation from this city chosen under the call of Col. Kelly, recognized by Rolston, called at the headquarters of the State Labor Reform Committee, met the Committee on Credentials, were shown the "iron-clad" test, and were told to sign it before their credentials would be considered.

As they were unwilling to sign the document themselves, they notified other members of the delegation, when a meeting of the full delegation was called to consider what course should be adopted. After a free discussion, a committee of six was chosen to appear before the Credentials Committee and present the case. They called, accordingly, and were told, as we have already reported, to sign before any communication could be opened between them and the committee. No questions could be asked or answered, no explanations made, no argument entertained. The delegation must do as the Committee on Credentials directed, or leave the room. After a half-hour's interview, the details of which we will not report, finding it impossible to gain a hearing, and having been falsely accused and insultingly treated by at least two members of the committee, these gentlemen retired and reported to the delegation.

Subsequent meetings were held, and a course of action determined upon. It was decided to go to the door of the convention, and again present their credentials. Many of them went to the hall and offered to sign the test, which they understood to be different from that presented the night before. But they were told it was too late; that they could not be admitted on any condition. After making every reasonable effort for admission, they asked Mr. Foss, of Dover, to present their case to the convention. This was stifled down, Mr. Foss was gagged, and before the members of the convention generally comprehended the case, the whole matter was summarily tabled by order of John H. Goodale, J. M. Rolston, and a few others, for the reason, as Mr. Goodale admits, that they were afraid the Manchester mechanics were in the interest of Mayor Weston!

When the last resource had failed, the Manchester delegation, finding gentlemen from other towns excluded, or unwilling to associate with such dictatorial managers, proposed to meet at the Phenix and "talk the matter over." They accordingly met there, and, one by one, new men came in, until it was found there were representatives from Manchester, Portsmouth, Plainfield, Lebanon, Farmington, Nashua, Andover, Exeter, Candia, Amherst, Keene and Dover.

There were also a few men present from Concord and from some other towns, who came without credentials, prompted by their interest in the movement. As they began to talk in a sort of conference manner, Col. Kelley, Mr. Holt and Mr. Dodge, of Manchester, stated some facts regarding the position and treatment of the Manchester delegation. At length, a gentleman present said he thought something should be said regarding this matter, and he felt, very much like speaking.

"Who are you?" asked some one.

"My name is Gardner," responded the speaker.

"Where from?"

"Portsmouth."

"How many men with you?"

"Nine, good and true."

These were the questions and responses that followed, and cheers, long and loud, were called forth at the announcement.

It was then decided to organize and lay out work for the future.

Mr. Charles W. Gardner, of Portsmouth, was elected Chairman, and Charles H. Wilson, of Manchester, Secretary.

Short and appropriate speeches, which we cannot report, were made by the Chairman, by Mr. Seavey, of Farmington, Mr. Currier, of Exeter, several of the Manchester delegation, and others.

On motion of I. H. Russell, of Manchester, a Committee on Resolutions was raised, which consisted of Messrs. Holt, of Manchester, Orne, of Dover, Burtt, of Portsmouth, Currier, of Exeter, Wentworth, of Candia, Walker, of Plainfield, Herrick, of Manchester, Seavey, of Farmington, and Davis, of Concord. The Committee attended to the duty assigned them, and in due time made a report as follows:

Whereas, We, delegates from different towns and cities of the State of New Hampshire to the Labor Reform Convention held at Concord this day, are refused admission to the said convention, because we will not make an iron-clad obligation to "go it blind," and support the acts of the convention, whether the platform is in the interest of the working man, or in the interest of money and monopolies; and

Whereas, We were appointed, in good faith, at public meetings called by the workingmen, to represent their interest in said convention, and are determined to do it, and do not propose to be bluffed down, by lawyers and professional politicians, into signing an obligation that may swallow up the welfare of labor, and swing it over into the interest of a party that is looking only to the interests of its leaders; therefore

Resolved, That we hereby form an association in the interest of the workingmen, to be called the LABOR LEAGUE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, whose object shall be to see that men in the interest of labor shall be elected to the State Council, Senate and House of Representatives, to pass laws that shall guard the interests of the working classes, and elect a Senator to the United States Congress in harmony with their opinions.

Resolved, That a committee of twenty be appointed by the meeting with power to form a constitution and by-laws and establish the organization in all the towns and cities of this State, in such ways as they may deem best for the working classes they represent.

Resolved, That we view with pride the fact that the soldiers and sailors were enlisted mostly from the ranks of the laboring classes, and that they fought heroically to maintain the national integrity and uphold the honor of New Hampshire; and we claim that if true to her promise, and herself, she should provide the means for equalizing the bounties to her soldiers and sailors on just and equitable principles.

Resolved, That the power, honor and prosperity of the country rests upon the skill, intelligence and welfare of the industrial classes.

Resolved, That we re-affirm the principles of the Declaration of Independence, that "all men are created free and equal" and have certain "inalienable rights" to secure which is the only just and true purpose of government; therefore, all laws creating distinction in favor of color, condition, nationality, or pursuit, are a clear violation of the fundamental principles of democratic government.

Resolved; That as labor lies at the foundation of national prosperity, it is the duty and interest of both the State and the Nation to foster and protect it. Therefore, all associations of working men or women, formed with a view of promoting their moral or material interests, should receive the same chartered rights and privileges at the hands of legislators, both State and national, as are granted to associated capital, especially as the chartered rights of associated capital are derived solely from the people, who are the true source of power under democratic institutions.

Resolved, That we endorse the demand of the National Labor Congress for the creation of a Department of Labor at Washington, to aid in protecting the rights and interests of labor as the most important interest of the country.

Resolved, That we do not deem it advisable, at the present time, to make nominations for State officers.

A State Central Committee was then appointed.

After mutual congratulations of the members for so happy an acquaintance and association, the convention gave three cheers for the cause and adjourned sine die.

DEMOCRATS OF MANCHESTER BEATEN IN TRYING TO KILL OFF GEN. BEDEL WITH MAYOR WESTON.—For some reason the Democrats of Manchester hate Gen. Bedel. They have been at work for months to take possession of the Labor Reform party, nominate Mayor Weston for Governor, and root out gradually Gen. Bedel. They made the plan look feasible as a party measure, and leading Democrats throughout the State generally favored the scheme, not knowing that it was prompted by malice.

If the Labor Reform Convention had been held a day earlier, Weston would have been nominated "higher than a kite." The night before the convention, certain Democrats got wind of the malice of certain other Democrats, and set themselves to work to change the current over to Flint. They nearly succeeded in doing it, and were finally successful through the aid of one of the sachems of the convention, the "member from Alaska," John H. Goodale.

The Weston Democrats are sore enough. Capt. M. Y. B. Richardson, of this city, came near being nominated for Railroad Commissioner. So Manchester Democrats got badly whipped out. Such laboring Democrats as Joseph Kidder, Joseph Ferren, lawyer Osgood, Samuel Jackson, trader Hazen and the like, signed the "iron-clad" obligation for nothing.—Mirror.

NEW AND RARE BOOKS.—Mr. Benj. Durgin, an agent for this city and Kittery, is now canvassing for the subscription sale of two new and interesting books, which are not to be had at the Bookstores. The first is an elegant volume of 650 octavo pages, just published by the American Publishing Co., of Hartford, Conn., entitled "The Innocents Abroad, or the New Pilgrim's Progress"—by Mark Twain. It contains 234 Illustrations; and gives some account of the Steamship Quaker City's Pleasure Trip to Europe and the Holy Land, with descriptions of Countries, Nations, Incidents and Adventures, as they appeared to the Author. His real name is Samuel L. Clemens: and in this book he exhibits all Mark Twain's wit, without his bad spelling. It is a very instructive and most amusing book.

The other book, is a new edition of A. D. Richardson's "Beyond the Mississippi." Both the above books are sold under the agency of Geo. M. Smith & Co., 6 Tremont St., Boston, who supply and employ the local canvassers.

☞ The latest song of the London Music Halls, which may be expected in due season to take the place of "Shoo Fly," has the following chorus:

I saw Esau kissing Kate,
And the fact is we all three saw;
For I saw Esau, he saw me,
And she saw I saw Esau.

SLIGHTLY PERSONAL.—An ex-clergyman made a speech in the Maine legislature, last week, comparing Mr. Peabody unfavorably with the scriptural widow who gave all she had, and nobody made a fuss at the funeral.

SPORTSMEN

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It neutralizes the poison of an angry sore as surely as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is not hypothesis; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Diseased.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with augmented force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is touched and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all disease is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see each accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 56 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT. — A. K. P. Doering, of this city, has been appointed Foreman of the Riggers' department at the Navy Yard, vice Joseph C. Muchmore, removed.

WORKMEN, ATTENTION. — All workmen discharged from the Navy Yard, and all others who sympathize with the workingmen and their cause, are requested to meet at the Ward Two ward room on State Street this (Tuesday) evening, at half past 7 o'clock.

Per Order.

☞ Hon. E. A. Stevens, for several years Superintendent of the North Parish Sunday School, was on Sunday evening presented with a silver Tea Service by the scholars. Mr. John S. Rand tendered the gift with fitting remarks; and Mr. Stevens replied feelingly and appropriately.

☞ It is reported that Mr. Frank Jones has purchased the Rockingham House in this city, of W. E. Hadley & Co., and that Mr. James S. Peirce will henceforth conduct this hotel in connection with his Sagamore House. The price named is $12,000, but this seems to us absurdly low.

It is likewise rumored that Messrs. Hadley and others are arranging to purchase Star Island, at the Shoals—the whole village of Gosport,—for $50,000, for Summer hotel purposes—including the unlimited water privilege.

NAVY YARD DISCHARGE.—The orders of the Navy Department to discharge the workmen in the Construction and Steam Engineering Departments were carried into effect on Monday, and about 600 were discharged from this Yard. On Saturday 1200 men were discharged from the California Yard, 1100 from Philadelphia, 2100 from Brooklyn and 1300 from Charlestown.

We hope these men will be all reinstated soon. "Perley" of the Boston Journal telegraphs that the Secretary of the Navy will be speedily authorized by Congress to draw temporarily from some other fund of the Department until the passage of the regular Appropriation bill, so that the work in the engineering and construction departments may be allowed to proceed as usual.

THE EXAMPLE IN INTEREST sent us by a Gosport friend, is answered by three correspondents, differently.

"H." of Dover says, if A. holds a note for $750, payable in 6 months with interest, and writes B. that he will allow one per cent. per month, if paid immediately, that B. must pay him $728.7736,—and figures as follows:

Amount of note $750 due in six mos. at 6 per cent. per year,	$772.50
Discount for six months at one per cent. a month,	43.7264
Amount due,	$728.7736

"D." of Portsmouth makes the amount due $727.50.

Amount of note	$750.00
Less 6 per cent	22.50
Balance,	$727.50

"M." of Portsmouth considers the amount due to be $726.15.

Amount of note	$750.00
Interest for six months	22.50
Amounting to	$772.50
Less discount at one per cent per month for six months,	46.35
Amount B. should pay A.,	$726.15

Neither of the three solutions agrees with the answer given by "Gosport."

☞ The clerk of the weather must be in favor of the annexation of the British Provinces to the United States, for the Halifax Chronicle says "The market of the United States is necessary to our lives. The market of Great Britain is not. Dreams will not clothe our children. The warmth of the shade of a brave flag will not compensate for a barefoot winter.

☞ Congress has passed a resolution inquiring how many men were employed in the Navy Yards during December. The Secretary has prepared the answer as follows;

New York	3406
Boston	2364
Philadelphia	1396
Portsmouth	1220
Mare Island Cal.	1492
Washington	1298
Norfolk	852
Pensacola	104
Total	12,092

—"Who's that gentleman, my little man?" was asked of an urchin. "That one with the spike-tailed coat?" "Yes," was the response. "Why, he's a brevet uncle of mine." "How's that?" was asked. "Cause he's engaged to my aunt Mary."

☞ The remarks of Mr. Chas. W. Gardner of this city, Chairman of the Labor League Convention at Concord, are reported as follows;—

"Mr. President, and Gentlemen; I have been identified with the Labor Reform interest for the past ten years, and therefore claim to know something of the wants and hopes of the workingmen of this State and New England. It has been my effort (week and feeble, it is true,) to endeavor to impress upon the laborer the necessity of elevating himself to that true condition of manhood which not only asks, but demands and secures its right from force of will.

It has been my good fortune and privilege to correspond with some of the leading Labor Reformers of the country, and be conversant with their views and designs, and hence I am here today prepared to speak for the true sentiment of the Labor interest, not only in this State, but throughout nearly every part of the Union. And while I have many feelings of regret at the turn which affairs have taken this morning, still I cannot but congratulate you, gentlemen, in the possession of such keen perception in relation to the movement of those unscrupulous demagogues who sought to entrap us into a scheme for the furtherance of the interests of an aspiring and yet expiring party.

And here let me urge upon you the necessity of being constantly on your guard in reference to the machinations of political fossils who, having been laid upon the shelf so long, are desirous of office and power. In my humble opinion, the Convention with which we have refused to unite, represents this class of fossilized humbugs, seeking their own aggrandizement and caring nothing for the great interests which have brought us together to-day. I trust our action may be with deliberation, and contrast strongly with the unjust and oppressive course of conduct of those self-styled Labor Reformers, who care no more for the workingman than for the worm that crawls beneath their feet, save to him as may best serve their corrupt plans.'

In the case, Moses Brown v. Nathan Brown, a suit to recover for services on defendant's farm, a verdict was found for deft.

On trial, Monday, the case of A. H. Goss v. Lucius Nichols, action to recover damages for the loss of a horse hired by defts. of plf., and killed, as alleged, by immoderate driving.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.
(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

THE NEW PATENT
NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING
WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $16 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

I still continue to use "GOODALL'S PATENT SPRING PLATE" with perfect success.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

THE TEMPERANCE POLITICAL PARTY. We cannot say but that good will come from it in future years, if it is kept up; but we say if the question of such a party had been submitted to the friends of Temperance, it would have been disapproved by an overwhelming majority. Consider the following facts:

A committee of three were chosen by the Executive Committee of the State Temperance Alliance, to call the Convention. One of these was for having the question of nominating a Temperance Ticket determined by the Convention; but the other two being otherwise-minded, the call was only for delegates in favor of making nominations.

There are in the State 233 towns. When the convention met, only about 30 towns had delegates, and a part of these were opposed to making nominations. It was voted that the friends of Temperance present from other towns might elect delegates. A few towns were represented in this way.

The movement inaugurated is making a sad division among temperance people in the State, but it is trusted that the good cause will not suffer serious disaster. Truth is mighty and must ere long prevail. Let none be disheartened, but hope for the best.

ONE OLD IN THE SERVICE.

☞ The Rev. Mr. Lyford, who said in the politico-temperance Convention at Concord that the Freewill Baptists of New Hampshire would support the new party, turns out, after all, to be a member of the New Durham, N. H. Quarterly Meeting, tho' he preaches in West Lebanon, Maine; and it appears also, by his own statement, that he was a regular delegate from that meeting to the Convention. All which we may believe; and yet be doubtful whether he carries all the F. W. Baptist voters in his pocket.

☞ An amusing incident occurred at Portland on the occasion of the reception of the Peabody funeral fleet. Snow and sleet had fallen the day before, followed by rain during the night. In the morning the double-turreted monitors Terror and Miantonomoh presented a beautiful appearance under the rays of the sun. Ice had formed two inches thick on the stays, guards, flag-staffs, hurricane decks, turrets and chains; icicles were pendant from the eight thousand square feet of gratings which form the hurricane deck. At the first fire of the heavily charged fifteen-inch guns the whole mass of ice came down with a crash upon the heads of the officers and men. The windows in the pilot houses breaking at the same time, frightened the Portland pilots so badly that they sprang from the pilot houses to the guys, slid down about forty feet to the decks, and took to their boats under the impression that the monitors were sinking.

☞ A reliable correspondent desires us to say just a word about the Grand Hotel at Louisville, Ky., which he declares is equal to anything in the United States, not excepting the Fifth Avenue in New York or the Continental in Philadelphia. In fact, it almost seems out of place in Louisville, but he presumes they expect to grow up to it. Better than all, he says, is the politeness and civility of the clerk, marvellously in contrast with the other two Hotels named. Louisville, by-the-by, is one of the most attractive of Southern cities, with its broad streets and avenues, and magnificent square houses surrounded by highly ornamental gardens,—all indicating wealth and prosperity.

☞ The Republican members of the House have rallied nobly around Mr. Dawes, and the League Island bill was voted down, by a large majority, notwithstanding a majority of the Democrats voted for it. Mark the fact, and hurl it in the face of those who charge Republicans with squandering the people's money.

THE SON OF A PRINCE A DAY-BOARDER.—Prince Napoleon, it seems, has resolved to give his son a Spartan citizen's education. The boy, who is just seven years old, has been sent as a day-boarder to a small school in Paris. His father gave strict orders that his son should be called simply "Victor," and, as a recompense for good conduct, "Napoleon Victor." His day's work is from eight in the morning to six in the evening, with two hours' recreation. His mother, the Princess Clotilde, who is extremely popular in Paris, accompanied her son to school on the first morning, and entrusted, with her recommendations, an extra pair of shoes to the matron, in case of his coming in from the playground with wet feet. The young Prince's luncheon was to have consisted of dry bread; but, on the master's representation that all the other boys were allowed marmalade, the stern father relaxed so far as to allow his to enjoy the same indulgence.

THE PATRIOTIC DEAD OF EXETER. Mr. Wm. Currier furnished the News Letter the following list of the names of soldiers who died or were killed, while battling for their country, during the Rebellion from 1861 to 1865.

M. N. Collins,	E. W. Warren,
H. H. Pierson,	Daniel Haines,
R. Nealey,	J. C. Brown,
W. H. Morrill,	F. Foster,
W. H. Smith,	J. Prescott,
Wm. Caban,	John Tibbetts,
A. Sanborn,	D. Alligin,
Geo. Cobbs,	I. Fuller,
W. Nudd,	Morris Cotter,
G. Carter,	A. Morse,
J. W. Gilman,	John H. Carpenter,
D. V. Durgin,	George Stevens,
P. Keyes,	F. Stockman,
Morris Reardon,	A. O. Curtis,
J. B. Wadley,	W. Brothers,
J. Weeks,	George Swain,
S. Lamprey,	Ed. Burnett,
G. H. Vanduzee,	W. J. Bowley,
Daniel McNamare,	J. W. Farnham,
H. C. Brown,	John Duffie,
J. J. D. Barker,	Fred Sawyer,
M. H. Stickney,	Ed. Carter,
J. B. Robinson,	J. S. Bryant,
C. Page,	Joseph Sawyer,
G. H. Thing,	Ira Healey,
W. R. Leavitt,	Chas. H. Leavitt,
H. J. Hall,	John Vanduzee,
C. Dearborn,	Warren Tibbetts,
A. Perkins,	Josiah Taylor,
Daniel Gilman,	John E. Weeks.

G W Clark, died at Andersonville, 1865. James Spencer, died at Andersonville. Almon Langley, died 1866. David Kelley, died 1866. John Riley, killed at Laurel Hill 1864. William Walton, killed August 1864.

The above record speaks volumes for the patrotism of Exeter. The reading of it brings us face to face with those stern realities that tried the souls of brave men who left wives and children, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, for the salvation of their country and the honor of her flag. An attempt to recount their deeds and trials surpasses the power of the pen. The briefest comment only shows the poverty of language. They rest in peace. A grateful country and community will ever do honor to the memory of these heroes.

A GOOD FARMER.—A man to be a good farmer must be a man of intelligence and good judgment, and well versed in the sciences. I do not mean that he shall have spent his youth in the study of Latin and Greek, or ancient lore. He may have been a farmer from his youth up; not as I have done, spent the best part of my days in a large city, to begin farming at forty. He will know a thousand things, it seems, by intuition, that cost him nothing to learn. He will make farm ing pay. He sohuld know how and love to read well, for in that way he can get the experience of others.

And he must, of course, consult Father Thomas for the signs, to know when to sow, to reap, and to mow; and the little ones, for they are part of a good farmer's estate, and will be there, must be taught the rudiments; he will understand music—his cattle know his lively whistle; he will be a jack-of-all-trades—a carpenter, to understand the use of tools, the jack-knife especially; a tinker, to be able to repair for himself and his neighbors; he will own his farm and spend his time and energy on it. Farming will pay a man who has brains and will use them. Health, muscle, enterprise, industry, good judgment and common sense will make farming pay. He will not ask for all his pay in greenbacks; he will be satisfied with a part in his independence as he trudges on, monarch of all he surveys.—Cor. Bid. Dem.

☞ It is to be hoped that the following lucubration, which comes to us anonymously by mail—contains more truth than poetry.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

A DISCONTENTED SWAIN!

There goes my charming Kate;
She lives down by the brook,
And when she passed me by,
She cast a timid look.

If I could only win her,
My joy would be complete;
This heart of mine, though wounded,
For her will ever beat.

Oh! if I had the courage,
I'd tell her all to-night,
How very discontent I am,
When she is out of sight.

When I am in her presence,
I hardly dare to speak;
My name, it should be Moses,
I am so very meek.

My feelings at this time,
I hardly can explain,
I hope I shall not die,
A discontented swain.

A GREENLAND POET.

—There is a station on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, called Hanna, in honor of a deceased citizen of Fort Wayne. A train stopped there the other day, and the brakeman, after the manner of his class, thrust his head inside the door and called out "Hanna," loud and long. A young lady probably endowed with the poetic appellation of Hannah, supposing he was addressing her, and shocked at his familiarity on so short an acquaintance, frowned like a thunder cloud, and retorted, "Shut your mouth!" He shut it.

—A Chinese quack doctor has bought a $30,000 house in San Francisco. If he had been a graduate of a medical college he would have starved to death long ago.

—The shrinking of hogs in butchering varies from one-eighth to one-fourth of the gross weight.

—Prince Arthur is third son of Queen Victoria, and about twenty years of age.

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities, and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain, leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person once uses the pills, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, has been analyzed; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 2 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

REMOVAL OF THE CAPITOL.—They have had meetings at the Southern Hotel in St. Louis, to "talk up" the subject of the removal of the seat of government from Washington to St. Louis. Resolutions have been passed requesting members of congress not to make any appropriations for new buildings or the extension of old ones in Washington.

It is by no means certain now that St. Louis would be the most desirable place in the whole country, even a few years hence, for the seat of government of the Union. But should the Capitol be built in St. Louis, the "Western boys" who chance to get into Congress, would prefer to come east, where they could see life in New York and Philadelphia and other large cities, as a change from the monotony of the planting States.

WILLIAM TELL OUTDONE.—A strange story comes from Texas which quite eclipses the famous performance accredited to William Tell, the Swiss patriot. We are told that some few months since, a party of Texans were practicing with six-shooters at a target, when a wager was proposed that a piece of silver should be placed on a cork, on the head of one of the number, and the cork shot out, leaving the coin resting on the man's head. The wager was made, and at a distance of five paces the parties were placed in position, the target adjusted, and the feat performed without injury to the brave supporter of the target.

HOW "CHARLEY" WAS BURIED.—An exchange relates that Andrew Smith, of Genoa, Cayuga County, N. Y., found that a blind horse owned by him had fallen into a dry but deep well, a few days ago, and after various unsuccessful attempts to extricate the unfortunate beast, concluded to give it up and bury him alive. Two or three men commenced throwing in dirt, but as it fell around his legs "Charley" commenced treading it down. The faster they shoveled, the livelier he trod, and when they had filled the well, he stood upon the surface, unburied, and in good order considering his fall.

A VALID EXCUSE.—In one of the Manchester public schools, a lad was disobedient, and the master inflicted corporal punishment on the most muscular portion of the system. In the afternoon he was absent, but coming in the next morning, he presented the following excuse for his absence, signed by his father: We copy it accurately, omitting names:

"Mr.——Pleas Excuse Henry for his absents he gut his britches wore out in the forenoon and had to stay at home in the afternoon."

—A young American lady, daughter of a New York publisher, two years ago entered the school of medicine in Paris. Recently she passed an examination with three others, an English lady and two French students. At the close, the verdict was, for the two young men, "Passable," a very low mark; for the English lady a "Bien satisfait," a very high mark indeed, and for the American a "Tres satisfait," the highest that is given, and the first time it has been gained the year 1869.

—A mysterious deaf girl has been agitating San Francisco. A reporter went to interview her, and while taking down the points indulged in remarks which would not have been complimentary if she could have heard them. She stood it for some time, but finally emptied the coal-scuttle over him and pitched him down stairs. He doesn't believe she is deaf.

—The Chinese were hugely disappointed in the Duke of Edinburg. It had been rumored before his arrival that the son of the Queen of England was ten feet high and had three eyes. When it was discovered that he did not differ from ordinary mortals, the common people formed a very contemptuous opinion of him.

A NOVEL EYE-STONE.—To remove foreign substances from the eye, like specks of dirt, eye-winkers, in fact anything, from a mote to a beam, you have only to lift the lid, and introduce a flax seed beneath it. The seed will make the circuit of the eye, and fetch out the offending substance.

—Most of the bank defalcations and other failures may be traced to gambling—in stocks as well as in faro. What chance has a poor, infatuated fool with the thimbleriggers in their games? Their motto is "heads I win, tails you loose."

—A Chicago chemist claims to have discovered a remedy for trichinea spiralis. It is a mixture of carbolic acid and glycerine, these ingredients destroying the animaculæ taken into the system by eating diseased pork.

—A landlady in Boston, it is said, makes her biscuit so light that her lodgers can see to go to bed by them. The gentleman who asked "Oh, tell me where was fancy bred?" is perfectly satisfied.

—An irate editor remarks that "the man who steals his neighbor's newspaper off the door step, will have to pay the subscription in a warmer climate than this."

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with despatch. Researches made into American and foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made or prosecuted applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners, with whom I have had official intercourse." CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of securing the application in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. HORACE TARBOX, Late Commissioner of Patents.
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unquestionable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 2, 1870.

THE NATIONS THAT EAT MOST.—Dr. Beard, in Hours at Home, says: The ruling people of the world, who have from time to time shaped the destinies of humanity, have always, so far as can be ascertained, been liberal feeders. Among modern nations the greatest eaters, are the English, the Germans, the French and the Americans—the ruling people of our civilization. The diet of the Spaniards and Italians is notably less substantial than that of the English and Germans, just as their brains are less active and original. The Americans are, on the average, the greatest eaters in the world. Said Carlyle to Emerson: "The best thing I know of that country is, that in it a man can have meat for his labor."

THE COAL TRADE.—The Pottsville Miner's Journal says that a number of operators have started their collieries to meet the action of those operators who refused to co-operate with the Coal Operator's Association, and who started their collieries again this year as they did last, and reaped all the advantages of selling coal at a high price while others were standing idle. The consequence will be a reduction to the lowest points, and while no money will be made by any, the few who pocket large amounts of money by obtaining high prices, will be checkmated in this movement this winter. Egg and stove coal has been offered to the retail dealers at Philadelphia at $2 and $2 50 per ton.

☞ A Turfmen's National Congress is to be organized in New York this week, to make rules and regulations for governing Trotting Tracks in all parts of the country—to secure uniform judgement and prevent cheating in entering and driving horses at races. Many of the Track Associations are represented at the Convention; and we doubt not their action will be productive of much good in strengthing the hands of honest men and gentlemen in purifying and enjoying the legitimate sport of noble horsemanship. So may it be—and we regret we were unable to accept the invitation of the Providence Park Association to be present.

JUST SO.—The Manchester Union, a Democratic paper, says of the Palmer-Rolston Convention:—

With Mr. Flint, the nominee for Governor, we have no personal acquaintance. He is represented as an honest and intelligent farmer. Politically, he is of Radical antecedents, but we understand he has not voted much, if at all, for the last four years.

The resolutions of the Convention are in exact accord with those passed by all Democratic Conventions since the issues in which this movement originated came into prominence.

—All accounts from Washington agree in saying that Corbin's testimony completely exonerates the President and his family from all complicity in gold speculation. The letter of Mrs. Grant which was made so much of last fall was easily explained—the only sentence in it having any bearing upon the subject read as follows: "The President is distressed to learn by the reports that Mr. Corbin is engaged in gold and stock speculation."

—The N. Y. Express suggests to Mr. Dorsey, who is expending money so freely in providing dinners for prison convicts, that the convicts are always sure of their daily bread, and are in no danger of starvation, while in every city there are thousands of poor families, whose members have never committed crime, to whom a warm meal every day is by no means a certainty.

—It is said that the bill proposed by the Military Committee, reorganizing the army, will make such changes as to reduce the cost of the army nearly five million dollars annually, at the same time that it increases the standard of competency, and therefore the efficiency of the service.

There resides in Dodge county, Wisconsin, a Mrs. Terry, who is aged 102 years and is the mother of twenty-one children.

Bitter Beer in England, according to a recent official analysis, is now made largely from sugar instead of from malt, as is shown by testing the specific gravity of the different liquors.

Helena, Montana, has had a slight touch of hurricane, which uncroofed homes and did other impolite things.

An Ohioan has succeeded in making a whistle out of a pig's tail, and he calls the instrument a pigolette.

William Cumston of the firm of Hallett & Cumston of Boston, died at the age of 57 on Sunday.

The Great Eastern has arrived at Bombay.

Mexico is troubled with revolutions, conspiracies against the Juarez government and anarchy.

The adherents of Salnave are being put to death in Hayti.

The President has appointed Gen. Francis A. Walker of Mass. as Superintendent of the census.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

PORTLAND, ME. Feb. 1.

The Peabody obsequies here are finished. The lesson of the hour is full of instruction—but we forebear. Let the departed be buried in peace. At some other time, when the sharpness of grief is dulled, and time the great healer relieves somewhat the sorrows of mourning relatives and friends, we propose to make a few suggestions as to the why and wherefore of much of the pomp and ceremony.

The Miantoonmah and Terror, U. S. iron clads, and U. S. Steamer Leyden arrived on the evening of the 22d. Admiral Farragut the same day; the Monarch and Plymouth arrived on the evening of 25th; the Monarch is escorted up to the inner harbor on the 26th; by orders of the English government the body of Geo. Peabody lies in state two days, the 27 and 28th; on Saturday 29th—the remains are landed with due pomp and ceremony, a splendid exhibition of naval obsequies. Gov. Chamberlain receiving the body, Capt. Commerell of the Monarch making the delivery address.

The procession of military and naval bodies, with a splendid funeral car, takes place, and the body is deposited in the City Hall on the magnificent catafalque—the hall being deeply and elaborately draped in mourning. Next the lying in state on the 30th and 31st, the Blues and Infantry detailing guards for the occasion. On Tuesday the grand departure procession takes place. Crowds upon crowds of people have visited the city. The hotels have been full. Business has been half done. The week has been one of continual Solemnity.

The good deeds of George Peabody will illumine his memory forever. Pomp, ceremony and display, are but empty honors. The grandeur of a noble life is in the glory of its example. The grief of mourning relatives and the respect of loving countrymen need no outward ostentation to attest their sincerity. All do not think alike, but to us, such obsequies are disagreeable and "vexation and vanity of spirit."

The Grand Army of the Republic Fair, begins Feb. 1st. It will be a fine affair.

The Portsmouth Correspondent of the Boston Journal, albeit a capital fellow, is "early in the field." His recent letter to the Journal about First District Congressional matters is a "forestaller" of the first order, as the convention does not take place till June. The Portland correspondent of the Journal we understand intends, in due time to write up the subject. First District (Maine) news, via Portsmouth, is enterprise and no mistake. Hon. John Lynch has made some unwise appointments, and has lost some strength on this account; but whether he is to "retire," is another question. Gen. Mark F. Wentworth is a brave soldier, a capital man, and deserves further honors at the hands of the State—but it is "rather" early to advertise, by three months at least. Too early public advocacy is often a forerunner of defeat.

Who is to be Mayor? This is the prevailing question. The prominent candidates are William Senter, of the extensive jewelry and watch making firm of Lowell & Senter; Judge B. Kingsbury, Jr., of Municipal Court; Gen. Francis Fessenden, the gallant soldier and lawyer; Frederic Fox, Alderman from Ward 6, and able lawyer, brother of Judge Fox; Henry Fox, Agent for New York steamers. Senter and Kingsbury are ahead. Although Senter is the most popular, owning to having no "political" experience, and also being a most jovial, popular man; he may decline, owing to pressure of business. The Republicans are going to make a clean sweep again. One year of Democracy is enough. It was all the Dems. could do in 1861, with Judge Howard for Mayor. The spoils of office all the unwashed can't get, and hence comes great trouble and disorganization, bad management and discord. They go up like a rocket and come down like a stick. Putman is a gentlemanly man and fine lawyer, but has not been able to harmonise the elements, and so the leaders can't rally their forces, for the March contest. Selah!

Past Junior Grand Warden Oliver Gerrish of this city, a prominent Mason, one of the oldest and most respectable citizens, of the firm of Gerrish & Pearson ,jewellers and watchmakers,is to be presented with an elegant Masonic jewel—circular in form, of massive gold, with masonic designs engraved upon it. It is 2 inches in diameter; on the reverse is an inscription describing the occasion of the gift, the 50th anniversary of Mr. Gerrish as a Mason being Nov. 24th 1869. It was presented by the Ancient Landmark Lodge of this city, of which he is a member, and it is valued at $100.

Housekeepers glory in clear, rich coffee. Anything that tends to realize such a result is a public benefit—a blessing to mankind. We were shown a day or two since an improved "Coffee Steeper" or "filterer" patented by R. Dunham of this city. It is the most simple and convenient little handy affair we have seen for some time. It can be adjusted to any coffee pot. It is a "perfect settler" and affords no "grounds" for complaint." Three pounds of coffee steeped with this "Steeper" will give the strength of four pounds in a common pot. It's cost is from fifty cents to a dollar, according to size—cheap enough. SANCHO.

New Hampshire Items.

At a meeting of the Directors of the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Co. at Manchester, the following board of officers was chosen: President, E. A. Straw; Vice President, J. A. Weston; Secretary, I. W. Smith; Treasurer, G. B. Chandler; General Agent, John C. French; Finance Committee, J. A. Weston, C. E. Balch, B. F. Martin, Moody Currier, S. N. Bell. The Directors voted to instruct the officers to take the necessary steps to put the company in operation, and ordered an assessment of one half the capital stock to be paid the first of March, and the balance the first of April.

The gallows used in hanging Mills, the Franconia murderer, was destroyed after the execution, the entire cost of which is said to have been $1,500. The gallows which Sheriff Morse had built at Portsmouth to hang Pike, will be preserved for future use, should occasion for it arise.

The copper mine recently discovered on a farm in Hanover, owned by C. P. King, of Boston, is to be worked. Rich veins of sulphuret of iron and a mineral paint are said to have been found in the same locality.

Bachelors, desirous of remaining in single blessedness, should not move to Moultonborough. The town is said to contain more widows, in proportion to its population, than any other in the State—not less, indeed, than one to every thirty inhabitants.

The Great Falls Journal says the G. A. R. Fair there was a great success, exceeding any Fair of the kind ever held in the State. The hall was crowded. An extra train from Rochester brought a crowd. The principal excitement was voting for the Silver Set, to be presented to the clergyman receiving the highest number. Whole number of votes, 3379. Rev. E. N. Hidden had 2, New Orthodox Minister 6, Rev. Patrick Canovan 28, Rev. M. Angelo Dougherty 34, Rev. Chas. U. Dunning 121, Rev. J. Burnham Davis 1585, Rev. Chas. E. Hall 1603,—and Mr. Hall got it. Every evangelical society had its table of needle and fancy work, of great attraction and greater profit to the Grand Army.

L. W. Hardy, of Salt Lake City, and formerly a trader in Peterborough, has been stopping a short time with friends in the latter place.

Chas. J. Richards of Great Falls has been appointed postal clerk on the B. & M. Railroad, and Mr. Sayward of Alfred, Me., has been transferred to the Portland & Rochester.

A splendid basket of brook trout was caught last week, by those noted anglers, J. M. French and Robert H. Hussey of Great Falls. They were about forty in number, and would weigh nearly a pound apiece.

O. A. Frost is making some improvements in the interior of the Great Falls Hotel. The dining room will be on the ground floor, instead of in the second story as it has been for years. Other improvements are also being made which indicate success.

Holloway's Ointment.—ITS ANTI-INFLAMMATORY PROPERTIES.—Above all other external applications, this Ointment is the antagonist of irritation. Diseased action cannot long go on in the ulcerated limb to which it is applied. It neutralizes the poison of an angry sore as surely as an alkali quenches the fiery principle of a powerful acid. This is not hypothesis; it is history—a fact from the current record of fifty years of observation and experience. Sold by all Druggists.

A Body and Mind Diseased.

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other, so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquillizing operation of Hostetter's Bitters, is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system,the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened, and its nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with increased force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and antibilious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits, and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated.

The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary, and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desire result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable at this season when sudden spells of raw, unpleasant weather are apt to check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs, and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases is bodily vigor, and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I prevailed on them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy,and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains,Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used your BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most decidedly in advance of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative combined, efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous article is the main ingredient. More than one century in the

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this perfect remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, this extinguisher will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

☞ The Peabody funeral train arrived here about three o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. The bells were tolled an hour previously, by order of the city government, and about 1500 people assembled at the Eastern depot an hour before the train arrived. They passed an impatient hour trying to keep warm, inspecting the decorated engine Geo. Peabody and listening to the dulcet strains of music of the Portsmouth Cornet Band.

Finally, the train arrived, and remained in the depot a few minutes to change cars, the band playing a dirge. The funeral car was decorated tastefully and looked very neat.

The monotony of the proceedings at the depot was enlivened by a lively scrimmage between a gentleman and lady, representatives of the famous fifteenth amendment, who irepressibly conflicted, greatly to the amusement of the spectators. A friend of an inquiring mind wonders if the whole thing wasn't a good investment for the doctors, as the colds contracted by the lookers-on were not few.

THE NAVY YARD WORKMEN are now waiting for news from Washington favorable for their reinstallment. As will be seen by the Congressional news, Senator Cragin of this State has acted promptly in behalf of the workmen, and we trust that work will be resumed before the close of the week.

The employes of the Philadelphia Yard have sent a petition to Congress asking leave to continue work and allow their wages to accumulate until the passage of the appropriation bill by Congress.

There is some difference of opinion among the Republican Congressmen as to the propriety of transferring the naval balances, which virtually sanctions the course of the Secretary in undertaking more work under the direction of the Bureaus of Steam Engineering and of Construction and Repairs than he was warranted in having done under the appropriations made by the last Congress.

☞ Mr. John J. Pickering having resigned the office of Cashier of the Rockingham National Bank in this city, in consequence of ill health and consequent absence in Europe for an indefinite period,—Mr. William Tuckerman, (for many years Clerk,) has been appointed Cashier; and Mr. A. J. Penhallow is acting Clerk at present. Mr. Pickering and wife, with Mr. J. Horace Jenness and Miss Annie Jenness, leave New York on Wednesday in the Cunard steamer Russia, for Liverpool. We give the party, a pleasant voyage and prosperous journey, and safe return.

☞ A friend has handed in the average temperature during January, from which it appears that the mean for the month has been,—at sunrise, 24 deg.; at meridian, 38 deg.; at sunset, 34 deg.; making an average of about 32 degrees —and yet people call New Hampshire a cold place!

☞ Schooner Ocean Star, Woodman master, which arrived at this port on Monday, reports that on the 24th of January, while off Cape Henry, she ran into a wreck which could not be boarded on account of the darkness and storm.

☞ At the Quarterly Meeting of the Mechanics' Association, Tuesday evening, the usual favorable condition of things was shown, and that this strong and useful institution is well managed by its very efficient Board of officers.

☞ Commander Oscar F. Stanton has been ordered to the command of the receiving ship Vandalia at this station.

GOOD LIVE STOCK.—A correspondent informs us that Dr. Robert M. Otis of Kittery has the following pure blood stock: One full blood Ayrshire Cow, six years old, from an imported cow. This cow gives 15 beer quarts of good milk per day, fed on good hay and 1 1-2 peck mangolds daily. One full blood Bull from the above cow, one year old Jan. 28th, of extra size and great beauty. One full blood Heifer Calf, 6 weeks old; also from same cow.

One heavy, handsome Chester White Boar, one year old, from N. P. Boyer's stock. One handsome Chester White Sow, 6 to 8 months old, with pig, from N. P. Boyer's stock.

PROFITABLE HENS.—A neighboring farmer keeps two cows and twenty-five hens: he has for the year 1869, kept an account of the profits of each, after using in the family such as was wanted of their products, and the sales show a difference of thirty-one dollars in favor of the hens.

LABOR LEAGUE.—Pusuant to a call, quite a number of the workingmen of the city assembled in the State Street Ward Room, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of forming a Labor League. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Chas. W. Gardner, who afterwards was chosen Chairman, with J. Horace Kent as Secretary. Mr. Gardner made some remarks, stating the objects of the meeting, and proposed a plan of operation, and was followed by Messrs. Kent, F. C. Staples, B. Goodrich, and others. A Committee of three—Messrs. E. D. Coffin, E. F. Brackett, and C. W. Gardner — was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws, and to report at next meeting, after which they adjourned to next Tuesday evening at same time and place.

☞ The ninth Lecture of the Mercantile Lyceum Course, in this city, was delivered by Mr. Frank W. Hackett of Boston, on Tuesday evening, to a full and highly respectable audience. His subject was Hoaxes, and he illustrated the credulity of mankind in all ages, by alluding to the most noted hoaxes of history, comparatively ancient and modern, at home and in foreign countries. The lecture was well written and handsomely delivered; of sound moral application, and filled with humor and subdued sarcasm. [At the close of the lecture, a pleasant hour was spent socially at the elegant residence of the speaker's parents, on Congress Street, by a party of invited friends.]

The next lecture will be by Dr. J. W. Parsons, Tuesday evening next.

☞ Mr. William Senter, the prominent Republican candidate for Mayor of Portland, is a native of Portsmouth, —a brother of Mr. T. G. Senter, so long a school teacher here. Mr. Oliver Gerrish, who is also referred to in our Portland correspondent's interesting letter this morning, was likewise a Portsmouth boy. Both have lived in Portland many years, are prominent and respected citizens, and have helped make that city what this ought to be also.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, Monday, Mr. Cragin of New Hampshire, introduced a joint resolution, which was referred, authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to transfer to the use of the Bureaus of Construction and Repairs and Steam Enginery certain balances remaining to the credit of other bureaus of the Navy Department for the current year.

Mr. Ramsey of Minnesota, from the committee on post offices and post roads, reported back with amendments the bill to establish a postal telegraph system, and to incorporate a postal telegraph company.

Mr. Cragin introduced a bill to abolish the office of surveyor of customs. Referred to the committee on finance.

In the House, Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts introduced a bill authorizing the transfer of certain appropriations in the Navy Department to the Bureau of Construction. Referred.

Mr. McNeely of Illinois offered a resolution declaring that the national debt should be paid in strict compliance with the contract, and that the five twenties are payable in greenbacks, and condemning the policy of the administration in redeeming such bonds at the high rate of premium, while it has the clear right to redeem them at par. Tabled by a strict party vote, 122 to 41.

☞ Mr. Wm. H. Belknap, the Democratic candidate for Register in Rockingham County, (and the present incumbent, though not the Republican nominee,) is also nominated on the Temperance ticket.

FIREPROOF SAFE FOR SALE.

LOST.—Strayed from the City Farm, Jan. 22, 1870, a CHESTER WHITE BOAR PIG, weighs about 120 pounds. Information of the pig will be paid for, by H. L. SCOTT, f1 Superintendent.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

THE NEW PATENT
NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING
WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

THE CHARITY SCHOOL.—CONTINUED. Below are given the most important of the "Regulations governing the admission of candidates into the Naval Academy:"

The number of midshipmen allowed at the Academy is one for every member and delegate of the House of Representatives, one for the District of Columbia, ten appointed annually at large, and ten selected each year from boys enlisted in the navy who have been at least one year in the service on board a naval vessel.

The nomination of candidates for admission from the District of Columbia, from the enlisted boys, and at large is made by the President. The nomination of a candidate from any Congressional district or Territory is made on the recommendation of the member or delegate, from actual residents of his district or Territory.

They must pass a satisfactory examination before the Academic Board in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, and English grammar.

If the examination results favorably, the candidate will receive an appointment as midshipman, and be required to sign articles by which he will bind himself to serve in the United States Navy eight years, (including his term of probation at the Naval Academy,) unless sooner discharged.

The above extracts I deem amply sufficient to support the charge made in a former article, as to the real object of the Charity School,—that it is simply to keep the unsanctified from polluting the naval aristocracy, by gaining admission to the ranks of the line. .

In the first place, no child of a plebeian, let his merits be what they may, can hope for a nomination for admission to the school, unless he can command powerful political influence; this guarantees that all nominees shall come from the upper political rings, to start with. — Sometimes, though, when a Congressman wants to turn an honest penny, he may disregard his political power, and put the nomination up at public auction,—as has lately been done by a New Yorker, who advertised that a nomination was in his hands, and that "gentlemen of means might communicate" with him.

Next, the candidate must satisfy the "Academic Board" by whom he is examined, and whose decision is final, before he is admitted to the institution, and ranked as a line officer of the U. S. Navy. This seems all right enough; but what is this Academic Board? The list in the Charity School Report gives its composition as follows: One vice-admiral, one captain, one commander, six lieutenant-commanders, four professors, and one chief engineer. Here we have nine line officers to five of all other classes, as a committee to decide whether the candidate is worthy of a place on the roster, as middy. What his chance is, should he happen to be the son of a poor man with no political influence to back him,—a detestable accident which is carefully guarded against, as may be seen in the regulations,—may justly be inferred from the pretensions of the line officers for several years past. The son of a poor and obscure man may become a midshipman in the navy; so he may become President of the United States; and the probability is about equal in each case,—one chance in ten millions or thereabouts. The line officers of the navy are the real, sole and irresponsible appointing power of naval line officers,—and that "thus far shalt thou come and no farther" would be their sentence upon any impious commoner who might get before them, is rendered certain by the open exhibition of class exclusiveness to which they have treated the public for a long while back.

There is a little pretense of giving the common people a chance for naval honors, in the nomination of "ten enlisted boys who shall have served not less than one year each," by the President,—but it is a very little pretence, and a very shallow one, at that. Even here, the boys must have no mean influence to get their merits or claims placed before the President in the first place, and then to enable them to run the gauntlet of the aristocratic guardians of the sanctity of the line—the Academic Board—who are sole judges of their fitness for naval honors, as they are of that of all other candidates. Can any one invent a better plan for keeping the aristocracy select and pure than this Naval Academy offers? PAKEHA.

—The Peabody funeral is to last ten days. Long before the expiration of that time the public will lose all interest in it. As the "honors" are now being conducted, perhaps it is just as well to do them, for the sake of showing people how absurd they are.—N. Y. Globe.

—During the six months ending Dec. 1, 1869, there were fourteen accidents to passengers on railroads in Massachusetts, and all but one were owing to jumping on or off of the cars while in motion.

REMINISCENCES OF BEN WADE.—The Washington correspondent of the Portland Advertiser relates the following:

One cannot but contrast the general appearance of the Senate at the present time, with that when Ben Wade was the presiding officer of that body. The business is very much facilitated by having a superior presiding officer, and certainly Mr. Colfax cannot be surpassed in the relation that he occupies to the Senate. It always appeared to me that Wade did not feel at home as the presiding officer of that body. I suppose the position was only given to him as a mark of respect. He did not care a straw about parliamentary rules, he had a keen sense of justice and right and usually decided questions upon rules of his own without any reference at all to "Barclay." Some of the incidents of his career are quite amusing and are often repeated at the Capitol. When the Senate left the convention of the two branches upon the count of the last vote for President, to consider what should be done with the vote of Georgia, a resolution was offered and some half a dozen members proposed amendments, and Wade, seeing them come up, very quaintly remarked, looking around upon the Senators, "You had better all be getting ready your amendments," which raised a general laugh. Upon another occasion some of the Senators had assembled and the roll had been called twice, and it was found that there was not a quorum present. Presently Sumner came in and dropped into his seat and throwing off his overcoat looked about the Senate, and as he observed no business was being transacted, asked the presiding officer what they were waiting for. Mr. Wade replied that they were waiting for a quorum. "Well," said Sumner, "you will remember, Mr. Wade, when Mr. King was presiding officer of the Senate, and you and I were on the floor, that Mr. King would take a pinch of snuff and proceed with business." "This chair don't take snuff," was the humorous reply, which occasioned considerable merriment. "Well," said Mr. Sumner, "the chair can presume there is a quorum and proceed." "The chair don't presume anything about it," replied Mr. Wade, "it lacks just four of a quorum," and Mr. Sumner remained silent.

FARM LIFE.—The following beautiful lines from Mrs. Sigourney, give a lively and truthful picture of life upon a farm. N. Y. Observer.

Saw ye the farmer at his plow,
As ye were riding by?
Or wearied 'neath the noon-day toil,
When the summer suns were high!
And thought you that his lot was hard,
And did you thank your God
That you and yours were not condemned
Thus like a slave to plod?

Come see him at his harvest home,
When garden, field, and tree
Conspire with flowing store to fill
His barn and granary.
His healthful children gaily sport
Amid the new mown hay,
Or proudly aid with vigorous arm
His tasks as best they may.

The Harvest Giver is his friend,
The Maker of the soil,
And earth, the mother, gives them bread,
And cheers their patient toil;
Come join them round their wintry hearth,
The heartiest pleasure see;
And you can better judge how blest
The farmer's life may be.

Very beautiful indeed they are, says Uncle Toby, and they are truthful, too, as to what farmer's life may be, and what it is in some instances. But let no verdant youth or foolish dotard imagine that the farmer's lot is all poetry, or that all farmers are such thankful christians and happy patriarchs as described by Mrs. Sigourney. The true man and christian may be contented and happy in a prison or a coal mine, and think heaven begun there; but the sensual, the avaricious, the envious and the ambitious, would be wretched in paradise or heaven, if he could enter such localities by climbing up "some other way" rather than by the appointed door of meekness and faith.

TEMPERANCE.—The Exeter News Letter thinks, "Temperance is one thing; prohibition is another." And remarks that "in every phase of civilized society we find men who refuse the intoxicating cup, yet they are the most abject slaves to appetite; and passion in almost every other respect, but that of liquor drinking." We never saw any such people. The editor adds, "we now have laws making fornication, adultery and polygamy penal offences, but such laws scarcely prevent such crimes in a single instance." This must be remarkable if true.

☞ Among the absurd things attendant on the obsequies of the late Geo. Peabody, is a public dispute between the reporters of the Portland Advertiser and Boston Post as to which was the first to view the British man-of war Monarch. The Post man states that he experienced a "conscious pride" and "tumultous swelling in the breast" at being the first American snob who oped his eyes on the vessel in American waters. One would think, rather, that it must have been a swelling of the head, instead!

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic medicine yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. This most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish the purpose claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The best physicians recommend, and prescribe it, and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him why he does not; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

PRUDENCE.

BY LUCY LARCOM.

What is this round world to Prudence,
With her round, black, restless eyes,
But a world for knitting stockings,
Sweeping floors, and baking pies?

'Tis a world that women work in,
Sewing long seams, stitch by stitch;
Barns for hay, and chests for linen;—
'Tis a world where men grow rich.

Ten years old is little Prudence;
Ten years older still she seems.
With her busy eyes and fingers,
With her grown-up thoughts and schemes.

Sunset is the time for candles;
Cows are milked at fall of dew;
Beans will grow, and melons ripen,
When the summer skies are blue.

Is there more than work in living?
Yes; a child must go to school,
And to meeting every Sunday;
Not a heathen be, or fool.

Something more has haunted Prudence
In the song of bird and bee,
In the low wind's dreamy whisper
Through the light-leaved poplar-tree.

Something lingers, bends above her,
Leaning at the mossy well;
Some sweet murmur from the meadows;
On the air some gentle spell.

But she will not stop to listen:—
Maybe there are witches yet!
So she runs away from beauty,
Tries its presence to forget.

'Tis the way her mother taught her;
Prudence is not much to blame.
Work is good for child or women;
Childhood's jailer,—'tis a shame!

Gravely at the romping children
Their gray heads the gossips shake;
Saying, with a smile for Prudence,
"What a good wife she will make!"

DANIEL WEBSTER'S PARENTS.—The father of Daniel Webster, Col. Ebenzer Webster, was born in Kingston, N. H., and was one of the first eight settlers of that town in the year 1700. Abigail Eastman, of Salisbury, Mass., was the second wife of Col. Ebenezer Webster, then a resident of Salisbury, now Franklin, N. H. After the death of his first wife, Col. Webster being on a visit to Kingston, was addressed by an old friend in substance as follows: "Colonel, you need a wife. Now I know of a lady in the lower part of Salisbury, Mass., who is just the woman you want, and if you will go and pay her a visit I will give you a letter of introduction." The offer was accepted, and in due time they were married. They had three children, Ezekiel, Daniel, and a daughter who married Prof. Charles Hadduck, of Dartmouth college.

To the mother of Daniel Webster—Abigail Eastman of Salisbury, Mass.—"a woman remarkable for dignity of character, strength of intellect, and fervent piety," is in no small degree to be attributed the force of character and intellect inherited by the two sons; and no record of the life of Webster is in complete which does not pay tribute to her genius and character. She was represented as a handsome brunette, and from her, also, may be attributed the personal features which marked the son.

Daniel Webster once spoke of his father as the handsomest man, except his brother Ezekiel, that he had ever laid his eyes upon. And we have the testimony of the late N. P. Rogers of Concord, N. H., a class-mate with Ezekiel, who styled his fellow student as the "finest specimen of a man both mentally, morally, and physically, that he had ever seen." He classed Ezekiel as more than the equal of Daniel, in that he added to a great intellect that high sense of honor and strict conscientiousness, which attracted men to him as steel is attracted by the magnet.

Ezekiel dropped dead while attending court in New Hampshire. It was the opinion of Rogers that a greater loss to the country was the early death of Ezekiel than the death of him who is classed as the "great expounder." It may have been that his early associations with the one biased his judgment, but he was a keen observer of men as well as a keen writer. Daniel is reported as saying that Ezekiel had all the elements of a man born to be both great and good.—Amesbury Villager.

WASHINGTON'S SWORD.—In the account of Washington's wedding, published in the Patriot last week, mention is made of the dress-sword worn by him on that occasion. That sword is now the property of our venerable fellow citizen, Dr. Wm. Prescott. After Washington's promotion, a more showy sword was procured for State occasions, and this was thrown aside; and after his decease it was given to one of his favorite slaves whom he emancipated. This negro found his way to Connecticut, where he lived many years, and died some twenty-five years ago. This sword was then purchased of his widow by Dr. Prescott's son. It is an interesting memento of the Father of his country, and ought to be preserved.—Patriot.

GOOD.—General Howard is constantly receiving advices from the Southern States of the purchase of real estate by the negroes, who are absorbing all the land offered them. Governor Scott of South Carolina has, since he came into power, sold to the blacks of that State about 40,000 acres.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the practicability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, FEB. 3, 1870.

The Cincinnati Chronicle displays its familiarity with the Bible by coming to the defence of a suspected mercantile firm of that city with the statement that "it is as far above reproach as Potiphar's wife."

A man named Speight, who calls himself the Lord Jesus Christ, has succeeded in persuading several women in a Connecticut town to leave their husbands and follow him, and nearly everybody in that vicinity has a spite against him.

The rates of freight to the West are reduced.

The births in Boston last year were 7385, and the deaths 5522.

A Wisconsin town advertises for a barber.

Accounts from Long Island say that the cherry trees there are in blossom, the farmers are making maple sugar, and the sportsmen are whipping the brooks for trout.

A western editor answered a challenge thus: "When I want to die, I can shoot myself."

A westerner, speaking of the performance of his village choir, says that "it is like drift-wood in a stream; it drags on the bars, but don't amount to a dam."

Five mad dogs have been killed in New York since last Thursday.

News from Hayti indicates that the new government designs making war on Baez, which fact has a peculiar interest in view of the other fact that our recent treaty with San Domingo binds us to protect him from all enemies.

Portsmouth, England, has been chosen as a point of call for the steamers of the American line between Havre and New York.

One branch of the Louisiana legislature has passed a resolution of impeachment against State Auditor Wickliffe, upon charges made by Governor Warmoth of mal-administration, bribery, fraud, etc., and appointed a committee of five to conduct the impeachment on the part of the House.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, on Tuesday Mr. Morrill of Maine, from the committee on appropriations, reported, with an amendment, a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to make a transfer for the use of the Bureaus of Construction and Repairs and Steam Engineering of certain balances to the credit of the other bureaus of the Navy Department which are available for the current year. The amendment of the committee specifies warrants of transfers from the different bureaus as follows:—From the Bureau of Steam Engineering, $1,400,000; from the Bureau of Construction and Equipment, $399,000; from the Bureau of Navigation, $250,000; from the Bureau of Yards and Docks, $1,900,000. The bill was taken up, but laid over without definite action.

Mr. Spencer of Alabama offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling upon the Secretary of the Navy for the names, rank and number of commissioned officers of the navy employed on duty or otherwise, now residing permanently or temporarily in Washington; the names, rank and number of commissioned officers of the navy who were employed on duty in Washington at the date of the meeting of the present Congress in December last, and of those ordered to report for duty in Washington since that time, with a list of the duties to which they have been assigned; also as to how many officers and members of the senior class of midshipmen attached to the Naval Academy at Annapolis have visited Washington under orders or leave of absence since the meeting of the present Congress.

The currency bill was discussed and the amendments of Mr. Morton increasing the amount of new currency to be issued, and authorizing a redistribution of $13,000,000 now circulating in States having an excess, were adopted.

In the House, Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts defended the present administration from the criticisms of Mr. Dawes in regard to its economy, claiming that the President and the administration were faithful to their pledges, and declaring that there was to be no split in the Republican party and no quarrel between the people's representatives and the people's President. He would not compare his colleague to Ahab, but would rather associate him with the image of Abraham with the sacrificial knife uplifted against his beloved son, and he would appeal to him to turn its whetted edge against the ram caught in the bush—the old democratic bell-wether. [Laughter.]

The tariff bill was discussed and made the special order for Feb. 15th.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, Feb. 1, 1870.

No man who has wielded the pen editorial has ever given it up without in after times regretting it. Pecuniarily, and so far as personal comfort is concerned, he may have bettered his condition; but these are trifles compared to the occasions to rebuke wrong, the facilities to laud a noble deed, the opportunities to mould public sentiment, which he formerly enjoyed. The army and the frontier are said to unfit men for general purposes of life:—I have been in one and lived on the other, but neither is so hard for me to forget as my life in the great tread-mill of a great morning newspaper. And I don't know, after all, but those memories of the great Southern paper, established, by the way, by a New Hampshire boy:—George Wilkins Kendall, of (Amherst,) are really the pleasantest. On the frontier we were ever alert to protect ourselves from the hostile Comanches; in the army we were liable to kill or to be killed by those whose blood was closely allied to that in our own veins; while in the printing-office the blood of England, Scotland, Ireland,—of Maine and Texas, of France and Cuba,—met on a common ground of fellow craft and liberality.

Drumming has its advocates and its opponents. The officer who was reproached with being a drummer in early life, effectually silenced his would-be detractor with his ready question: "Did I not drum well?" Business of nearly every description has called in the aid of travelling salesmen who are known as "drummers." Selling by sample, meeting discouragement and rebuff with cheerfulness, these salesmen may be counted among the very best of their class;—otherwise the firms sending them forth would not so readily multiply their numbers and cancel their bills. Ever and anon I see a growl in a country paper against them. I ask myself? Is it wise, is it just, is it called for? The country merchant is saved the expense of a trip to the city for supply; he is offered the advantage of competitive commercial travellers; he has in fact, his selection at his very door. The "drummer," as a rule, pays his railroad and hotel bills, and does not sell at retail; so that I am puzzled to account for the bitterness of many local papers against this specimen of the genus homo.

But there is a species of "drumming," peculiar I believe to large cities, against which (with all due defence to real Christians) I wish to enter my protest. I mean the religious drummers. Come to Boston in summer:—on Sunday you will see a blue and white striped tent on the Common, suggestive of a side show to a circus, but 'tis nothing of the kind; 'tis an attempt of a worthy body of young men to entrap the ungodly and the unwary into hearing of God and of the way. Enter one of the main gates to Boston's pride (and the pride in the Common is justifiable,) and you will have a little tract thrust upon you. As the season wanes, as the snow and the slosh, and the cold preclude open air meetings, on Sunday morning beware how you pass adown the principal streets in Boston. A Catholic prayer-book exposed in your hand may save you; anything else I think is powerless. Cards with time and place of meeting for various sects in worship are thrust upon you; young men who look as if their gracious work illy agreed with them, stop short, and in a semi-guilty way say they would be pleased to see you at Rev. Mr. Gulliver's this morning; and much more decent than all (the doctors of theology not being such fools as the doctors of medicine,) the Sunday morning papers:—[you remember, don't you Messrs. Editors, how a little whiles once a Sunday paper was a godless institution?—] the Sunday morning papers have a long list of services for the day, in variety sufficient to suit all tastes but the hardened sinner.

I can put up with all I have before mentioned; I can see the Common decorated or disfigured [the reader will choose for himself] with the parti-colored tent which under no other pretence could gain admission there; I find no fault if my gloves are soiled by the tracts and notices of meetings that are thrust at me (for in Dock Square, today, the venders urge the passer to buy their wares, and even the descendants of Abraham in Chatham street, New York, have been known to do the like,) but I do protest, in the kindest manner, against the religious drummers who invade the sanctity of my room, leaving tracts with such embarrassing titles as: "Are you a christian?" &c. Now I am not good at answering conundrums, and was always weak enough to suppose that such a question was a matter that lay between man and his God. Then the old English idea, that a man's house is his castle has somehow ingrained itself in my being, and all that is rebellious within me rises at once upon being catechised in this surreptitious way. Am I a christian? I may be, but I may be a Jew or a Brahmin or a Mahommedan; in which case, O, well-meaning drummer, you have wounded or irritated the feelings of a fellow-man. Were you in any other business you would probably be kicked down stairs and your wares thrown after you.

Seriously, I think this religious drumming is being carried too far. The most blood-curdling profanity I have heard for years was from a young Irish boy who had received a card of invitation to services in the Tremont Temple; the most levity towards sacred things I have listened to (since I heard an officer of the Y. M. C. A. of our city jesting upon the Lord's prayer in the vestibule of one of your churches), has been from young men who have had doctrinal tracts left in their rooms or thrust upon them in the street.

As a rule, people in this country read. The churches are many, the gospel—according to different ideas—is open and free to all. May not the endeavors of a few really earnest persons, illy directed, do more to discountenance and dissuade, than the persuasions of ten times their number shall effect in the opposite direction?

Henry Kingsley, in his novel called "Stretton," (building on fact,) tells us that Allan Gray, preaching against Caste, in a few days swept away the work of many of the astutest minds for years, and brought on the massacre and siege of Belpore, the beginning of the bloody Sepoy rebellion. So the enthusiast of to-day may undermine the potent works of great, good and Christian men who have passed or still live.

The Kansas legislature has instructed its representatives in Congress to favor the proposed sixteenth amendment legalizing woman suffrage.

The public debt was decreased $3,938,664.39 in January. The total decrease in the debt since March 1 is over $80,000,000. Debt less amount the Treasury, 2,444,813,288.92.

The first military district has ceased to exist, now that Virginia is in the Union again.

A kerosene lamp exploded in the house of Nicholas Bliss, at Buffalo, and Bliss, his wife and two children were dreadfully burned. One child died immediately, and the other is in a critical condition. Bliss and his wife will recover.

The Senate Finance Committee after a long interview with Secretary Boutwell, have agreed on a funding bill. Three classes of bonds are to be issued, bearing interest at 4, 4 1-2 and 5 per cent., and running 40, 30 and 20 years payable after ten years, each class comprising $400,000,000.

REFORM IN THE NAVAL SERVICE.—A bill has been prepared, and will soon be reported, to terminate the present rank of Admiral and Vice Admiral upon the death or resignation of the present incumbents of those offices; to reduce the present number of Rear Admirals to six, Commanders to ten, Captains to forty, and other officers of a lower grade in the same proportion. The effect of the bill will be to reduce the naval organization to the basis of 1862, thereby saving to the Government a million and a half of dollars annually.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

PERUVIAN SYRUP.—The valuable medicine has been silently making its way into public favor by the numerous remarkable cures it has performed. Its singular efficacy is owing to the protoxide of iron which in this preparation remains unchanged, and is the only form in which this vital element of healthy blood can be supplied.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.—Mr. Speer, an enthusiastic horticulturist in New Jersey, produces an excellent wine. The best judges pronounce it superb. It has been adopted by the New York Hospital, and by physicians generally on account of its medical properties. It is also recommended by many medical gentlemen as invaluable for female weakness and general debility. We hope that our leading physicians will test the virtues of this wine.

These Pianos can be shown, and tried for, by a Professor of Music whose long experience in the business warrant his judgement of a good Piano in all its parts. Apply to THOS. P. MOSES, Teacher of Music, Mercantile Library Building, opposite Post Office, Portsmouth N. H. 19

—Speaking of well-meant but misapplied donations, Dr. Hall is reminded of a minister who, unrolling a gorgeous pair of slippers, the fifth pair he had on hand, remarked, "Dear me, I wish I had a new pair of boots."

—A cotemporary, noticing the appointment of a friend as postmaster, say: "If he attends to the mails as well as he does to the females, he will make a very attentive and efficient officer."

—The total number of casks of lime manufactured at Rockland, Me., for the year 1869, was 1,131,117, which was an increase over 1868 of 107,847 casks.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of temper foreign to his real nature. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid candot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefited. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautiful; black or brown. What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says; "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let alone if they liked, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, accompanying the money in payment, and had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see each accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,576,717.46.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These Dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja22d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated.—A vegetable Cathartic and alterative compound that has any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

MUSICAL.—The Portsmouth Philharmonic Society have a full chorus this season, in the rehearsal of the sublime music of Mozart's Twelfth Mass. The singers include most of the best vocalists in the city and vicinity; and should the Society decide to bring this splendid production out in concert, by and bye, it will be one of the greatest and most deserving entertainments ever given here. Mr. Pearson is Conductor, Mr. Tilton Pianist, and Mr. Cushing leader of the Orchestra—which is one of the best we have had in Portsmouth for many years, and adds greatly to the interest of the Society. This fine Orchestra embraces five pieces, as follows:—G. L. Cushing, 1st Violin; Chas. Proven, 2d Violin; J. F. Shillaber, Clarinet; J. R. Parshley, Cornet; Wm. G. Joy, Double Bass; and so well do they execute, that whenever they favor the Society with an overture at recess, they always receive great applause and are voted splendid.

BUTTER AND COWS.—We are indebted to Mr. R. C. Berry, superintendent of the farm of Messrs. W. P. & A. L. Jones at Gravelly Ridge, — whose 26 head of cattle, mostly blood stock, show as fine condition as any herd about here, we venture to say—for a sample of new and prime winter butter from a Jersey and a Durham cow. The difference between the two is very great. Both are young cows, and each has had but one calf; and the conditions are rather in favor of the Durham, Mr. B. thinks.

From 6 quarts of the milk of each, the Jersey yielded 19 ounces of butter, while from the Durham but 9 ounces. The Jersey is yellow, more waxy, and of superior quality to the Durham; which although good, is white, and not so rich. The cream was churned in a pail, with a spoon; and we have known butter from Jersey cream to come in this way in 7 minutes, when a lady was stiring it for cake. The Jersey butter in this case came in less than one-third the time of the Durham.

Mr. Berry says the Jerseys eat far less in proportion to their yield of milk, and is altogether impressed in their favor; and there is no doubt of the great excellence of this breed, for single cows for families, or for cream, or butter farms—and the Messrs. Jones have done the raisers of cows in this vicinity a great benefit, in placing such stock at the disposal somewhat of the public. At the same time, the Durham, the Ayshires and other breeds have their admirers and defenders—and an old farmer once replied when asked which was best, a rich pasture, or good feed.

But really we think the Jerseys do take the cream off all others—and Jersey butter brings 75 cts to $1 per pound in Boston market; and a farmer who had been accustomed to this brand, told us that when he came to be deprived of it, he had no relish for any other—while an agricultural editor in this State, said to us as he passed the cream-pot at his own table, We never knew what it was to have milk, and especially cream, on our table till I bought a Jersey cow.

The Jerseys are small, but rich milkers; while for a milk farm the Ayrshires are hard to beat, and for the raising of draft oxen and beef the Durhams excel.

☞ The Portsmouth Pier Co. has chosen new officers, with one exception, Mr. Leonard Cotton, one of the Directors, being the only officer who did not sell his stock. The officers chosen to fill the vacancies are as follows:—

President, Samuel Adams: Vice President, Jas. Albert Walker; Directors, John H. Broughton, Charles E. Walker.

☞ Tuesday was the perfection of Winter,—with the high blue sky, the floating and flitting white clouds, the pure white snow and bracing air,—and even the snow blown about by the blast not at all detracting from a Winter picture. The loggers and wood-choppers have now got an opportunity; the ice-cutters' chance is not yet so clear.

The Sunset, too, was one of the most beautiful we ever beheld—nothing but blue and gold—the low descending sun gilding the upper edges of a long rift of clouds that lay on the western horizon, the brightest gold we ever saw, and more resembling the light of a great conflagration; while in the east also, over the cold, black, moaning sea, the piled-up ridges of clouds were painted all the colors of the rainbow. How beautiful, to symbol the day's deeds as a record thus bound in blue and gold.

☞ Mr. George Bilbrook is putting up a square two-story wooden building just at the turn of the Creek Road from Islington,—on the very spot where they (no matter who—but many of our readers will recollect) formerly dug for gold, and afterwards put in cellars which were never used. It is said to be for a "store," and is located directly on the edge of the famous (or infamous) cess-pool.

Mr. Thomas Tredick has moved out his dry goods stock at his premises on Market Street, to enlarge and improve his store. The new Rockingham Savings Bank building, next door, is progressing well.

☞ The firm of Paine, Berry & Co., of New York city, is dissolved by mutual consent, and a new copartnership formed, under the firm name of Paine, Goodwin & Nowell, for the purpose of transacting business in woolen and cotton fabrics by the package. The members are Augustus G. Paine, Henry J. Goodwin, and Samuel J. Nowell—the first and last well known in this city. We understand they are to be the selling agents of the great Sprague Print Works. May continued success attend them.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Folsom, the representative of the new Haytien Government, is a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and has been a resident of the Island for nearly fifty years, being largely engaged in commercial business there, and at one time filling the place of U. S. Consul. He is a man of remarkable business qualities and is thoroughly conversant with the interests of the Island. He is now in the 74th year of his age.—Boston Journal.

☞ The entertainment by the Laiscell brothers and their variety company, at the Temple, Monday evening, was attended by a large audience. The gymnastic feats were excellent, but there were certain portions of the remainder of the programme which might have been left out without offending the better portion of the audience.

☞ The Portsmouth Pier Company is now what we should call a close corporation. There are but five owners of the stock, we believe. The recent sale was at $150 per share for the 83 shares; original price, $500 per share. All the owners assent to the sale, except Mr. Cotton with his 18 shares.

☞ We are informed by a resident of Kittery, that from Dec. 15th to Jan. 1st there was but one frost in that place,—on the morning of Dec. 24th. Maine is about as warm a country as New Hampshire.

NAVAL.—Lieutenant-Commander M. L. Johnson of Massachusetts has been detached from the Plymouth at Portland, and ordered to duty at the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

☞ One of the needs of Portsmouth is a Sash and Blind Factory. This would encourage the building of houses.

☞ We hear that Mr. W. I. Trafton is to give a fifth masquerade ball on the 22d inst., at Congress Hall.

☞ The U. S. Steamer Leyden arrived at the Navy Yard on Wednesday, from Portland.

☞ Candlemas day was dubiously dull.

COUGHS, INFLUENZA,

SORE THROAT, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, LIVER COMPLAINT, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, BLEEDING OF LUNGS, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS and CHEST, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

This well known preparation does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most medicines, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Consumption can be Cured!

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

THE NEW PATENT
NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING
WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring at less cost than the old, unreliable and invasive ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

WILD SPORTS IN THE EAST,—SEQUEL.

Two days after our return from the backwoods, Wye Tasche brought me the following note, which was addressed to us jointly:—

Messrs. W. Tasche and Pakeha:—As you, gentlemen, taking an unworthy advantage of my youth and unsophisticated innocence, lately inveigled and deluded me into going on a perilous and uncomfortable expedition with you, from which I returned in a most demoralized state, somewhat scalped,—barefooted, bruised, famished, thirsty, with my stomach dislocated, and my coat transformed to a jacket and my trowsers ruined by the action of fire,—this is to request that you will immediately liquidate the following little bill of damages, for which you are morally responsible: For one pair of boots busted, $20.50; for 1 1-2 yards broadcloth, to make new coat-tails, $15.50; for one piece bombazine, two yards square,—patch for trowsers, $8.50; for three rolls sticking plaster, for burns, $12.50; for 1 1-2 dozen Comstock's Vermifuge, for lame stomach, $18.50; for one new hat, lost while returning to Kittery, $4.50; for application of renovating materials to damaged wardrobe, $15.50; for general debility and depreciation of my feelings and sensibilities, consequent upon the suffering I underwent, $1.50; for injury to reputation, $0.75; total, $97.75.

Gentlemen, you can at once settle the above by drawing a check in my favor, or sending greenbacks to my address; as the only alternative, you will name the time and place of meeting, and the weapons with which you choose to face me in a combat à outrée. Failing to receive immediate satisfaction, I shall at once enter suit against you for seandalum magn., impecuniosity and libel.

Yours truly, ZEPHYR.

This was rather a stunning blow to Wye Tasche, and to me. However, we held a consultation on the matter, and unanimously voted to send My Lord the following cartel of bold defiance:

TO JAMES, LORD ZEPHYR.

My Lord:—We, the undersigned, having been knocked all in a heap by your note demanding pecuniary reparation of us, would respectfully represent to you: First, that both of us together never had so much money as you demand, at one time, in our lives; and most likely never will have. Second, that as the Navy Yard has gone up, and the toll over the bridge between Portsmouth and Kittery is so high as to constantly impoverish one of us, who has business affairs to look after on that side of the river,—we cannot pay by instalments. Thirdly, that we are willing to draw checks in your favor to the amount claimed, on the single condition that if you find anybody that will pay the said checks, that you will at once notify us of the fact, so that we can draw some more of them on our own account. Lastly, that if you decline the checks, we are ready and willing to fight you for ten dollars a month and board, each, (payment weekly—strictly in advance,) you to have the gun we used on our expedition and we to be armed with bricks,—at any place you like: time, as soon as the first weekly instalment is paid down: distance, ten such paces as you took when withdrawing from the society of the Agamenticus natives: each party to find their own ambulance and medical man.

N. B. We beg leave to call your attention to the fact that you can't get your fighting done anywhere, cheaper than we offer to do it. If you call it a bargain, please forward a week's salary to each of us at once, and the irrepressible conflict will commence right off.

Yours truly, WYE TASCHE, PAKEHA.

Two hours after despatching our note to My Lord, we received the following reply:—

Gentlemen:—Why should friends disagree about trifles? Never mind those checks—send me five dollars in greenbacks of the realm and we'll call it square. ZEPHYR.

We held another convention and decided on our course of action. By borrowing liberally from all our friends we succeeded in raising $3.80, with which Wye Tasche set out to try and fix matters with My Lord, at a personal interview; and as the two gentlemen were soon after seen entering the Alabama Hotel arm in arm, no doubt the affair has been settled with honor to all parties concerned. PAKEHA.

INTERESTING DECISION BY THE SUPREME COURT.—There is very general satisfaction among Southern members of Congress with the decision made by the Supreme Court in the case of a Union officer who destroyed certain property in Missouri as a war measure. It is of far more than local interest, for there are hundreds of suits in almost every one of the Southern States that that must be settled on the principle laid down by the court in this case. The application of these principles will sustain every officer who seized horses, stock, grain, lumber, fences, buildings, or other property in pursuance of military orders or general military policy, and parties in the South who have brought suits of this sort against such officers may as well withdraw them and reconcile their souls and their pockets to the situation.—Bos. Herald.

—Advertising is merely making an extension of your shop-front in the newspapers. You display your articles in your window where a few hundred see them, and in a newspaper you enumerate what you have for sale, and thousands may thereby be attracted to your store.

SECTARIAN SCHOOLS IN NEW YORK.—The extent to which the school money of New York city goes to the support of sectarian schools will be apparent from the following table, showing the appropriations made in 1869 for the benefit of the different sects:

Roman Catholic	$412,072 26
Protestant Episcopal	29,335 09
Hebrew	14,401 49
Reformed Dutch Church	12,630 86
Presbyterian	8,363 44
Baptist	2,760 34
Methodist Episcopal	3,073 63
German Evangelical	2,027 24
Miscellaneous	44,085 17
Total	$528,742 47

The distribution is made under a statute which authorizes twenty per cent. of the excise moneys to be paid out for the support of schools educating "children who are not provided in the common schools." A Committee of the Union League, who have taken this matter in charge, affirm that all the children of the city either are or may be easily provided for in the public schools, and therefore they have prepared a memorial asking for the repeal of the statute in question.

GEN. FITZ JOHN PORTER.—The Chicago Advance, a religious paper, has a very independent way of speaking about temporal affairs, and a plain way of dealing with all titled people, not excepting military officers. The example, read the following editorial:

Gen. McClellan has called on the President and asked the restoration to rank and good name of the convicted and cashiered Fitz John Porter. The request is said to be supported by Admiral Porter and Secretary Robeson of the Navy. Fitz John Porter was convicted of insubordination at Pope's second battle of Manassas, in refusing to obey Pope's repeated command to attack the enemy's left near Gainsville. In all human probability, as shown by the evidence, his inexcusable failure to attack when and where he was ordered, and his holding a third of the army in idleness with stacked arms within easy hearing of Pope's volleys, lost a great victory, brought defeat to the Union arms, sacrificed many lives and greatly prolonged the struggle.

His insubordination was not the result of cowardice or of conscious treason, but sprung solely from his partizanship for McClellan, and his unspeakably criminal determination to bring McClellan's successor into disgrace through defeat in battle. He has had a full and fair trial; the evidence was reviewed and the sentence approved by Lincoln. To-day, instead of asking Grant for a pardon, which would be a virtual declaration of his innocence, Fitz John Porter should be thankful that he was not doomed by the court-martial to be shot by a file of soldiers. The reinstatement of this man by the present or any future administration, could be characterized by just one word—infamous.

—Mr. B. Kimball of Haverhill, Mass., who was attacked with apoplexy, Saturday evening, at his place of business, died at the Massachusetts General Hospital (Sunday) morning. The death of Mr. K. so suddenly falls with a heavy blow upon his family, made more painful from the fact of his son's wife lying dead in his house, and whose funeral was to take place on Monday afternoon. The family has lost a kind husband and father, and the city of Haverhill a valued citizen.

☞ A girl was lately fined $13.20 in Toledo for wearing male apparel. She was young and by no means immodest looking, and stated that she had worn the forbidden garments for seven years. She drove a street car in Cleveland 2 years, and was also employed for some time as a driver on a canal boat, during all which time her sex was never suspected.

—Captain William White of Fairhaven sold in Providence recently, a schooner belonging to six owners, of whom he was one, for $6000, and after paying expenses had $5800 left, which he brought home and placed under a feather bed in his room. A few days ago, upon going to get the money to divide it among the owners, it was found that some one had stolen it. The owners at first suspected him of embezzlement, but now exonerate him.

—Daniel Webster informed a wonder-awed "circle" in New York, the other evening, through a "medium," that his chief regret in dying was that he had not the opportunity to revise his Dictionary!

—The Jackson (Miss.) Pilot says that there was but one vote against the Fifteenth Amendment in the Mississippi House of Representatives, Mr. McLeod of Greene, and none in the Senate.

MRS. ALICE JEPSON,

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic ever discovered, and at a cost it relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish what is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The most physicians recommend and prescribe it, and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome tin foil bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the best Virginia leaf. It is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last longer than of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerchaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

DOMESTIC ADMONITION.

Take a little wife,
The prettier the better;
Pat her cheek, and when
She wants to kiss you—let her.

Keep her in the house—
There she'll cook your mutton;
Darn your jacket, too,
If she's worth a button.

Never mind the lots
Of her aunts and cousins;
Ask them to "drop in;"
Dine them all by dozens.

One of these odd days
You'll feel full one inch taller,
When you see her hug
A whooping little squaller.

THE AGAMENTICUS MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION (Methodist) held their last meeting at Kittery, Spruce Creek Church, Rev. Mr. Chase pastor, from the 24th to the 26th ult. Despite the storm of the two first days, it was well attended and deeply interesting. "Father" Baxter preached on Monday evening a very clear and practical discourse (especially to the Ministers), on what is gospel preaching, its end or object, and its manner of delivery. Various able essays were read on Tuesday, and in the evening Rev. Mr. Webster (a local preacher, of marked ability) preached an interesting sermon, as also Rev. Mr. Pillsbury of Kittery Foreside, on Wednesday evening. But the most interesting of all the services was held on Wednesday afternoon, in commemoration of the late sudden death of one of the members of this Association, Rev. Mr. Sawyer of Wells (Maryland Ridge.) Mr. S. had been an architect of large salary, but left all, for Christ's sake, to preach the gospel to the poor, and has now left quite a family in destitute circumstances. There is sin lying at some doors in this matter. Mr. S. had had great success in his ministry, and left a church in building, and a gracious revival in progress, when he fell suddenly in a field and was found dead several hours after he left his house to go about doing good.

Quite a number of the Preachers spoke of the many virtues, public and private, of their late comrade. It is hoped that the generous Donations already made for Mrs. Sawyer will be increased, (to be sent to Rev. Mr. Scott of So. Berwick, Me.,) and that the partly finished church of Mr. Sawyer's will be helped in its completion by donations from abroad, as the ability of the people there is very limited: see notice in the Zion's Herald. Rev. J. Colby, the popular P. E. of Portland, District presided at the meeting. B.

THE BENEFIT OF WALKING.—If you hold yourself erect, with your chin close to your neck, swing your arms freely and move rapidly,—you will find walking the very best exercise. Few muscles escape work, while you enjoy fresh air, sunshine and a constant change of scene. I have taught gymnastics as a profession for many years, but as a source of health I believe walking is superior to any of the artificial exercises. The best hour during the autumn and winter, for people of average strength, is from 7 to 8 in the morning; for invalids from 10 to 11. Mrs. Lewis and myself have walked around our Common more than a thousand mornings, with the happiest results upon health and spirits.

By the way, is it not a curious fact, while our people are clamoring for a large park, which must be located several miles away, this most beautiful park, which lies at their very doors, should never be visited by them? During these years of morning walks we have never, that we can recall, met a single person out for a "constitutional." With the exception of the children of toil, hurrying across to their tasks, we have it all to ourselves. — DR. DIO LEWIS, Boston.

HUSK MATS.—A correspondent says, to make an excellent door mat, take an inch plank of any size desired, and bore three-fourth inch holes through it, with the centres two inches apart; into these draw dampened corn husks, and trim off about two inches long on each side. This mat is good either side up. Anybody can easily make one, and everyone can keep his boots clean, much to the gratification of good house-keepers.

THE PRICE OF MEAT.—Our reports of the Cambridge and Brighton cattle markets have indicated but little change for several weeks past. This week sheep found a better market and better prices. But the advance in beef which is usual at this season has not thus far been realized. Good beef is hardly as high as it was last September.

A ten cent glass of whiskey has caused many a murder.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works; to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on hand rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their case, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, FEB. 4, 1870.

CONGRESS ON THE FINANCES.—The inflationists in Congress might as well give it up. On Mr. Ingersoll's resolution the House of Representatives, by a vote of two to one, declared itself against the further issue of legal tender notes to the amount of forty-four millions of dollars. The minority vote comprised about as many Republicans as Democrats, so it was not strictly made a party question.

On Monday, a Democratic member from Illinois brought up the old topic of paying the five-twenty bonds in greenbacks, and wanted the House, also, to condemn the policy of the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to the purchase of bonds. These characteristic propositions failed, "by a strict party vote." Not a member outside of the Democratic party allowed his name to be identified with this crusade. It would seem by this time that the financial policy of the Government was sufficiently declared and settled to forbid any more of these useless demonstrations in Congress.

A GOOD DAY FOR THE CUBAN SIDE. An Havana letter of the 25th ult. states that after a consultation of the colonels of the volunteers with the Captain-General, at which he informed them of their critical situation, and of his intention to march against the Cubans, they called their regiments together, but the volunteers refused to march, and suggested that twenty thousand more troops be sent from Spain. A fight occurred recently in sight of Remedios' the Spaniards losing five officers and eighty soldiers, and the rest ran away.

THE NAVY OFFICERS' QUARREL.—The House committee on naval affairs had a tussle in a small way with the quarrel between the line and staff officers of the navy, but did not come to any conclusion. It will have a special meeting next Saturday, when nothing else will be on hand, to see if the matter cannot be settled, once for all, on a fair basis.

GEORGIA.—On Tuesday, Governor Bullock sent a message to the legislature recounting the incidents in the history of the State's reconstruction and advising the adoption of the 14th and 15th amendments to the United States Constitution! His advice was promptly acted upon by both houses. The House ratified the 14th amendment unanimously, and and the 15th by a vote of 53 to 24. The Senate ratified both the 14th and 15th amendments by a vote of 27 to 10.

New Hampshire Items.

In the S. J. Court at Concord, the case of B. McDermott, for keeping liquor for sale, was soon committed to the jury, but though they remained out till two o'clock P. M., on the 28th ult., they failed to agree. Another case against McDermott was taken up, and a verdict of guilty returned, on charge of keeping liquor for sale. On the 29th ult., McDermott was tried for a third time on the same offence, and a verdict of guilty returned. The same day McDermott plead nolo contendere to the indictment where the jury failed to agree. He was fined $50 and costs for each offence. Patrick Bresnahan plead nolo contendere to a charge of liquor selling, and was fined $50 and costs.

New Hampshire contains eighty-five Baptist churches, with a membership of 8,029. There are sixty-two pastors, twenty-three ministers without charge, most of them aged, and six licentiates, making in all ninety-one ministers. There are twenty-three churches, mostly very small, without pastors. There are twenty-two churches with less than fifty members each.

By the death of Bishop Chase, the management of the affairs of the Episcopal Diocese fall to the Diocese Standing Committee,—which is a body of 6 members, and consists, at present, of Rev. Drs. Eames, Coit, and Hubbard, and Messrs. Foster of Concord, Tufts of Dover, and Hatch of Portsmouth.

A Mr. Whittaker of Mason, has recently purchased 40,000 impregnated trout ova, with which to commence the propagation of fish.

Samuel Fletcher of Hollis has a tree-felling machine, which saves several inches of the largest part of a tree. It is a common cross-cut saw with springs &c., and is said to operate finely.

A team of twelve oxen, led by a bull, came into Newport: the aggregate weight of the oxen was 21,370 lbs. The bull's weight was 1,900.

Capt. Commerell, of H. B. M. S. "Monarch," says the U. S. S. Benicia is the handsomest ship he ever saw in any navy. Good!

Wm. Garrison, aged 70, committed suicide by cutting his abdomen with a dull table knife, at Plattekill, N. Y., a few days ago. He leaves an estate of $250,000.

Speaker Blaine was 40 years old on Monday. The President was 47 in April last, and the Vice-President will be 47 in March next. It is the first time in the history of the Government when the average age of the first three civil officers of the Government, have been under 45 years.

Mr. George Wilkes is about to commence a suit for damages against Mr. Bruce, proprietor of the Turf, Field and Farm, for the libel which was recently criminally prosecuted. The sum asked for is $20,000.

Of the dozen or so appointments of cadets to West Point made by the President on Monday, all save one were of the sons of army officers still living or who had fallen during the war. The odd appointee was the son of Marshal Sharp and the nephew of Mrs. Grant.

George B. Senter, formerly a brilliant politician of Western Ohio, died at Cleveland a few days ago. His later years were rendered useless by intemperance. On his death bed he gathered his boon companions about him and gave them a lecture they will not soon forget.

Mr. George Kendall of Dexter, Me., died very suddenly on Friday. He was carrying an armful of wood into the house when he fell.

John F. Bryant of Bangor, Me., carriage maker, aged 30 years, fell dead in a fit, Sunday afternoon, at his boarding house.

CONGRESS, Feb. 2.—The Senate passed the Currency Bill, as amended, by a vote of 39 to 23.

It provides for the retirement of outstanding three per cent., now amounting to $45,530,000, the issue of $45,000,000 additional national bank circulation, and the withdrawal of $20,000,000 from New England banks for redistribution. It provides for $65,000,000 to be distributed in the South and West, but the $20,000,000 withdrawn from the East cannot be put up till the original forty-five millions is issued, which will hardly be under a year.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says: The bill as it now stands is a compromise generally satisfactory. Several bank men from New England say it will be acceptable to their section, and they will advise their friends in the House to vote for it without opposition.

Senator Trumbull introduced a bill, the effect of which is to bring the Chinese within the pale of the civil rights law. Senator Howe made a speech in favor of amending our neutrality laws. In the House a report was made on the subject of American citizens in English prisons. The committee on foreign affairs was instructed to inquire into and report upon the objections to recognizing Cuban belligerency, and a bill for the relief of the poor of the District of Columbia was passed.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

SANDOWN, Jan. 31.

Quite an excitement was caused in this town last week, by a hearing before the Board of Selectmen, upon a petition of sixteen legal voters in Dist. No. 4, for the removal of David Tilton from the office of Prudential Committee, for alleged mismanagement of the affairs of the district. W. Masters, Esq. appeared for the petitioners, and Hon. Wm. C. Patten for the defendant. After considerable talk, the parties wisely concluded to settle their differences among themselves, and the matter was dropped without being submitted to the action of the board.

The lumbermen and others are greatly rejoiced at seeing the ground once more covered with snow. There are five saw-mills in town, producing annually something like a million feet of lumber. C.

A most fiendish plot to destroy the Colored Orphans' Home, on Washington Heights, has recently been discovered. A detective found a large bombshell, heavily charged with gun powder, laid on the range. He promptly removed it, and thereby, no doubt saved the lives of the three or four hundred inmates of the institution.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

PERUVIAN SYRUP.—This valuable medicine has been silently making its way into public favor by the numerous remarkable cures it has performed. Its singular efficacy is owing to the protoxide of iron which in this preparation remains unchanged, and is the only form in which this vital element of healthy blood can be supplied.

SPEER'S SAMBUCI WINE.—Mr. Speer, an enthusiastic horticulturist in New Jersey, produces an excellent wine. The best judges pronounce it superb. It has been adopted by the New York Hospital, and by physicians generally on account of its medical properties. It is also recommended by many medical gentlemen as invaluable for female weakness and general debility. We hope that our leading physicians will test the virtues of this wine. N. Y. Times.

SEWING MACHINES.

CALL AND GET a descriptive circular of the BEST MACHINE in the Market.

ALFRED STAVEBE, No. 12 Market St.

☞ A malady partaking somewhat of the nature of rinderpest, which a few years ago created such frightful havoc among the horned cattle throughout Europe, the United States and the New Dominion, has made its appearance in Weschester County, New York, and is particularly malignant in the neighborhood of West Farms, where the larger number of cases have proved fatal. It does not appear that any precautionary or sanitary measures have been taken as yet to eradicate or arrest the disease.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness foreign to his real character. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid candot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefited. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I recommend it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

Gardner was elected District Deputy Grand, and a constitution for the government of subordinate Leagues, throughout the State, was adopted.

An address to the people of the State was drawn up and will be issued in a few days. The members of the Committee reported great interest in the movement in all sections of the State; if the earnest work being done is to be continued, the Labor League will play an important part in the game of politics ere many months.

☞ A decided sensation was created on Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, one afternoon recently, by a procession of females in full bloomer costume. They were escorted by a party of long-haired men. The bloomerites were students from a free love college at Florence, N. J., where a new eclectic medical system is taught to both sexes, and where they mingle as freely as they do at Oneida Community. The women were on a visit to the Eclectic College in Philadelphia.

POOR THIEVES.—Soup kitchens for thieves have recently been established in London, and many members of this unfortunate class have expressed a desire to obtain honest employment.

It is probably a fact, that in London and in our own cities, the thieves, gamblers, and some other vicious classes, work hvrder and fare much worse, on the whole, than the industrious and virtuous laborers, who take hold of work in earnest. There may be exceptional cases,—but generally, the rule is as stated.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

GOSPORT, Feb. 3.

The Winter Term of the School on Star Island (Mrs. C. J. Haley, Teacher) closed with an Exhibition last Friday evening. We have witnessed many such exercises, "on the land," but never have known so much talent manifested by children of the same age as upon this occasion. Much of the success of the exhibition, as well as the interest and prosperity of the school in its daily exercises is owing to the energy, tact and talent of the popular Teacher.

The Whale Boat of John Huntress, Norwegian, from Haley's Island, on Wednesday evening, was run into by the "Celia," Capt. J. H. Robinson's fishing schooner, and sunk, in the Narrows. The boat was heavily laden with valuable cod fish, and its sole occupant, Mr. H., escaped with great difficulty. B——.

Shut her eyes that never wake;
Only two short happy summers
All her little tasks have told,
She is gathered in her sweetness,
Gathered in Another's fold.

Gone she dreams her parents painted,
(Phantom-like, and dim, and sad,)
In their dreams they never saw her
In these strange white vestments clad,
Pale, with wreaths of blossoms round her,
Long dark lashes in their rest,
Blue eyes closed in heavy slumbers,
Two white hands upon her breast.

In another land she waits us,
There she lives forever more;
"Home!" we call it when we sorrow,
And "the bright eternal shore!"
There she lives and loves immortal,
There no tears will ever fall;
We are moving in the shadows,
She has gone beyond them all.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

THE NEW PATENT

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and costly ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and Never-Failing. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

FARMERS' CLUBS.—We have several times brought this subject before our readers, in the hope that it might interest our farmers, and induce a sufficient number to form a Club in this and other towns in this vicinity. We are confident that such an organization would prove interesting and beneficial, to all who would attend its meetings and take part in its discussions, &c. We copy the following from the Mirror, It will be found valuable to those who may wish to form Clubs. We believe that the interests of our farmers demand the immediate formation of a Club here. They cannot afford always to be behind the times:

"The one great source of profit—intellectually first, and then in a pecuniary point of view, in the Farmers's Town Club, where all will have a word of practical experience to relate, a question to ask or an extract from book or paper to present—where every rural interest may be considered, where old and young, ladies as well as men, can contribute to the advantage of all.

On this subject we quote from the Secretary of the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture:

'The farmer needs some system by which all the improvements in his calling may be brought to his notice; by which he may learn as early as possible the introduction of new machinery, new seeds, new breeds of cattle and new modes of treating the soil. I know of no better means than farmer's institutes and farmer' clubs, which shall meet regularly and as often as practicable, to discuss the modes of farming and the principles which may be most worthy of application.'

Hon. Amasa Walker urges the practice upon farmers. He says they should exist in every town, and these should be their objects:

1. To discuss agricultural matters among the farmers themselves.

2. To furnish agricultural publications for the mutual benefit of all the members.

3. To sustain a series of lectures on agriculture and collateral branches—chemistry, geology, &c.

4. To furnish instruction to classes of young people, who should pursue the study of some given work.

5. To correspond and make exchanges of seeds and publications with similar clubs.

6. To study all improvements exhibited at fairs and in agriculture generally.

That all this, and even more, is feasible, is beyond question. It is done in hundreds of towns, and should not be neglected in any. We know that farmers sometimes say, we have no time for such work. But the excuse is not valid—it is not true. The farmer cannot, in this day, afford to neglect the improvement of his mind—to refuse to take agricultural papers and purchase agricultural books. He cannot afford to avoid State and County Fairs, or refuse to take an interest in farmers' clubs. If he knew his own interest, he would find time for the demands they make upon him, and these educating institutes would spring up in every town in our State.

We have been led to present this subject anew by the frequent requests to furnish a form of constitution for organizing such clubs. It shows that farmers are at work, and where there is an inclination to learn, the result will be beneficial.

We give the following as a form for a constitution, which may be varied according to circumstances, and the inclination of those forming Associations:

We, citizens of ——, desirous of promoting the agricultural interests of the town, and benefiting ourselves, hereby agree to organize an association for that purpose, pledge to each other our co-operation, and adopt the following constitution:

Article 1. This Society shall be known as the Farmers' Club of ——.

Art. 2. Its officers shall be a President, two Vice Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and a general committee of three, all of whom shall be chosen annually by ballot. These officers shall perform the duties usually required of similar officers, and constitute a board to conduct the business of the assoc.

Art. 3. Any resident of the town may become a member of this association by signing the constitution and abiding by its provisions and such by-laws as may be adopted.

Art. 4. The annual meeting of this association shall be held on the last Saturday of November. Other meetings shall be held as often as the members may determine. All meetings may be called by the board of officers and be conducted according to the usual parliamentary rules, unless other provisions are adopted by the assoc.

Art. 5. The constitution may be amended and by-laws adopted at any meeting called for that purpose.

In regard to by-laws, the members may fix the time of meeting, the sum to be paid annually, provide for any regular exercise, limit the time of speaking, &c., or they may leave all those matters to be determined from time to time by vote.

The above is a good outline of the work, and the constitution is adequate to the ordinary needs of a farmers' club.

Of course, farmers will not exclude the ladies from their meetings, but give them a chance to do their part of the talking and writing, as well as working.

THE SICK ROOM.—Never enter a sick room in a moment of perspiration, as the moment you become cool your pores absorb. Do not approach contagious disease with an empty stomach, nor sit between the sick and the fire, because the heat attracts the vapor. Preventives are preferable to pills or powders.

THE INTEREST SUM AGAIN.—"N. D." of Portsmouth thinks "the correct answer must be $727.12 1-2. Analysis: Face of note, $750.00; 6 mos. interest, ($22.50,—less 3 days' grace, $0.37 1-2,) $22.87 1-2; amount, $727.12 1-2. This is the precise way the Banks would have discounted this note, had it been written payable in 6 mos. without interest; but being written with interest, they would have realized 12 per cent. when the note arrived at maturity.

[This is not the exact answer given by the propounder of the question; but the difference is explained by our correspondent, who thinks a mistake was made in reckoning the "grace" at 12 per cent., instead of 6, as it should be, and as he has given.—Eds. Chronicle.]

"S." of Portsmouth writes: "The following is the solution of the question you give in the Chronicle: B. must pay to A. $705.; the discount will be $15."

[No, sir.—Eds. Chronicle.]

Messrs. Editors:—Your correspondent at Gosport, in his question of the $750 note, payable in six months with interest, is altogether too indefinite. Why did he not state at what time the offer was made to allow 1 per cent per month if the note was paid at once? Was it 3 months after, or was it when the note arrived at maturity? If the offer was made on the day the note was given, it is clearly self-evident that B. should have paid for the note $705. The interest of $750 for 6 months at 12 per cent is $45,—which deducted from principal leaves $705.—If the offer was made at the end of six months, then it is clear at that B. must pay $726.15. The interest on principal would be $22.50, making interest and principal $772.50; from which take off 1 per cent a month for 6 mos. leaves $726.15. If the question has been stated correctly, one of these answers must be correct. In this calulation there has been no allowance made for three days' grace. N. D.

N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Annual Meeting of the New England Agricultural Society was held in Boston Tuesday forenoon, in the Meionan,—the president, George B. Loring, in the chair. There was a large attendance, mainly from Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Dr. Loring delivered an opening address of a congratulatory nature, after which ballots were taken for officers for the ensuing year, with the following result:—

President, George B. Loring of Salem; Secretary, Daniel Needham, Groton, N. H.; Treasurer, George W. Riddle, Manchester, N. H.

A recess of five minutes was then taken for the purpose of allowing the delegates from the different States an opportunity of nominating a list of vice-presidents and managers. On the meeting coming to order, the chairmen of the different delegations reported as follows. We give the New Hampshire and Maine list of officers in full.

Massachusetts—Vice-President, William S. Clark of Amherst College.

New Hampshire — Vice-President, Frederick Smyth, Manchester; Trustees, D. H. Goodsell, Antrim; Warren F. Daniel, Franklin; Warren Brown, Hampton Falls; Charles Williams, Manchester; John H. Bailey, Portsmouth; George A. Pillsbury, Concord; Robert Ellwell, Langdon; Charles M. Murphy, Dover; Greenleaf Clarke, Atkinson.

Rhode Island — Vice-President, Amsa Sprague, Cranston.

Maine—Vice-President, Thomas S. Lang, North Vassalborough; Trustees, S. L. Goodall, Saco; Colombus Stewart North Anson; Seth Scammons, Scarborough; Waldo T. Pierce, Bangor; George W. Ricker, Bath; J. F. Anderson, North Windham; Calvin Chamberlain, Foxcroft; George F. Shepley, Portland; F. B. Gilman, Orono.

Vermont—Vice-President, E. S. Stonwell, Cornwall.

Connecticut—Vice-President, E. H. Hyde, Strafford.

The President briefly returned thanks for the honor conferred on him, a vote of thanks was voted to the retiring treasurer, the place of the next exhibition was left to the board of trustees, and after listening to a report of the treasurer, which showed a balance in hand (subject to some few outstanding debts) of $1186 19, the receipts for the past year having been $1250 51, and the expenses $69 02, the meeting adjourned.

SORE THROAT, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, LIVER COMPLAINT, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, BLEEDING OF LUNGS, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS and CHEST, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF WILD CHERRY.

This well known preparation does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most medicines, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Consumption can be Cured

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

THE LORRAINE VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL.

DR. LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL, OR

LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the confidence that it will never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never overtaxes or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it is unsurpassed. Physicians generally prescribe the best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is a favorite everywhere in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, one ounce of this is equal to two ounces of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for Meerschaum Pipes; try it, it will convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE for the last fifteen or twenty years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him why not; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

AGED 83.

BY MARTHA REMICK.

They have passed on beyond her,
(The friends she used to know,)
Does the way look long and weary
Through the path that she must go?
"Now it leads along the uplands,
Not a bird and not a flower,—"
Never dreamed she in her springtime
Of this dark and lonely hour.

They have passed on before her;
But she lives in memory's light,
In the land that lies behind her
Their faces all are bright;
They are nearer than the present,
With its fitful change and show,
The dear days that are numbered
In the pleasant long ago.

In her chair beside the hearth-stone,
Where her open book is spread,
Every morn she meets the loving,
Every eve she sees the dead,
Not in ghastly-funeral vestments,
Waxen fair, and still, and cold,
But with life and love all glowing
In the busy shapes of old.

Here is one with whom her footsteps
Trod many a measure gay,
Here's another, true and tender,
For whom she wears to-day
Her widow's robes of sable;
And here's another face,
A maiden's, fair and gentle,
Glowing with every grace.

She sees familiar faces
We cannot see or know,
With scenes from strangers hidden,—
'Tis well that it is so;
Fields where tall grass is waving,
(To-day with hamlets spread,)
Houses that long have crumbled,
With the faces of the dead.

POPULAR ERRORS.—To think that the more a man eats the fatter he will become. To believe that the more hours children study the faster they learn. To conclude that if exercise is good, the more violent it is the more good is done. To imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained. To act on the presumption that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in. To argue that whatever remedy causes one to feel immediately better is good for the system, without regard to ulterior effects. To eat without appetite, or to continue to eat after it has been satisfied, to gratify the taste. To eat a hearty supper for the pleasure experienced during the brief time it is passing down the throat, at the expense of a whole night of disturbed sleep and a weary waking in the morning.

AFTER DINNER NAPS.—Many persons are in the habit of sleeping for half and hour or an hour after dinner. This is a bad practice. Ten minutes' sleep before dinner is worth more than an hour after. It rests and refreshes and prepares the system for vigorous digestion. If sleep is taken after dinner it should be in a sitting posture, as the horizontal position is unfavorable to healthful digestion. Let those who need rest and sleep during the day, take it before dinner instead of after, and they will soon find that they will feel better, and that their digestion will be improved thereby.—Herald of Health.

—A writer in the Examiner neatly parries the charge of narrowness made against those Baptists who dreaded that a proposition would be made for a union sacramental season at the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance in New York, by confessing his willingness to have the matter proposed, if there shall also be a broad-minded interchange of pulpits. He says: "I am passionately fond of Christian union and brotherly love, and I do so much long to hear Spurgeon in Trinity, Punshon at St. Albans, and the Archbishop of Canterbury in Dr. Kendrick's meeting-house."

Edward D. French, of Nashua, N. H., met with a narrow escape from instant death Monday afternoon. He was passing a high woodpile, when a heavy stick was thrown from the pile accidentally, striking him on the head. He was knocked senseless, and for a time his recovery was considered doubtful.

Mr. Timothy B. French (the first child born in and for many years a resident of Nashua, N. H.,) a highly respected gentleman, seventy-three years of age, who had been in poor health five or six years, and at times partially insane for some twelve months, committed suicide last Friday afternoon in Hollis, at the house of his brother-in-law, while the family were riding out. He was apparently cheerful that day, and desired his friends to wake him if asleep when they came back. But they found him dead, with his throat cut. Mr. F. often told a sister that he was afraid he should take his own life in a fit of depression. The deceased, was clerk for the Jackson Mills at Nashua when they commenced running in 1825 and until his health became impaired, then overseer of the harness room, and subsequently in the same business at Saratoga, Holyoke, Springfield, &c.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
NO. 73 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can confidently employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office,
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

SATURDAY, FEB. 5, 1870.

Tribes.

San Francisco has 7000 laborers out of work.

Reddy, the blacksmith, of New York, has gone under. He was beaten to death in a saloon by a brother ruffian. No loss. P. S.—Reddy isn't dead. We are sorry to say he still lives.

The missing Wyble children have been found, dead, in New York State, two miles from their home. They had starved to death and the crows pecked away their flesh.

Attorney General Hoar's nomination to the Supreme Bench was rejected on Thursday, by the U. S. Senate, by a vote of 33 to 24.

Georgia has ratified the 15th Amendment, making 28 States in all, a sufficient number to make it the law of the land. Texas and Nebraska will also ratify it.

Mark Twain has been successfully married.

German maiden use cow-tails for switches. Why not car-tail them.

A man is to be hanged in Tennessee for horse-stealing. In New York he might have murdered people and lived a long life.

The Pennsylvania legislature has passed a bill establishing a metropolitan police commission for Philadelphia.

Fifteen hundred dollars and a] post-office clerk in Hartford, Michigan, have gone "where the woodbine twineth." The clerk took orders from Uncle Sam—money orders.

A nautical instrument maker of San Francisco has made a telescope for the Merchant's Exchange, of that city, by which the names and signals of vessels can be distinguished fifteen miles at sea.

Gen. Ames says Mississippi is so well supplied with loyal men in office that it will be for several years impossible for the State to relapse into disunionism.

The Kansas Senate has tabled a memorial asking Congress to submit a sixteenth amendment, granting female suffrage to the various States,—by the casting vote of the Lieutenant-Governor.

Puello's defeat near Guiamoro, which is the Cuban seat of Government, and which was sought to be captured, was more disastrous than previous accounts have stated. His total loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was near 1600. The Cubans pursued and harassed the flying columns of the enemy until the latter reached Arrovo Hondo, where Puello intrenched himself and stood a siege of fifteen days, suffering great privations and killing horses and mules for food.

Three lives were lost in Missouri lately from the effect of sleeping in a newly-plastered room.

☞ Nathan Matthews, who returns the largest income in Boston—$730,000—according to an exchange, failed in business a few years ago, but got started again by industry, and paid every cent of his indebtedness. He had got a little capital, which he invested in suburban building lots, selling whenever he could realize the smallest advance. By steadfastly pursuing this policy, at once beneficial to the community and to himself, he has gained his immense wealth.

LABOR AND LABORERS.—The great majority of the voters of the State are laboring men. Their sympathies as well as their personal interests, are therefore indentified with the rights and interests of labor; and no great wrong can be done to labor so long as the laboring men are true to themselves.

The enquiry then arises whether labor is now allowed that just and proper protection and encouragement to which it is entitled. It seems to us clear that it is not. But the true remedy and the right way to obtain it, are different from those which the Labor Movement seems to contemplate. No sight hour law or any special legislation for the benefit of labor will accomplish what is necessary for its relief. Nor will any antagonism or conflict with capital, as such, do any good. The difficulties under which labor now suffers are the same as those under which the capital invested in enterprises in this State suffers in common with labor.—Concord Patriot.

The above from the Patriot expresses our mind very nearly. The difficulties under which laboring men suffer are also endured by more than ninety-nine in every hundred of our people. Merchants and manufacturers are alike depressed to the very verge of ruin. And really, we ask, how many men are there in this town to-day who are above or beyond being seriously affected by the prevailing dullness of the times. We are not yet recovered from the terrible losses of the war, and there lies the difficulty. The diseases of the body politic can no more be healed by forcible legislative interference than can a sick man be restored to health by pouring whiskey down his throat—there may be a spasmodic action but no added strength.—Claremont Eagle.

CONGRESS.—In the Senate, on Thursday, the joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to transfer to the use of the bureaus of construction and repairs and of steam engineering such appropriations to the credit of other bureaus in that department as may be required, was taken up. The resolution was debated by Messrs. Sherman, Morrill, Cragin, and Trumbull.

Mr. Morrill of Vermont said the understanding in the Senate appeared to be that the men were to be employed as a matter of charity. He therefore moved to amend by adding the words—"The wages paid the employes shall be at no higher rate than those which are paid by private citizens in their respective locations."

Mr. Morrill, in reply to an inquiry by Mr. Conkling, stated that the amendment would secure a practical operation of the eight-hour law, precisely as it had been construed in regard to pay for the time employed by the Navy Department, and by the Attorney-General in regard to the compensation per day for the number of hours employed.

The amendment was then adopted—32 to 29.

Mr. Sherman reported from the finance committee a bill for funding the public debt regulating banking privileges and returning to specie payment.

In the House, Mr. Reeves of New York offered a resolution for a per capital dog tax of $2.50, which was referred to the committee on ways and means.

The bill admitting Mississippi to representation in Congress, was passed.

Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts, from the committee on appropriations, reported a bill to supply the deficiencies for the Navy as follows:—

Bureau of Steam Engineering	$1,050,000
Bureau of Construction and Repair	1,950,000
Total	$3,000,000

And to cover into the Treasury the following unexpended balances:—

From Bu. of Provisions and Clothing	$1,400,000
Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting	350,000
Bureau of Navigation	250,000
Bureau of Yards and Docks	951,000
Total	$3,000,000

Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts explained the matter referred to by Mr. Morgan as an extra allowance of 33 1-3 per cent. to officers of the navy. Under an order of the Secretary of the Navy dated May 23d, 1856, allowances that had been previously made for fuel, lights, &c., had been abolished, and while the pay of army officers and civil officers had been increased 20 per cent., no increase had been made of the pay of navy officers. The Secretary of the Navy had fixed 33 1-3 per cent. as the commutation for allowance. Whether it was a fair commutation might properly be a subject for criticism, but on the whole he supposed that the Secretary of the Navy was authorized in making it. His opinion was, however, that the compensation of all officers in the army, navy, or civil life, should be definitely fixed by law, and he would call the attention of the House to that point in the legislative appropriation bill.

Mr. Morgan of New York characterized the order of the Secretary of the Navy as the most atrocious act of usurpation that had ever marked the administration of any head of the department, and he inquired of Mr. Dawes whether he meant to uphold the abolishing of allowances to naval officers and authorizing the increase of pay, by a simple order of the secretary.

Mr. Dawes replied that he had not assumed to defend that order nor the payment of a dollar under it; but he had thought it due to the Navy Department to give to the House the explanation which the department gave to him.

Mr. Kelley of Pennsylvania defended the legality and propriety of the order, and Mr. Scofield of Pennsylvania defended the administration for acting under it.

Mr. Dawes said that not one word had fallen from him in justification of the order or in an attempt to cover it up. He had stated the facts, and had stated along with them that they did not meet his approval. In reply to a question by Mr. Randall of Pennsylvania, he said that the whole number employed in all the navy yards was 12,000, of whom about 6000 were employed in the bureaus for which these deficiencies were recommended.

Mr. Benjamin of Missouri moved to reduce the appropriation in the bill to $1,500,000, and argued against useless expenditure for the navy, in a time when there was no public necessity for it.

Mr. Maynard of Tennessee asked Mr. Benjamin how, with an inefficient navy the government could recognize the independence of Cuba. Was it wise to let the American navy slumber when the navies of other nations were strengthened, and while other nations were awake to the exigencies of the times?

Mr. Banks of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, said that no man could say that there was any danger of a conflict with any nation over the sea, but no man could say what would be the condition of the country a year hence in that regard. There were outstanding questions with other governments, and there was a public sentiment existing in this country which might bring on a conflict, and if the ships already on the stocks for repair were not completed, what would the country do to meet the emergencies which might arise and which were in no degree impossible or even improbable? He thought that whatever appropriations were best to be made, it was the bounden duty of Congress to make them at this time.

There were eighty vessels on the stocks for repair, and if these repairs, which were now in progress, were not continued and completed, great detriment to the government would ensue. Looking at it in another light, here were 5000 or 6000 men thrown out of employment. The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Benjamin) had said that Congress was not required to employ every idle man in the country. That he (Banks) conceded, but that was not this case. These men in the employment of government were, without an instant's notice, thrown out of employment in an inclement season at a time when the industry of the country is prostrated, and when none of them can get employment. There was not a corporation, heartless and soulless as corporations are, there was not an employer in the land who would throw out of employment 5000 or 6000 men under circumstances of that character. The government was bound by every consideration of justice, aye even of decency, to give these men reasonable notice before they were thrown out of employment, and unless the bill was passed it could not be done.

Mr. Benjamin's amendment was adopted, and the bill passed. It provides for the transfer of $1,000,000 to the Bureau of Construction and Repairs, and $500,000 to the Bureau of Steam Engineering.

THE NEW FUNDING BILL reported to the U. S. Senate by the finance committee is a compromise between the views of the Secretary and those of Mr. Sherman and his associates. It provides for selling bonds and pay interest abroad, but the department thinks this feature quite essential to the success of the scheme. All national banks must do their business on the basis of these new bonds after the first of next October, but they can wind up and retire if they do not like the terms proposed, and capital elsewhere will undoubtedly at once offer to enter the field they vacate. The last section of the bill is a step toward free banking, and contemplates a slight contraction in so far as capitalists avail themselves of its privileges. All bonds heretofore bought by the Treasury, amounting to $97,082,384, are to be cancelled, and destroyed as soon as the bill becomes a law, and further purchases are to be disposed of in the same way. The department is now paying about $123,000,000 of interest annually. This deduction from $150,000,000 mentioned in the bill leaves $27,000,000 yearly to be applied in reducing the public debt, which sum must slowly increase month by month as the aggregate of debt and interest is decreased.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, FEB. 3.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1684; Sheep and Lambs 6668; Swine 1530; number of Western Cattle 876; Eastern Cattle 367; Northern Cattle and Working Oxen 175. Cattle left over 66.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 00 @ $13 50; first quality $12 25 @ $12 75; second quality $11 25 @ $12 00; third quality $10 25 @$11 00; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $7 00 @ $9 50 ₩ cwt, (the total weight of hides, tallow and dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 8 @ 8½ ₩ lb; Country Hides 8c ₩ lb.

Brighton Tallow 7 @ 7½c per lb; Country Tallow 6½c ₩ lb.

Lamb Skins $1 @ $1 50 each; Sheep Skins $1 @ $1 50 each; Calf Skins 17 ₩ lb.

The supply of Cattle in market this week was not so large as that of last, but the quality of the Western Cattle was better. Better grades of Beeves are selling at the same prices than those of a poorer quality sold for last week, making a difference equal in some instances of ½c ₩ lb. The best quality of Beeves sold full as high as they did at last market. The trade for Beef the last week has been hard, and butchers did not buy so readily as they do when trade is quick at Boston. There were quite a number of very nice Cattle among those from Maine and a good supply of Working Oxen.

Stores—There are but few Cattle except Working Oxen and Milch Cows sold for Stores at this season of the year. Most of the small Cattle that are in a fair condition are sold to slaughter.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $110; ordinary $50 @ $80; Store Cows $35 @ 50 ₩ head. Most of the Cows in market are of an ordinary grade. There are but few extra Cows brought into market. Store Cows are mostly bought up to slaughter.

Working Oxen—The supply has been full as large as the demand requires. We quote sales at $210, $190, $155, $185, $215, $135, $235, $191, $220, $240 ₩ pair.

Sheep and Lambs—Most of the Sheep and Lambs from the West were owned by butchers or taken from the cars at a commission. The trade was better and prices ¼ cent ₩ lb higher than those of last week. We quote extra at $4 50 @ $7 50 ₩ head; ordinary lots $2 50 @ 4 25 ₩ head, or from 4 @ 8c ₩ lb live weight.

Swine—Wholesale 11 @ 12½ ₩ lb; retail 12 @ 14c ₩ lb., Fat Hogs—1300 at market; prices at 10 @ 10½c ₩ lb.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness foreign to his mild nature. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid candot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefited. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever tried."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them I let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had relieved or sign a receipt when I left it at their stores. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see each accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,

AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,

Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.

Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.

Deposits, $2,876,717.45.

The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.

On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.

This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja22d3w

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, inclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Friday was a cold day. Thermometer down to zero in the morning. It was bright and beautiful, though, and the sleighs slipped along merrily.

☞ A very neat and genteel Hack team is that Mr. Allen now turns out—with his new coach; and new harnesses from J. R. Hill & Co. of Concord.

FEARFUL REVENGE. — Castanon, a Spanish editor, was shot dead at Havana, recently, while standing in the door of a hotel. In revenge the Spaniards there have since killed and wounded 350 Cubans, and are still at it.

☞ "K." writes to the Boston Journal that the Rockingham House is to be enlarged; the front to extend down to the Cutts mansion on State St., and an "ell" to Warren St., in the rear. The estimated costs of improvements are about $40,000.

☞ About the location of Seavey's Island, the Exeter News Letter "acknowledges that, geographically, Seavey's Island is not located at the Shoals; but politically the Shoals with all the neighboring islands belong to Portsmouth, as delegates to our several Conventions can testify."

☞ A Philadelphia paper of Wednesday has a statement that the ram Atlanta was totally lost near Cuba by striking a rock. Her white officers, including Captain Ellms, of this city, were saved, but many of her crew of negroes were lost. A despatch from New York denies the truth of the statement.

MUSICAL.—In our notice of the Orchestra of the Philharmonic Society, the name of Mr. George Parkinson, bass viol, was omitted. The orchestra consists of six pieces, and Mr. Parkinson is a very skillful player on this instrument, and a great help in any such position.

A fine feature of Bidwell's Dramatic entertainments is the performance of their new orchestra of five pieces, led by the popular violinist, Avery Hayes. The execution on the horn, by Mr. Thomas Critchley of Portsmouth, is noticed everywhere as particularly admirable.

NAVAL.—The Miantonomoh and Terror have been ordered to Boston, and the Plymouth and Benicia to Portsmouth. After coaling, the Benicia will sail for the China Sea. Capt. Commerell has telegraphed to England for permission to take the Monarch into New York and Boston.

The Senate committee on naval affairs have decided not to consider the application for restoration of any officer dismissed by court-martial, unless the same is recommended by the Secretary of the navy.

☞ Among the nice private horses now owned in this city—and there are probably more than ever before—the spans of Mr. Charles Main, (fancy match—one black and one white,) Mr. E. H. Winchester, (bays,) Hon. Frank Jones, (pair of blacks, and a pair of snuff-colored ponies for the young folks, ex-Governor Goodwin, (dark bays,) Wm. P. Jones Esq., (bays,) and perhaps others—are clipping it merrily over the snow. That's what we like to see—even if a man is so stale and stupid as not to enjoy riding, he should let his family have the privilege, if he can afford the expense.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION.—Rev. W. H. Alden, Pastor of the Middle st. Baptist Church was most agreeably surprised at his residence on Monday evening last. Some 300 of his parishioners called on him, and after a portion of the evening had been spent in social conversation the company was called to order. Hon. H. D. Walker then stepped forward and in a most felicitous speech renewed the circumstances that led to the settlement of their pastor and the events that had since transpired, clearly indicated the success and prosperity that had crowned the relation, and at the close presented the pastor a purse containing $210.

The pastor though taken entirely by surprise, replied in a very pleasant and feeling manner, most cordially thanking them for this reviewed expression of their kindness, assuring them that he should ever cherish towards them a most pleasing and greatful remembrance.

The gathering was most delightful in every respect. It had been so well arranged that not the slightest intimation had reach the ears of the pastor or his wife. We are glad to record that this is only one of the many testimonials this society have shown of their high appreciation and regard for their pastor.

The Post-office Department have at last furnished an iron box for the reception of letters mailed in this city after the close of the office. It is attached to the middle door of the building, and will be proof against any attempt at robbery like that of a few weeks ago.

Communication.

ANON-A-MUSS. — Messrs. Editors:—As I hear you take no notice of communications unless you know the name of the author, I will tell you mine at once, and then you can do as you like about it. I shall not feel bad if you don't print it. My name is Betsey Butterworth. I live at Pine Cove—a pretty smart sort of a place, and but for some few things would be a real nice place. It is situated in a westerly direction from sunrise, and in a direct line from the equator to the north pole. The climate is variable, the population changeable, (sweet to your face, and bitter behind your back.) It has its corner grocery, sewing circle, clubs, and tea-parties; so you see there is a chance for news,—perhaps some would say scandal!

My special abhorrence is that inevitable "street corner," with its bevy of loafers, who improve (?) their time in deluging the walk with filthy saliva, and insulting the passing throng with insolent manifestations. This nuisance is getting intolerable, and when your "Pakeha" takes that Velocipedestrian trip of which he talked some months since, I wish he may come this way; and though that "transformation scene" may fall short of the "White Fawn" in brilliancy, yet I do think it would be a Godsend to humanity in general, and decent pedestrians in particular.

Yours truly, B. B.

TOWN CLOCK.—Editors of Chronicle: I have noticed that the City Clock on Market Square strikes very faintly, even when in the vicinity; and many complain of not hearing it strike, no further off than State Street. I suppose this happens from the hammer of the clock being too near the bell, operating like the kick of a vicious horse,—the nearer you get to him, the less damage from the kick. Could not the hammer be so adjusted, by removing it further from the bell, as to give us a good loud ringing noise, as when it sounds for fire.

Yours, TYRO.

New Hampshire Items.

The one New Hampshire State bond that was stolen by the celebrated robber, Mark Shinborn, from the Walpole Savings Bank about 1864, has been found by an unknown party in New York and returned to Judge Vose of Walpole, and by him has been presented to Col. Sanborn, the State Treasurer, for redemption. The unpaid coupons had reached the sum of three hundred dollars. The thief had succeeded in getting only one coupon cashed, and that was effected very soon after the robbery. The numbers and other figures on the bond had all been skilfully altered, and although the changes could not probably in many cases have been detected, yet it appears that the robbers did not pass off only one coupon.

Edward P. Offutt, aged 72, died in Manchester, of consumption, Feb. 1. He was an early, persistent, and consistent temperance man, the keeper of public houses in that city and at Massabesic.

It is said there were no delegates from Cheshire County, at the political labor or political-temperance conventions at Concord.

Mr. John Withington of Keene who lately died at the age of 92 years, having outlived his family, left his property, about six thousand dollars, to be divided equally among five poor widows. Mr. W. was rigidly temperate in his habits, an early riser, an inveterate foe to the foolish fashions of the age, and in many respects was considered an eccentric personage.—Keene Sentinel.

Last week we had as good sugar weather as is often seen two months later in the season. In this and neighboring towns where trees were tapped the sap ran freely, and in some instances sugar to the amount of several pounds was made.—Keene Sentinel.

☞ The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent telegraphs that the vote of the House reducing the amount of transfers in the Navy Department is equivalent to an expression of want of confidence in its management.

EXTENSIVE EMIGRATION.—A female seven-hundred-pounder has gone from Council Bluffs to Washington Territory.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

☞ A full attendance is requested at a Meeting of the Mercantile Library Association, this (Saturday) evening, at eight o'clock.

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly UNJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.

(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

THE NEW PATENT

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING sash, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and NEVER-FAILING. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steel springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

GOING TO THE DOGS.—Dogs poetic, we mean this time—not dogs taxed and licensed, nor those not worth either—not noisy dogs, nor dogs which maintain a dogged silence—not curs with long tails, nor curs curtailed—but rather those whereby hangs this tale:—

Somewhere and at different times we have seen three little poems on Dogs, entitled respectively the Upper Dog in the Fight, the Under Dog, and the Outside Dog in the Fight. A couple of years ago we chanced again to come across two of these, and fancying we would publish all three together, we have saved them in hopes of finding the other—but in vain; the Upper Dog would not again appear. At last, having an idea that our friend David Barker, the Bard of Maine, (not to say the main bark-er,) was the author of one or more of these, we wrote asking of him a copy, if he could furnish it. He replies,—and we hope he will excuse us for publishing his private note, seeing we have not "altered" it:

EXETER, ME., Feb 1.

My Dear Miller:—Your favor of the 28th ult. is just received. Several years ago, when, as a member of the Grand Lodge of F. & A. M., I, with others, was jogging along towards Kendall's Mills, Me., to institute a new Lodge there,—I noticed a dog fight in the quiet village of Newport. Grand Master Chase, who was in the sleigh with me, made the enquiry, which dog in that fight I went in for,—the upper or under dog? From that idea I immediately wrote the stanzas, "The Under Dog in the Fight," which have been copied so much since. The parodies, "The Upper Dog in the Fight," "The Outside Dog in the Fight," and "The Dog that Won't Fight at all," appeared soon after; but I do not know who wrote them, and I have no copy of them now. The Under Dog has been so altered since it first went out from me, that I conclude to send you a copy.

Yours truly, DAVID BARKER.

THE UNDER DOG IN THE FIGHT.

BY DAVID BARKER.

I know that the world that the great big world,
From the peasant up to the king,
Has a different tale from the tale I tell,
And a different song to sing.

But for me—and I care not a single fig
If they say I am wrong or am right—I
I shall always go in for the weaker dog,
For the under dog in the fight.

I know that the world, that the great, big world
Will never for a moment stop
To see which dog may be in the fault,
But will shout for the dog on top.

But for me I never shall pause to ask
Which dog may be in the fight,
For my heart will beat, while it beats at all,
For the under dog in the fight.

Perchance what I've said I had better not said,
Or 'twere better I had said it incog,
But with heart and with glass filled chock to
Here is luck to the under dog. [the brim,

We add the discreetly-valorous dog, but still lack the Upper Dog, and will thank any friend for a copy; and also for the Dog that Won't Fight at all.

THE OUTSIDE DOG IN THE FIGHT.

You may sing of your dog, your bottom dog,
Or of any dog that you please,
I go for the dog, the wise old dog,
That knowingly takes his ease,
And, wagging his tail outside the ring—
Keeping always his bone in sight—
Cares not a pin in his sound old head
For either dog in the fight.

Not his is the bone they are fighting for,
And why should my dog sail in,
With nothing to gain but a certain chance
To lose his own precious skin?
There may be a few perhaps who fail
To see it in quite this light,
But when the far flies I had rather be Too outside dog in the fight.

I know there are dogs—injudicious dogs—
Who think it is quite the thing
To take the part of one of the dogs,
And go yelping into the ring;
But I care not a pin what all may say
In regard to the wrong or the right,
My money goes, as well as my song,
For the dog that keeps out of the fight.

For our own part, if we were to write a poem on this dogmatic subject, we should sing of the dog that hath his quarrel just—something after this strain—not to strain too much:

Here's to the dog that will fight for his rights,
And here's to the dog that is right when he fights.

Now about this Upper Dog—let us have him. It is usually easy enough to find the winner after a battle, though the defeated often escape observation in the dust they have raised. Perhaps our cur-teous Br. Elwell of the Portland Transcript, knows something about him; or maybe Br. Clarke of the Manchester Mirror, can hunt him out with his coon dogs, which we know he always prefurs shall be on top of the heap. Our late Br. Beard of the Nashua Telegraph, would have known all about this dog; but on whom his doggish mantle fell, we are not strong-scented enough to smell out. F.

P. S. We fear that it will be harder now than ever to find that dog, seeing Congress is going to tax them.

TO STOP A LEAK.—Beat yellow soap and whiting with a little water, into a thick paste. Rub this over the part where the leakage is, and it will be instantly stopped.

CHRONICLES OF OLD TIMES.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The Portsmouth Privateers of 1812.

NUMBER FIVE.

The Thomas, (Capt. Shaw,) of this port, was a very successful privateer;—and some people who always place their golden age in the past, may possibly be disposed to wish that such lively times as we had in 1812-13, might come again, so that they might grow rich in a hurry. If, however, they would carefully read the history (in the newspapers) of those years, that wish would die out.—The newspapers of that day, or any day past, reading both sides,—give a more lifelike view than any book can, which is written years afterward.

The Thomas captured the British privateer Liverpool Packet, on the 11th of June, 1813, with some loss of life, as will be seen by the following extract from the War Journal of June 18:

The Privateer sch. Thomas, T. M. Shaw, commander, arrived at this port on Saturday last, in company with the mischievous privateer Liverpool Packet, which she captured on the 11th inst. off Cape Sables, after a chase of six hours. The L. P. mounts 5 guns—had on board 35 men, and was commanded by Joseph Barss, jr.,—was out three days from Halifax, and had made no captures.

In the act of veering, she fell on board the Thomas, and her men running forward to bear her off, it was supposed they were going to board, when the marines on board the Thomas poured a volley of musketry into her, and unfortunately killed two of their own men, Mr. Wm. Thomas, of this town, and Patrick Train, who with several others had that moment jumped on board of her. Lewis Folsom was also killed on their own deck.

The pilot taken on board the L. P. is said to be an American—a native of North Yarmouth, Me. His name is York, and he is now in confinement, awaiting an examination. We understand he says there are persons in Boston, who are concerned in the Liverpool Packet and Sir John Sherbroke!

The Liverpool Packet was only of 66 tons, and mounted 5 carriage guns. She was sold on the 8th of July, 1813, with muskets, cutlasses, powder, ball, provisions, &c. She was soon sent to sea again, as an American privateer, with the same armament, as we shall see in due time; but we pause here to introduce a little bit of droll history.

In the Gazette and Oracle, early in the summer of 1812, we find two items alike. The first stated a report that the Thomas, of this port, had been captured by the British, and carried to Halifax; and the second said that letters from Halifax seemed to confirm the report.

We could not remember that the Thomas privateer was ever taken, or that we ever heard so. Inquiring of an old salt, he said, she never was taken. But was there another schooner Thomas owned here at the same time? No, not that we remember. This was a puzzle, and so it still remains; not less a puzzle, but more so, as we read on. For in the War Journal shipping list of July 23, 1813, we have these lines:—

"The privateer schooner Thomas, Burbank, of this port, has been captured off Beaver Harbor, by the Nymphe frigate, and arrived at Halifax the 6th inst."

Now, if anybody can tell us who this Capt. Burbank was, or describe the privateer Thomas Number 2, we shall be greatly obliged; and the reader also will be pleased to see a solution of this riddle, which now we do not see.

On the 12th of September, 1813, a Swedish brig bound to this port "was boarded by a British privateer schooner, supposed to be the Thomas, [No. 2] formerly of this port." This does not solve the riddle.

On the 27th of August, 1813, Abraham and Wm. Shaw, agents for the Thomas, (No. 1,) advertised that they were ready to pay over the net prize money derived from the sale of ship Diana, brig John Peat, and schooner Liverpool Packet. The two former vessels did not, we think, come into this port.

But this chapter is getting long enough to close up. In the next, we must go back a little, to pick up some few scraps of history about some other vessels, of less note than the Thomas.

—"How could God make a woman out of a rib, papa?" "I don't know, my child; it was a miracle." "All the questions you can't answer, you call miracles, don't you, papa?"

COUGHS, INFLUENZA.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome half kegs, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one ounce will last as long as two of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

THE COVERED BRIDGE.

BY DAVID BARKER.

Tell the fainting soul in the weary form
There's a world of the purest bliss,
That is linked as that soul and form are linked,
By a covered bridge with this.

Yet to reach that realm on the other shore,
We must pass through a transient gloom,
And must walk unseen, unhelped and alone,
Through that covered bridge—the tomb.

But we all pass over on equal terms,
For the universal toll
Is the outer garb which the hand of God
Has flung around the soul.

Though the eye is dim and the bridge is dark,
And the river it spans is wide,
Yet faith points through to a shining mount
That looms on the other side.

To enable our feet in the next day's march
To climb up that golden ridge,
We must all lie down for a one night's rest,
Inside of the covered bridge.

INSURE IN THE "BREAK-NECK."—Everybody should get insured against accidents. No matter if you belong to one of the "best of families," accidents will happen.

Get out a policy. The old proverb says, "Honesty is the best policy," but that was before accident insurance companies started. Now the best policy is a policy in the "Break-neck."

The other day a man in Chicago fell out of a fourth story window. He had no insurance, and consequently was killed. Another man on the same day fell out with his wife. He was insured in the "Break-neck," and is ready to fall out again.

A woman driving a spirited horse in St. Louis was run away with. Being insured against accidents, she wasn't alarmed a bit, stopped the horse and came back safe. Her policy running out, she neglected to renew it. Shortly after she was run away with again. Her husband's partner ran away with her this time, and she hasn't come back yet. Don't fail to renew your policy, particularly if it is in the "Break-neck."

At Dubuque, Iowa, a man was kicked by a horse. The horse wasn't insured, and he got kicked back.

Near Paris, Ky., a man, while engaged in running a circular saw, had his arms taken off. They consisted of a cavalry sabre and a double barrelled shot gun. The man who carried them off had an accident insurance—and he hasn't been caught yet.

In Utica, N. Y., a man accidentally got married. Being insured in the "Break-neck," he will receive $15 a week until he recovers.

Andy Johnson writes from Tennessee, "My Policy" has run out. Send me another by express.

Near Portland, Maine, a poor man fell from a loft and broke his neck. He received his insurance, $3,000, from the "Break-neck," with which he was able to set himself up in business, and is now doing well.

Our agent at Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "A lumber-horse ran away with a bob-tailed wagon, and tipped in the street over a small woman and six elderly children. The horse began to cry and the wagon bled freely at the nose, but otherwise the street is doing well. No insurance."

A boiler exploded at Memphis, blowing the engineer into the air quite out of sight. He will receive $15 a day until he comes down again.

A hog-driver in Mt. Sterling, Ky., was very much hurt by a fall—fall in pork. No insurance.

A man run away from Litchfield, Ill., to avoid paying his debts. He left a family (not being able to take them with him.) No insurance.

A man accidentally fell from a steamer at New Orleans in the river. As he was sinking the third time, he suddenly recollected that his policy in the "Break-neck" had expired. He then swam ashore, sought out the agent, renewed his policy, and immediately returned to the river and sank the third time in a serene and tranquil manner.

A NEEDLESS SAMPLE.—The Concord Patriot states that a fellow called Alvah Whidden, from Concord has lately been hanging round Canterbury. Several times articles of value have been missed and their disappearance has been attributed to his agency. On the 31st ult., Whidden was hanging about Rev. Mr. Moody's house and a watch was set for him. He saw what he judged a favorable opportunity, entered the house and went down cellar. On this the watcher jumped up and barred the cellar door. Help was called, but then came the question whether they had the authority to hold the captive, who was let out of the cellar. In the time while the captors were securing the necessary legal documents Whidden made haste to Concord, and started off on the down train on the evening of the 1st. Whidden was thought to have been the man who broke into Mr. Moody's last summer, but the evidence was not sufficient to warrant his arrest at that time.

The watchman and Mr. Moody, having caught the rascal, should have held him till the documents arrived.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1857,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

MONDAY, FEB. 7, 1870.

Stewings.

Cincinnati is to have a June Jubilee.

A nervous Ohio householder was waked up the other night by an alarm of burglars, got out his gun, fired from the window, and ruined a pair of his best trousers that were flapping on a clothes line.

Rev. Horace Cook is to be tried for his escapade with Miss Johnson, by his church, April 7. Temporary insanity will be admitted as his defence. The presiding elder is understood to have the power of retaining Cook in his ministry.

Isaac S. Kalloch has withdrawn from the Superintendency of the Leavenworth, Lawrence & Galveston Railroad, in order to devote his entire attention to the editorship of the Lawrence Journal.

The Chinese do not drink whiskey.

The accident at Chatham, on the Boston and Albany Railroad, Thursday morning, by which Conductor Miles Philips, brakeman Charles Sprague and fireman Henry Sibley were instantly killed, was caused by a break of the couplings of one freight train, allowing eleven cars to run back at a frightful rate into another freight train coming on. The wreck of both trains was complete.

Justice Bonhon has sued the Chicago Post for libel, placing his damages at $50,000.

Ice is $20 a ton in New York.

☞ Rev. E. W. Hooker, D. D., has an essay, published in the Congregationalist, on The Pulpit and the Temperance Reform; in which he gives due credit to the eminent lawyers who have been conspicuous in the work, to the Washingtonians who did what they could, and to the Sons of Temperance and other such organized societies. He looks back to the eminent clergymen of fifty years ago who moved the public mind on the subject from their pulpits, such men as Beecher, Edwards, Hewitt, Marsh and others: and then without disparaging other means or ways, he insists that the preachers of to-day should make temperance an essential part of their moral and religious teaching, from the pulpits and in the churches. To which we would add, (says Uncle Toby,) that steady and persistent efforts of the kind here indicated, are never lost; they often prevent a hearer from being a sot—and we have in our mind's eye, a minister who has kept many years in his place, and done a great work for temperance in his Sunday-School—where he has trained and pledged a generation of sober men.

This work, in this line, makes less show than the reformation of half a dozen drunkards:—but it is none the less valuable because comparatively unseen.

For the Chronicle.

Messrs. Editors:—Your Boston correspondent, "M.," feels aggrieved just because young men surreptitiously penetrate to his chamber, and leave there little books which ask him such "embarrassing questions as 'Are you a Christian?'" I don't see why answering that question should embarrass him any;—if it was me now, that was addressed in that manner, a little confusion on my part would be quite natural,—true modesty is ever retiring in its habits, and hesitates to proclaim its own virtues. But how it can "embarrass" M. to answer "No" to a simple question, I am at a loss to discover.

I have written the above concerning M., not that I know anything against him,—he may be one of those who "do the things they should leave undone, and leave undone what they should do," for aught I know to the contrary, (in fact, I think he is one of that worthy class of young men,)—but because he rapped my knuckles awhile ago, by asking me an "embarrassing question" concerning an article I had written. He asked me why I did not follow a certain line of argument to a conclusion? I wouldn't tell him before—now I will. The reason was, that I had followed it just as far as it seemed to support my theory,—it wasn't very likely that I was going to pursue it further, to the weakening of my own position; I left that for the opponents of my views to do.

COM. LEON SMITH KILLED.—The San Francisco papers give full particulars of the death of "Commodore" Leon Smith by the Indians at Fort Wrangle, Alaska, where Smith was a sort of Sutler. His name was Leonidas Smith, and if not a native of Portsmouth, he spent his youth here; and the family, which will be remembered, as highly respectable, now live in California. His widowed mother was a school teacher, and afterwards married another Mr. Smith of Cincinnati, and is now again a widow, and with her unmarried daughter living in San Francisco.

After Leonidas left this city, he called himself Leon, and has spent a very eventful life, mainly on the sea. He won a good name as commander of various sailing ships and steamers, and at the breaking out of the war, an iron steamship of which he was in charge being seized by the rebels, he went over to the enemy, no doubt for purposes of gain—and rendered the Confederates very efficient service. He captured Fort Brown, the steamer Star of the West, and the Harriet Lane—himself killing Com. Stringham, in a hand to hand fight on board the latter vessel. His title of Commodore was a rebel "honor."

He was a very handsome, capable, brave, and efficient man. He leaves a beautiful wife and one child. His marriage was somewhat romantic. When in command of a steamer to New York, the daughter of a California banker was among his passengers, to attend school in New York; and although a mere child, she promised to marry him—and she afterwards did so, from school, we believe at 16 years of age. His age was 40 years at the time of his death—of which we take the following account from the Bulletin of San Francisco:—

Andrew D. Smith, Deputy Insurance Commissioner of San Francisco, received a telegram that his brother, Commodore Leon Smith, was killed by the Indians; and the steamer brought down the remains of Commodore Smith and also his wife and child.

It seems some renegade white man had sold liquor to the Indians. One, Si-wan, became intoxicated on the night of December 25th, and beat his squaw so terribly that the blood issued from her mouth. Com. Smith interposed, and sent for a detachment to take Si-wan to the guard-house, and had the Indian woman taken into the house of one of the laundresses in the immediate vicinity. Before the guard arrived to arrest Si-wan, he pretended to regret his ill-treatment of his wife, and offering to shake hands with the laundress, seized her hand, and before she or her husband, and a sergeant who was present, were aware of his intention, bit off one of her fingers and immediately escaped to the Indian village.

Lieut. Borrowe, the commanding officer of the Post, immediately despatched Lieut. Loucks with a detachment of men to seize the Indian. Si-wan was soon found, but refused to accompany the guard. The alarm was rapidly spread throughout the Indian camp. Lieut. Loucks, finding himself about to be overpowered, ordered his men to seize Si-wan, who, with his friends, resisted. No alternative was left but to give the order to fire on them. Si-wan was killed and his brother wounded. Lieut. Loucks then returned to the garrison, bearing the wounded Indian.

As soon as Com. Smith heard of the difficulty he sent his wife and child inside the garrison, and having been very friendly with the Indians, and feeling that he had great influence with them, volunteered his services, and against the importunities of his friends, started off for the Indian camp to pacify them. He had hardly left his door, when he was shot down by an Indian lying in ambush. He staggered a few steps toward the garrison, and fell on a log. The officers at the Post hearing the firing, immediately ran down and found him insensible, and hastily arranging a litter took him to a hospital, where Dr. Kirke dressed his wounds. He had received thirteen shots in the abdomen and three in the wrist. He lived twenty-two hours, suffering great agony most of the time, but died quietly on Sunday night, December 26th, his last moments being soothed by every attention kind friends could give.

Sunday morning, Lieut. Loucks sent out a flag of truce demanding the immediate surrender of the murderer, making the destruction of the Indian village at noon, the ultimatum. The flag of truce party was met by the Indians in their war paint. They refused to surrender the murderer Scut-doo, or to have any intercourse with the garrison. Every effort was made by the military officers to secure the murderer without resorting to harsh measures, but without avail. The Indians placed scouts on the neighboring heights, and commenced an irritating fire. The garrison soon dislodged them, and opened on the Indian village. Subsequently some of the more friendly Indians secured Scut-doo and brought him in.

Hostilities ceased, and a Court Martial being organized, at which all the Chiefs were present, Scut-doo was sentenced to be hanged. All, the Chiefs included, admitted the justice of the sentence, and Scut-doo was executed at noon December 29th. The condemned said that his sentence was just; that he was ready to die; that he was a Chief himself, and that he had killed a great Chief, meaning Commodore Smith; that he bore no enmity or ill-will to Commodore Smith, on the contrary, the latter had treated him with great kindness, and had often made him presents; that the Great Spirit above had commanded him to kill some one, and that he obeyed the command, and was sorry that Commodore Smith was the victim.

The execution took place in full view of the Indian town, and the chiefs and the medicine man were present. When the noose was placed around his neck he asked if all was ready, and receiving an affirmative answer, jumped from the scaffold before the drop fell. At sunset the body was handed over to his tribe.

With the execution of Scut-doo all hostilities ceased, and now all is quiet and peaceful. Com. Smith's body was embalmed and orders issued to the United States Quartermaster's steamer Newbern to take the remains to San Francisco, where the funeral took place from Calvary Church.

Commodore Smith was well known on this coast, having been connected with several steamship lines as Commander. He spent a large portion of his life in the South, and at the opening of the rebellion cast his lot with his Southern friends. He was Commodore in charge of the Naval Department of the Gulf, and his bold attack on the Federal fleet at Galveston, January 1, 1863, resulting in the capture of that city and the Federal steamship Harriet Lane, is well known and forms a prominent event in the history of the late war. He was a warm-hearted, whole-souled man, and leaves many friends to mourn his sad fate. During the past year he was engaged in the fur trade at Fort Wrangle.

The Annual Catalogue of Phillips Exeter Academy, for the year 1869—70, gives the number of students for the year, 130; the Senior or graduating class having 36 of the number. About 20 students are annually admitted to the Charity Foundation. Twenty different States are represented, besides Nova Scotia, the Sandwich Islands and the District of Columbia.

The body of Mr. Donovan's son, who was drowned at Exeter, has not been recovered, although the efforts of the citizens have been untiringly given for the purpose of finding it. Mr. Donovan has the sympathy of all. His afflictions have not come singly. It is but a few weeks since he was burned out of his house.

It is expected that Rev. T. S. Robie of Salmon Falls, who has filled the Congregational pulpit for several Sabbaths, will soon take pastoral charge of the church.

On Thursday evening, in Goffstown, a cottage house and barn were burnt, belonging to Mr. Curtis and Mr. Prescott. The fire began in the barn, while the family and most of the neighbors were attending the dedication of the new Town Hall. Ashes, or some incendiary may have caused the fire. Loss, $700.

Mrs. Pollard, wife of Henry P., of Bakersville, Manchester, has been missing from her home 10 days.

F. B. Putney of Manchester carried his store cat to Warner on the cars, and left it. It is easy to imagine his surprise, when the same cat walked into his store, having found its way back in safety.

On the 2d the house of Otis Barton of Manchester was broken into, but nothing except a pair of boots and overshoes taken. The burglars were after safe keys, and did not touch a silver service they found.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.—Those eminent men, Dr. James Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Hughes Bennett, say that consumption can be cured. Dr. Wistar knew this when he discovered his now widely known BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and experience has proved the correctness of his opinion.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness owing to his nervous condition. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid candot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant with lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefitted. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and I would be the laughing stock of them.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had returned to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see each accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

One thousand experiments

were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE.—CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.—Persons who read the stock sales, have recently observed a material advance in the price of Boston & Maine Railroad shares, and have wondered thereat. The principal cause of this, beyond the fact that a dull money market permits considerable capital to seek stock investments at this time, is to be found in the following facts:

It is well known that overtures were some time since made on the part of the management of the Eastern Railroad to the Boston & Maine, for a union of these roads, to the end that the eastern business of these lines might be done cheaper, and the Roads in Maine have increased facilities and less cost in transporting their freight and passengers from Portland to Boston. While the B. & M. professed to the people of Maine a willingness to bring about the proposed result, they have never seemed inclined, either by taking any initiative step or by acceding to the propositions of the Eastern Road, to consummate the desired end.

One objection raised on their part was, that the capital of the Eastern was represented in part by bonds and in part by stock, while the B. & M. capital was represented by stock alone. To obviate this objection to the union, the Eastern, as we learn, early in January made a proposition to purchase the entire road and property of the B. & M. at 150 dollars per share, or at $6,825,000. In view of the fact that the Legislature of Massachusetts, by the terms of the B. & M. charter, has the right to take the Road, &c., at cost and 10 per cent thereon, less amount of dividends paid, this, by accurate figuring, limits the value of the stock at a trifle over $149 per share.

A privilege was extended to the stockholders of the Maine Railroad, if they should elect, to remain members of the United Co., thus to secure an addition to their stock, cash equal to its then market value, $150; and if they did not care to remain they would obtain $150 in cash for their stock. This proposition has not been accepted. In the meantime somebody has been buying all the Boston & Maine stock to be found in the market, and the rise is accounted for. It will be seen whether the B. & M. stockholders will hereafter be found willing to forgive their servants for this mistake in managing their trust.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD. — As will be seen by the list of stockholders we publish, the citizens of Dover own stock in the B. & M. R. R., which would sell to-day for over $400,000, or about one-fifteenth part of the whole stock of the road. We referred last month to the amount of business given the road by the citizens of Dover, and the necessity of something being done for over accumulation, in the matter of new depots for passengers and freight.

The fact is, and it might as well come at first as last, the management of the B. & M. R. R. are altogether too independent of the public upon whom they depend for support, and without whom they could not run their trains, draw their salaries, or pay their dividends. There are two ways of taking them down. One by building the Dover & Portsmouth Railroad, and the other by State Legislation. Give the President of the Boston & Maine to understand, when he comes begging at the doors of the N. H. Legislature for an Act to legalize some trade or over issue of stock, which has been made, that when his road will treat the travelling public of the States with the liberality and courtesy which they deserve, he can have the favors he desires, and not till then. The B. & M. R. R. do not at present deserve anything but the severest scrutiny and criticism from the Legislature and the public. We shall refer to this again in our next. Meantime we want to hear more from the Enquirer, News Letter, and Haverhill (Mass.) papers.—Dover Local Record.

NAVAL.—The force at present employed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard does not exceed 1200 men. The steam frigate Colorado has been hauled alongside the ordnance dock, where her battery is now stripping. The sloop-of-war Swatara took her departure from the Yard, Thursday.

The yellow fever has broken out on board the Seminole, now in the West Indies, and the vessel has been ordered home.

☞ As Mr. Hoar is rejected by the Senate of the U. S., there are several candidates for the vacant judgeship. Among them Mr. Durant of Louisiana, Drake of Missouri—and last but not least, "Mr. Akerman, now U. S. District Attorney in Georgia, is also spoken of." He has resided for many years in Georgia, where as a loyal but quiet man, he suffered much persecution during the rebellion. He is a native of this city; a son of the late Benjamin Akerman, Esq.

☞ The News Letter reports that at the S. J. Court in Exeter, in the case John Stearns Jr. vs. John Bennett Jr., having been before the court six days, the jury remained in consultation sixteen hours and were discharged, being unable to agree.

The action A. H. Goss vs. Lucius Nichols was a suit to recover $300, the value of a horse let, and killed by immoderate driving, as alleged. Verdict for plaintiff, $160. On a former trial, in January, 1868, the verdict was for the defendant. Albert R. Hatch and Alva Wood for plaintiff. G. C. Bartlett and Charles U. Bell for defendant.

The trial of William H. Foster vs. Isaiah A. Dustin, was a replevin for a stock of goods, valued at $1100, attached by the defendant, a deputy sheriff, upon writs against one Alfred Page of Salem. Defence: a fraudulent sale of the goods. The defendant having introduced evidence to impeach plf.'s veracity, the court allowed the case to lie till Saturday morning, to enable the plaintiff to procure rebutting evidence.

The trial of the case—Charles Walker vs. Oren W. Caswell, et als, account for foresails and jib delivered to schooner Mary E. Caswell and for repairs on the schooner $575. Defts. admit $112 of the account.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Saturday morning, Mr. Daniel Brogan of this city was found dead on the floor of his room, at the House of Blazes, on Hanover Street. When found, he was curled up on the floor as if his death had been a painful one. Mr. Brogan was in apparent good health on the day before. He was about 50 years of age, and a workman at the carriage business, and was at work on Saturday.

ARITHMETICAL.—The perpendicular of a plane triangle is 300 feet; the sum of the sides is 1155 feet, and the difference of the segments of the base is 495 feet. Required the base and the sides, with analysis and diagram. N. D.

☞ Sargent's Wheel Factory in West Amesbury was burned Friday night, about 9 o'clock, with three other buildings, Loss $40,000, insured $12,000. The light of the fire was distinctly seen from this city.

☞ The Eastern Railroad meeting at Ipswich to-day will be largely attended by stockholders and their friends.

DEATHS.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHAY.

—TRAFTON'S FIFTH—

GRAND MASQUERADE BALL! will take place in CONGRESS HALL, on TUESDAY EVENING, FEB. 22d.

The Anniversary of the Birth of Washington. The brilliant success of the previous Masquerades under the same management is a guaranty that a big time will attend this one. The famous "Gideon's Band," much enlarged and improved, will lead the Grand March; Turner's Quadrille Band will furnish the dancing music; and no pains will be spared by the manager to secure the enjoyment of all attending.

Tickets 75 cents. Gallery 25 cents.

☞ Only those in Fancy Costume admitted to the floor. Ladies in Fancy Dress will receive Complimentary Tickets.

To the Public.

At the close of the year 1869 the Hon. Frank Jones, gave his salary as Mayor of the city, amounting to five hundred dollars, to the undersigned as Trustees, to aid in founding a Free Public Library for the use of the inhabitants of Portsmouth. The donation was made upon the condition that the sum of five thousand dollars shall be raised for this purpose within five years; and Mr. Jones has promised to add another sum of five hundred dollars, if the five thousand dollars shall be obtained within the time limited.

Having put at interest the donation of Mr. Jones, the Trustees now earnestly appeal to the citizens of Portsmouth to accomplish by their contributions this useful undertaking. We are of opinion that a less sum than five thousand dollars would be insufficient to make a respectable commencement of a really useful Public Library; but we hope and believe that the sum named is but a small part of the contributions that will ultimately be made for this purpose.

It is not necessary for us to estimate the value or to state the advantage of a Public Library of useful Books, which shall be freely accessible to all. As a means of continuing and perfecting the education which our children commence in the public schools, such a Library is a public necessity. We have valuable private libraries, which are very creditable to the city, but the use of them is limited to comparatively few persons. The purpose of the present movement is carry out more fully the principles of our Free School system, which is now so universally approved and esteemed.

The sum required for the commencement of this enterprise is only one fourth part as much as we expend annually for the support of our public schools; and we believe that if the attention of our People is seriously turned to the subject, the whole amount required will be secured within a single year. Every contributor will have the satisfaction of knowing that the sum he may invest together with all the other contributions for the same purpose, will forever be for the use of himself and his posterity.

The Trustees very earnestly invite the liberal contributions of our fellow citizens; and the advice and active co-operation of all who are interested in the education of the people and the prosperity of the city.

Portsmouth, January 31 1870.

ALBERT R. HATCH,
GEO. L. TREADWELL,

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,

Office No. 92 Broadway, New York.

The Most Successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

A Surplus Premiums of Profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriate to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made Annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year as in most other Companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unjust to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, $15,000,000.
(None of this is in the Notes-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, $8,000,000
(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and all Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

NEVER-FAILING, SELF-LOCKING

WINDOW FAST.

The only substitute for weight and pulleys, and a complete and perfect SELF-LOCKING spring, at less cost than the old, unreliable and unsafe ones heretofore introduced. No Catching, Hitching, Breaking, Slipping, or Dropping, but ALWAYS SAFE,—Self-Locking and Never Failing. No cogs, cams, wheels, bands or rollers to get out of order, or tempered steels springs to break. It never fails to hold and lock the window just where you leave it, from being raised or dropped down. It can be raised or lowered the merest trifle, for ventilation, and then and there locks itself. No other fixture pretends, does, or can, lock the window securely in every place or position. It works equally well on top or bottom sash, is simple, stronger, more effective, durable, and cheaper than any spring ever introduced. Critics are challenged to find a single fault. It is cheaply and easily applied by any mechanic to old or new windows. Every lock is made in the most thorough manner, and warranted perfect. Descriptive Circulars, with Card list of Prices, sent promptly on application.

A HARNESS FOR OXEN.

We have copied the accompanying engraving from that excellent rural and fireside paper, the Hearth and Home. Though an ox-harness is not a thing entirely new to our readers, it is seldom put to use among New England farmers. We have seen a single ox on the lead of the team doing kind and efficient service in a leather harness. We know a farmer who used to put a harness upon a massive Short-Horn bull put him between the thills of his four-wheeled hay wagon, or upon his plow, and make him serviceable upon the farm as a beast of draft, if not of burden. There is no question about the practicability of the ox-harness, nor of its comfort to the animal, compared with the wooden yoke and bows. Will not some of our farmers try it.—Manchester Mirror and Farmer

FATAL ACCIDENT. — About four o'clock Wednesday morning, Mr. M. M. Peyser, a Boston merchant who had just arrived in New York, on the 2.50 express, alighted from his car and entered the side depot on Fourth avenue and Twenty-seventh street. While he was standing near the gate, one of the cars of the train just arrived, driven with its usual reckless velocity, entered the yard, suddenly turning the switch near where Mr. Peyser stood, and before he had the slightest warning the car struck him on the side and whirled him around as it passed, crushing and crunching the bones of his body as if they were pipe-stems, between the projecting sides of the car and the heavy gate, depositing the wretched man an almost lifeless mass of flesh and bones, on the ground at the end of the gate.

Mr. Peyser made a desperate effort to evade the blow from the incoming car, but the position in which he stood was one in which it would have been impossible for him to extricate himself. The curve of the track leading to the yard is short, sharp and sudden. A heavy wooden gate bars the entrance, and is opened as far as possible for the entry of trains; but there is a telegraph pole behind the gate, close to the side of the depot building, which prevents its being opened freely or, rather, close up or perfectly parallel with the wall. When the trains are turning the sharp curve, the cars projected three or four feet over the track, leaving a space of scarcely twelve inches between the car and the gate, which distance—as the gate hangs in a vertical position—decreases towards its end. Mr. Peyser as before stated, was carried the full length of the gate—about twelve feet—and fell, with every bone in his body crushed, at the foot of the telegraph pole.

There appear never to have been any precautions taken on the part of the Railroad Company to prevent such accidents. There is nothing—no sign or guard—to warn strangers or persons ignorant of the premises of the danger. When the poor man was thrown at the foot of the telegraph pole, a bleeding, crushed mass, gasping with agony, several policemen gathered over his body, and instead of promptly procuring medical aid, stupidly gazed at the dying man, and speculated upon the number of minutes he had to live. Finally, office Cassell concluded that as the man was dead, the body might as well be taken to a police station. Mr. Peyser was a well know dealers in worsteds, trimmings, &c., in Boston.

WOMEN AS PARISHONERS.—The Lowell St. Universalist Society in Manchester, at a recent meeting, voted by a large majority, after discussion, that Women who are connected with the society, and attend public worship with them, be allowed to become regular members, and have equal rights in the management thereof. The Union calls it, "Progress of the New Doctrine," and believes it will work well. It is not without precedent, however. When the Congregational Church at Kittery Point, in 1840, called Geo. Reuben Kimball to be their pastor, all the members of both sexes, voted for him by rising, and their names are recorded in the official record.

—The protest of the Mormon women against governmental interference with the system of polygamy, is a remarkable manifestation of feminine eccentricity. It is certainly a strong argument in favor of a plurality of wives, that their speeches exhibit as much intellectual ability and far better temper than the harangues of their strong-minded sisters on this side of the continent, whether spinsters, widows or the possessors of a whole husband apiece.

TRAINING HORSES TO BE SAFE.—It is easy to train a horse not to be dangerous. It is easy, but it requires patience and good sense in the trainers, and good sense in the colt too. Some colts, like some boys, are natural fools and can never have sense trained into them. It is not at all difficult to train a young horse to be gentle and quiet under almost any circumstances; and if something unusual should terrify him, he would run to his master sooner than run away from him. A horse properly trained will always look to the rider or driver in the time of fright, for protection; and instead of kicking and tearing everything to pieces, when scared, he will, when he sees you standing by him, and feels your hand on his head or on the rein, put his trust in you, and guard you as his only hope in time of danger.

This was often illustrated during the war. All who served in the cavalry or artillery force have seen how terribly frightened a horse appeared the moment his rider tumbled from the saddle. It mattered not how loud the thunder of the guns roared in battle, nor how great the confusion in the hour of deadly strife—the horse seemed unconscious of danger until left alone, without a rider or attendant. The moment the rider's hold was released and the steed found himself separated from the one he was trained to regard as his protector, that moment he became furiously wild, and would begin to neigh and run in every direction, oftentimes pressing into groups in the front rank, seeming to find comfort by rubbing his sides against the legs of the riders of other horses.

Every farmer who raises colts, could, with a little care, make them familiar with the saddle and harness on their back or under their belly, and also teach them to hold back a carriage on a down hill grade, by bracing their hips against it. A horse taught in that way, would not be scared if the rotten breast-strap should give way or the pole break, and let the carriage against him.

Educated horses will always be saleable and bring a paying price. A really serviceable and valuable horse is seldom seen on the market, in any of the large cities. Those that are free from blemish are generally uneducated, and as dangerous at times as if they had never been hitched to a carriage. Farmers can raise colts that will pay well, by giving some attention to educating them for the various purposes horses are used for.—Rural World.

FEMALE SOCIETY. — What makes those men who associate habitually with women superior to others? What makes that woman who is accustomed and at ease in the society of men, superior to her sex in general? Solely because they are in the habit of free, graceful conversation with the other sex. Women in this way lose their frivolity, their faculties awaken; their delicacies and peculiarities unfold all their beauty and captivation in the spirit of intellectual rivalry. And the men lose their pedantic, rude, declamatory or sullen manner. The coin of the understanding and the heart is changed continually. The asperities are rubbed off, their better materials polished and brightened, and their richness, like fine gold, is wrought into finer workmanship by the fingers of women than it ever could by those of men. The iron and steel of their character are hidden, like the character and armour of a giant, by studs and knots of gold and precious stones, when they are not wanted in actual warfare.

HARD TIMES.—The constant use of intoxicating liquors makes hard times for many a man; thus, a family of five persons will consume four barrels of flour a year, or one thousand and fifty-six pounds of bread—This is nearly three pounds a day. Good flour can now be bought for $7 a barrel; four times seven makes $28; and thirty cents a day for drink is $106.50 or $81.50 more per year than the bread for a family of five persons costs. "But," says A., "I only take two drinks a day." Very well, you pay for your drinks $73 a year; only $45 more than you pay for the bread consumed by your whole family, if it contain five persons. This sum would provide tea and coffee for them.

☞ Rev. Rowland Conner created some commotion in the National Woman's Suffrage Convention at Cleveland, by declaring that women as a class, would lie more willingly and naturally than men. He made the assertion as one of the train of consequences of the weak being subjected to the will of the strong, just as the condition of negro slavery had really made lying a noticeable characteristic of the negroes of the South. His statement caused some of the women to dissent quite warmly, and quite a breeze ensued,—tempered, however with considerable hilarity.

—An urchin of six or seven years went into a barber shop in Racine, Wis., and ordered the barber to cut his hair as close as his shears would do it. He was asked if his mother ordered it that way. "No," said he, "but school commences next week, and we've got a school marm that pulls hair, and I'm bound to fix her this term, you bet."

Long, thin lines ' of trembling gold;
There the little ' radle stands,
Silent as the si ent hands
That have swa yed it to and fro,
In the summe rs long ago.

Days have c ome and days have gone,
Till we con nt, by years, their dawn;
And the li tle forms it held,
The stron g ranks of men have swelled.
Here bri ght eyes first saw the light,
Breakin g on their startled sight;
Little ' ands here first unclosed,
Little feet here first reposed.

Fro n it, stumbling and afraid,
Lif s's first pilgrimage was made.
O er it fell a mother's tears,
M other's hopes, and dreams, and fears.
I fere her castles in the air
Reared their fabrics, frail and fair,
As she watched with loving eyes,
Crooning bird-like lullabies.

Spring's first birds and soft perfume;
Summer's leaves and perfect bloom;
Autumn's skies that cloudless glow;
Winter's fleecy deeps of snow,
Smile upon us and pass by;
So the years unnoticed fly,
Till at last the baby's hands
Execute a man's commands.

Life calls to them, "Here am I,
Put the foolish playthings by;
Toys for children—deeds for men;
Haste! I come not back again."
And they listen and obey;
Put the childish things away;
Toiling with undaunted soul,
Till they reach Life's promised goal.

Then the tired feet lagging go,
And the hands are working slow,
Till the Earth, in dreamless rest,
Folds each tired child to her breast.
By this cradle, quaint and old,
This one truth is sadly told:
Whate'er Future waits, at last,
Lies behind us but one Past.

—The Little Corporal.

THE SAVINGS BANK LAW. — Some Democrats are making altogether too much talk, for their own benefit, over the act of the Legislature of 1869, in regard to deposits in Saving-Banks. They charge it as a party measure upon the Republicans, and claim entire exemption from responsibility for the Democratic members of the House.

The facts in the case are mainly these. There was no party division or party question raised or suggested in relation to it. No party, as a party, is responsible for this law. It was the decision of the Legislature that it go upon the statute books, as the best law that could at that time be secured. It was evident to many that some legislation was demanded. The charge was made that officers were drawing from $5,000 to $15,000 a year in salaries, from bank after bank, by which depositors were deprived of their lawful gains for the use of money loaned; it was further demanded that a higher tax should be exacted of Savings-Banks, that they should make their loans for the benefit of business and of the public, and not invest their money out of the State. These and certain other requirements were made without any political bearing for or against either party, for a majority of both parties in the House favored a change. To effect some of these reforms a bill was drawn by a Democratic lawyer in Manchester who occupied a lobbyseat, and put the bill through. It did not, however, pass as originally drawn, but suffered many and radical changes, both in the House and in the Senate. To say nothing of other points, an objectionable feature, the most objectionable to the public, was that which limits the rate of interest to five per cent.

This was opposed by some of the ablest Republicans in the House, who were desirous to keep it out of the bill. But they were overruled. The feature is undeniably wrong and should be stricken out. It operates against depositors whose money remains in the bank but a short time,—less than two years,—and, of course, against the laboring class. In case of a permanent deposit or one for a long term of years, it makes no difference, because the surplus earnings must be divided once in two years, when the full share will be awarded to each depositor.

We recollect that this bill was opposed earnestly and ably by that experienced legislator, Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett, of Portsmouth, by Hon. Oliver Wyatt, of Dover, and by others, but there was a determination on the part of a large majority of the members, without regard to party, to place it upon the statute book. And the work was accomplished. We have advocated its modification, and now again declare in favor of its entire reconstruction.—Manchester Mirror.

THE MASSACHUSETTS AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, as an educational institution, bids fair to prove a success. How decided will be its influence upon our agricultural interests remains to be seen. Undoubtedly a class of worthy young men will be graduated, and they will make themselves useful and influential members of the society, as do the graduates of other colleges. But that many of them will become practical farmers, following the plow, and engaging in the active laborers of the farm, is hardly probable.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on nine rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

Everybody's Column.

As there is likely to be some trouble about the acquisition of San Domingo, the indications now are that Congress will fall back upon the half repudiated purchase of the Danish Island of St. Thomas, the choice being between buying an earthquake or a war. The earthquake appears at present to be the preferable of the two.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Eastern Railroad corporation was held at Boston on Monday. Wm. L. Dwight of Portsmouth declined a re-election as Director and the following Directors were chosen unanimously, receiving 3391 votes:—

Geo. M. Browne, Samuel Hooper, Nathl. Thayer, Franklin Haven, Benj. F. Bates of Boston, Henry L. Williams of Salem, Ichabod Goodwin of Portsmouth.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Dwight was passed, for his long and valuable services.

The Directors were unanimously authorized to enter into such arrangements and contracts with the Boston and Lowell Railroad, and take such measures and do all such things as they deem expedient to secure additional terminal facilities in the City of Boston.

It was voted, that the Directors of the Eastern Railroad be authorized, if they deem it expedient, to give their consent to the issuing of new stock by the Directors of the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Company in the manner provided by the stockholders of the corporation in their annual meeting, June 1st, 1868, and that the Directors of the corporation be invested with full powers to act in the premises.

The Directors were authorized to adopt such measures, and enter into such engagements and contracts as they may deem expedient to encourage and aid the building of the Wolfeboro' Railroad.

It was also voted that they be requested to transmit to Congress a remonstrance against the proposed heavy increase of duties on steel rails, and to petition for the removal of all duties on imported coal, wooden sleepers and steel and iron rails.

PRESIDENT GRANT PREVENTS A BIG SWINDLE.—The President, in accordance with the recommendations of Secretary Cox and Commissioner Parker, has sent a message to the Senate withdrawing the four Indian treaties made during the last months of Mr. Johnson's administration, for the sale of a large amount of land to certain railroad companies. Two of them were for lands in Kansas, and two for lands in Nebraska. The Osage treaty sold eight millions of acres of Kansas land to the Leavenworth, Lawrence and Galveston Railway Company at 19 cents per acre, only a part of which was to be paid in cash. The Kaw treaty sold two hundred and fifteen thousand acres of Kansas land to the Southern branch of the Pacific Railway at an average price of about one dollar and twenty cents per acre. The two Nebraska treaties sold about two hundred thousand acres at one dollar and a quarter per acre to the St. Louis and Nebraska Trunk Railway Company. All these lands are valuable, and the Kaw tract is near private unimproved property held at eight or ten times the price named in the treaty.

CONGRESS.—In the House, on Friday, Mr. Slocum of New York called the attention of the House to an advertisement in the New York Times of the 2d of February, which he thought calculated to bring dishonor upon the House. The advertisement reads as follows:—"U. S. Naval Academy—vacant cadetship to be filled before June. Parties of many may address Congressman, Box 147, Times office. Also a West Point vacancy." He offered a resolution authorizing the committee on military affairs to inquire whether any member of the House has ever sold, or offered to sell, his influence as a member in securing appointments to the military or naval Academy, and whether any member has received, or expressed a willingness to receive, any valuable consideration for using his influence in connection with such appointments, with power to send for persons and papers. After some discussion the resolution was modified so as to embrace the members of the preceding Congress, and also the delegates in Congress, and adopted.

☞ Buffalo, N. Y., is excited over a direct statement made in the Commercial Advertiser, a leading republican paper, to the effect that Hon. D. S. Bennett, a member of Congress, had obtained eighty or ninety thousand dollars from banks, on reports from the Elevating Association, for grain stored in his elevator, and then privately selling and moving said grain from the building. The Commercial also charges Mr. Bennett with paying insurance on such grain for months, when there was no such grain there. It also says that the discovery of these transactions caused Mr. Bennett's speedy return from Washington, to settle with the association and banks. The Commercial styles the act "a villainous transaction" and "a colossal piece of swindling," and says it is prepared to substantiate its charge, if disputed.

Ex-Senator Grimes is very ill in Europe.

THE NAVAL PENSION FUND INADEQUATE.—The Secretary of the Navy has sent a letter to the House naval committee relating to the navy pension laws, which he thinks need modifications. This pension fund now amounts to $14,000,000, which amount is the net proceeds of half the value of captures made by the navy during the rebellion. Under the act of July, 1864, this fund was invested in government bonds, the income from which was to be used in paying naval pensions. The act of July, 1868, reduced the rate of interest allowed on the fund to 3 per cent., and the income is now sufficient to pay the current demands from persons entitled to relief. The last report of the pension office shows an excess of naval claims over the income of nearly $75,000. The Secretary recommends the repeal of the act of July, 1868, so as to place the fund on a footing similar to that of other creditors of the United States.

RYE, Feb. 7.

Messrs. Editors,—Among the attractions to the coming Ladies' Fair of the Congregational Society here, will be good music, Mr. Chase and sister being performers. Mr. C. is well known in your city, as the tenor in the Choir of the Stone Church.

The weather to-day is fine; and the sleighing in all our main roads is very good. In the woods, however, the depth of the snow, (more than a foot on a level,) and its hardness and solidity, make it laborious and difficult to get round with a team. And the difficulty is increased by the fall of many trees, and the bending down of many more trees and branches. Thousands of white birches, 20 or 25 feet high, are blown to the ground, and their tops fastened down in the snow, and many hundreds of other wood and timber trees are prostrated, being torn up by the roots or broken down by the snow and wind.

The sleighing is daily improved by pleasure and business travel. X.

☞ Yankee Locke, the comic actor, has lately undergone a surgical operation in Boston. The accident which happened to Mr. Locke some sixteen months ago, by falling down stairs and breaking his jaw bone, has been a source of much trouble and pain to him since that time, the bones not having united; hence the operation. It occupied nearly two hours, the patient inhaling during that time about one and three-quarters pounds of ether. The jaw bone was found to be quite ragged, so that it was necessary to cut off the ends and unite it in its place with wires.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous cathartic is the main ingredient. More than

One thousand experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness foreign to his real nature. These are the moral phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid cannot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household disquiet. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, the derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and this happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefitted. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last time I would see them.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt to put it left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—See oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic, Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

Price 50 cts. Sold by the Druggists, Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y. ja13dawlm

GOING TO CHINA; OR LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.—The elegantly fitted, liberally officered and "handsomest ship in any Navy" (vide Capt. Commerell), called the U. S. Steamer Benicia, has again come to grief—just as she was en route for China, too. This famous vessel left here several weeks since and made New York harbor in a disabled condition. After lying at the Brooklyn Navy Yard for a long time, she was ordered to Portland and arrived there just too late to be of any service in the obsequious ceremonies. Then she started for China, with orders to call and coal at Portsmouth Navy Yard.

She has come, and, we should judge, has come to stay—a while. On Sunday, the dwellers at Kittery Point and Newcastle saw her "at anchor lay" in the lower harbor. On Monday forenoon, an attempt to bring her up to the Yard was frustrated for a couple of hours in this way:—The Benicia was rounding the Narrows, under steam, when she suddenly shot across to Peirce's Island and landed on the rocks. With the assistance of the rising tide and the ferry boat "Emerald" (the handsomest little tug in the world) the "handsomest ship in any Navy" came off the rocks with a sprain.

Whether the present generation of Celestials will ever survive long enough to clap their eyes on this beautiful sailer of seas over, is not within the power of mortal to predict with any degree of certainty, but that she is on her way to China, there is no doubt of, and the pig-tails may feel assured of the fact, even should the Benicia occupy the dry dock at this Navy Yard for weeks to come.

☞ The 7 o'clock train from Boston arrived here half an hour late, Monday evening. At the engine house, the baggage car ran off the track, and the eight crowded cars behind, (bringing the stockholders from the annual meeting at Boston,) furnished sufficient momentum to force the baggage car to the depot. The express and baggage men thought their end of the world might be coming to an end, but escaped with a few bruises and rents. The car laid across the track towards the North. Had the accident occurred a few seconds previous, the car must have plunged into the mud and water of the North Millpond.

☞ We learn from the Calais, Me., Advertiser that a few personal friends and parishioners of Rev. Wm. G. Nowell, of that place, assembled at his residence, recently, and surprised him with gifts of money and valuables, to the amount of about one hundred dollars. Also that he was the recipient of appropriate holiday presents. This is, says the Advertiser, one of the generous ways to recognize the labors of a faithful pastor, and it helps to make up the sunny side of his life. Mr. Nowell is a native of Portsmouth, and has resided at Calais for about two years, where report gives him good success.

☞ About the neatest little team we know of, is Master C. W. Main's gray pony and sleigh—the nice carriage being from Came's factory in this city. This miniature horse is a rare one, or Mr. Main would not have carried him to San Francisco and brought him back.

Among the double teams, Mr. J. L. O. Coleman's pair of white-spotted bays are a handsome fancy match, and the livery men hitch out some good teams.

☞ Prince Arthur of England may pass through this city on his way from Peabody, Mass., to Portland, Me., today. We presume the snobs will be on hand on the arrival of the trains, to pay him tribute and show their disappointment at not being saplings of royal birth and breeding.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE,
ROCKINGHAM, SS.
Supreme Jud. Court, Jan. Term, A. D., 1870.

In the action, JOHN STOKELL and CYRUS L. BROWN, both of Portsmouth in said County, Grocers, and copartners under the firm of JOHN STOKELL & CO., Plaintiffs, vs. CHARLES E. PICKERING of said Portsmouth yeoman, Defendant.

In a plea of the case, to recover of said PICKERING the sum of two hundred dollars, for divers goods, wares and merchandise sold and delivered to Deft., by said Plffs., before December 22, 1869, the date of the Plaintiffs' writ.

It having been suggested to the Court that the property of the Defendant in this State has been attached on the writ, and that no personal service has been made on him in this suit, he not being a resident of this State at the time of the service thereof:

It is ordered by the Court that the action be continued to the next Term of said Court, to be holden at Exeter, within and for said County of Rockingham, on the second Tuesday of April next, and that the Plaintiffs give notice to the said Defendant of the pendency thereof, by causing the substance of said declaration, with a copy of this order, to be published three weeks successively, in the New Hampshire Gazette, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in our County of Rockingham, the last publication whereof to be at least thirty days prior to said Court, to which this action is continued.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.
IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,
AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,
Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.
Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.
Deposits, $2,876,717.45.
The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.
On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.
This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. ja27d3w

Morning Chronicle.

THE PROGRESS OF OPINION.—A Nantucket sea-captain tells the following anecdote about a shipmate who accompanied him on one of his early whaling voyages:

Stiles was a simple-hearted, transparent young fellow; and, when we sailed, had been "paying attention" for some time to a young lady, who, he had reason to think, did not fully reciprocate his ardent feelings. At all events, the parting, on her part, was not so affectionate as he could wish, and he was impressed with the belief that she only kept him as a stand-by, in default of a better offer. "I don't believe," Stiles would say, with a despondent shake of his head, "I don't believe Ann Jones 'll have me, anyhow." When we had been out a few months, and had met with fair success, Stiles' tone was modified. The burden of his monologue changed to, "Well, I don'no but what Ann Jones'll have me, after all." With a thousand barrels of oil under hatches, he became still more hopeful. "Chance is pretty good for Ann Jones," he would say; "pretty good now." At fifteen hundred barrels he had assumed a self-satisfied manner, and soliloquized—"I guess there's no danger but what Ann Jones'll have me now." At two thousand barrels—"Ann Jones'll be glad enough to get me now, I know." When we cut the last whale that was to fill the vessel's hold and squared away for home, Stiles threw his hat in the air with a wild Indian yell of triumph—"I'll be darned if I'll have Ann Jones, anyhow!"

OUR PRESIDENT.—We are told that "he that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." Gen. Grant has shown that he can do this. Taking cities is not an uncommon exploit; but this thorough control of one's self, under the most unfavorable circumstances, is little short of a miracle. He has not been betrayed into a foolish word or act, or indulged in an angry expression or exhibited a revengeful spirit towards his enemies. He has never sought promotion, indulged in no recriminations under the slanderous charges, nor used his power to humble an enemy.

Though so far above the people in position, he feels as one them, and wears his honors as but few of our poor fallen race can wear them. It is these qualities that, though so undemonstrative himself, make him universally beloved.

Time will increase, instead of diminish their affection, and side by side with Washington and Lincoln, his great services and great patriotism will remain like two marble columns to commemorate his fame.—Headley's Life of Grant.

—A Kentuckian remarked the other day in Portland that he had come all the way from the West "to attend the Peabody festivities." It is said that some in the procession appeared to be, at least, cheerful mourners, and recalled the criticism of the English drill-master, who was preparing an awkward squad for a funeral. Having opened ranks for the supposed cortege, he walked between them, saying: "Now I am the corpse, pay attention!" Having reached the end of the line, he scrutinized them a moment, and then solemnly remarked: "Your 'ands is right, your 'eads is right, but you don't 'ave that look 'o regret you ought'er."

PAY DEBTS—The ability of nearly every man to pay his debts, depends upon his ability to collect debts due him. The individuals of a community are linked together by a chain of debt and credit, and in times of depression the refusal of one person to discharge a single liability, often embarrasses a line of a dozen debtors and creditors. Hence the prompt payment of small debts become in times like these a public as well as a personal duty. The same money which pays one debt in the morning may pay a dozen before night, and twelve men are thus relieved from anxiety and pressure by the action of one.—Exchange.

TO MAKE HOUSES FIRE-PROOF.—A writer in Cassell's Magazine inquires why should we not make our house uninflammable, and our furniture fire proof? Timber may be prevented from firing by simply impregnating it with a concentrated solution of rock salt. The fact has just been announced by a German chemist, who was commissioned by a fire insurance company to solve the question. The salt renders the wood proof against dry-rot and ravages of insects. A solution of it pumped out of a fire engine upon burning matter would be vastly more effective than plain water.

—The horse, of all domestic animals, suffers most. He alone of all creatures is doomed to never-ceasing labor. He would seem to be haunted by the demon of fatigue and pain from his earliest years—a demon whose power to torment increases as the horse becomes aged and worn. If any animal deserves a tranquil immortality—a glorious pasturage traversed by never-ceasing crystal streams of water—in the regions of the blessed, as a reward for services and a compensation for days, weeks, nay, years of agony, surely it must be the horse.

—The Schleswig-Holstein affair gave occasion to a good mot of Earl Russell's. He said:—"Only two men ever did understand this question—another gentleman and I. The other gentleman is dead. He explained it to me, but I have forgotten all about it."

—A Vermont girl wants to know whether the woman's rights movement includes the right to do the courting. If it does she is for it, as the men in her vicinity are very bashful. There is something practical about that.

A SITUATION OPEN.—The romance of the runaway darkey was quite played out after the peoples of the North and South had pecked their flints for the final shot. Once in a while, however, there comes a reminiscence which shows Sambo's native humor, and how irresistible was his hankering for the "boon of freedom." Before the war there came into the bar-room of a hotel in Canada, near the frontier, a bright-looking negro, who was thus addressed by one of the eminent persons usually found in such resorts:

"I s'pose you're a runaway slave," said one, looking sharply at the new comer.

Feeling that he was pretty well away from bondage, the darkey responded that he was.

"Ah, indeed; well, we're glad of it; but you don't seem to look very poor—have good clothes down South?"

"Certainly," said the darkey, with some pride; "same clothes as my master."

"But you got many a good thrashing, eh?"

"Never had a whipping in my life."

"Never thrashed!" said another; "well, but you niggers don't always get enough to eat, do you?"

"Always had enough, gemmen; never went hungry."

"What!" said the interrogator, "good clothes, no punishment, plenty to eat! Now," said he, turning to the group, "only think of it!—this fellow has left a position where he enjoys all these privileges, for an uncertainty."

"Gemmen," said the darkey, "all I'se got to say respectin' dem privileges is, dat if anybody wants to avail himself of 'em de situation am still open!—Harper's Magazine.

BOURBON HUMOR.—A Paris, Ky., correspondent of the Cincinnati Times writes concerning the place:

A humorous lecturer, who came here recently, sent his agent on a couple of days ahead to smooth his way. On his arrival he found Mr. Agent most thoroughly Bourbonized. Whether or not there is "a Bourbon among us," he had certainly been among a good deal of Bourbon. The following dialogue ensued between lecturer and agent:—

Lecturer—"What are the prospects?"

Agent—"Splen' prospects."

Lecturer—"What sort of a house do you reckon we'll have?"

Agent—"(Hic) full."

Lecturer—"Do you think the people here appreciate humor?"

Agent—"'Preshate humor? Well, if asha' a feller to drink every fifu minutes is 'preshation' humor, they've (hic) got it."

HOW TO PAINT STOVES.—A writer in an English magazine proposes, instead of blackleading stoves and grates, that they should be painted with glass (silicate of potash,) coloring with pigment to harmonize with the coloring of the apartment. Before this is applied the iron must be thoroughly cleansed from grease, and all rust must be rubbed off with a scratch brush. Two or three coats of the paint may then be put on and allowed to dry, after which the fire may be lighted without fear of injury to the color, which may, indeed, be exposed to a red heat with impunity.

Grease or milk spilt over the paint has no effect upon it, and it may be kept clean by washing with soap and water. Dutch ovens and other similar utensils may also be coated with the same material, and the labor spent in polishing them may thus be saved. A good coating of this paint will last a year or two.

GARRICK described Oliver Goldsmith as one "who wrote like an angel, and talked like poor Poll." The phrase, however, to write like an angel, was not original with Garrick, but is found in most of the modern languages of Europe, and refers generally, not to language, but to penmanship. In the early part of the sixteenth century, among the Greeks who emigrated into Italy, and afterwards into France, was one Angelo Vergecio, whose beautiful handwriting excited the admiration even of scholars. Some of the learned men of France copied their style of writing Greek from this Angelo. Thus, it is said, his name became synonymous with elegant penmanship, and gave rise to the expression to write like an angel."—Oliver Optic's Magazine.

—A friend writes us: "Your notice of Chief Justice Cushing and his young wife, reminds me of a similar fact which I have heard related of the famous Dr. Buell of East Hampton, L. I. Calling one day on a parishioner who was rocking an infant, Dr. B. said: 'Suppose she should grow up and I should marry her?' The mother gaily said in answer: 'Well, stranger things than that have happened doctor!' But this strange thing did happen, and when the infant was in her young womanhood, the Doctor did marry her, and she survived him something like forty years.—Recor.

HOW TO CLEAN LAMP CHIMNEYS.—Most people in cleaning lamp chimneys use either a brush made of bristles twisted into a wire, or a rag on the point of scissors. Both of these are bad, for, without great care, the wire or sissors will scratch the glass as a diamond does, which, under the expansive power of heat, soon breaks, as all scratched glass will. If you want a neat little thing that costs nothing, and will save your glass, tie a piece of soft sponge the size of your chimney to a pine stick.—Western Rural.

—Master Willy, in a contest with his brother to see which could put the most difficult questions, propounded the following: "If a man dies before his mother is born, will he remember her after he grows up.'

—A Mobile youth recently read from his Bible: "Let not the wicked triump tover me."

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA"

SMOKING TOBACCO is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S YACHT CLUB

SMOKING TOBACCO is made of the Choicest leaf grown; it is anti-nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we make stock orders every day for first quality Merchaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourself it is all it claims to be, THE FINEST OF ALL.

LORILLARD'S CENTURY

CHEWING TOBACCO.—This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

HAVE BEEN IN GENERAL USE in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

THE FOURTH PARTY.—The Concord Statesman truly says of the new Labor Reform party which nominated Flint for Governor:—

It is probable that there were among them some men who were of honest purpose and really thought that the best way to promote the interests of labor was to form a new political party, but the some were not many. The majority was a composite of Democratic Copperheadism and Republican Soreheadism—Soreheads and Copperheads finding their bond of sympathy in mutual hatred of the Republican party, rather than in any regard for the interests of the laboring man. Their aiders and abettors before the Convention were the Democratic leaders and newspapers, and they have the same aiders and abettors now.

The new party, though composed of individuals professing a "holy horror" for "cliques" and "rings" in political management, had its birth in the petticst cliquism. A little self-constituted "ring" of tricksters prescribed arbitrary tests in derogation of the commonest claims of personal independence, and mercilessly applied the gag and iron collar. And upon the collar were the names of the masters of the clique, and they were Rolston and Goodale; Rolston, J. M., self-styled "Major" in euphonious flourish, recently of New York, brassy and with strong affinity for copper, and of past record somewhat obscure though considerably bummerish—Goodale, John H., recently of Sitka, but formerly of New Hampshire, of snakish propensity in gliding from one party to another, but never true to any.

The true working-men of Manchester, Portsmouth and other places, would not submit to the degrading tests applied by these hypocritical manipulators. In their own blunt, but honest and expressive language, they determined not to "go it blind," or to be "bluffed down by lawyers or professional politicians" and "swung over into a party that is looking only to the interest of its leaders." They held their own convention, and establishing a League and not a political party, will strive honestly to promote the interests of labor.

A REPUDIATOR.—Samuel Flint, the Labor Reform candidate for Governor, is a Vice-President of the "New-England Labor Reform League," which has for a plank of its platform the following resolution:

That interest on money being wrong, the Bible doctrine entitled "The Lord's Release," whereby debts are to be canceled when the principal thereof has been paid in the form of interest, coincides with logical conclusions from labor principles and the teachings of natural equity; that since the full amount originally loaned government has now, in the form of interest, been returned, and since a moneyed aristocracy, exempt from taxation, is hostile to liberty, fosters speculation, cripples and defrauds productive capital and impoverishes labor, we will not acknowledge the validity of or be bound by any scheme whatever to refund the national war debt, but demand its immediate and unconditional repudiation.

☞ The finding of the lost Wyble children is thus described:

It seems that one of the parties had in its search been at the top of the mountain overlooking the very spot where the children were found, but for some reason had not descended to search at the base. When found, the youngest boy, who was about five years old, was on his face, covered over with the eldest brother's coat and a pile of leaves scraped together. Next and parellel to him lay the second, seven years old, his head at the younger one's feet, and ten feet away, almost denuded of his clothing (which it is supposed in his delirium which preceeded his death he tore from him,) lay the elder brother, the lower part of his face, one cheek and both his hands eaten away. Near the bodies was the pail they had taken to gather nuts in. The body of the middle one was not disfigured, but that of the younger was almost entirely gone between the chest and thighs, probably a prey to the weasels and wild cats. Words cannot truly picture the unmistakeable pity which this recital must call up in the heart of every reader.

—We second the motion of Senator Wilson, that both ministers and churches of all orders hold a meeting on Washington's birth day, Feb. 22, for the promotion of temperance throughout the State and the world; for while we have the best prohibitory law that man can make, and need a constabularly to sink those who traffic in rum so deep that a bubble would not come up to tell where they went down, we also need more moral force. Many of our young men, and, we are sorry to say, our young ladies, need to be reformed, and perhaps a few communications ought to set a better example in the cause of temperance.—Newmarket Cor. of Wolfeboro' News.

—Gold is declining; but we hav'n't heard of any of it having been declined in this neighborhood.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such uniformity is a fair proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

J. F. ADAMS, UNDERTAKER,

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 9, 1870.

☞ Mr. Sumner has had republished his argument before the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in the case of Sarah C. Roberts versus the city of Boston, on the fourth of December, 1867. This is especially valuable at Washington now, when the question of equal rights is being discussed. The term "equality before the law" was in this argument used for the first time in the United States. It is not found in the common law, nor until recently in the English language, but is a translation from the French, whence Mr. Sumner took it.

☞ President Grant has issued an executive order prohibiting the admission of distilled spirits into Alaska, and also prohibiting the admission of firearms into the islands of St. Paul and St. George. This shows a determination to treat the newly acquired wards of the nation as human beings, who may be civilized and made useful members of society.

☞ Twenty-three thousand dollars in bonds, stolen from the Bank of Middletown, N. Y., were recently returned to the bank through a prominent New York lawyer, for 50 per cent, commission. The president of the bank met the lawyer in New York city, by request of the latter, and after ascertaining the percentage required, he attempted to cause the arrest of the parties, but the police positively refused to make any arrest, and the banker was compelled to finally come to terms.

☞ The Cincinnati Gazette thinks that "Down East" and "Out West" are very uncertain localities, since the statement by Mr. McIntyre, the agent of the Treasury Department in Alaska, that the mouth of the Columbia River is about the centre of the United States, east and west, and that it is no farther from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, than from Astoria in the latter State to Attou, the most westerly of the Aleutian group of islands, which are a part of our Alaskan purchase.

☞ Mr. Sumner will report from the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, a bill depriving the medical society there of its charter, because it has refused to admit colored physicians in good standing, some of whom served creditably in the Union army during the war, while it has admitted men who were surgeons in the rebel armies.

THE WILKES LIBEL CASE ended, as might have been expected, in the acquittal of the accused. So experienced and able a journalist as Mr. Wilkes should not have resorted to law for the redress of his grievances. Juries never have much sympathy with the complainants in libel suits, and this is especially the case where all the parties are newspaper men. It is the general opinion that editors should fight out their battles with the legitimate weapons of their trade, and not appeal to the courts for protection.—N. Y. Atlas.

That's true—and so good a blackguard as Wilkes, ought to stand and take all his opponents can give, without thus crying baby.

☞ The Dover Enquirer says "the Choral Union (of that city) have fully decided upon giving an 'Old Folks' Concert,' Feb. 24. The members will appear in appropriate costume, and Barnabee will add his fund of humor to the interest of the occasion." We hope this does not mean that the entertainment will make fun of "the sacred songs our fathers sung," as the concerts of Father Kemp did. It it does, we think Prof. W. O. Perkins, who we believe is leader of the Choral Union, might better employ his talents than in ridiculing serious things and outraging holy memories.

☞ Some of the leaders of the Temperance Party tried to bring about a fusion with the Labor Reform Party. Henry D. Pierce, who hates the Republican Party more than he does rum, was especially active in this movement. He racked his poor brains over a list of nominations, and presented himself before the preliminary clique of the Labor Reformers. He was told by the mighty Mr. Bolston, — we would have said "Major" if we hadn't forgotten it,—that he couldn't come in—that the reformers didn't want anything to do with Temperance. So the brother of the late ex-President retired chopfallen. The nominations of the Temperance Party are not yet completed.

☞ Two of the Bowdoinham Bank robbers made their escape from the Thomaston, Me., prison Sunday night, but were subsequently caught. One of them was shot in the arm.

☞ George Peabody was buried at Peabody, Mass., on Tuesday. How much has his funeral cost?

NAVAL CONSTRUCTORS' AND CIVIL ENGINEERS' RANK.—Mr. Ela's bill to regulate the rank of Naval Constructors and Civil Engineers in the Navy, which was presented in Congress on Monday, proposes that the officers of the Corps of Naval Constructors on the active list of the navy shall be six Naval Constructors, with the assimilated rank of Captain. Three Naval Constructors of the first class, with assimilated rank as Commanders. Four assistant Naval Constructors of the first class, with assimilated rank of Lieutenant Commanders. Four of the second class with rank of Masters, provided that assistant Navy Constructors of three years' service, who are found qualified for promotion by a Board of Examiners, shall have the rank of Lieutenants. The bill provides that no person under 21 years and over 30 years of age shall be appointed as Assistant Naval Constructor.

The Method of Filling these Grades. To fill the foregoing grades of Naval Constructors and Assistant Naval Constructors, officers are to be appointed from the active list of the Naval Construction Corps, according to seniority, as borne on the Navy Register; provided, that no officer shall be reduced in rank, or subjected to loss of seniority, and that no existing commission shall be vacated by this act.

The Pay and Emoluments remain as now established. The Civil Engineers of the navy and at the several navy yards are to have the same rank as Naval Constructors, with the same restrictions as to pay and emoluments. The Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repairs is to rank as Commodore, with the title of Chief Naval Constructor. Naval Constructors on the retired list are to have the same pay as Commodores on the retired list.

Rank and Precedence.—Promotion is to be made in the order of official seniority. Commanding officers in all cases are to have the precedence over all officers under their commands. No Naval Constructor shall, by virtue of his rank, exercise command elsewhere than in the corps or department to which he belongs.

More or Less.

A Hartford Life Insurance Company has granted policies to two men whose hearts, the surgeons have ascertained, are on their right sides.

The chimes of a fashionable church in Philadelphia played "Shoo Fly," "Not For Joe," and "I'm the Girl that's Gay and Happy," at a recent wedding.

The Nebraska legislature will be convened in extra session on Thursday, February 17, to take action on the 15th amendment.

Kossuth is writing his autobiography.

Paris has 31 daily newspapers.

The re-union of the two Virginias is agitated.

Silver has been discovered in Ashland County, Wisconsin.

The town of Grand Junction, Iowa, has presented its first baby with a corner lot.

Nearly all the tax-payers of Petersburg, Virginia, are delinquents.

In Arkansas they pour a pint of whiskey into a mule and stay at home from the circus.

The California legislature has repealed the act prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons.

The New Orleans Times says that although the milkmaid has passed away made-milk hasn't.

The price of divorces in Chicago has declined to $10, and the lawyers take half their pay in old wives.

A young fellow in Stonington attempted to clean out an old gun-barrel with a red-hot poker. He can't find one of his fingers.

One citizen of the United States has been killed and two others wounded in Havana, for wearing the Cuban colors—blue neckties. They were walking to a photograph saloon and were accosted by a Spaniard, who pointed at their neckties. Neither understood Spanish, and their assailant drew a pistol and shot them. The authorities have offered a reward for his arrest.

Rochefort declines to deliver himself up and says if the French government want him they must forcibly arrest him.

A New Orleans woman used kerosene to kindle a kitchen fire, and now her clothes fit her husband's second wife remarkably well.

The wife of Hon. John Wentworth, of Chicago, (formerly of this State,) died in Troy, on Saturday.

Mrs. Jewett, an aunt of Geo. Peabody, living in Barnstead, at the age of 98, has had an annuity from him for the last fourteen years; and in 1866, when on a visit to her there, he gave $450 in her name, toward the repairs and improvement of a meeting-house at Barnstead Parade. [By the way, the early New Hampshire men must have been a very military people; for they called their public squares Parades. There were Portsmouth Parade, Greenland Parade, Barnstead Parade, Deerfield Parade, and perhaps more.]

☞ The extensive stable of Stevens, Dockham & Co., Lawrence, Mass., was burned to the ground, Saturday. The alarm was given shortly after one o'clock. One horse and one mule were saved, and fourteen horses and one mule perished. About ten tons of hay and some twenty or thirty sets of harness were also lost. One of the animals was valued at six hundred dollars, and two others at four hundred dollars each. Another mule was got out, but persisted in backing in again, and was lost. The loss of Dockham & Co. is not far from $5000. The building belonged to Mr. Ela of Concord, N. H., and was valued at about $1000. Messrs. Dockham & Co. were insured for about $1800. They lost five horses by drowning in the canal not long since. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. The conflagration lighted the whole city.

☞ There is no tyranny quite so tyrannical, as that of an irresponsible mob. A boot bottomer, in the exercise of his right, went to Worcester the other day to get some stock. Not being a Crispin, his cart was surrounded by members of the order and followed out of town for the distance of a mile—the vehicle finally being taken possession of and the stock thrown out. The police rescued the persecuted man and arrested six of the assailants.

The Monarch is ordered to Portsmouth, England, immediately.

A new organization called the "Sons of Joshua," has been started in Concord. It is presumed to be organizing to put Josh Billings forward for President in 1872. But whether it will put a fifth ticket into the field in this State remains to be seen. There is room. Let us have the fifth wheel, with Josh to drive!—Nashua Telegraph.

THE MONTHLY RELIGIOUS MAGAZINE Commences a new and Enlarged Series with the present year, and has added largely to its corps of contributors which now embraces the best writers of the Unitarian denomination.

REV. A. P. PEABODY, D. D., will contribute regularly to its pages. The January and February numbers contain articles by Dr. Putnam; Dr. Thompson; Dr. Ellis; Rev. O. C. Shackford; Rev. E. H. Sears; Rev. Wm. Mountford; Rev. Robert Collyer; Rev. Rufus Ellis and others.

Subscriptions ($5.00) received by f9 JOSEPH H. FOSTER.

—Mary Russell Mitford was very fond of Americans. For Mr. James T. Fields, the publisher, her admiration and attachment were very great. She highly valued Mr. George Ticknor's friendship, corresponded with Miss Sedgewick, and gloried in Daniel Webster.

—Speaking of the papers on the Isles of Shoals in the Atlantic Monthly, the New York Nation says: "In fact, all things considered, there is not, we should say, any other American female writer who gives at once so much satisfaction, and so little dissatisfaction, as Mrs. Thaxter."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Irritable Invalids.

Indigestion not only effects the physical health, but the dispositions and tempers of its victims. The dyspeptic becomes, too, in a measure demoralized by his sufferings. He is subject to fits of irritation, sullenness, or despair, as the case may be. A preternatural sensitiveness which he cannot control, leads him to misconstrue the words and acts of those around him, and his intercourse even with those nearest and dearest to him is not unfrequently marked by exhibitions of testiness foreign to his real nature. These are the mental phenomena of the disease, for which the invalid cannot be justly held responsible, but they occasion much household discomfort. It is to the interest of the home circle, it is essential to family harmony as well as to the rescue of the principal sufferer from a state not far removed from incipient insanity, that these symptoms of mental disturbance be promptly removed. This can only be done by removing their physical cause, a derangement of the functions of the stomach and its allied viscera, the liver and the bowels.

Upon these three important organs Hostetter's Stomach Bitters act simultaneously, producing a thorough and salutary change in their condition. The vegetable ingredients of which the preparation is composed are of a renovating, regulating and alterative character, and the stimulant which lends activity to their remedial virtues is the purest and best that can be extracted from the most wholesome of all cereals, viz; sound rye.

No dyspeptic can take this genial restorative for a single week without experiencing a notable improvement in his general health. Not only will his bodily sufferings abate from day to day, but his mind will recover rapidly from its restlessness and irritability, and the happy change will manifest itself in his demeanor to all around him. f1

Holloway's Pills.—One of the great merits of these Pills is that they are specifics for such an immense variety of internal diseases. They inevitably do good in all cases where the digestive organs and the liver are affected. No dyspeptic, no bilious sufferer ever took them without being benefited. They have been standing and triumphant proof for half a century, that mineral medicines are not needed either as purgatives, alteratives or correctives. Sold by all Druggists. f1

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 8 Bond Street, New York.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM exclusively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

Sudden severe pains of the side and back, stitches, spasms, etc. These affections are most troublesome to persons past middle age. Will even come on in bed; are very painful and often dangerous. In damp weather they are more frequent than in dry. These plasters give relief at once, and need to be always in the drawer, handy.

PAIN OF THE SIDE CURED.

Allentown, Penn., April 4, 1865.

Messrs. T. Allcock & Co.

Dear Sirs: My daughter used one of your Porous Plasters. She had a very bad pain in her side, and it cured her in one week. Yours truly, JOHN V. N. HUNTER.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS.

Two scientific publications are in the field against the hair dyes of which lead is the basis, the "New York Medical Gazette" and "The Journal of Chemistry" bitterly denounce them. Yet the hair may be safely dyed. Have you seen PROF. CHILTON'S TESTIMONY

Founded on a careful analysis, and certifying that Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye is not only a first-class article for changing the color of the hair, but

ABSOLUTELY SAFE.

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicines, and in nine cases out of ten they may be right.

It is over 22 years since I introduced DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT, to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and storekeepers through a small section of the country, many taking it with great reluctance; but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet, no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was, by many, thought crazy, and that would be the last they would see of me.

But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. Now my sales are millions of bottles yearly, and all for cash.

I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, &c., &c.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than One thousand experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

NOTICE. — CIRCULARS AND SHOW CARDS sent to dealers free of expense.

If your druggist has not these Lozenges on hand, write to the Proprietors, enclosing 50 cents, and a box will be sent free of postage.

☞ Owing to the storm, Tuesday evening, the lecture to be delivered before the Mercantile Library Association, by Dr. John W. Parsons, was postponed to Friday evening.

☞ A letter received in this city from Wakefield, (formerly Reading,) Mass., states that Mr. S. Ayers Avery, now living there, has just lost two of his children by scarlet fever, and the other was very sick.

☞ The answers to the arithmetical problem of Monday, as given by A. M. H., are correct as follows:—The sides are 375 and 780. The base is 945. The segment are 225 and 720. The solution may be seen at the Chronicle Office.

FAST DRIVING.—City Marshal Johnson brought William Dennett and Irving Moses before Police Court, Tuesday, on charge of fast driving in the streets; and Judge Odell fined Dennett $3 and $6.90 costs, but discharged Moses, as he was not driving. Dennett appealed and gave bonds in $30 to appear for trial at the S. J. Court. The Marshal says he shall enforce the law on some older drivers, unless they hold their horses in the city to the six miles an hour required by law.

☞ Tuesday brought another beautiful snow storm and the blinks fell swift and abundantly till "Strange domes and towers rose up where sty or corn-crib stood, or garden wall, or belt of wood; a smooth white mound the brush-pile showed, a fenceless drift where once was road." The day closed up with a furious north-east wind, which with what it brought gave evidence that Winter was on hand, though over-due.

The sleighing previous to the storm could not be bettered by more snow, but it may last the longer after this second edition settles.

☞ Messrs. Harding & Doane have done a good Fishing business at Newcastle the past season. Their fleet now consists of seven A 1 schooners, and several older and smaller craft. They purchased a new schooner of 125 tons last week, just built at Kennebunkport, by Mr. David Clark; which will be called the Enos Briggs, and will probably come around to Newcastle about the first of March.

Such men as these are wanted to develope and improve the great natural facilities of both Newcastle and Portsmouth—and there ought to be a railway laid to the wharves at Great Island, if only at first to be run by horses,—and the embargo of a toll-bridge should be removed.

HOUSE WARMING.—Our friend Mr. George B. Came, of the enterprising firm of carriage makers of this city, was surprised on Monday evening by the entrance of about 65 of his friends of the Freewill Baptist Society, who took possession of the house. They brought presents and refreshments and had a genuine house warming. Rev. H. L. Kelsey of the M. E. Church was present by invitation and offered prayer. The gifts were presented in a feeling address by Rev. L. L. Harmon, pastor of the F. W. B. Society.

Friend Came's friends are no fewer since he gave up single-blessedness and became a Benedict. He has been remembered by serenaders and house warmers; and now that he has secured new Hall, and we've no doubt that the partner of his joys and sorrows is glad she's Came, we wish success to both old and new firms.

NAVAL.—Information received at the Navy Department from the U. S. steamer Seminole, at Key West, announces that the yellow fever on board of that vessel is abating, and the cases now are of a very mild character. The Seminole has been ordered to Portsmouth, and will arrive in the course of a few days. Seven severe cases only occurred on the ship.

Surgeon A. L. Giphon and Assistant Surgeon A. H. Kidder are detached from the Idaho and ordered home.

Capt. P. R. Fendall, of the U. S. M. C., has been assigned to duty at Annapolis, Md.

U. S. Steamer Plymouth, Capt. Macomb, arrived in the lower harbor on Monday from Portland. She is to be repaired at this Station and came up to the Navy Yard on Tuesday, and was visited by Port Admiral H. K. Thacher, who received the customary salute of thirteen guns.

BEAUTIES AND CELEBRITIES OF THE NATION.—From Mrs. E. F. Ellett's Book with this title, (to which, as very readable, we have before referred,) we now select a few items which will be of interest to our readers. Among the pleasant gossip, we cull a sentence here and there, as we read:—

"The gay season (35) opened with a party at Secretary Woodbury's. The lady presided with great dignity and grace." * * "At Secretary Woodbury's evenings, Mrs. Woodbury's suavity and ease of manners were generally admired; as well as her exceeding grace of deportment. She possessed great beauty of face and form, and was said to resemble Mrs. Madison, one of the most popular women in society. She always put strangers at their ease, and was particularly attentive to the awkward and embarrassed."

"The wife of Montgomery Blair, a daughter of the late Judge Woodbury, is a brilliant and charming woman."

"Conspicuous in society at Washington (during Lincoln's Administration,) were Mrs. Charles Knapp and Governor and Mrs. Smyth of New Hampshire."

"A thousand cards of invitation were sent out for a bridal party by Admiral and Mrs. Lee. The bride was a daughter of Montgomery Blair. Mrs. Blair, the daughter of Levi Woodbury, has been mentioned as a leader in society. Miss Woodbury, her sister, was as much admired as ever, and even more beautiful."

☞ Mr. E. W. Colcord of Lawrence, formerly of this city, while ascending the stairs of his new residence, on Thursday night without a light, there being no balusters put up, walked off and fell heavily to the floor, striking on his head and shoulders. He was taken up insensible; his collar bone was broken and blood was flowing from his ear. His injuries are severe but he will probably recover.

☞ We notice in the Davenport (Iowa) Journal, an item stating that the Peoria & Rock Island Railroad has been mortgaged to J. E. Thompson and Charles L. Frost, to secure the payment of one and a half million dollars of new bonds. The funds raised by the sale of the bonds are for the purpose of equipping the road.

☞ Miss Julia Hubbard, the "transcribing clerk" of the Wisconsin Legislature, is young, handsome and well educated. A bashful young member called her the "transporting clerk," in his confusion, the other day, and was immediately called to order by all the other unmarried members.

INK.—A new and free flowing Ink is manufactured by Whitney & Co., of Dover, and so far as we can judge by a short trial of it, is all that it claims to be viz: "Beautiful in color, free-flowing, non-corrosive, and cannot be surpassed."

☞ The rowdy element in Chicago is getting troublesome, and, as in New York, there is talk among the better class of citizens of Vigilance Committees.

☞ The number of prisoners in the Boston Tombs at 11 o'clock Sunday night was 54, of whom 48 were for drunkenness.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. GOODALL respectfully announces that owing to the decline in Gold, he is now able to buy all Dental Materials at a reduction from former prices, and therefore will reduce the price of artificial teeth from $25 to $20 for upper or lower sets, mounted in blocks (with gums)—the very best of work and materials and the highest style of finish. Price of temporary sets reduced to $15 dollars.

He has for an Assistant a very superior and competent Dentist, and can mount whole sets of teeth IN ONE DAY, when POSITIVELY necessary for patients from a distance. In this as in all other branches of Dentistry, terms cash, and satisfaction guaranteed.

UNION INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS.

IN THE CITY OF BOSTON,
AT 238 WASHINGTON STREET,
Pays its Depositors Six Per Cent. Interest.
Deposits made before the second Wednesday of February, 1870, will go on interest at the time of Deposit.
Deposits, $2,876,717.45.
The statement for October exhibits a surplus of earnings upwards of eighty-five thousand dollars after paying all its regular Dividends to that date.
On the second Wednesday of November next, and semi-annually thereafter, there will be declared a Dividend at the rate of Six per cent. per annum, and Extra Dividend of earnings will be payable at the same time.
This plan is a decided advantage to Depositors, inasmuch as it enables them to receive all the earnings of their money every six months, instead of waiting five years, as is now the rule in many Savings Institutions. These dividends are free of Government and State Tax. Ja27d3w

H. H. Smith of Newmarket has leased his tavern stand for three years to Joseph B. Silver, who has some reputation as a caterer.

A young child of Mr. Enos L. Glidden of Rochester was choked to death, a few days since, by getting a piece of nut-shell in its throat.

The Dover Gazette is "informed that a shock of earthquake was felt at the 'Corner,' Dover Neck and in Madbury, Feb. 1st, at about half-past 9 o'clock in the evening, which shook houses, and chimneys and rattled crockery, causing quite a shock to the nerves of those who heard and felt the quake." So far as they learn, it was not noticed by any one on the north side of the city.

There is now living in Sandwich a hale and well-to-do farmer, 73 years of age, by name Samuel M. Smith, who never rode inside a stage coach, railroad car, or steamboat; never was sick but one day in his life; resides on the farm where he was born, and expects to die there. He was drafted to come to Portsmouth, for its defence in 1812, and served his time out, since which he has never been away from home to stop over night, but once.

It was John B. Palmer of Concord, who was the editor of the Democratic Standard, and not John R. Palmer of Dover—for the last was a soldier on the right side of the rebellion.

A lot of pigs near Manchester got drunk on rum cherries thrown into their stye. Better they than their more brutish two-legged exemplars.

A dog that attacked a goat in Manchester, was glad to back out, after being knocked end over end a couple of times by the goat. It is hard to whip an animal with horns on his head, and a butt on both ends of him.

Jacob Horn of Great Falls has sold his large fat oxen to Robert Barrett, who took them to Brighton market last week. The oxen measured 8 feet 2 inches in girth, and were estimated to weigh 4,500 lbs. They were probably the best matched pair in the State, and their equals for extra beef will rarely be found.

The gross receipts at the Fair recently held by Littlefield Post, No. 8, G. A. R., of Great Falls, amounted to $2581.-52. The expenditures were $418.95—leaving the snug little sum of $2162.57 as the net amount.

Capt. W. A. Sanborn has arrived home at the Weirs, browned and bronzed by exposure to the Florida sun. He expressed himself highly delighted with his trip to the land of the Everglades.
